HARTZ CANARIES.

VOOGT'S STRAIN.

The only importer of the Hartz breed in Great Britain. The birds are named after Mr. Voogt, my collector in Holland. In reply to many enquiries from country dealers, I beg most respectfully to state that cash must accompany all orders, which will receive immediate attention. These birds are sold at such a small profit that it does not allow any risk to be taken whatever, nor does it allow for any expenses, such as booking, entering, postage, etc., etc. Should any customer consider he has been unfairly treated I invite him to lodge his complaint with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS. I shall abide loyally by his decision. General satisfaction has been given to all customers.

ALTERATION IN PRICES.

On and after Friday, 19th February, following prices rule:—

HENS.—First-class. A few good Hartz hens to match No. 1 Cocks, 3/- each. HENS.—The ordinary Hartz, 2 in cage, 3/6; 14 in 7 cages, 16/-. All the above have given great satisfaction.

COCKS, No. 1, 12/- each. 7 in 7 cages, 60/-. These are magnificent birds, having the old water bubble, Woodlark and Nightingale notes, a long sweet song of unheard-of beauty.

COCKS, No. 2, 7/6 each, 7 in 7 cages, 42/-. These are the birds usually advertised having the Nightingale and Woodlark note, with sundry other qualifications.

COCKS, No. 3, 6/6 each, 7 in 7 cages, 35/-. There is a great demand for this class of bird. All these are good strong Hartz Rollers, many being honestly worth 10/- each.

KINDLY NOTE TERMS.

Cash with order only. No birds have been sent away to anyone in Great Britain without cash in advance. The respective Classes, I, II., III., have distinctive markings. This ensures every buyer receiving whatever he pays for. Every order is numbered and sent away in rotation—first come first served, irrespective of cash buyers here in London. Telephone, 6341 Avenue.

STOREY'S ROLLERS

There is a lot of shout about strains and breeds. Some there is, and some there is not. What you want is a real good genuine trained songster, one that you can rely upon, a breed that has stood the test against all comers for the last twenty years, a class of Rollers that has merited the praise of every purchaser and all hearers. I have only a limited number for disposal. The quality and price are right. Just have one of my Rollers on approval and compare the quality of its song with some of the supposed champions, and keep the bird that gives you the most satisfaction. Storey's genuine trained St. Andreasburg or Hartz Rollers, cocks with full change of song by day or artificial light, price according to quality of song, cocks 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, a few extra good songsters 12/6 each. I have none of the common half-bred rubbish, but have a few classic hens, 1/9, 2/6, 3/- each. All birds on seven days' approval; neat travelling cages, 3d. each, 2/3 dozen. The old reliable firm and address: E. L. Storey, Crowle, Doncaster.

14 DAYS' TRIAL—OUR RISK

Preston Contest Rollers, all guaranteed English bred, same champion strain that we supplied the winners at the principal contests for years and have received thousands of testimonials. Here are a few:—Mr. A. E. Jeffries, Hartforth, Richmond, Yorks: Breeder and Exhibitor, writes, Jan. 27, 1915: "Roller started one hour after arrival. I don't know how you can turn such grand birds out at the price. I am certain the two I have are good enough for any contest." Mr. W. Taylor, 9, Salisbury Road, Cathays, Cardiff, writes, Jan. 30 1915: "Roller Canary purchased from you gives entire satisfaction." Mr. Wm. Sainsbury, 35, Rifle Green, Blaenavon, Mon., writes, Jan. 30, 1915, "Bird received safe, and I am quite satisfied with it." Mr. J. E. Smith, Monk Hill, Pontefract, writes, Feb. 3, 1915: "I am highly satisfied with bird." Mr. I. G. Baker, 17, Glebe Street, Penarth, writes, Jan. 28, 1915. "Roller cock started to sing as soon as he was put in his cage." These wonderful songsters only 15/- each, on 14 days' trial at our risk; special terms, send 10/- deposit to us and promise balance in two weeks and we will send one of these non-such Rollers on 14 days' trial at our risk. Try one against any other strain advertised and be your own judge. Hens, same strain, 3/6 and 4/6 each. Belgian Roller cocks, in full rolling song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 and 10/6 each; hens 1/6 and 2/- each; also Yorkshires and Norwich Canaries, all on trial at our risk; lists free: Bairstow's, Ormskirk-rd., Preston. The BULL-DOG STRAIN

The above strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of leading shows. My birds are winning consistently. For years they have been in the front rank, winning numerous champion trophies of the Specialist Clubs. I have also bred and sold birds that have won for my clients all over the country. Testimonials in proof of this are always open for the inspection of my visitors. There is no better blood in the Fancy. I am now offering a few pairs bred from these noted winners at above prices. Single birds, cocks or hens, at proportionate prices. Every bird is worth double. I have also a number of good birds from other well-known strains as follows: Smart Thick-set Cocks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Good Cobby Hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- per pair.

FEBRUARY, 1915. UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. FEBRUARY, 1915.

The following testimonials, in addition to scores of others (which are always open for the inspection of my visitors) have been received during February, 1915:—

"Paddock Street, Wigston Magna, Leicester.—I am very pleased with the pair of Norwich you sent me. I showed the buff cock at the All-England Show at Leicester and got extra 3rd in a class of 35 entries, and I took 2nd with him at a Leicestershire show last Saturday. I am only a novice. These are the first pair of good birds I have had and I think you have treated me very well.—G. E. Farmer to Joe Thomas."

"Wyke Regis, Weymouth.—We have done very well at our show. We got 1st and special for best bird in show with Yorkshire cock and 2nd with the bird you sent last year, also 1st and spl. in Norwich class with one of the birds you sent us.—J. W. Hunter to Joe Thomas."

"Willow Bank, Wick.—The Yorkshire cock I bought from you last year won 1st and spl. at the show here. Kindly send the following.—Wm. Manson to Joe Thomas".

"Heaton Street, Standish.—Roller arrived safe. It's a very nice singer. I shall know where to send when I want more.—W. A. Bibby to Joe Thomas."

"Dover Street, Bolton.—Roller arrived this morning. Was singing in less than 20 minutes. Very well satisfied.—Wm. Gradwell to Joe Thomas."

"South Street, Bargoed.—The Goldfinch Mule I had from you has turned out grand. I am very pleased with him.—W. Blewitt to Joe Thomas."

"Banks Terr., Haltwhistle.—Received the pair of Norwich safely. I am well pleased with them and with your prompt dispatch. They are nice typical birds.—J. G. Newman to Joe Thomas."

"Hilltown, Dundee.—Birds arrived safe. They are a splendid pair for the money. I shall always recommend you.—J. Sharp to Joe Thomas."

"Buckingham Street, Hull.—Bird arrived safe this morning in beautiful condition. Highly satisfied. He is a beauty.—H. Ablett to Joe Thomas."

"WHO'S THE CHAMPION?"

Read following, and judge for yourself who the Yorkshire king is. Winner this season of the following trophies against all comers: Yorkshire Canary Club's ten guinea trophy, and seven guinea challenge-cup, Green-marked Yorkshire Club's ten guinea trophy, Yorkshire Union, Ramsden's, and "Cage Birds" Competition, cup best Yorkshire, Bradford National, cup Llanelly, several gold and silver medals, and other specials too numerous to mention, and 84 firsts, 51 seconds, 39 thirds, finishing up the season with 4 firsts, second, 3 thirds, ten guinea challenge cup, etc., Welsh National; and remember my offer of last week is still good. I have scores of testimonials from successful customers, open for inspection at any time. Without doubt, I hold the most up-to-date stock in the Fancy, not a good old has been (30 years ago), and I still have several winners for disposal; also some clinking stock pairs at following prices, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-, 80/- per pair. Clears, ticked and marked, and every bird in the best of health, and all cold room bred and kept. Odd birds in proportion. Kindly state wants, or better still, come and see them, or I will send any on a full week's approval, cash or deposit with Editor. Place your orders with the old reliable breeder, who breeds his own winners, and can therefore give you the best value for your money: L. Dykes, "Reliable Aviaries," Sbann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford. (79)

BINGHAM & FURNESS

Keighley.

25s. PAIRS FOR 12/6

In order to make room for the breeding season I offer 3 grand yellow cocks and 3 buff cocks, in full song and over 7ins. long, grand stock birds, and 3 lovely buff hens, and 3 smart yellow hens, grand type and quality, properly mated to breed winners at 12/6 a pair; would not be bought elsewhere under 25/- a pair; a chance of a lifetime; 6 days' approval: Edwin North, Breeder, 443, Manchester-rd., Bradford.

T. BENNET

The Yorkshire Canary King, winner of Yorkshire challenge and other cups, gold and silver medals, diplomas and other trophies too numerous to detail, at all leading exhibitions including Crystal Palace, Bradford National, Scottish National, Glasgow etc., etc., beating several of the so-called champion birds. Bennett does not boast of holding the largest stock, because he does not buy other fanciers surplus stock, but he does undoubtedly own the oldest, purest, and finest strain of Yorkshires in the Fancy, a strain which has taken thirty years of careful selection and good breeding to bring it to its present state of efficiency. It is not (of mushroom growth) a conglomeration of myriads of claimed and bought winners from North, South, East, and West, at fictitious prices, with a dual object of winning big competitions, and foisting other fanciers' stock on the fancy as own bred birds. Bennett is the actual breeder of all his champion winning high-class Yorkshires, and is the winner of more 1st prizes during this past four, fourteen, or twenty-four years than any other fancier (with own bred birds). Let your own eyes be your own judge who the reliable breeder is. See reports in "Cage Birds" of all Yorkshire Union Shows, 1914, for the winnings of "not a good old has been 30 years ago," then note the following:—Feb. 10, 1915,—Dear Sir,—Please send me the pair, also another yellow cock. I have spent a lot of money in birds this last two months, but I have got the best birds from you.—W. Green, Portland-st., New Houghton, Pleasley. Feb. 11, 1915,—Dear Sir,—This is the truth, I never had so good value from any man I have dealt with, as I have had from you.—J. P. Andrew, Whitemoor, St. Austell, Cornwall. Hundreds of testimonials filed and open for your inspection. I have just a few birds left, at less than traders' prices, so send direct to the fountain-head, and save middlemen's profit. Inspection invited or birds on approval: T. Bennett, 14, Cumberland-rd., Lidget Green, Bradford. (92)

PARROTS FOR PLEASURE AND PROFIT, 7d.—By C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Grey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2. — By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockateels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives full details on how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1½.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts, Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softbills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages:

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

CAGE-BIRD HYBRIDS.—Complete bound in cloth, 7/6 carriage paid. This great work is written by Charles Houlton, an authority with a reputation extending over 25 years as a leading exhibitor and a leading expert and judge; (associate editors, G. E. Weston and C. A. House). Magnificently illustrated by that great bird artist, H. Norman. There are no less than sixteen coloured and sixteen art plates in this work. Each plate is a perfect study of an individual Hybrid.

FANCIERS' PRINTING.—Fanciers requiring business notepaper, postcards, trade envelopes, etc., should write us for a quotation. We are now in a position to supply these at specially low rates combined with first-class work. Artistic memos., with block of any desired bird, and fancier's name, address, and words of description as desired, 250 5/-, 500 7/6, carriage paid.

The annual open show of the City of Birmingham C.B.S. will be held Dec. 1 and 2. Judges, Messrs. J. Robson and J. H. Roe.

Mr. Geo. Baker, of Perry Bar, requests us to ask Mr. A. Milton, of Aberdeen, to be good enough to write him again, as a letter addressed "21, Queensland Street" has been marked "not known."

Mr. C. Grant, hon. sec., Edinburgh Western O.S., writes that all communications for the society should be addressed to him as follows: Gunner C. Grant, No. 1258, 1st C.E. (Reserve), Lowland Brigade, R.F.A., Bedford Barracks.

Mr. J. Rooney, the owner of the variegated buff Norwich, a portrait of which appeared on the front page of our Feb. 6 issue, is of Accrington, not of Watford, as stated in the inscription to the picture (the address was not in the show catalogue).

The silver medal presented by Mr. Allen Silver for most points in British at the Crystal Palace and Penge C.B.S. show, was won by A. Cory, writes Mr. W. D. Fryett, Hon. Sec. Mr. Britten presented the Club with the value of gold medal won by him.

We have decided upon W. Mundell and H. W. Battye as judges for our annual open show. Nov. 19 and 20, writes Mr. H. Clegg, sec. Halifax O.S. We have not yet finished our syllabus for 1915, but we are again giving three gold medals to novices, as last year.

I have every expectation of a splendid entry at the pairs show on Feb. 24, writes Mr. V. Wynn, the hon. sec. of the City and Suburban A.C.B., when we have a record list of special prizes (71) and Mr. R. L. Crisp will officiate as one of the judges for the first time with us.

OBITUARY.

MR. I. HADFIELD (Stockport).

I regret to inform you of the death of Mr. Isaac Hadfield, another good old Stockport fancier, who passed away at the good old age of sixty-five, writes Mr. W. Stafford, hon. sec. Stockport and Hazel Grove B.F.A. Mr. Hadfield was at one time a Lancashire and Lizard man, but had lately taken a fancy to Norwich Plainheads. He was respected by all with whom he came in contact, and our heartfelt sympathy is extended to his family in their sad bereavement.

The Oxford C.B.S. has decided to hold an open show on Oct. 21, Mr. J. Robson judge.

Mr. Thos. Peters writes that he has removed from Gorton to 209, Peel Green Road, Barton-on-Irwell.

Mr. E. North (Bradford) writes that there was an omission of the word "pair" in his advertisement last week, which should have read "12/6 pair."

An error occurred in the pair show advertisement of the London and Counties A.C.B. in our last issue, the date of the show reading Feb. 6, which should have been Feb. 20.

Mr. S. Midgley, hon. sec., writes that the Bradford National Charity show has been fixed for Dec. 3-4. Other secs. please note, to avoid clashing. At the recent annual meeting of the Committee £5 was voted to the Cinderella Fund for poor children.

Fanciers in South-west London should rally round the S.W. London C.B.S., so many of whose members are at the front that the present paid list numbers twelve only. A special meeting is convened for Feb. 25 at the New Gild Hall, Wandsworth Road (see Club Report in this issue).

Entries for Bathgate Show will be taken up till Thursday, Feb. 25, and if late entrants send on birds we will classify, writes Mr. A. Nicol, Sec., 46, High-st. Birds from a distance that will not reach their destination after show will be kept over and attended to until Monday; all the committee are expert fanciers.

A lesson in the art of pairing birds: You will get both this and a pleasant hour by visiting the pairs show of the City and Suburban A.C.B., on Wednesday next (Feb. 24) at the Church Institute, 60, Paddington-st., off High-st., Marylebone (close to Baker-st. Station, and 'bus route). Classes for Canary, Muling and Hybrid pairs, also British and Foreign birds.—Advt.

Mr. J. T. Brown, hon. treas., Manchester and N. Counties O.S., has removed to 19, Stockton St., Moss Side, Manchester.

In answer to numerous enquirers, writes Mr. W. Andrews (Weston, Olney) I beg to say I have sold my Siskin Mule, 1st L.C.B.A., 2nd Watford, to Mr. E. J. Lamb, who has since won 1st at Cardiff with him.

In making up result of points in novice Liz. and Championship of Lancs. and Liz. F.A., writes Mr. John Rukin, I find I have credited T. Millington as winner. The winner was C. F. Bosworth (Kettering) 40 points, T. Millington (Longsight) 2nd, 37 points.

We are asked to notify the following changes of secretaryship: Rochdale Good Intent C.B.S., Mr. E. Lord, 123, Lomax St. (replacing Mr. W. Adams); Todmorden C.B.S., Mr. J. M. Spofforth, 2, Upper Raglan St. (replacing Mr. T. E. Barker); Bingley O.S., F. Craven, 8, Norman St. (replacing Mr. H. Shaw); Great Horton O.S., A. W. Hartley, 26, High Street (replacing Mr. J. Holroyd); East Ham F.S., Mr. W. A. Harwood, 6, Swinburne Avenue, Manor Park, E. (replacing Mr. W. Kite); Portsmouth and S. Counties O.S., Mr. C. J. Olding, 52, New Rd., Buckland, Hants (replacing Mr. G. T. Hall); Guiseley Yeadon C.B.S., W. Rose, 3, Church St., Guiseley (replacing Mr. W. Long).

Corrections in Show Reports.

In the British Goldfinch class at Paisley show Mr. R. McGill won 3rd, not Blackley as reported, and Mr. R. Gentleman won 1st in Linnets, not McLoy. 3rd in Bullfinch hen class at the Welsh National should read Steel, not Still.

Well Done, Guiseley!

The members of the Guiseley, Yeadon, and Dis. C.B.S., are heartily to be congratulated upon the result of their show, held on Feb. 6, on behalf of the local Belgian Relief Fund. A nice little show of 100 birds was opened by Lady Peel, and the substantial amount of ten guineas was handed over in aid of the local fund.

The Proper Spirit.

I am still in the Fancy, writes Mr. E. R. Roberts, of Penygroes, and though I have not exhibited the last two seasons, I hope to next. I am sending you 2s. 6d. donation to the fund for eggs for our Wounded Soldiers. We have sent several donations already, and two of my brothers and their cousins are in the Army—one brother is on the way to the Front, and two cousins are there already.

Good Boy, Luther!

There was evidently some fun at the annual tea and concert of the Windhill C.B.S. We note, from the secretary's report, Mr. H. H. Towers challenged that equally well-known exhibitor of Yorkshire Canaries, Mr. Luther Ogden, to sing a song, the company to decide who was the best vocalist. Mr. Towers earned great applause; and then Mr. Ogden, after a little gentle persuasion, sprang a surprise (nobody thought he could sing at all!) by equalling the effort of Mr. Towers. So "H. H.," instead of a walk-over, got only the verdict of a draw.

Notice—The London & Counties A.C.B. are holding their Pair Show on Sat., Feb. 20th. Judge, Mr. Robson, at the Victoria Hotel, Charterhouse, E.C. Show open at 5.30; admission by ticket, 3d. (including catalogue).

A Great Performer.

I was pleased to see my old yellow Yorkshire on the front page of your last issue, writes Mr. L. Dykes (Bolton Woods). He is now six years old, and has had a most successful career, having won 1sts at the Crystal Palace, Scottish National, Bradford National, and other leading shows, including most of the Yorkshire Union fixtures. The win at the Welsh National show was not bad for a bird of his age, seeing what a strong class it was.

The Importance of Tubbing.

I won 3rd prize in buff ticked Yorkshire cocks at the Welsh National show (not Watkins as in your report) writes Mr. T. C. Crawhall (Newcastle). I hardly dare correct this, as my birds were shown in a disgracefully soiled condition, but I had not intended showing again after the Scottish National, and only at the last moment decided to send to Cardiff, which accounts for my birds being staged unwashed, and probably accounts for the 1st prize Scottish National unflighted buff being cardless.

WHERE BUSINESS IS AS USUAL.

"The enquiries for my birds were so many that I could not answer them all."—THOS. PETERS (Barton-on-Irwell).

"I sold over £30 worth of Norwich through the last two 2s. 6d. advertisements in your paper out of the 90 I bred last year, so I can thank CAGE BIRDS for the profit it has brought me. I have only been in the Norwich fancy three years, so, novices, buck up and have a dip."—N. LEESE (Normacot).

"Through my advert. in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, I have sold out all my surplus and cannot answer all enquiries. Your adverts. columns are a boon to the Fancy."—W. CRAWSHAW (Accrington).

"Thanks again to CAGE BIRDS the Budgerigars were all sold by Saturday morning except two, and these were sold by Monday. I could have sold 50 pairs if I had had them, and have received three times more replies than I had birds."—H. KAY (Blackpool).

"Please thank, through your valuable paper CAGE BIRDS, the enquirers for my Goldie Canary Mule and Canary Hen. I answered a few, but I would have been out of pocket had I answered all the lot. I received as many as twenty replies by Sunday first post. This speaks well for CAGE BIRDS as an advertising medium."—W. GOSS (Leeds).

TROUBLES OF BIRD BREEDERS

AND HOW TO OVERCOME THEM.

Instructive short articles read in the recent Essay competition of the City and Surburban A.C.B.

Essay by J. TAYLOR (London, W.C.).

THE greatest difficulty I find is getting the hens to nest properly. When I have a troublesome hen, one that will not make a nice nest, I do it for her. If she persists in pulling it out again, I repeat the operation, and I have found that I have been successful in the end.

Sometimes the lady prefers making her nest and laying on the cage bottom, in the corners, or under the seed or water-pots. If this should be the case, I always put little pots of water wherever she puts nesting material, and I have in this way been successful.

On several occasions I have had hens that would not lay their eggs properly in the nest, but dropped them in the sand tray, or maybe on the side of the nest-pan and nesting material. When I find a hen like that I get a feeding-board, cut a hole in the centre and let the nest pan rest in it. She must drop the egg then either inside the pan or on the board.

If I have a good feeding hen and a bad one, I simply transfer the young from the poor feeder to the good one. That is the advantage of putting up several pairs at the same time. Of course, if you have only one pair, this is no use. But if you can get the young ones a few days old and the mother then lags in the feeding, try the "Fil-up" feeder; it is a success not only for bad feeders, but a bit given with it to the young once or twice a day soon makes them strong.

Sweating Hens: If I have one of this kind I always give a bath daily, with a pinch of salt in it. If she does not bathe freely I spray her with the salt water. I put it down to nervousness in some way; this class of hen wants to be kept very quiet.

Unfertile Eggs: I think the cause of so many unfertile eggs is principally the owner, i.e. getting the birds into too forward a condition. I have proved it so myself. Keep your hens on plain diet (that is, canary seed and rape) say up to the end of February; then give egg-food, etc.

Young Dying in Shell: I think this is due to the shell being too strong, and not allowing the young chick to break its way through, causing suffocation.

Plucking: I have only found this when the young are about fifteen to twenty days old, and the hen gets tired of them and wishes to nest again. Give plenty of nesting material and string to pull at fixed on the wires.

OXFORD F.S.

Owing to the large halls being taken up by troops, the committee organised a show at the Cape of Good Hope Hotel, Dec. 10, and a very good entry was received. Several new members were made. The two challenge cups were won by Mr. Lewin with a very typical yellow for best in show, the other with an unlighted yellow, the Reading winner. Mr. Billett judged, and his awards were well received. Mr. Callent is a very obliging sec, and things were well in hand.

RIPLEY F.S.

First open, Jan. 23 in the large and suitable room at the Horse and Jockey, Ripley, Derby. The show was a great success. Quality was splendid and competition keen. The judge was Mr. J. Vaughan (Huthwaite), whose decisions gave general satisfaction. The whole of the arrangements were admirably carried out under the supervision of the joint secs., Messrs. A. Henshaw and Wilkinson. During the afternoon and evening the show was largely attended.

MANSFIELD C.B.S.

Cage birds made an attractive display at this show, Dec. 12th. Owing to the requirements of the military authorities, the room which was last year used could not be obtained, and this necessitated the birds being staged in the large hall amongst the other exhibits, and very nice it looked, the shelving being covered with red baize. The committee looked well after the exhibits, and Messrs. Evans and Huskisson made an admirable brace of secretaries, their work being supplemented by Mrs. Evans, who worked untiringly. Mr. C. A. House judged.

Norwich did not come up well. Mr. Sheppard won 1st and 2nd in all four classes with a grand team, being followed by Messrs. Bacon, Lowe, and Hare. Messrs. Oscroft and Miller divided the prizes in the Crest section, the best bird being a nice even-marked crest, shown by the former. Yorks., with six classes, were quite the feature of the show both in numbers and quality, and the special for best bird in show was captured by a lovely yellow hen, shown by Mr. Hymas. Other very smart Yorks. were Mr. Sheppard's four-pointed buff, and the unflighted yellow of Mr. Potts. Some smart birds were also shown by Messrs. Sheppard, Miller, and Hare, especially the former. In breeding pairs Messrs. Lowe, Bacon and Sheppard put down some good Norwich. Mr. Mallatratt led the way in Mules with a smart four-pointed buff Goldie-Canary, and a dark Redpoll-Canary. Mr. Hare coming next with a Goldie-Bullie that was not quite fit. The best of the British was Mr. Hawkins' Goldie, a smart little bird indeed. Mr. Burton staged a good Hawlinch, and was also to the front in foreigners.

SOUTH SHIELDS C.B.S.

12th annual show, Dec. 3, members staging 242 birds. Quality was the best ever staged by the members. Sandiford's medal, A. Tucker; Hyde's sp., W. Smith. Mr. H. W. Batkye judged.

STANLEY VICTORIA C.B.S.

Third annual show, Dec. 5, in the large hall above the Victoria Club, a fine place with plenty of size, good light, and entire freedom from draughts. Entries totalled 150, and quality was of a high standard. Mr. W. Elliott, the genial and obliging Sec., had everything well in hand, his great experience enabling him to get through his work without the slightest hitch. Chairman, Mr. R. Peart, is well supported by a grand committee, composed of Messrs. W. Gowland, J. Curry, W. Ostle, H. Roxborough, R. Willay, W. Rendle, J. Lamb, T. Metcalfe, J. Emmerson and G. Lamb. These Workmen's Clubs splendidly support their fancier members in their efforts to popularise the Fancy. The scale of prize money in proportion to the entry fee is greater than in some big open shows, not to mention specials in galore. The show was well patronised. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

HALTWHISTLE.

Fourth annual show, Feb. 3, in the Mechanics' Hall, a splendid hall, plenty of size, grand light, free from draughts and comfortably warmed. Entries were disappointing, and the society is deserving of better patronage, for everything is admirably conducted. Borders were a good display, some fine specimens being on view. The novices also staged some good birds. The B.F.C.C. medal was won by Mr. J. Nicholson with a lovely buff cock first time out this season we understand. B.F.C.C. novice medal, Mr. S. F. Bates, with his 2nd prize buff cock; special best member's Border was won by the worthy sec., Mr. W. Tallantyre, with a charming yellow cock. Norwich were down in numbers, but the quality was fine right through. Yorks. were again a fine lot, possibly the nicest seen at Haltwhistle, but again the classes were not well filled. British classes filled up well and contained some noted winners, while the Mule or Hybrid classes contained some fine exhibits. Members' cup for three nominated young birds was won by Mr. W. Tallantyre; runner-up, Mr. J. R. Dodd; best members' Nor. or Yorks., Mr. F. W. Laidlow; best Brit. or Mules, Bowerbank Bros. The secretarial duties were again ably carried out by Mr. W. Tallantyre. He had all his work well in hand and everything passed off without a hitch. He had useful helpmates in the chairman and vice-chairman, Mr. G. H. Bowerbank and Serg. J. Bowerbank (on furlough for the day), and the show manager, Mr. J. Nicholson, and a grand body of stewards, who all worked hard for the success of the show. Judges were Mr. W. C. Duncan, Bord., Brit., and Mules; Mr. A. Holden, Nor. and Yorks.

SHEFFIELD O.S.

Annual members' show, Foresters' Hall, Trippet Lane, Dec 12. A capital entry, viz., 250 responded to the excellent schedule. The profit arising from show was paid over to the Belgian Relief Fund, the Society guaranteeing a sum of £5; quality compared most favourably with many an open venture. Yorks. were superb, Norwich good, Brit. and For. excellent. The management as usual was tip-top, as could not very well be otherwise, when such experts as Messrs. R. Colton, T. Dawn, Dr. Craig, G. Fletcher, P. Walsh, J. A. T. Woodhall, W. Baxby, and J. Memmott, and Sec., Mr. C. Job, had the controlling of affairs. The special prizes on view included valuable silver cups. For Yorks cup Dr. Craig and Messrs. Furness and Bingham, gained equal points, and the cup went to the former for the better team of the two. Nor. cup, A. H. Waters; Crest, J. Evans; For., G. Fletcher; Brit., G. Fletcher. Best birds: Yorks, Dr. Craig; Nor., Waters; Brit. Hard., Walsh; Crest or C.B., Memmott; Softbill, Fletcher; For., Fletcher. Judging was over in good time, show opened by 1 p.m., catalogues on sale promptly, and everything went smoothly. Stewards who officiated ably were Messrs. G. Fletcher, G. Moore, and W. Baxby. Mr. J. C. Barnes judged, and his awards were well received.

EASTERN COUNTIES C.B.S.

Show Dec. 26, Social Settlement, Ipswich. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged. The hon. sec., Mr. W. Barritt, would be hard to beat in his knowledge of the duties, method, and courtesy. He was backed by a hard-working committee, and judging was over and awards up in good time. After a keen fight, Mr. J. Bevan won cup for best Canary with a really grand bull cinn.; cup best 1914 rung bird, T. Clarke, with a tip-top buff Nor. Both awards were very popular. Entries were below those of previous years, but the quality was a credit to the men of the Eastern Counties. A special in each class except the selling.

RUNCORN B.B.A

Third annual members' show, Dec. 5, Bethesda Lecture Hall—a cosy and well-lighted room, in which all the birds could be seen to advantage. The Sec., E. Rone, had had all arrangements perfectly made and everything worked satisfactorily. The proceeds went to the local War Fund. Entries numbered about 170, and there were some grand birds on view. Mr. Jos. Guy won cup for three nominated birds. Mr. Leigh, Warrington, judged, and his awards were well received.

HULL C.B.S.

Two days' members' show, OddFellows' Hall, Dec. 11 and 12, in lieu of an open show. Although entries did not realise expectations, the show did not suffer with regard to quality, a noticeable feature being the high standard of exhibits in novice classes, competition being very keen. The winner of the champion cup, Mr. B. P. Stone, was heartily congratulated on his success. Mr. H. Sowden ran a good second. Mr. P. P. Potter secured the novice cup, sp. best, and novice points cup; sp. best Yorks., W. Fox, with his unbeaten buff. F. F. Potter seemed the champion points cup for the third year in succession. S. Hogg, sp. best F.M. Linnet. Excellent teams of Norwich were displayed by Messrs. Mason, Harland, A. Clayton, Hope, Potter and Calvard, and Yorks. by Messrs. Stone, Precious, H. Sowden, Ware, Towse and Spence. The stewards, Messrs. A. Clayton, Fellowes, Stone and Hope rendered excellent and useful service. Judges: Messrs. W. A. Cowgill and George Harland, whose awards gave entire satisfaction. On the Saturday evening a record for the Society was created, packing and clearing away being the best "vanishing trick" outside the music-hall.

NORTH LIVERPOOL C.B.S.

Annual members' show, Dec 26, Assembly Hall, Royal Street. A grand classification was made, and a marvellous list of valuable specials were competed for, the result being a grand entry. Right through the Yorkshire section the birds were of a high standard. Norwich were much better all round than is nowadays generally seen at Liverpool shows, a sign that the variety is reviving in the locality. Bord. were very good, and competition very keen and close, and the Novice Canary classes contained some splendid exhibits. Britishers were special, and very strong. The Premier Cup for most points was won by Mr. McCoy; spl. 2, Rothwell; spl. 3, Broadbent; Champ. Yorks. Cup, Rothwell; 2nd, medal, Skilling. Nov. Yorks. Cup, Broadbent; 2nd, medal, McLaughlin. Nor. Cup, McCoy; 2nd, medal, Wilkins. Bord. Cup, Bratherton; 2, med., McCoy. Brit. Cup, Rothwell; 2, med. Hilton. Champ. best bird, Rawsthorne. Most pts., 1, Rothwell; 2, Skilling; 3, Smith. Nov. sp. wnrs., Broadbent (3), McCoy, McLaughlin, Southwood, Lowe, Hammond. The show was opened by Dr. and Mrs. Vardumian, in the presence of a large number of fanciers and visitors, and in the evening they also presented the special prizes. A presentation to Mrs. Vardumian of a singing Canary and cage, for kindly presenting the prizes was suitably replied to, and a vote of thanks to both was received with cheers. All prize money was paid by 7 p.m., and birds away by 8.15. Mr. Broadbent is a young, energetic sec. who carries out his duties admirably, and leaves nothing to be desired in this position. All the Committee are real enthusiasts, and give help at the right time. Stewards, Messrs. Holden, Wilkins, Foxcroft, Hammond, Kelly and Rothwell, ably carried out their duties. Mr. Wellings judged Yorks., and Mr. Houlton the remainder, and there was general satisfaction. The show was a marked success.

CHOPWELL C.B.S.

Annual Show, Dec. 12. In the large Club Hall, a splendid place, plenty of both top and side light, and absolutely free from draughts. With a membership of only fourteen the entry was very good, just on one hundred birds being staged. Quality throughout was good, Norwich and British exceptionally so; the Bullfinch class was a stormer, several tip top specimens being benched. Foreign provided the winner of special for best bird in show, the honour going to a grand Red Naped Lory shown in splendid condition by Christer and Son; second best, Mr. Geo. Barkess' nice yellow Nor. hen; 3, Carr, real good Siskin; 4, Jamieson and Johnson very smart Bramblefinch. Mr. W. H. Christer makes an ideal sec. and he had everything well in hand. Mr. Geo. Barkess was show manager, and carried out his duties with his usual ability, being splendidly assisted by Messrs. Jamieson and Johnson, Charlton, Christer, sen., Barkess, jun., Cresswell, Richardson, Carr, Marsh, Tomlinson, Simpson, and Dodds, all of them working hard to make the show a success. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

WATFORD AND HERTS F.S.

Twenty-second annual show, St. Mary's Hall, Dec. 8-9; as the association were unable to obtain the Clarendon Hall this year, they were obliged to confine their radius to twenty miles. The birds were far in advance of last year, both in numbers and quality, and no doubt if the show had been advertised more would have been still better. Norwich contained some real good birds, which have won in good company. Yorks. were not so numerous, but contained some first-class birds. British also were very nice, while Hybrids contained birds that had held their own in first-class company. Lord and Lady Clarendon and family visited the show, and were very much pleased with what they saw. Spl. best bird went to Mr. W. Buckingham with his winning yellow Yorks.; best Brit., Carter. Mr. Chatterton judged.

BUSINESS METHODS IN THE BIRDROOM.

By A. HINSON (Birmingham).

THERE has been a fair amount of discussion lately between well-known and respected fanciers on how to dispose of surplus stock, and I wish to point out that though this article deals with the question of the best way to sell your birds and the most effective way of giving the would-be buyer a good opinion of your stock, I do not want those fanciers mentioned above to think I am criticising their methods. I am simply putting before readers the method I myself have of disposing of my birds in a way which makes Canary breeding not only an interesting but a profitable hobby.

The fancier who wishes to make bird-keeping pay him must introduce into his room business methods. That is to say, he should (1) Keep his room neat and tidy. (2) His birds should be in good condition, also clean. (3) The cages and appliances should be clean, and clean sand or sawdust should be on the cage bottoms. (4) He should keep a record of his birds, and also a cash account. (5) If he advertises his birds the advertisement should be clear and concise; and (6) last, but not least, he should be perfectly frank and straightforward in all his dealings. A satisfied customer will come again, while one who has been disappointed with his purchase is very likely to give you a bad name amongst his friends, which may do you a lot of harm.

Creating a Good Impression.

Let us now take these points one by one and deal with them more fully. No. 1 says keep your room neat and tidy. You may ask what effect can this have on the sale of my birds? My friend, it can have a good deal of effect, for if a would-be purchaser comes into your room and finds it untidy, with things scattered about, nine times out of ten he will make up his mind on the spot that you do not manage your room properly, and devote little time to it, and give your birds the attention they ought to have. The most likely result of this is that he goes away without birds, and you have lost a customer.

Your birds must be in good condition to impress your customers; they cannot look their best otherwise. That your birds should be clean is very important, as nothing goes so much against the sale of a bird, in my opinion, as the plumage being unclean.

If the cages are clean and the bottoms are freshly strewn with sand or sawdust, as the case may be, it strengthens the conviction of the would-be purchaser (more especially if he be a beginner) that the birds are healthy and free from any pest. The perches should also be kept well scraped. Another detail, small, but often noticed, is the claws and legs of the birds. The claws should be trimmed and the legs not allowed to become covered with scales.

Although the fancier may not always wish to give the pedigree of a bird, unless asked by the purchaser, it is always valuable to know this; in fact, the pedigree book is one of those things which help the fancier to breed the Palace winner. A cash account, too, is invaluable to the fancier who wishes to know his position as regards finances at a moment's notice. (Use CAGE BIRDS "Stock Book," post free 7d.—Editor.)

Advertisements that Attract.

As regards advertising there is much to be said. Many of the world's largest business concerns have been built up entirely as the result of skilful advertising. In the bird world it is not the advertisement which offers show birds for a shilling that gives confidence; neither is it the advertisement of about six words that brings in orders. It should, however, be clear and concise, without gwank or bounce. The art of advertising is first to attract attention. Secondly, when that attention has been obtained, to give a clear description of whatever is for sale in such a way that the reader gets a good idea of the bird or commodity offered.

I give here what I consider a good type and a bad type of advertisement. In the good one you will see that everything is clear, and attracts attention; on the other hand the second advertisement gives you no idea of the birds for sale:—

Norwich for Sale. (These words should be in larger type and form the heading of the advert.) For disposal, six pairs of well-matched Norwich, price £1 per pair. All are 1914 bred, of good quality and typical birds, cold-room bred. Approval willingly: Address —.

Advertisement No. 2, which is cramped and brings very few orders, is very often seen. It runs: Canaries for sale, cheap: Address —.

The first, although it will cost more, is much more effective, and is much cheaper in the long run.

The advertiser should conduct his correspondence in a businesslike fashion. That is to say, his letters should be clear and concise, in the same way as the advertisement. The purchaser does not want a long letter, which runs over about six pages to describe a single bird or a pair, or you may give him the idea that you are praising your birds up and making them look much better than they are. The great mistake of many beginners is to put too high a price on their birds; at the same time, it is not a good policy to price them too low. For instance, if a beginner advertises his birds of good strain at a very low price the fancier who reads the announcement will say one cannot expect anything good at that price, and he therefore takes no more notice.

"Gush" and Its Consequences.

The seller, when a buyer comes to inspect his stock, should not be talking and pointing out the good points all the while. Many people object to this, and form the opinion that you are a "gasbag," or something of the sort. You should give your visitor a chance to pick out the bird of his choice; then, if you wish to sell that bird you can begin to explain its good points, etc.; but do not be too gushing.

Of course, I quite recognise that the man who makes a name for himself by showing and winning has a much better chance of disposing of his birds and obtaining a good price for them, but the beginner should not be discouraged by this, as bird-keeping can be made to pay without exhibiting if you go about it in a business manner. This article, as I mentioned before, describes the way in which I have made Canary breeding both a profitable and interesting hobby. I do not wish to give you the idea that I am against a beginner showing. I am not, for if I had started showing when I was a beginner I think it would have been much better for me. But in those days there were not so many opportunities for young fanciers.

I think every fancier who has not done so ought to introduce business methods into the bird-room, especially so, too, in the feeding arrangements, which I hope to deal with in an article in the near future.

SOME HINTS ON PARROT KEEPING.

IF you have an old unpaired cock at liberty and provide him with a wife, the latter may be allowed to join him as soon as he begins to show an active interest in her and visits the cage or aviary in which she is confined. If you have a hen at liberty and get a cock to turn out with her, the latter must be more or less in breeding condition before he is released (particularly in the case of Parrakeets). If he is not, the hen will either ill-treat or ignore him, and he will probably be soon lost.

Unmated Parrots of either sex will, unless very tame and attached to their owners, wander off in search of a companion as soon as the nesting season approaches. Cockatoos, however, which have nested at liberty and afterwards lost their mates, seldom leave altogether. Occasionally, when a mate cannot be obtained for a solitary bird, a companion of the same sex will console it sufficiently to prevent it from straying and getting lost.

Assuming that the first stage of the acclimatization experiment has gone off well and the inherent tendency of most Parrots to wander on being released has been in some manner restrained, future success will depend largely on the constant supply of seed or other food, preferably in more than one place if a number of birds are kept. Any system of feeding on what I may term an "open" tray or board is quite impracticable, as after a very short time immense hordes of Sparrows, Starlings, Greenfinches, Pigeons, Jackdaws and other unwelcome visitors will be attracted to the spot, and it will cost a perfect fortune to feed them and the Parrots at the same time. It is, therefore, necessary to employ a "trap-tray," i.e., a feeding tray which can, at a moment's notice be converted into a kind of box-trap for the capture of unbidden guests.

Making a "Trap-Tray."

The simplest form of trap-tray is a kind of box consisting of a stout metal framework covered with wire netting, the mesh being sufficiently fine to exclude mice. Two of the sides, at right angles to each other, are fastened to the top by means of hinges in such a way that by placing a T-shaped prop at the corner of the trap, the two sides can be simultaneously kept raised on a level with the top and the birds allowed to pass under them and reach the food contained in the shallow metal tray (perforated with two or three holes for drainage purposes) which lies on the floor.

One end of a line is fastened to the stem of the prop and the other is carried behind a screen erected at some little distance, and so arranged that a person behind it can observe the birds feeding on the tray without making himself visible to them. A sharp pull at the line from behind the screen causes the prop to jump away, thereby releasing the sides, which fall downwards and inwards by their own weight, and the trap-tray becomes a closed box. Electric bell-wire makes the best line; common string is most dangerous, as with the first shower of rain it shrinks considerably and pulls the trap shut by reason of the increasing tension,—usually selecting for the manœuvre a moment when those birds are feeding on the tray which it is least desired to interfere with.

Keep It Locked.

Where there is any chance of meddlesome persons working the trap out of mischief or for the purpose of catching and stealing the Parrots, it is advisable to lock the end of the line in a small box fastened securely to the back of the screen, which should in this case be of a very substantial description. If this is done, it is impossible for anyone to pull the line without first showing himself to the birds and scaring them away to safety.

In the centre of the top of the trap there should be a small hinged "door" which can be opened for the insertion of the hand and arm when the sides have fallen and the birds have been caught. The whole contrivance can either be placed on the ground or on some kind of raised stand. In the latter case it is usually wise to peg the line down, or rather to run it through swivels on the ground level, for if it is swinging loose, large birds flying against it or falling branches of trees striking it are apt to dislodge the prop at inconvenient moments. When the trap-tray is on the ground it is as well to shut it at night, anyhow during the winter; otherwise the seed attracts enormous quantities of mice, which in turn attract the Owls,—and then good-bye to your smaller Parrakeets!

I need hardly say that the Parrots themselves should never be caught on the trap except in case of illness or other urgent necessity. Not only does it make them exceedingly shy of returning to feed, but there is always a slight risk of their being struck and injured by the falling sides. Lastly, it is, as I have already pointed out, absolutely necessary to familiarise them thoroughly with the appearance of the tray before they receive their liberty. As a general rule, the larger the bird the longer it will take to learn to recognise a trap-tray, wherever encountered, as the "fons et origo" of a good square meal.

Ailments and their Treatment.

The ailments of Parrots are many and various, and of all birds they make the worst patients, since owing to the peculiar formation and immense power of the mandibles it is almost impossible to forcibly administer in effective quantities either food or medicine, which, when really sick, they usually refuse to touch voluntarily. In most cases there is only one remedy to be tried, viz., heat, and it must be real heat—a temperature of 85°-90° evenly maintained night and day, and not merely the comfortable warmth of a living room at 60° (which probably drops to 45° during the course of the night). The effect of great heat on a sick Parrot is often little short of marvellous, and I would strongly recommend everyone who owns a valuable collection of tropical or semi-tropical birds to have a small room specially fitted up as a "baking" hospital. Like the tiger recommended in the Bad Child's Book of Beasts to overburdened parents, "it well repays the trouble and expense," and time and again it will save a rare treasure which otherwise would inevitably be lost. (To be continued.)

HOW TO BREED EXHIBITION YORKSHIRE CANARIES.

Some Practical Tips for Tyros.

By JOHN B. WATERMAN (Dulwich.)

AS to the birds, I like pairing a medium-sized yellow hen, with plenty of breed and style about her, to a 7in. sturdy buff cock, well up on the leg, and of nice, rich goose-like feather. Avoid Yorkies with flat heads, heavy eyebrows, hollow neck or back, pointed chest with frill, crossed flights, dropping or fish-like (spreading) tail, and crouching style.

I have always found the middle of March to be the best time to let the birds start house-keeping—providing always the weather be fine and mild. This is how I proceed. The wire partition is placed through the centre of the breeders, and in each cage the cock is placed on the one side and the hen on the other. Usually in a few days—sometimes sooner, sometimes longer—Mr. Canary will commence to carol forth his song to attract the lady's notice, and if the course of love runs smoothly (which can be seen by the cock feeding the hen through the wires) the slide can be drawn and the match is complete.

The food at this period should be fairly generous. Let each bird every morning have a plentiful supply of good sound Spanish canary seed, whilst every other morning a small pinch of summer rape should be given in a separate vessel. On the days the latter is not given, let each bird have a small quantity of the following mixture: Equal parts summer rape, niger, linseed, maw, and gold of pleasure. The latter seed, it may not be generally thrown is a fine conditioner, putting a splendid gloss on the birds' plumage, which at once catches the eye of most judges.

I am no believer in much green meat at this period, and usually give my birds a very few home-grown rape seedlings daily. A small blade of young dandelion can be offered them, always providing it is quite free of frost.

Earthenware nest-pans hung at the back of the cage are the best, and these should be lined with swansdown. For nesting material I have found nothing better than charpie, as this does not encourage the red mite as do some of the old-fashioned things in use. The first egg laid by the hen should be removed and stored away in bran, and a dummy substituted, until she has laid three eggs. These should be replaced in the nest on the evening prior to her laying her fourth egg, and then as a rule the clutch will hatch out at the same time.

When the Young Are Due.

On the evening of the thirteenth day a supply of crushed hard-boiled egg and Osborne biscuit (mixed) should be placed in the cages, as well as a little crushed hemp seed, but after the second day the latter should be given whole, as the hen is then kept longer off the nest engaged in cracking it, and the young ones get a longer spell of fresh air, which tends to harden them.

At about a month old the new brood can usually feed themselves, and should be turned into a good-sized cage. They should be given a supply of egg food and biscuit, and a little hemp and canary (crushed). Get the youngsters on to hard seed as soon as possible, and at seven weeks old they should be quite off soft food.

I shall hope in the course of a future article to deal with the training of young birds for exhibition, and other matters connected with the fascinating and ennobling hobby of Canary management.

The Seed Supply at the Welsh National Show.

SIR,—In your issue of Jan. 23, a question was asked re the "water supply" at the Welsh National show at Cardiff. It seems to me only fair that some one should voice the feelings of gratitude which all exhibitors must possess re the matter of the seed supply. My birds were away from home five days, but on receipt of same I found seed sufficient to last each bird another week. For such generous treatment I personally wish to thank the show management and the firm who undertook gratuitously to feed the exhibits.

SATIS SUPERQUE.

Home-Grown Bird Seeds.

SIR. I have often wondered why farmers have not tried to grow birdseed, especially canary seed (Giant Spanish) as there is always a good demand for such. I noticed in last week's issue a reply from "H. N." that it had been tried in Kent, and I think a few years back it was grown in Sheppey. I also remember purchasing some English grown canary seed from Messrs. Trower and Co. from their stall at the Crystal Palace show, and I think it was a very good sample. The birds (British and Canaries) fed freely on it—a good, bold, stout, well-filled seed, rather shorter than Giant Spanish and not quite so bright and smooth, if I remember rightly. Unfortunately I have not seen any since. It cost 1s. 6d. per gallon. The one great drawback would, undoubtedly, be the heavy toll that the wild birds would take, unless they were constantly scared away by lads engaged for that purpose during the ripening and harvesting period. This would also apply to the growing of other birdseeds. But if grown with success in Spain and Turkey, why not in England? I suppose there are as many wild birds there to feed on it when ripening, etc.

When Judges Disagree.

SIR,—I ask your further indulgence, to allow me to offer my heartfelt sympathy to Mr. R. D. Parlett in his serious trouble caused by the gross injustice meted out to him by so many judges. I beg of him to endeavour to overcome the depression which seems to be overwhelming him, or I am afraid his disease will become chronic. I note that in spite of Mr. Parlett's vigorous defence of "White Rose," and his promise of dire punishment to all judges who have the audacity to place it lower than first, there are some judges who dare to place his Greenfinches other than first and second, after occupying that position at Sunderland show. How sad to find so many more judges added to his black list. No wonder some exhibitors disagree with judges when they are guilty of such inconsistency. But was it not really at Sunderland that the inconsistency began? Previous to that show Mr. Parlett's winnings with Greenfinches this season consisted mostly, if not entirely, of commended cards, and his Linnet, after being left cardless in a class of ten at Brandon show, gets 1st prize, and is reported in CAGE BIRDS as being pale in colour, at the Welsh National show. More inconsistency! But we are getting away from the sensational Hybrid. What a pity it cannot talk.

The Canary-Greenfinch-Bullfinch "White Rose,"
We all must admit is a handsome bird,
It has got first prize at a number of shows,
But on four occasions has only got third.
While to the shame of some judges, be it told,

WHITE ROSE.

Foreign Birds at the Late Welsh National Show.

SIR,—Your reference to the paucity of entries in the Foreign Bird classes at the Welsh National show (Cardiff) in your last issue were very justifiable. I notice you credit me with being the judge of the Foreign birds. This, so far, is correct; but the manner in which you publish my name at the head of these classes in your report of the said show, without the slightest explanation as to why I judged the Foreign birds, would lead the ordinary reader of your paper, who had not seen a schedule or catalogue of the show, to believe that I was the duly appointed judge for that section, which is not correct, as both you and your reporter well know that Mr. Wesley T. Page was the judge appointed for Foreign birds, not me; but owing to the paucity of entries, the management of the show did not deem it necessary for Mr. Page to travel so far to officiate, and asked me to judge them in conjunction with my own section which I had been engaged to judge. This I readily consented to do. I must, however, say it is scarcely fair to me as a judge that you should have placed my name at the head of these classes without some explanation as to how I came to judge them, seeing that the entries were obtained under another judge's name. I shall therefore be glad if you will give this full publicity in your next issue of CAGE BIRDS.

JOHN ROBSON.

[We are sorry that Mr. Robson should apparently consider the omission on the part of our reporter, Mr. S. J. Nicholas, to record the fact that Mr. Wesley T. Page and not he, Mr. Robson, was the appointed judge for the Foreign Bird Section at the Welsh National Show was a deliberate omission. We doubt if the question as to who, or who was not, the judge appointed had any effect upon the entry. Mr. Robson and Mr. Page alike in their time have had good entries and bad entries in Foreign Birds, and other circumstances have to be taken into consideration. Such omission as Mr. Robson complains of, we need hardly explain was due to oversight on the part of our representatives, and also our editorial department. We have in our long knowledge of Mr. John Robson always endeavoured to do him the fullest possible justice. Even when opposed to him or his views we have tried to give him fair play, and we are certainly not likely to depart from our principles now that he is no longer in a position to retaliate journalistically for any grievance, imaginary or otherwise. We extend our apologies to Mr. Robson for the omission, which we admit was a regrettable one, and with that apology we hope Mr. Robson will rest content.—EDITOR, "C.B."]

Mice and Rats in Aviaries.

SIR.—I agree with Madam A. Feist-Madewell that mice do not injure birds, as I have often seen them in my aviary, and noticed that although they frighten and disturb the birds they never attack them. Rats or cats or other nocturnal prowlers outside the aviary do try to get at them. One Chaffinch was plucked practically bare on the left side and all the feathers were outside the wire. A cock Goldie had the end joint completely bitten off his wing. I found it several yards away from the aviary, and enclose it, but he lived happily in a cage for a long time after it. I lost three cock Greenies in quick succession, each having had its legs pulled right out, but no other injury. Several other birds show marks on their sides where feathers have been pulled out, but I have always found the feathers outside—none inside. I think that these facts point to the fact that mice are practically harmless, but rats are otherwise.

J. E. M. KNIGHT.

[Our correspondent's trouble is due to cats; they lie in front of the aviary and spring at any bird which flies on the wires. The remedy is to double wire the front, putting the second wire netting an inch or so away from the first.—Editor.]

Affairs of the Yorkshire C.C of Scotland.

SIR,—Knowing that Mr. R. B. Gibb is outside the charmed circle (or clique) in the above club, I was not surprised to read his disclaimer the other week. Regarding one question in my last letter, the person concerned has resigned membership, thus not facing the music. The person signing himself "A Member" is no friend of the novice. His definition of a novice evidently is: "One who pays his annual sub. and enters his birds to fill the classes, so that I can get full prize-money and thus recover the price of my winners." The Scottish Y.C.C. stands alone, I believe, as being the only specialist club in the United Kingdom that does not give novice classes. It is a one-man club, as can be seen from the report of the annual meeting in CAGE BIRDS last week.

"A Member" says they have done too much for the novices. They have evidently killed them with kindness, when they have only one competing novice member left, and as he has won the novice cup (with 8 points) he is now a champion. So novices who join now will not only have the Scottish champions to compete against, but also the English. It is up to those who have the Fancy really at heart to get the novices a few classes; do away with local judges, make it compulsory that all Yorkshires be shown in Yorkshire Union show cages, and arrange the specials during the season for most points, 2nd most, 3rd most, 4th most, 5th most, etc., and not have one exhibitor getting all.

ONE LESS.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

Yellow Buntings at Bathgate Show.

SIR,—Kindly allow me space to reply to your correspondent of last week re the Yellow Buntings. I have just had a schedule of the above show, and I think the classification the best that I have seen yet for British birds, as the promoters cater for all, field and house-moulted, and they deserve the heartiest support of British bird lovers. I also see there is a special inducement for exhibitors in the Yellow Bunting class mentioned by your correspondent. I hope that the show will get the support merited.

BRITISHER.

The Heavy-marked Norwich at the Welsh National Show.

SIR,—According to your report of the above show, the two leading birds in the above class should have been "wrong-classed," and possibly the third bird as well. Perhaps Mr. Allsopp, the judge, will kindly state why these three exhibits did not get the "wrong class" tickets? My own exhibit was placed fourth, so this matter is of considerable importance to me, as had Mr. Allsopp done as he apparently should have done, my bird would have secured the first prize. How any mistake could have been made, I fail to understand, because the schedule was worded so distinctly: "This class to mean more dark than light." But as your reporter states, and from what has been told me by exhibitors who visited the show, the three leading birds were "more light than dark."

HENRY J. DAVIS.

The Birtley, Chester-le-Street, and Pelton Fell Amalgamation.

SIR,—Having attended the meeting called by Mr. Robinson for Feb. 13, I was much surprised and disappointed to find only two of the Pelton Fell Society's members there—Mr. Redpath and Mr. Bewicke (who are regular attenders). Where were all the members and old members of Pelton Fell who are against the amalgamation? Why haven't they the decency to attend the meetings held on their own doorstep, and to state their objections to the amalgamation? For my own part, I think the amalgamation came up to expectations, and proved a success; therefore I think we need to have some thoroughly good reasons before deciding to let it fall through. All members will understand that it must come before the meeting, and a vote be taken for and against before it can be definitely decided how the respective societies shall be carried on in the future. As there was a minority of Pelton Fell members at the meeting on Saturday last, we did not care to go on with any business other than arrange for a meeting at Chester-le-Street on Feb. 27, when I hope all members and intending members will be there, and put prejudice to one side, and let us try to come to some decision satisfactory to all concerned. If any members can't be present, I hope they will accept the rulings of this meeting with good grace, and not grumble after things are settled. Let us work in harmony for the welfare of the Fancy in the district.

R. WARD.

From a Fancier in the Firing Line.

SIR,—I thought it would interest fanciers to hear from an old reader of CAGE BIRDS how our friends, the birds, were going on in this country. You would be surprised at the bird life out here, with so much shot and shell flying about, and rifle fire going on. The last day in January was very wet and cold, but February opened with a splendid day—a proper spring morning. As soon as dawn broke a Song Thrush started its song in a wood close to our trenches, and then a Skylark. I also heard Blackbirds, Linnets, Chaffinches, and our old friend the Robin. Blackbirds seem to be plentiful here; I have seen some beauties. Chaffinches, too, seem to be plentiful. I was marching through a village this morning, when I passed a Canary fancier's house, and his birds were singing splendidly. I thought about my old friend "Bill" Eardy, from Huthwaite. I expect he will be looking them over now for pairing, also my other old friends at Mansfield and Sutton-in-Ashfield. I am going on all right, and hope to be with them for the next show season. I wish all a good breeding season.

Late Chairman, C. CONNAH.

The Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve It.

SIR.—I welcome the correspondence from Mr. Bastock, for he is a gentleman who knows a good Norwich Plainhead. But why recommend this crossing of the weeds of the Crested Norwich into the N.P.? You know, as well as anyone, that the Yellow C.B. hen, if a good one, is the most valuable bird to the Crest breeder. The Fancy is quite aware of the introduction of the C.B. into the N.P.; sections of the Fancy have been following this course for some years now—also the cross from the Green bred from the Cinnamon. I admit that some beautiful feathered birds have been produced, and (I will put it this way) they have been put on the show bench before the traces of their ancestors had disappeared. Why recommend foreign blood, when the N.P. Fancy contains an unlimited supply for the next twenty years of birds possessing those beautiful Norwich properties, nice round full heads, with clean, full entrance, and distinct eyes, and all the other desired points? The mania has been for size (bulk), but I would prefer to recommend a more careful selection of the properties required from the purest Norwich strains. You get a greater average of equalised properties in your stock; more show birds of the correct type, which means birds you can exhibit all over the country, and which under competent judges will get fair consideration. Birds of standard character will maintain the popularity of the Norwich Plainhead, otherwise we are sure to degenerate.

BARKER CLEGG.

SIR,—The varied types as generally seen upon the show bench make up a vexed matter, and perhaps the least appreciated feature in the breed. Many a Plainhead will display six types in as many seconds, and yet remain the best bird in the class at the end. The well trained, quite at home in the show cage specimen, showing off his natural type in a rational way, is indeed a rara avis, and until exhibitors realise how important is the part played by "show behaviour" I fear that so long shall we feel discouraged by the types we sometimes see upon the show bench, even though such types are not natural to the birds that display them. Size is, however, a matter about which there need be no misgivings, so long as this desirable feature is accepted to mean massiveness of frame and solidity of flesh, and not fat and merely wealth of feather. When we can establish the truly large frame of bones, then we shall soon establish the 6½ inches show bird in all its glory, for clothing the frame in rich coloured, good quality feather, and even free from browing, is comparatively a much easier matter. Stock cocks carrying Lancashire and Crestbred blood are used in some rooms with success, and I suggest that did not a good deal of antipathy prevail regarding large hens, size would become more reliable than it is. To strengthen head features we pair two birds excelling in head properties, and so progress, but regarding size we must not admit a very large hen, because the book says a nice medium sized hen should be selected to counteract the undesirable features usually found in the large stock cocks. Now I say never mind about the undesirable features in the cock just at present, but find a mate for him as big as himself. Make sure her legs are sound and massive, for such usually indicate a generally massive frame. And don't get prejudiced because you have heard large hens won't sit and feed. Get her healthy in mind and body, and if you find the large hens have less maternal love, care, and instinct than the smaller sisters, then tell readers I am wrong. Opinions may run riot about the best medium for obtaining size, but the fact remains, in our Plainheads to-day there is a good dash of Crestbred, and a trace of Lancashire blood; the latter no doubt trickling into the breed through the former. To get to your show bird of medium size, and with all speed, of course the old and well-tried pairing of large cock to typical neat hen no doubt still holds good. But size would be more apparent did we descend from the large rough stock birds by more easy stages, just gradually eliminating undesirable features, and so in the end arriving at a real show bird which, by reason of its careful breeding, would even take a place in the stud as a breeder, and would do infinitely more credit to itself than many show birds of to-day could do, because such have within them fifty per cent. of the blood of a rough stock cock father, and fifty per cent. of the neat typical mother, and you can always back the rough stock blood for leaking out most.

Club Reports.

CITY OF BRADFORD O.S.

Meeting, Feb. 13, before a poor attendance. Decided to leave presentation of members' specials over till after next meeting, when it is hoped there will be a good turn-up. W. Helliwell, Sec.

BOLTON ROLLER C.S.

Annual meeting, Feb. 9, Mr. Massey chair, and a good attendance. The funds are in a healthy condition, there being a balance of £8 10s. in hand. Officers elected: Pres., Mr. W. Massey; Vice-Pres., Mr. J. Gostling and Mr. J. Flitcroft; Sec. and Treas., Mr. Jos. Kilshaw. Decided to alter the date of the open contest next season to a week later, namely, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 7 and 8. Other secs. please note.—Jos. Kilshaw, Hon. Sec.

EDINBURGH O.S.

Sub. meeting, Buchanan's Hotel, Mr. W. Allan presiding over a very poor turn-out of members. An important letter was considered from Western O.S. The President referred to the poor attendance and said it was a great pity that members didn't take more interest in their clubs, and only show their faces on show days. It was not much encouragement for office-bearers, who are doing their utmost to make things go smoothly. Mr. W. Thornton and Mr. D. McPhail were elected members at December meeting. Next meeting, 3rd April; full attendance requested.—A. Weston, Sec.

STRATFORD & E. LONDON F.S.

Annual general meeting, Feb. 10. Sec. reported successful year, with slight profit. Elections: Pres., T. H. Harrison; Chair, J. Sykes; Vice, E. Buss; Hon. Treas., J. Reed; Hon. Sec., A. Wasey; Assist. Sec., J. N Garrett. Committee Mrs. Holliday, Mrs. Sykes, Miss Barralet, Messrs. Branch, Rudge, Hodson, Stothard, Eves, Sears, Ruggles, Wood, Barton, Huggins, Day, Austin, Baker, Parker, Bayliss. For conspicuous services rendered, Messrs. Maxey and Collings were made hon. life members. New members elected: Messrs. Witham, Phipps, Brown, and Turner. Next meeting, Feb. 24, to arrange programme for 1915.—A. Wasey, Hon. Sec.

LONDON AND COUNTIES A.C.B.

Meeting, Feb. 6, Victoria Hotel, Charterhouse Street, E.C.; 14 members attended, Mr. and Mrs. Durham, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, Misses L. Culler and M. Culler, and Messrs. R. J. Pretty, Bell, Gilbert, W. Culler, Mortlock, Williams, Cooper, F. Durham. Mr. R. J. Pretty presided. Mr. J. Fox, Watford, was nominated for membership. Mr. G. Gardner lectured on "Stock and Stock-taking, not Breeding," which proved very interesting and instructive. Afterwards members asked questions, and the lecturer suitably answered all. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Gardner and to the Chair, which brought a very pleasant evening to a close.—W. Gilbert, Hon. Sec.

ECCLESHILL C.B.A.

Annual general meeting, Fountain Inn, Feb. 6, with a good attendance, presided over by Mr. A. Pearson. Balance sheet presented by the Hon. Sec. and Treas., Messrs. Wilcock and Chippendale, showed a very successful season, there being a balance in hand of £6 17s. 3½d. Officers elected for ensuing year: Chair., H. Pearson; Vice-Chair, J. Bousfield; Treas., G. A. Simonett; Sec., S. Wilcock; Assist. Sec., B. Airton; Auditors, W. Sparks and F. Walton; delegate to Union, W Lee. Judges, rules, etc., passed for the Yorkshire Union. Our annual prize distribution is on March 6, when it is hoped many friends will come. A hearty welcome given to all. We are having a Rabbit Pie Supper, etc., 1/- each. Will friends kindly let me know as soon as posible if they are coming.—S. Wilcock, Sec.

S.W. LONDON C.B.S.

Meeting, Feb. 11, New Gild Hall, Wandsworth-rd., S.W. Owing to so many members being at the front, very few turned up. In view of the fact we are left with only 12 paid members, and Mr. Freeman having resigned secretaryship, it is most important that a new sec. be appointed at once to carry the society through a most trying time. Members must do their utmost to attend special general meeting, New Gild Hall, Wandsworth-rd., next Thursday, February 25th, at 8.30 sharp, to decide the future of the society. Now, South-Westers, don't let the old club go to the wall, but do your best to keep things going till our boys return. We are strong financially. Guaranteed support of the shows is all we want, then a secretary will easily be found. Bring a new member if you can.—K. H. Arkill, Assist, Sec.

BARROW C.B.A.

Meeting Gardner's Restaurant, Feb. 10, with a good turn-out of members. Sec intimated he had secured Dr. Ore as vice-pres., also Mr. J. Fisher, other gentlemen as hon. members. We enrolled some new members, and specially invite anyone who desires to become a memb. to see the sec., D. McFarlane. Table show for Norwich and Yorkshire pairs, also judging competition, proved to be one of the most interesting meetings held for some time. NOR.: 1, 3, c, McFarlane; 2, vhc, hc, McNeal. YORKS.: 1, vhc, Henderson and Crosby; 2, 3, hc, c, Harrison. There were seven entries for the judging competition, and some good placing was done. The prize was divided between Shackley and Hall, who came nearest to the decision of the judge, Mr. Saul. Decided to hold table show next meeting night, Feb. 24, Bord. pairs. Mr. W. Ireland judge. Also judging competition.—D. McFarlane, Hon. Sec.

PORTH AND RHONDDA VALLEY.

General meeting, Feb. 10, Porth Hotel, with the best attendance yet. Decided to hold matched pair show Feb. 24. Entries close Feb. 22. Now members, let us have a record entry. There will be 8 specials, and prize money on sliding scale. Entries 6d. each cage. Please attend next meeting, Feb. 22, Porth Hotel, at 7 sharp, so that we can go through all matter re show, also that all entries can be in. Messrs. D. Gilbert, G. Stone, S. Jones, and J. Hubbard elected members. Mr. T. Emanual was elected treas. for 1915. Members please note exhibits for pair show must be staged by 5 o'clock.—J. S. Jones, Hon. Sec.

SOUTH MOOR SOCIAL CLUB.

General Meeting, Club Room, South Moor, Feb. 14, Mr. Taylor chair. Officers for the coming year elected: Mr. T. Taylor, pres: Mr. J. Ransom, treas.; Mr. Geo. Lane, sec.; committee, Messrs. J. Elliott, J. Armitage, Ostle, G. Potts, D. Harrison, H. Roxboro, T. Shield. Decided to hold show on same date as last year, Nov. 6 and 7. A great alteration of rules, etc. was made. Judges nominated are Messrs. W. Reed, Sunderland; Dixon, Bedlington; Stanger, Pelton; Bewick, Pelton; Hands, Ryton. We have a Club Show second to none, as the officers are a lot of hard working fanciers. The South Moor Social Club officials are doing their very best to help the society.—Geo. Lane, Sec.

LIVERPOOL B.B.A.

Meeting Feb. 11, Oldham Hall, Mr. J. Abbott chair, and a fair attendance. The chief item was a discussion re cinnamon versus green blood. Mr. Raynes, Manchester, was called upon to give the merits of introducing cinnamon blood with a view to improve quality of feather, which he did in a very able manner. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe championed the green blood, and Messrs. J. Walker, F. Handley, and E. Bunner joined the discussion. Members spent a pleasant evening in learning the merits and demerits of cinnamon versus green blood, and also how the green blood was first introduced into the Liverpool district. Next meeting March 11, when we hope to have a very interesting and instructive lecture.—Thos. R. Jones, Sec.

NORTHERN BRITISH M. & F.B.C.

Meeting Jan. 30. Decided to have a Table Show at next meeting, March 6, at 7.30, in Shield's Cafe, Bigg Market. Classes: Linnet, Greenfinch, Siskin, Redpoll or Twite, A.O.V., Mule, For. Successful Table Show was held. Our old friend, Trooper J. McGuire, whom we were all pleased to see amongst us once again, was elected to judge, and right well did he do his duty, seeing it was his first attempt at judging. LINNET: 1, 3, vhc, Bertram; 2, Hooper; 4, Pettersson. GREENF.: 1, 4, Hooper; 2, C. Pettersson; 3, Bertram. A.O.V.: 1, Bertram; 2, 3, 4, Hooper; vhc, hc, Pettersson. MULE: 1, Maddison. LEEDS C.B.S.

Tea, concert, and prize distribution, Hunslet Co-operative Hall, Feb. 6. Mr. H. J. Mennard chair. 72 members and friends sat down to tea, and were well catered for by the Leeds Co-operative Society. The Longley Glee Party opened the concert by singing "The Gypsies." They also rendered more glees, duets, and solos during the evening, with very taking effect. Miss Robinson and Miss Robson's solos, duets, and recitals were delivered very artistically, and Miss Robson's recital of "The Lesson of the Water Mill" showed talent of a very high order. Messrs. W. Hornby and Middleton also sang songs very ably. Mr. H. Brown's mimicking was very well received, and Mr. F. Hudson sang "Sister Susie's Sewing Shirts for Soldiers" and "I followed there" in a very pleasing manner. President Mr. W. Hall presented the prizes to the various winners. Votes of thanks were accorded to Mr. Hall and the artistes. We were very pleased to see that old and popular fancier, Mr. F. King, amongst us once again. Upon being asked to say a few words, he said he was one of the founders of the society, and during its existence he could not remember such a gathering. There never had been such an array of prizes in the years gone by. The singing of the National Anthem brought a pleasant evening to a termination. E. Norton Hon Sec.

BRADFORD NATIONAL SHOW COMMITTEE.

At the annual meeting of the Bradford National Show, in aid of the Cinderella Club funds, it was decided to hand over £5 to the Cinderella Club for the benefit of the poor children. Decided to hold this year's show on Dec. 3 and 4. Will secs. please note to avoid clashing? The following officials were elected: Mr. H. H. Towers, chairman; Mr. F. Hammond, vice-chair; S. Midgley, hon. sec.; E. H. Wetherell, assist.-sec. Classification and nominating judges will be considered at next meeting, Feb. 24, when it is desired that fanciers and those interested will, if possible, be present.—S. Midgley, Hon. Sec.

BOOTLE C.B.S.

Annual General Meeting, Feb. 2, St. Andrew's Parochial Hall, Mr. T. Evans chair, and a good attendance. Three new members were elected. Balance-sheet was considered satisfactory and adopted, showing a nice balance in hand. Officers elected for 1915: Pres., Mr. H. Berry; vice-pres., Mr. G. Skilling; chair., Mr. T. Evans; vice-chair, Mr. G. Wale; treas., Mr. G. Skilling; sec., Mr. A. E. Huyton; auditors, Messrs. Pye and Southwood; committee, Messrs. Algie Knight, Howard, Critchley, Bracken, Croft, Handley, and Pye. The rules were discussed and slight alterations made. Chairman has kindly promised a cup to be competed for by novices. Fanciers desirous of becoming members of this society should write to sec. Sub. 3s. per annum; nomination fee, 1s.—A. E. Huyton, Hon. Sec., 2, Byron Rd., Blundellsands, Nr. Liverpool.

WOLVERHAMPTON C.B.S.

Annual members' cup show, Dec. 12, headquarters, Duke of York, with quite a fine number of birds, and the competition was keen. Mr. Geo. Baker, Birmingham, judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Meeting Feb. 4, Mr. Jones presiding over a large attendance. Syllabus for 1915 settled. The committee suggestions, which included lectures by Mr. H. W. Battye, and other well-known gentlemen, egg-food competition, and some new features, were adopted. The programme should appeal to all members, as each one has an opportunity of taking part one way or another. There will be three table shows, two only to count for point specials, which will be settled after the season. This is to induce members to do their best at all the table shows if they intend being in the running for specials. The three highest birds to count. The table show of matched pairs was well supported, nov. Nor. being particularly a strong lot, and provided the judge, Mr. Furness, with a stiff task, but he succeeded in giving satisfaction to all. Mr. Ridal ably judged the Yorks. NOR.: 1, 2, 4, Cowley; 3, vhc, J. and L. Woolhouse; hc, Hemmings; c, T. Tow. NOV. YORKS.: 1, vhc, c, Tow; 2, Carr; 3, Howarth. NOV. DULWICH AND PECKHAM C.B.S.

A lecture was given on Feb 2 (Mr. F. Cole in the chair) by Mr. J. Robson on Breeding and Rearing. The attendance was small, but owing to a wet night this could hardly be wondered at. The lecture was very interesting. A discussion followed, Messrs. Dracup, Whiffin, Cant, Clarke and Fairman taking part. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Robson was carried unanimously.—D. Reeks, Hon. Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.C.

Monthly meeting, Village School, Alexandria, Feb. 4, when the annual Canary pair show was held. A fine turn-out of birds faced the judge, Mr. R. B. Gibb, Glasgow, who gave entire satisfaction.

CITY & COUNTY OF PERTH O.A.

Meeting, Laidlaw's Rooms, Leonard Street, Mr. A. G. Forrest, Pres., in the chair. New members enrolled: D. Robertson, J. Robertson, G. Duncan, W. Reid, J. Johnston, G. Todd, P. Kirk, P. Kellock, J. Stewart, J. McPherson, G. P. Gordon, J. Dougall. Mr. W. Blyth moved that we get cups for each section, Norwich, Crests, Scotch Fancy, Borders, Yorks., Brit., and Mule or Hybrid, also to get the Dewar cup for most points instead of at present. An amendment that the Dewar cup goes on in the same way as at present was carried by 7 votes against 5. Committee was appointed to draw up new rules: Mr. A. G. Forrest, W. Blyth, R. Crawford, D. Carstairs, and the Sec. Secretary was instructed to write all country members about the cups and rules, and to get word back from them before the next meeting, a special meeting night. Meeting closed with a vote of thanks to chair.—J. L. Smith, Sec.

WINDHILL C.B.S.

Annual tea and concert: Feb. 13, headquarters, proved again a great success. Sixty fanciers and friends sat down to a hot meat tea, which was, as usual, a credit to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hardy. Amongst friends present were two Belgian refugees, who seemed to enjoy themselves greatly. Johnny Bower, comedian, proved the usual success, and others who contributed were Mr. Ernest Mason, Miss Mason, W. Crabtree, and E. Shepherd. The pianist, Mr. Gordon Hipkin, is a great favourite and would take some beating. Mr. E. Mason and Miss Mason rendered several songs, which everyone admired, and both received great applause. During the concert Mr. H. H. Towers and Mr. Luther Ogden challenged one another who was the best singer of the two. Mr. Towers responded first and received loud applause. Then Mr. Ogden got up (with a lot of persuasion) and surprised the company, as nobody thought he could sing, but proved equal to Mr. Towers, and Chairman, Mr. W. B. Atkinson, declared same a draw. Votes of thanks to the host and hostess and artistes were moved and supported, and a most enjoyable evening came to a close.—J. Taylor, Sec.

GLASGOW (West End) C.B.C.

Meeting and show of matched pairs, Co-operative Hall, St. George's Cross, Feb. 12, Mr. A. Hendry presiding over a good attendance. Prize money for annual show, 1914, was paid out to those members present. Judges were fixed up for table and F.F. show, Mar. 12. British Bird show, Mr. J. Young, (Rutherglen). April 9, British, Mr. A. Gillespie (Dennistoun). July 10, F.F. show, Mr. A. Sloan (Possilpark). Nominations were taken for judges for annual members' show, Nov. 20. New members enrolled: J. Craig, Wm. Colquhoun, J. Colquhoun, R. Glen, S. Hamilton, and Mr. Clunie. The entry for pairs show (64) exceeded that of all previous matched pairs shows, while quality was excellent. Mr. A. Sloan (Possilpark) judged and gave every satisfaction. A number of specials were kindly given by the following: A. Miller, C. Sellar, W. Proudfoot, W. Hamilton, D. Downie, G. G. Henderson, and G. Robertson. Principal winners: CRESTS: Young, Hamilton. NOR.: Young, J. Campbell, C. Campbell, Henderson. BORD.: Lunn, Sellar, Downie. YORKS: Cochrane. A.O.V. CAN.: Hamilton, Young, Lunn. MULING: Henderson, Mitchell, Glass. HYB.: Henderson, Proudfoot. Next meeting and table show of British, Mar. 12, Co-op. Hall, St. George's Cross, at 8.—W. S. Proudfoot, Sec. and Treas.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

Meeting, Headquarters, Crown Hotel, Station-st., Feb. 3, a large number present; chair, Mr. J. H. de Maillett. Decided to hold Annual Open Show on the usual dates, Dec. 1 and 2. Messrs. J. Robson and J. H. Roe judges. Will societies please note dates to avoid clashing. Decided to guarantee the usual advert. in CAGE BIRDS. Proposed that we approach Wolverhampton and West Bromwich Societies, asking them to alter the Inter-Club cup rules as follows: "Any fancier belonging to more than one of the competing societies, full points should count for the society holding the show, of which he is a member, instead of sharing the points between all the clubs to which he may belong." This was passed and we hope the above societies will fall in with the idea, as we feel sure it will encourage fanciers to join either of the remaining societies to which they may not belong. New members elected: Messrs. Price, Merryman, Allen, Lewis, and Hernshaw; nominated, Messrs. F. A. Loach and W. Taylor. It is gratifying to note we have made close upon 20 new members for the new year, this looks very healthy, and we should be glad to have the names of other fanciers who would like to join us; the stronger each section is the better shall we be able to cater for them. We hope to have a lecture on the management and breeding of Yorkshires next meeting, first Wednesday in March, when we hope all members and friends, also any fanciers interested will be present. Meeting was followed by a very interesting lecture by Mr. Weaver, Wolverhampton, on the Norwich Plainhead. At next meeting the balance-sheet will be presented.—A. C. Shirley.

COALTOWN OF WEMYSS C.B.S.

Lord, Sec.

GREENOCK, PORT GLASGOW AND GOUROCK O.S.

Smoking concert, held club headquarters, Shepherd's Hall, Cathcart-st., Jan. 29, with a good attendance of members and friends. Mr. A. Muir, Glasgow, made the presentations of cups and badges to winners of the classes, also to the Pres., Sec., and Treas. Songs were rendered by Messrs. Muir, Allison, Collins, Molloy, Stewart, Martin, McKay, Preston, and Master Douglas, and Master Molloy gave an exhibition of Indian clubs. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of Auld Lang Syne, and God Save the King.—G. Martin, Sec.

LOCHGELLY C.B.S.

Meeting, Bay Horse Hotel, Feb. 13. Mr. M. Smith presided. Office-bearers elected. M. Smith, pres.; J. McLeod, vice-pres.; R. Muir, sec.; Wm. Grewar, assist. sec. and treas. Alteration of rules extending radius for confined members' trophies was passed. 10 miles being fixed as most suitable. Open show date was fixed as usual for Oct. 9. Next meeting Burgh Arms, when Mr. G. Raith will lecture on "British Birds," and a hand-washing exhibition will be given by Mr. Grewar. All interested are cordially invited.—R. Muir, Sec.

KILMARNOCK C.B.F.C.

Annual general meeting, Temperance Hall, Board Room, Feb. 10, President, W. G. Muir, in the chair. Balance-sheet read for 1914, leaving balance £3 18s. 6d. in hand. Office-bearers elected for 1915: Hon. Pres., Wm. Munro, Esq.; Hon. Vice-Pres., Provost Smith, Messrs. J. Middleton, and J. King; Pres., W. G. Muir; Sec. and Treas., J. Ferguson; Committee, A. Kerr, R. McGill, W. Robertson, W. Alexander, E. Metcalfe, W. Guthrie, J. Jones, J. Dunsmuir, J. Noble. Decided to hold a monthly meeting on second Wednesday of each month, excepting June, July, August. Meeting closed with a vote of thanks to chair.—Jas. Ferguson, Sec.

CLITHEROE C.B.S.

Annual pair show, Feb. 13, at Bennett's Tea Rooms, Moor Lane. Exhibits were below the usual number, but made up for this in quality. Mr. L. Grainger judged. YELL. CK., BUFF HEN: 1, 4, vhc, Metcalfe; 2, Barnes; 3, Cook and Son; hc, Briggs; c, Speak Bros. BUFF CK. YELL. HEN: 1, Barnes; 2, Cook; 3, Cock and Son; 4, Speak Bros.; vhc, Briggs. Mr. J. Barnes won spl. most points. After the show members and their wives sat down to an excellent tea provided by Mrs. Bennett. All present doing themselves justice. After the tables had been cleared they had a very enjoyable evening, songs being given by Messrs. J. Hindle, R. Copperwaite, W. Wilkinson, and A. Metcalfe, Mr. R. Calverley accompanying in a very able manner; Mr. J. Briggs chairman. A very pleasant meeting was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.—J. Southworth, Sec.

ATTERCLIFFE C.B.S.

Meeting Feb. 11, Mr. Havenhand chair. Decided that the cup rules remain the same for Canaries, viz., three starred birds in the unflighted sections. In the British section this was altered to the three highest awards. President read a letter from the Sheffield C.B.S. with reference to a combined members' show for societies in the district, to be governed by a committee elected from the combining societies. This scheme was unanimously approved, and delegates chosen. Mr. Hibberson had some very interesting notes on a magnificent collection of foreign birds he had seen, but as time was getting short was only able to give us just enough to whet our appetite for more. We hope to hear the whole of the notes at a future meeting. After the conclusion of the meeting we learned that Mr. W. Richinson, one of the founders, and sec. of the society for some six years, had enlisted in the R.A.M.C. I am sure all members of our society and fanciers in the district will wish him the best of luck in his new role.—E. Johnson, Sec.

GATESHEAD C.B.S.

Annual General Meeting, Feb. 10, Mr. Holden presided. Balance-sheet showed an income of £85 12s., with an expenditure of £74 2s. 9d., leaving a balance £11 9s. 3d., assets, stands, etc., value £7 10s., which shows the society to be in a flourishing condition. Officials elected: Aid. Gillus re-elected pres.; Mr. Holden, chair.; Mr. C. Pettersson, vice-chair.; committee, Messrs. Hawkins, Mackenzie, Maddison, Wellsbury, Davidson, Lawson, Tindle, Laidlow, Liddle, Mather, Pearson, Hooper, Moor, McGuire, Reed, Smith, Rowan, and Cromarty; auditors, Messrs. Crawhall and Almond re-elected; sec. and treas., W. Curry. Decided that all members who are serving with the colours to be made honorary members until their return to civil life. Also decided to have a question night at next meeting. Dates for next annual open show were fixed for Dec. 10 and 11, in Rochester-st. Schools. A hearty invitation is given to fanciers to join us. Entrance fee 1s. Annual subs. 2s. 6d. For further particulars apply to W. Curry, Sec., 6, Roxburgh Place, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Meeting, Riego Street Hall, Mr. Andrew presided over a small gathering. Reply from B.F.C.C. was read. It was agreed to have a table show at March meeting, two classes for each section. Classes will be notified in club notices before the week of show. The reply from the Edinburgh Club was left in the hands of the committee to arrange for a special meeting of delegates from both clubs.—C. Grant, Sec.

READING AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, Palmer Hall, Feb. 3, before a good attendance. Mr. G. Munday having been elected chairman (in place of Mr. A. Brooker, resigned), took his place for the first time, dealing with the items in masterly fashion. Judging competition proved very interesting, the two winners being Mr. E. I. Smith and Mr. G. Munday, the latter giving the best comments on birds present. Pair show fixed for Mar. 3, judge, Mr. Lewin (Oxford). First feather show July 7, and annual open show (providing judge can be arranged) Nov. 17.—O. C. Smith, Sec.

Admission free. All are invited.—Alf. Hitchin, Sec.

STOKE-ON-TRENT C.B.A.

Annual meeting, Feb. 1st, an excellent attendance. Secretary submitted his report and statement of accounts. Mr. G. Lawton was the successful competitor for the tea service, with a total of 34 points; gold centre medal for runner-up went to Mr. J. Pitchford, 31 points. The society has a nice credit balance of £5/15/10. Office-bearers elected:—Chairman, Mr. E. Ousman; vice-chair., Mr. N. Lees; treas., Mr. W. Roberts; sec., Mr. J. Pitchford; auditors, Messrs. J. Glover and E. Ffoulkes. The holding of an open show this year was left over for further consideration. We invite those local fanciers who are not members of any society to throw in their lot with us. Meetings first Monday in each month at Red Lion Hotel, Stoke.—J. Pitchford, hon. sec.

LEYTON C.B.A.

Annual general meeting, Jan. 25, at new headquarters, the Parish Hall, Church Road, Leyton, Mr. Bartlett in the chair. Balance sheet for 1914 caused a great deal of discussion, and owing to the lateness of the hour the meeting had to be adjourned until Feb. 1, when there was one of the largest musters for some years. Mr. Rhodes occupied the chair. Election of officers: Pres., S. C. Rhodes, Esq.; Vice-Pres., J. Robson, J. S. Clarke, J. B. Slade, Dr. J. Laird-Simpson, H. M. Breary, E. Anderson, H. Ovenden, and Canon Thornton-Duesbery; Chairman, J. A. Bartlett; Vice-Chair, F. Wallace; Hon. Treas., H. Ovenden; Auditors, J. Whiller and A. J. Wilkins; Committee, Taylor, Marshall, Dalton, G. East, W. East, Collinge, Parker and Hellens; Hon. Assist. Sec., A. W. Farmer; Hon. Sec., G. King. During the evening there was a whip round to meet a deficit. The sum of £4 was placed upon the table and further amounts promised. Several new members joined, and some who had recently resigned withdrew their resignations. Altogether the outlook is extremely promising, the more so as our new headquarters are far in advance of any we have had before. Show dates for the year are June 5, July 17 and Nov. 6. Mr. Robson judge. Will London Secs. kindly note dates to avoid clashing as far as possible.—A. W. Farmer, Hon. Assist. Sec.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

NOT SINGING (One in a Fix).—Stop the seed mixture as staple diet and give instead plain canary seed only. In addition give separately every second day a pinch of dry summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed, and also a spray of watercress. In the water add ten drops of lemon juice, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence for three consecutive days, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and four of dilute sulphuric acid every second day for a week or so. Continue above dietary for three or four weeks.

MOULTING AND BREEDING (W.H.).—(1) Stop the bread and milk for the present, and in addition to the staple diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet and teazle, and either a morsel of banana or a spray of watercress. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping. There is no reason why he should not be in good condition time enough for breeding successfully this season. (2) It is not at all unusual for some hens to wish to start breeding as early as this, but unless one has complete control of some means of keeping the room at a constant temperature, it is bad policy to allow them to do so. (3) By using some good substitute for the ordinary egg food, which will not readily become sour in warm weather, you may succeed all right with breeding by attending to the birds before you left home in the morning, and again as early as you could manage it in the evening.

BARE HEAD AND NECK (J. F.).—Any treatment for this disfigurement should coincide with the natural moulting season for it to have much effect; otherwise it is by no means an easy trouble to deal with. You may try the following for a few weeks. In addition to the usual seed diet give every third day for a month half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur and sprinkled with maw seed. On the intervening days give first a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet and broken groats and a morsel of banana, and next a good sized spray of watercress. In the drinking water add ten drops of lemon juice and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence every third day. Allow bird to bathe freely in mild weather. Slightly moisten the bare skin twice a week for the first fortnight with sulphur ointment, but avoid soiling the plumage.

NORWICH AND CROSSBRED (Just a Beginner).—It is a mistake to suppose you are secure from red mites when you have bought an all-wire cage. Metal cages are just as liable to get infested as wood ones, and only constant vigilance and cleanliness will keep them at bay. Make a point of touching the ends of perches, joints of doors, and any spot likely to afford a cover for insects with some insecticide at least once a week. Offer the bath frequently, and add a few drops of essence of quassia to it once a week. As regards the birds not bathing, if you got a bath to hang on the open doorway and put it on for an hour each day regularly, and removed the drinking water meanwhile, they would probably soon take to the bath and use it. Also you move the birds about too much. It would be better to leave them in the cool room altogether, and throw a light cover over the cages whilst the weather is very cold. To stop the moulting, treat as advised in first part of reply to "W.H." in this issue for a fortnight. (2) The cause of the old Norwich not singing is the difficulty of breathing. He has probably seen the best of his days. But you may treat him the same as advised to "One in a Fix" in this issue for two or three weeks. (3) By all means use the cross-bred cock for breeding in preference to the Norwich. His mischievous propensities may disappear when mated, but if they do not you can easily remove him when the hen is beginning to sit, and thus keep him out of harm's way. The hen will hatch and rear the young by herself.

J. Davies.—Replied to by post.

CHANCE OF ROOM (Roller Fancier). See reply to "J. T. M. (1)" in this issue, which fully meets your case. But as you appear to have means available to heat your room if necessary, there would be no harm in having such means in readiness for any contingency. Even if you did not require to make use of it, you will recognise the sound policy of having "two strings to one's bow." You might also dispense with the gradual hardening off by slightly warming the room at night for a week or two after the removal until the weather became mild.

BREEDING FOR SONG (R. W. J.).—(1) The most suitable mate for the Roller-Yorks. cock to breed songsters is a pure Roller hen of a good singing strain—a so-called Scifert or St. Andreasberg. (2) As the cock is a crossbred bird I would not advise you to give any fancy price for a hen. You should get a quite suitable one for about 3/6 or 4/-.

VARIOUS (Birdie).—(1) Seeing that your cage is a four-compartment one with proper divisions, you would do far better to keep a hen in each of three compartments, and reserve the fourth for the cock when not engaged in putting the hens to nest, and run him with the hens consecutively, as you will have seen frequently advised in this column. (2) An unflighted bird is one which is in its first year and still has the large wing and tail feathers which grew in the nest. These feathers are not lost naturally until the second moult, though they are sometimes removed at the first moult for purposes of colour-feeding, then the bird is said to have been flighted. (3) A Sib.-bred hen is one that has been bred from more or less nearly related parents for several generations. They are generally used in attempts to breed light mules.

REMOVING BIRDS (J. T. M.). — (1) Your best plan in removing the birds from a warm room to a cold one is to wait until we get a spell of nice mild weather, as we shall probably do between now and the middle of March, and take advantage of the mild conditions to make the change. Meantime gradually harden off the birds, so to speak, by keeping well away from any fireplace, but where they will be free from draughts, and the temperature is fairly equable. If you do this there will be practically no risk of throwing the birds into moult. (2) As regards substitutes for eggs for making foods for rearing young you should get a copy of our forthcoming "Annual," wherein you will find full and detailed information on this subject, which is much too extensive to give in this column.

BALD HEAD (A. E.).—This is often a very obstinate trouble to deal with, and treatment, in order to stand a fair chance of success, should coincide with the natural moulting season. Still, you may try the following treatment for a month or so. In addition to the usual diet give a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut lightly sprinkled with flowers of sulphur and finally with soft sugar, every third day. On the intervening days give first half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, millet, niger, teazle, and broken groats, and next a morsel of banana or a spray of watercress. Every third day add to the drinking water ten drops of lemon juice and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence. Allow bird to bathe freely in mild weather. Slightly moisten the bare spot twice a week for a month with sulphur ointment, but avoid daubing the surrounding plumage.

DISAPPOINTING COLOUR (Ornito).—You do not mention whether the bird has been losing feathers since you have had him. But there can be only one of two explanations of the loss of colour, viz., either the bird has lost his plumage through a moult, either rapid or gradual; or the colour was on the outside only and has naturally worn off. You can only alter the tone of colour whilst a moult is in progress, by colour-feeding; therefore, if the bird has gone through a moult you will have to wait until the next moulting season before you can restore it. Then you would have to colour-feed the bird properly during the progress of the moult, and to do this you should get the pamphlet on "Colour-feeding," which our Manager would send you for 3½d. post free, wherein you will find all that is worth knowing about the procedure, which is too lengthy to give in detail in this column. If the bird is losing feathers now treat it for a fortnight or so as advised to "L. H.," for "Hen Canary Moulting," in our issue of Feb. 6th.

RECURRING BALDNESS (Dockyard).—Are you quite satisfied that the trouble is not due to one or more of the birds plucking the heads of these birds whilst in the flights? If this is not the solution of the case it is probably due to congenital weakness, which would need to be compensated by mating these birds to those in which these defects were quite absent, and with plenty of head feathr, though not, of course, showing any browing as in the case of Crest-breds. The birds so selected should also have been bred from parents in which the trouble did not appear. Given these precautions there is no reason why you should not breed with them, and in a few years time you should be able to quite eradicate the tendeney to the defect. It cannot properly be called a disease. You might treat the birds for a month the same as advised to "A. E." in this issue, and then give 20 drops of Chemical Food in the water three times a week for another month afterwards.

ROLLERS DYING (Novice, Cheshire).—You should have said how the birds were affected. The mere fact of the Rollers dying and none of the Norwich following suit may simply mean that the Rollers were older, for instance. As regards the seed-box always being emptied, do the birds really eat all this seed, or do they simply scatter it about the floor? If the latter is the case, that would help to throw a little light on the cause of death, which may be due to malnutrition arising from digestive derangements. In that case treat as follows for a week or two. In addition to the staple seed diet give a morsel of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, sprinkled with soft sugar and finally with maw seed, every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days a morsel of banana and half a teaspoonful of scalded summer rape. Stick a cube of hard common salt in the wires for them to peck at. In the water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week, and in the next week give instead four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week. If this does not have the desired effect write again and give fuller particulars.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

BREEDING LAPWINGS (Bird Lover).—You omitted to send your name and address, which is contrary to rules, perhaps you will put it on a post-card for us. The garden would be the better place for your Lapwings, but I am afraid the cats would get them unless you could give the necessary protection. They are insect-eaters, and would be able to peck up some occasionally. I do not think you could breed with them; their wild nature would be against it; if you got them very tame, they might make an attempt, but you would have to keep them as secluded as possible. (2) A better mate for your Greenfinch hen would be a Goldfinch, Siskin, or Redpoll, but if either of the latter, they would have to be large birds. Take the perches out of the Linnet's cage and keep him quiet. If the fracture is high up it will soon repair. If in the shank of the leg, get some court plaster and wind a strip round it, carefully uniting the parts as well as you can. This will harden and form a splint when dry.

MULE WITH SORE FEET (E. Robinson).—I am afraid you have been treating your bird wrongly, but unfortunately you do not give me any idea as to your feeding. First of all, his cage and perches should be kept thoroughly clean. The latter should be taken out, scrubbed, and dried, twice a week. Mix in his drinking water as much Glauber Salts as will cover a sixpence; let him have this for one day, then repeat in a week. His seed should be 5 parts canary, 2 parts teazle, and 1 part summer rape, and a spoonful of mixed seed once a week. Give him plenty of greenfood, such as watercress, chickweed, dandelion, groundsel, etc.; see that it is quite free from frost. Catch the bird and immerse the legs and feet in a saucer of warm water, to which has been added a teaspoonful of liquid extract of wych hazel. This should be repeated daily until the bird is better.

MULE LOSING FEATHERS (Mrs. L. Brown).—In a good many cases if a bird is losing the feathers round the neck and cheeks it is a sign that he is troubled with insects. These insects are not the red mite, but a small grey louse. If a bird is infested with these and you hold it in the hand for a few minutes, you will see the insects running over the fingers. You say you have often washed your bird in Jeyes' Disinfectant. This should certainly rid him of these pests, but you do not tell me the strength you have been using it, and it is therefore possible that you have used it too strong, which might cause the irritation you speak of. Now thoroughly examine the bird, blowing up the feathers upon the stomach and under the wings and at the root of the tail. If you find any insects, or even one, you may be sure that is the cause of the bird losing its feathers. Then either re-wash him or thoroughly dust im with insect powder. Should there be no signs of insects, you had better make a complete change in his diet and feed as advised to "E. Robinson" in this issue, occasionally giving a little soaked seeds. Rub just a little Kerol ointment on the bare place to encourage the growth of feather.

MEATING OFF BLACKBIRDS (Bird Shop).—If Blackbirds are obtained in the winter there is practically no trouble to meat them off, as they will eat soft food almost immediately if placed before them. Do not expect them to put their heads through a hole in the front of the cage for either food or water. Place it inside for a time so that they can easily get at it. A few mealworms or beetles when first caged will encourage them to feed; some of these should be placed in the soft food. Medium chicken meal (best quality), with a spoonful of meat meal added, makes a capital stock food. It can be varied with tablo scraps, vegetables, pudding, a little shredded meat, etc., and occasionally a few grocer's currants, apple, or other fruit. The birds should be caged separately, or they will fight and injuro their plumage.

A FORWARD GOLDIE (J. Upton).—There is nothing the matter with your Finch excepting that he is very forward. Perhaps you are keeping him a little too warm. I am rather surprised at his forwardness, as there is nothing in your seed mixture to cause it. In fact, to my mind it is rather poor; but as he is doing well on it do not change it, as Finches are easily upset. A little extra greenfood when obtainable would be beneficial. I se no reason why he should not breed again this next season.

GOLDFINCHES DYING (Cocksure).—I have carefully read your letter, and although you give many particulars you omit (like most other correspondents in trouble) the most important item, that is: How you are feeding your Finches. Therefore I can only conclude that your errors in this, and the heat of the room, are the cause of the trouble. Hardy British Finches do not require (particularly in the winter) a temperature of 62 to 63 degrees, and possibly a luxurious diet in addition. I would therefore advise you if you value your birds to place them in a room without either a fire or gas and feed them in the following manner: For stock seed, canary 3 parts, teazle 4 parts, hemp 2 parts, summer rape ½ part. Also a few sunflowers daily or alternated with other seeds in mixture, such as niger 3 parts, maw 1 part. Then try to procure a good brand of wild seed mixture. If not, perhaps you can buy the following and make your own: Thistle 30zs., dandelion and sesame 2ozs. each, lettuce, gold of pleasure, and cornflower seed, 1 oz. each. Give a teaspoonful about twice a week. If a bird looks mopy give soaked seeds. During the spring and summer months supply daily all kinds of wild food. I would advise you to send to this office for the Nutshell Booklet on the Goldfinch, post free 2½d.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

A FEATHER-PLUCKER (E.S.).—I much fear it is the dietary that has had much to do with the trouble, but as this is of fairly recent origin there is hope of a gradual cure. So long as the voidings are not watery loose, give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day; and, on the intervening days, put half a teaspoonful of byno-phosphates in the drinking water. This must be continued for some time. It will not do to stop the sop suddenly, but the quantity should get gradually smaller, and finally cease altogether. At present prepare it so: Take some pieces of stale bread or biscuit, put half a teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion, sprinkle a little sugar, and then add as much boiling water as the bread will soak up—any superfluous water must be poured away and the sop dusted with flowers of sulphur. Diet: Seed mixture, nuts, pieces of biscuit, and ripe fruit. Grit (not sand), cuttlebone, and a piece or two of wood for the bird to cut up should be continually in the cage. Report progress in about six weeks.

PARROT ILL (H.J.W.).—If you really value the bird, it is a case for calling in, or taking it to, a veterinary surgeon at once. If you cannot do this the only thing to do is to foment the swelling, but if the swelling is the protusion of any organ, you must call in a vet. Slightly moisten a piece of bread, biscuit, or plain cake with tepid water, so that as much powdered areca nut as will lie on a sixpence may adhere to same, or the moistened bread may be partly split and the areca nut placed in the centre; give three doses, with an interval of three days between each dose. The bird must be well fed up while this is going on, and ten drops of cod liver oil emulsion given daily, either direct to the mouth, or on bread, biscuit, or plain cake. It would be well to omit nuts from its dietary for the time being. The actual character of the swelling can only be determined by an examination of the bird. It would also be well to give half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water every other day, but you must not use a metal drinker while giving drugs. Supply its regular dietary, but do not give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever. If you have occasion to write again, state how you feed the bird and how long it has been with you.

AILING BLUE-FRONT (Miss M.D.).—The swelling should have immediate attention by a vet., who by the use of a lance could, most probably, give prompt relief. The bird will be better without the milk sop, and as soon as it can or will eat sufficient of the other foods, the sop should be discontinued; but, so long as you are giving it, put half a teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion in the daily supply. If you do not care to call in a vet., then soak into the boiled maize, every fourth day, one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia. Put into the drinking water every other day half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates. Also by some means put a little honey and borax into its mouth twice daily, and continue this, not merely till the swelling has gone, but till the mouth is quite clear of all sliminess. Under the above treatment, if this reply reaches you in time, the bird may gradually recover, but its cage should be cleansed daily, and it should be kept as warm as possible, and where the temperature will be fairly even. Report progress a month hence.

AILING LEMON-CREST (J.W.).—It is a difficult case, and if a vet. refuses to tackle it, it appears to be almost hopeless; but have you tried our Mr. Yates, or, if you care to send me a stamped addressed postcard, I will send you the address of a vet. who will undertake it if any good can be done. In the event of your continuing to try what can be done yourself, proceed as follows: Put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water as often as you can without keeping up a state of chronic diarrhœa, but the bowels must be kept moving quite freely. Continue to foment the swelling, and if it is quite hard, and the skin unbroken, paint with tincture of iodine twice a week, so long as the swelling keeps hard and skin sound. The fomenting should keep the swelling clean. On the days you do not give the magnesia, put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water. While the milk sop is necessary, put half a teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion into the daily supply. As soon as the swelling disappears gradually wean it from the sop. The bird should be kept warm, free from draught, and it would be better to remove the voidings at once, and burn them if possible. It would also be well to put a little honey and borax in the mouth several times each week, so as to keep the mouth and throat clear. Report with fullest details as soon as the swelling disappears.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

E. C. S Everard.—Thanks for your interesting communication.

Anxious G.B.—An aviary of the size you mention would hold about 50 small birds comfortably. If the position is sheltered, and the place protected against undue damp, there is no reason why a mixed assortment of Canaries, British and Foreign seed-eaters should not thrive therein. Send particulars of the place to our Foreign bird expert, Mr. Page (see Query rules) and he will give you a list of suitable species.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

THE WAXWING.

A charming bird distinguished by its black "bib," erectile crest, and coral-red, waxlike tippings to the inner wing feathers.

Our artist's drawing was made at the recent great Welsh National Show, and depicts the magnificent specimen exhibited by Messrs. Crawford Brothers, of Llanelly, which secured first prize. This Waxwing has also won first and special prize for best bird at Swansea and first at Tredegar Shows.

Not Singing

Wanted, a Trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special notice to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure; Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for getting birds in song and into breeding condition. They are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. A trial order will convince you of the wonderful results obtained from this medicine. W. Reid, Greenock, writes: "Your medicine has been a great sucess, for both my birds are now singing." G. Chappell, New Mills: "The Tonic Drops have worked wonders. I was astonished at the quick result." C. J. Roberts, Bayswater: "Your medicine for egg-binding is marvellous." Mr. Hatton, Atherton: "Your Tonic Drops are excellent. They have cured me four birds in soft moult. They are now in full song." For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is absolutely unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to all purchasers of our medicines.

STOREY'S ROLLERS

There is a lot of shout about strains and breeds. Some there is, and some there is not. What you want is a real good genuine trained songster, one that you can rely upon, a breed that has stood the test against all comers for the last twenty years, a class of Rollers that has merited the praise of every purchaser and all hearers. I have only a limited number for disposal. The quality and price are right. Just have one of my Rollers on approval and compare the quality of its song with some of the supposed champions, and keep the bird that gives you the most satisfaction. Storey's genuine trained St. Andreasburg or Hartz Rollers, cocks with full change of song by day or artificial light, price according to quality of song, cocks 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, a few extra good songsters 12/6 each. I have none of the common half-bred rubbish, but have a few classic hens, 1/9, 2/6, 3/- each. All birds on seven days' approval; neat travelling cages, 3d. each, 2/3 dozen. The old reliable firm and address: E. L. Storey, Crowle, Doncaster.

Patronise German Rollers. Real Hartz or Andreasburgs.

I only stock Real British and few Belgiums.

No German fancy names for ours. We are British. Having brought 200 finest bred Rollers in England, can offer from Foulds' championship strain, also others trained under Randall's and one of the best organs, price 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-; 100 trained, all guaranteed, and on approval, hens 2/6, 3/6; best lot Rollers in England; proper Roller box cages, enamelled sand drawer, etc., 2/-; with shutters, beauties, 3/-; established 50 years; thousands of testimonials; for proof write Editor, who has seen the originals. HARTZ CANARIES.

VOOGT'S STRAIN.

These birds are named after my collector in Holland. Last Friday, 19th, I received as follows:—

210 Cocks, Class III.
Nothing more. Nothing less.

By Saturday mid-day, 800 hens, 150 cocks were sold. This particular consignment arrived in very fair condition, and gave satisfaction. I am receiving on or about Saturday, 27th inst., a further consignment of hens, also Class I., II., III. cocks, at following prices. Hens, Class I., to match cocks of Class I., 3/- each; ordinary hens, 3/- for 2, in a wicker cage, 14 in 7 cages 15/-. Cocks, Class I., 12/- each. 7 in 7 cages, 60/-. These are birds with the waterbubble, Woodlark, and Nightingale notes, a soft sweet song of great beauty. Cocks, Class II., 7/6 each, 7 in 7 cages for 42/-. These are birds famous for their staying Powers, and very good value for money asked. Cocks, Class III., 6/6 each, 7 in 7 cages for 35/-. These are good, sound Hartz birds with good, strong song, being worth 7/6 each.

Kindly Note Terms.

Cash with order only. All orders despatched as I receive them; this ensures country customers receiving their birds first, irrespective of cash customers in London. No birds have been sent away to anyone in Great Britain without cash with order. Telephone 6341 Avenue.

The BULL-DOG STRAIN

The above strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of leading shows. My birds are winning consistently. For years they have been in the front rank, winning numerous champion trophies of the Specialist Clubs. I have also bred and sold birds that have won for my clients all over the country. Testimonials in proof of this are always open for the inspection of my visitors. There is no better blood in the Fancy. I am now offering a few pairs bred from these noted winners at above prices. Single birds, cocks or hens, at proportionate prices. Every bird is worth double. I have also a number of good birds from other well-known strains as follows: Smart Thick-set Cocks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Good Cobby Hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- per pair.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Grand lengthy Yorkshire Cocks, in perfect feather and condition, and on full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Erect racy Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6. Matched Breeding Pairs, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. EXHIBITION YORKSHIRES, bred from my own winners, and ready for immediate benching, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each upwards.

FEBRUARY, 1915. UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. FEBRUARY, 1915.

The following testimonials, in addition to scores of others (which are always open for the inspection of my visitors) have been received during February, 1915:—

"Paddock Street, Wigston Magna, Leicester.—I am very pleased with the pair of Norwich you sent me. I showed the buff cock at the All-England Show at Leicester and got extra 3rd in a class of 35 entries, and I took 2nd with him at a Leicestershire show last Saturday. I am only a novice. These are the first pair of good birds I have had and I think you have treated me very well.—G. E. Farmer to Joe Thomas."

"Wyke Regis, Weymouth.—We have done very well at our show. We got 1st and special for best bird in show with Yorkshire cock and 2nd with the bird you sent last year, also 1st and spl. in Norwich class with one of the birds you sent us.—J. W. Hunter to Joe Thomas."

"Willow Bank, Wick.—The Yorkshire cock I bought from you last year won 1st and spl. at the show here. Kindly send the following.—Wm. Manson to Joe Thomas."

"Heaton Street, Standish.—Roller arrived safe. It's a very nice singer. I shall know where to send when I want more.—W. A. Bibby to Joe Thomas."

Dover Street, Bolton. Roller arrived this morning. Was singing in less than 20 minutes. Very well satisfied.—Wm. Gradwell to Joe Thomas."

"South Street, Bargoed.—The Goldfinch Mule I had from you has turned out grand. I am very pleased with him.—W. Blewitt to Joe Thomas."

"Hilltown, Dundee.—Birds arrived safe. They are a splendid pair for the money. I shall always recommend you.—J. Sharp to Joe Thomas."

"Buckingham Street, Hull.—Bird arrived safe this morning in beautiful condition. Highly satisfied. He is a beauty.—H. Ablett to Joe Thomas."

ROLLERS, MULES, CRESTS, BORDER FANCIES, &c.

British Rollers, in full rolling song, will please anyone, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Hens, same pure strain, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-. Matched Pairs, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-.

OBITUARY.

MR. F. GREENWAY (Croydon).

It is with the deepest regret that we learn of the demise of that staunch old fancier, Mr. F. Greenway, on Feb. 15, after a long illness. Mr. Greenway was a man of genial disposition, and made many friends in the Fancy, who will be grieved to hear that he has passed away. He was a most regular visitor to, and worker at, the Crystal Palace and other shows, and a keen exhibitor of British birds, also a loyal and highly respected member of the London and Provincial O.S.

MR. ALEX. BEGBIE (Edinburgh).

It is with the deepest regret, writes Mr. James Napier, sec. Colinton and Currie Parishes O.S., that I have to announce the death of our worthy president, Mr. Alexander Begbie. He died on 17th inst. at Longston, Slateford, after a long illness, at the ripe old age of sixty-four, and I am sure all fanciers who knew him in Scotland will join with me and the members of my society in tendering to his sorrowing widow and family their deepest sympathy in their hour of sorrow. Mr. Begbie had been a breeder of Scotch Fancies for the past thirty years, and was well known all over Scotland as a keen fancier of the Bird of Circle, and also as a judge of that variety. Shortly before his death he was preparing for the forthcoming breeding season.

We have been notified of the following additional changes of secretaryship: Torbay O.S., Messrs. W. Wyatt, 3, Croft Park Terr., Paignton, and W. Hodge, Beaufort, Corsham Rd., Paignton, in place of J. N. and J. Jeffery; Burnley C.B.S., Mr. J. Moorhouse, 102, Nairne St., Burnley, in place of Mr. G. Wharton.

All records were broken at the City and Suburban A.C.B. Pairs Show on Feb. 24, writes Mr. V. Wynn, the hon. sec. We had the magnificent total of 303 entries—201 pairs and 102 British and Foreign birds. Norwich champion class 20, amateur 22, novice 17; Yorkshire champion 24, novice 36; Border champion 28. These were the six biggest classes.

Will you kindly mention in columns of CAGE BIRDS, writes Mr. J. N. Jeffery, that I have been compelled to resign the secretaryship of the Torbay O.S., as my two sons, Jack and Will, have enlisted for duration of war, and I am unable to spare the necessary time owing to pressure of business. I also am reducing my stock through the same cause.

The annual open show of the Coventry O.S. is fixed for Oct. 16, and Wallsend, Mid-Tyne C.B.S., for Nov. 6. Other secs. kindly note, to avoid clashing.

It is with regret, writes Mr. E. Norton, hon. sec. Leeds C.B.S., that we hear Mr. C. E. Hall has entered the Leeds General Infirmary to undergo treatment. Mr. Hall is well known in Yorkshire Union circles as a very prominent exhibitor at the shows. He has been in poor health for some time past, and I am sure all fanciers will wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

To Breeders of Peacocks.

We learn that Mrs. W. Durrant, of Elmswell, Bury St. Edmunds, is wishing to dispose of her noted stud of Peafowl. The flock consists of birds of various ages, and of both sexes, and an excellent opportunity presents itself to readers desirous of obtaining high-class specimens. Full particulars may be had from Mrs. Durrant at the above address.

Blackbird's Nest Under a Cart.

A Blackbird's nest, containing five grown young birds, was found built in a box underneath a spring cart at Sheffield, on Feb. 20. The vehicle belongs to Mr. John Eccles, a well-known tradesman. It is presumed that the bird must have been hatching her young ones while the cart was daily running about. The mother and her feathered family were left undisturbed.

How Fancie s Help.

As a result of the recent members' show of the Deal and Walmer F.A., a sum of £7 was handed over in aid of the Prince of Wales's Fund, and £14 to the local Belgian Refugee's Fund. Last year the local hospital benefited to the extent of seven guineas from the proceeds of the show, so that no less than £28 7s. has been disbursed by this body of bird-lovers for charitable purposes in two seasons.

A Swift in January!

Second-Lieutenant St. B. Goldsmith, writes to "The Field" that a Swift was seen on January 7th flying over a house near Farnham in the direction of Bordon Camp! The editor remarks that the latest recorded date he has of the Swift is October 25, so that the occurrence of one in January is, so far as he is aware, unprecedented, and the more surprising on account of the absence of insects in the air at this time of the year.

The Fateful Birds.

A remarkable series of premonitions of disaster attended the last voyage of the Belle Vue (captured and scuttled by the Kronprinz Wilhelm) according to Able-seaman Baker, who has just been landed at Liverpool. The Belle Vue left Liverpool on Saturday, November 14. On November 18 two Seagulls flew on board, and the sailors caught them, but afterwards set them free. One sailor said it was a sign of capture. On November 30 the sailors saw bad signs in the moon, and on December 4, at four o'clock in the morning, a Blackbird flew aboard and alighted on the top of the "diddley." This served absolutely to convince the crew that they were "in for it." At 5.30 the look-out man reported a vessel on the starboard beam, and at seven o'clock the vessel came close and proved to be the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

A Thoughtful Sparrow!

Owing to the loudness of its song its owner used to hang up her Canary in its cage in the trees in her garden. She noticed one day a Sparrow fly to the cage, and, standing on the top of it, began twittering to the Canary. By-and-by it flew away, but promptly returned with a worm, which it dropped through the wires for its newly-found friend. It continued to be thus civil day by day until the Canary would receive the worm directly from the Sparrow's bill. The lady's neighbours, observing this interesting display of courtesy, also hung up their cages, and were gratified to see the Sparrow attend to their birds too, but it always made a point of ministering to the wants of its earliest chum first. (This delightfully ridiculous paragraph is taken from the "Shields Daily Gazette."—Editor, "C.B.")

Work of the Wounded Allies Relief Committee.

The Committee was established on the outbreak of war for the Relief of Wounded Allies. It works in the closest co-operation with the British and Allied Governments. It has arranged for several thousands of wounded Belgians in hospitals and homes in various parts of England and Scotland, and Hospitals have also been equipped by the Committee at London, Hastings, Ramsgate and in the West Riding. In addition, support is being extended to institutions at Paris, Calais, Dunkirk, Furnes, Limoges and Nevers. Further, through its means thousands of soldiers have been brought into touch with their families and much valuable aid has been given.

The Committee is now arranging accommodation for convalescents on leaving hospital. A Motor ambulance unit has been organised, and is now on service at the Front with the Belgian Army. The work done in Hospitals immediately behind the firing line is now proved to be vital, and demands special help and extension. Dressing stations are required immediately behind the trenches. Severely injured men can thus be saved, the effects of grave wounds can be lessened in severity, and much suffering prevented.

For wounded who have lost a limb or are otherwise physically unfit to continue military service the Committee desire to provide homes where they may be trained and suitably employed, and supplied with artificial limbs and surgical appliances. The Wounded Allies' Relief Committee is now faced with great responsibilities. No other representative organisation offers to assist the sick, wounded, convalescent and crippled soldiers of all Allies. It is a great task, but with the co-operation of generous subscribers, the Committee intends to undertake it. In order to meet these great needs, which are bound to increase, the Wounded Allies' Relief Committee appeals at once for a sum of £100,000, to be spent in the immediate work of the relief of the sick and wounded of our gallant Allies. Early contributions towards the amount will be gratefully received by the honorary treasurer to the Fund, T. O. Roberts, Esq. (Manager, London County and Westminster Bank, Temple Bar Branch), 217, Strand, London, W.C.

Singing Contests.

CASTLEFORD.

Linnet contest, Feb. 20. 34 birds were hung for 4 minutes' time singing. 1, Morley, 122 secs.; 2, Wainwright, 107; 3, Williams, 94. Also Feb. 21. 1, Morley; 2, Wainwright; 3, Caddy.—S. Morley.

PONTEFRACT.

The Shows.

WINNIPEG C.B.S.

Show, Dec. 16; the third show held under the auspices of the Society, and the most successful. The entry of 125 birds was better than generally expected. Yorks. and Nor. were very strong, and were the centre of interest. In British the entry was better than last show, and included Goldfinch, Chaffinch, Siskin and Goldfinch Mule, the last mentioned being a very fine all-round bird, and finally winning the miniature cup for best bird. A large number of people visited the show during the evening and many comments were heard as to the excellency of the different birds. Mr. A. Roberts, judge, did his work quickly, and to the general satisfaction; he had hard work, as there were some very strong classes.

GUISELEY, YEADON C.B.S.

Members' show, Feb. 6, Church Institute, Guiseley, in aid of the local Belgian Distress Fund. The show was opened by Lady Peel, Park Gate, Guiseley, Councillor J. A. Rhodes, chairman, before a crowded audience. Mr. P. Mason, Shipley, judged, members putting down 100 birds, and his awards gave entire satisfaction. Thanks are due to the members, and especially the Sec., Mr. W. Rose, for the work done for the show. As a result, the sum of ten guineas has been handed over to the Belgian Distress Fund, and the society thanks Mr. Mason for kindly giving his services free on behalf of the fund.

PRESTON O.S.

26th annual show, Nov. 21, Maudland Institute, with over 100 entries. The quality of the birds exhibited and the smart manner in which they were staged augurs well for the future of the Society in more prosperous times. The room is a well-lighted one, and the committee are to be congratulated on its acquisition for the next open show. Mr. A. Hirst, Accrington, judged. There was keen competition for the cups, the Stanley Cup being won again by a novice, Mr. Catterall, the winning bird soon changing hands at a good figure. H. E. Marsh won the "P.O.S. Cup" for most points with four birds, and J. Knowles the "Osbaldeston Cup" for most points in novice; Mr. Howarth won "P.O.S. Novice Cup"; Mr. W. H. Cotham the "Blackhurst Cup."

Second interclub show of the Stoke, Longton, Hanley, and Burslem Societies, at Burslem, Dec. 12, New Inn; the showroom is a very fine one, and would be hard to beat. Entries totalled 224, and quality was most creditable. Norwich were not so numerous as expected, but Yorks. were a feature of the show, classes being well filled with birds of excellent quality. British came up well, and proved a great attraction. Mr. W. Yates judged Norwich, Mr. H. Tams British, Mr. J. Pitchford Yorks., Mr. J. Tomlinson Rollers.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

Show, Dec. 5, Bayshill Lecture Hall, a very good building for the purpose. This year the show was confined to members and local competition. The committee are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts, a total of 200 entries being a capital response, and the quality of the very best. Most of the winners would have given a good account of themselves in the strongest competition. The exhibits were nicely staged, the room kept at a nice temperature, and the exhibits had every attention bestowed upon them. With Mr. A. S. Treasure as hon. sec., and Mr. W. Pounsett show manager, everything was carried out in perfect order. Their energies were only equalled by their courteousness. Mr. J. H. Payne judged.

BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

12th annual show, Co-operative Hall, Nov. 22; a great success, about 260 entries; quality was much better than in other years, particularly in Yorkshire and British. Norwich were not quite so numerous, but some very useful birds were staged. In Yorks. section points specials were won by Messrs. Lott, Greatrex, Morton; Nor., Stott, Cooper, Caine; Yorks., Green., Browse, Cooper, Benson, and Young, Barr; Brit., Walton, Philips, Barker; A.O.V., Cooper; sp. best bird and best unflighted Yorks. yell., Hodgkins unflighted buff, Browse; Yorks. green, Barr; Nor., Stott. The novices also staged some grand birds, Mr. Carran winning special for best bird with a grand conditioned Chaffinch. Novice specials were also won by Messrs. Barr, Philips, and Simmons. The gate was good, many of the Liverpool fanciers visiting us. Much of the success of the show is due to the good specials presented by Messrs. Grundy, Browse, Cooper, Mealor, Caine and Lilwall. Mr. W. A. Cowgil judged, and his awards gave satisfaction to all.

FALKIRK (Good Intent).

Annual show, Auction Mart, on Dec. 12. There was a total entry of 280, fairly good, considering the Society has lost about a score of members owing to the war. Quality was of a high standard. Spl. best Nor. was won by J. Marshall with a grand cl. yell. ck. of exceptional merit; best young Bord., J. Reid, nice buff hen, shown in the pink; B.F.C.C. medal R. Gentleman, clinking cinn. buff ck., also medal for best Brit., with a colour-fed Greenf. of immense size and substance, beautifully staged. The foreign bird class had an entry of 12 and was a real treat. Mr. P. Arnott had forward a grand team and secured medal for best with charming Long-tailed Whydah in superb plumage. The show was well managed by a very capable committee of fanciers. Mr. Walter Clarkson was again in charge of the secretarial work, and right well he did it. Judges: Norwich, Mr. Buchan, Falkirk; Bord. and Brit., Mr. G. Brown; Leith.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

MY BIRDROOM MONTH BY MONTH.

By A MIDLAND BIRDLOVER.

I DO not claim to set forth here the ideal method of bird-keeping, but simply tell you the method I have adopted and found very successful in keeping my pets in the best of health. The secrets of success in bird-keeping—if secrets I may be allowed to call them—are cleanliness and moderation in feeding.

The first week in January I turn my birds into two large flights; the hens in one, cocks in the other. This is of great benefit to the birds and improves their stamina in readiness for the strain of the breeding season. Any of the birds which seem to be getting too forward I at once put on a plain diet; I also give a purgative in the drinking water. Epsom salts or Glauber's salts may be used. I prefer the latter as it is somewhat milder in action, and also stimulates the liver.

I give a crystal of sulphate of iron in the drinking water this month, as it prevents the birds becoming loose in feather. In place of green food I give a piece of apple or boiled carrot. The seed diet for the month is canary as a staple with a teaspoonful of soaked rape twice a week, while if the weather is severe I give a pinch of hemp and maw, as my birds are in a cold room.

FEBRUARY is my spring cleaning month. The walls of the birdroom are limewashed, as well as the cages, and cages and staging are thoroughly disinfected; also all feeding, nesting and drinking appliances cleansed. I give the bath a little more frequently during this month, but not if the weather is very severe. The birds are still allowed to obtain as much exercise as possible and I do not alter my method of feeding as yet.

MARCH: During this month out comes my breeding register, and I select my birds for breeding. After careful consideration of bad and good points, I decide how the birds are to be paired. The hens are placed in the breeding cages and given a pinch of inga (or niga) seed twice weekly. After the first week I begin to give egg food. The cocks are "fed up." I begin by giving a small amount of mixed seed twice per week, and I gradually work them on to egg food until it is given three times each week. Green food I provide every other day. I do not mate up this month, leaving it until about the first or second week in April.

When Mating is Completed,

APRIL: I give the birds a plentiful supply of cuttlefish, the hens especially. Any birds not in high condition by this time I give a little more stimulating food, also a leaf of dandelion daily. Mating is completed in my room generally about the second week. The claws and beaks of my birds are trimmed, if necessary. I drop the egg food as soon as the birds go to nest until the chicks arrive. I give the bath daily should the weather be favourable, not forgetting to add a few drops of essence of quassia occasionally, say every week. The birds which are not for breeding I, of course, do not allow to have the rich diet of the other birds; their food is plain canary seed and plenty of green food.

MAY: If I have had luck I see a fair number of chicks by this. While the hens are sitting their diet is plain canary and a small amount of green food, with a pinch of rape once or twice during the week. On the night of the thirteenth day I give a small quantity of egg food, using the yolk of the egg only. The next morning what thrills we have if the youngsters have arrived safe and sound! Egg food I now give twice daily—½ teaspoonful pure yolk of egg the first and second days; the third day I mix one-third ground Osborne biscuit with it. The fourth day I add the white of the egg. Green food is given after the second day. When the young are five days old the bath is given as usual. Cracked hemp and soaked rape I give after they are five days; do not make large quantities at once, as it may become sour.

If mother is good I do not move the youngsters too early, and when they are moved I take great care to see that they can feed themselves properly. After ten days the young are given a clean nest (or before, if required) the nest being sprinkled liberally with Keating's powder. Quassia (essence) is put in the bath occasionally. I take great precautions against that pest of bird-keepers, the red mite; the ends of the perches and all joints and cracks of the cage being brushed with petroleum. Let the room always be flooded with fresh air. I consider it one of my most valuable allies. Care is needed, however, that the birds (especially the young) should not be exposed to a draught.

JUNE: My treatment is practically the same as in the preceding month. When the young are capable of feeding themselves, I give canary seed as a staple diet, with a little rape twice a week. Green food is given every day, and sometimes I vary the egg food with a little bread and milk. Allow the youngsters unlimited exercise. Proper diet, and plenty of fresh air and exercise, have made many birds into champions.

In my next I hope to complete the twelve months' work in the bird room, and if this article is of any use to beginners it will have answered its purpose. I wish to warn the beginner not to be too eager and pair his birds up too early. During February and early March there are many mild days, and the temptation is very great to mate your birds. This has brought disaster to and disheartened many a first year man. I never reckon to mate my birds until early in April.

CLEANLINESS AND FRESH AIR AS HELPS TO SUCCESS.

By A. HINSON (Birmingham).

HAVING been a breeder of Canaries for over twenty years, I think I am in a position to appreciate the value of thorough cleanliness in the bird-room. The birds should have a plentiful supply of pure fresh air, for just as the fresh air of the country braces up the man who is all day long confined in a stuffy room, so does a plentiful supply of fresh air increase the vitality and health of your birds.

I have fixed to the top and bottom edges of the bird-room window narrow strips of gauze (or wire) netting one inch wide. This allows the window to be open night and day, while preventing mice obtaining an entry into the room. My window is left open winter and summer, and I have no heating appliance. I use a lamp to enable me to see to feed the birds in the winter months, but this is left on only about an hour each evening.

Dealing with the Cages.

I use large, roomy cages, allowing the birds plenty of exercise, the value of which cannot be over-estimated. Each cage is lime-washed with strong lime twice, and sometimes three times, yearly, a month before breeding time, and also following the breeding period. The cage fronts and perches are brushed over with lamp oil, and also the cages before being lime-washed. The sand-trays must not be forgotten, and should be given a coat of paraffin, as Master Red-mite dearly loves the edges of the trays as a place to make his home.

I am convinced that a number of birdy men do not give enough attention to the seed and water vessels. They should be thoroughly washed out in warm water about once a month, especially the water fountains, which are apt to get a slimy coating on their inner surface.

Whether sawdust or sand should be used on the trays has been up for discussion many times. Each has its advantages, but I pin my faith to sand, except during the breeding season, when I use sawdust, as it tends to break the fall of any of the youngsters that get "turned out of home," while many an egg has been saved from breakage by the layer of sawdust on the tray.

Keep Down Their Fat.

The birds should be given a good plain diet and not overfed. Fatness I always think lowers the vitality of a bird; result, it falls a prey to the first disease that comes its way.

During the breeding season great care should be taken that the nest-boxes do not become foul. I prefer the wooden ones, with the perforated zinc bottoms. They may be given a good coat of hot lime-wash, which renders them clean and sanitary, and there is also a good passage of air right through the nest, which is a great advantage.

In closing, the following rules may be of use to the beginner in this fascinating pastime: (1) A plentiful supply of fresh air; (2) clean, roomy cages; (3) good seed (poor seed is cheap at a gift; (4) never get the birds too fat; (5) encourage bathing; (6) remember always the old saying "Cleanliness is next to Godliness."

NOTES ON THE FINCH FAMILY.

By W. VALE, F.Z.S. ETC., (South Norwood).

Author of "The Science of Living," Manuals of Canary, Poultry, etc., Diseases. "How to Feed Canaries," etc.

The family of Finches is a very extensive one, including the Canary, a very favourite household pet. It also includes that omnivorous rascal the Sparrow (Passer domesticus) which fulfils the Darwinian theory of the survival of the fittest in its great adaptablity to its environments. Originally it constructed its nest in branches of trees, where it is seldom found now. The Sparrow is the most omnivorous of his tribe, and this is very probably due to a great extent to its living mostly near to the habitations of mankind. Now it prefers a nest in the thatch of a house, or other building, or in a snug hole or crevice in the neighbourhood of the roof of a building of some kind, and it is not over honest in the selection of a nesting place. If it can get the opportunity it will take forcible possession of the nest of a Redstart, House Martin, or even of one of its own kind.

Like all the Finch family, the Sparrow has a sharp and a strong beak which is specially adapted for breaking open and tearing the husks of grain and seeds, and also disbudding trees. If currant and gooseberry bushes are not protected by netting during the early part of the year the crop of fruit will be hardly worth gathering, more especially should there be a spell of inclement weather with the earth frozen, or covered with a fall of snow after the buds of the trees have began to develop.

Good in Even the Sparrow.

However, the Sparrow has its good points, that is it does a great amount of good, like all its tribe, by devouring insects, their larvæ, and eggs. I am certain, were the Sparrow exterminated, it would be sadly missed, and in some cases the sight of it has a cheering effect. When I was carried on shore ill more than fifty-four years back in Scinde, seeing the ubiquitous rascal there quite cheered me up, it being as it were a connecting link with the dear homeland.

There are many persons who condemn the keeping of birds in confinement, where they require very careful and kind attention, but when given it there is hardly any reason for supposing that birds are not as contented as those at liberty, except in the case of those recently caught. They are, taking all the circumstances into account, certainly better placed, that is, when they are suitably managed and kindly treated. By kindly treated is meant being taken notice of and talked to, and it is very erroneous to suppose that they do not very greatly appreciate such treatment. Just a little consideration should make it very evident that birds so kept are on the whole much better off than their fellows in a wild state. It certainly is the case in Great Britain, where they have to contend at times with very inclement weather such as must cause great misery, and in very many cases death by starvation, more especially when they are in misery for want of water. Birds will die off much quicker when they are without water than when they are without food, therefore keepers of any kind of birds in confinement should be very careful to see that they are not ever left without water, and more especially during the prevalence of a rather high temperature.

Were it not that caged birds properly treated are as contented, except perhaps in some cases in the breeding season, as those living in a wild state with natural environments, there would still remain the following justifiable reasons for keeping them so. They brighten lives in many homes, and make life much more tolerable for very many sufferers who do not ever have the chance of seeing birds in their natural environments, or of hearing our feathered songsters in their favourite haunts. It is these human sufferers who would be likely to be the most grieved if they thought that they were causing suffering to their pets

In these articles it is my intention to point out that which, in my opinion, appears to be the best method of managing the Canary, and other caged birds. In the first place it is necessary to allow them as much room as is convenient, and very advisable not to keep them in very small cages. It is also very necessary to keep their habitation in a clean condition, and more especially free from parasites.

It is well-known that birds living in a wild state wash in water, or wallow in dust, and then preen their plumage in order to rid themselves of parasites. The parasite which is by far the most injurious to caged birds is the so-called "red mite." This is of a greyish colour, but becomes reddish when gorged with the blood of the creature on which it has preyed. It lives and breeds mostly in the crevices of cages, or in those in furniture, or walls in the neighbourhood of the cage, from which crevices it mostly sallies forth at night in search of some creature to prey upon. Like all the spider family it is extremely voracious, and soon becomes very numerous in infested places, living on the life blood of the creature attacked.

The poor subject soon becomes anæmic, and if not relieved of its tormentors soon dies of exhaustion due to loss of blood and irritation. When it is noticed that a bird is not thriving, it is advisable to take steps to ascertain whether its condition is in any measure due to being infested by "red mites," which may be done by placing a folded white cloth over the cage last thing at night, and then if any of the parasites harbour in the neighbourhood of the cage, some would be found in the folds of the cloth in the morning.

BIRDS IN THE GARDEN.

An "Ancient Inhabitant's" View of the Matter.

THE good and the bad accomplished by birds in the fruit and vegetable gardens have furnished a text for many an argument. In his book, "A Countryside Chronicle," Mr. S. L. Bensusan amusingly sets forth the view of an ancient villager, known as "Father William," in whom the birds have an implacable enemy.

"Father William, did you hear that Blackbird singing in your pear tree?"

"Aye, I heerd th' varmint. 'Mazin' lot o' they birds about th' garden, an' I count 'em a wunnerful pleg."

The old man, on being remonstrated with for having caught a Blackbird in his trap, says, "Lor' love ye, I were always a wunnerful trapper. . . . . I've caught a might o' birds an' varmints in me time. I'm a pore old man, in me nineties, an' I'm tellin' ye th' truth, an' I'll set th' trap agen, an' catch ye another o' they if ye like, or chance times a Mavis. There's a lot o' they, an' werry fat they be. Love ye, I'm allus a'catchin' o' somethin', an' that's th' truth. An' werry good eatin' too, an' no mistake, if ye've them what'll pluck 'em an' cook 'em f'r ye tasty. I can't do ut now, an' it ain't no good f'r me to try."

"Father William," I said, "how would you like this place if no birds came here at all; if you had caught everything—the Sparrows and Starlings in the thatch, the Swallows under the porch, the Blackbirds, Thrushes, Finches, and the rest of them? How would you care for the place then?"

"That'd be 'mazing' fine, to be sure," he said. "If I didn't 'ave none o' they varmints fleckin' my pears, an' tearin' out th' lettuces, an' stealin' me currants an' makin' me buy nettin', I'd 'ave th' best wegetables in th' parish without warkin' as I do for 'em. . . ."

"Truthfully," I said, "don't you care for the birds' song?"

"Ye can't grow peas an' lettuces an' wegetables o' other sorts wi' songs, nor currants neither. But there, there's no 'splainin' to ye. I'm tired o' trvin' to make yo understand gardenin'. Birds is more to ye than wegetables, an' I can't understand it, no more can't the shepherd. . . An' if ye thought more of an ole man what's in 'is ninety, there'd be less time to bother about they birds—and' that 'nd be better f'r ye, an' better f'r me, and' it'd make no difference to they."

Correspondence.

From a Fancier Interned in Holland.

Sir,—Please accept our most heartfelt thanks for your kind letter and splendid gift of papers and "Our Canaries," which I received to-night. What a splendid book, and, needless to say, my mates and myself were overjoyed when I opened the parcel. They all voted the Editor of good old Cage Birds a jolly good fellow. After looking through the book, I have come to the conclusion that we will know vastly more about the management of our birds after leaving Holland than we ever did before. I thank you again for your kindness.

Is Mixed Seed as Bad as a Disease?

Sir,—I should like to ask Mr. Balcombe a few questions. He says many birds are lost yearly through over-feeding. Well, I have lost many birds after keeping them for about twelve months. I could not make out what was the matter with them, as they were in a good plump condition. (1) How does he feed his birds—when moulting does he give them mixed seeds then, or plain canary and plenty of wild seeds; or plain canary alone? (2) How does he feed at present, and during the summer? What I mean is, does he give his birds any wild seed mixtures, once or twice a week, along with the canary seed? (3) Does he think that groundsel is harmful if given freely? I have been told that it causes inflammation on account of it containing a lot of moisture. I should like Mr. Balcombe to understand that I am talking mostly about the Goldfinch and Linnet, as I have found they are the most delicate when newly bought. I hope others will give their ideas.

John Knight.

Mice and Rats in Aviaries.

Sir,—I don't agree with Mr. J. E. M. Knight that mice do not injure birds. They have killed and eaten three of my birds in a month. I know it is mice, for my birds are kept at the top of the house in a room, no rats about, only mice, and the remains of the birds are always found inside the cages. Some birds roost on the bottom perch, close to the cage bottom; that is how they get to them. I found one completely eaten, with the exception of the skull and a few feathers. I know perfectly well it is mice; so how does Mr. Knight account for that?

B. J. G.

Sir, I lost some birds in. I thought, the same way. Mine were in ordinary Canary cages in a shed in the garden, and a Goldfinch, Bullfinch and Linnet were killed. I thought at first it was rats, but when I found the Bullfinch lying dead in his cage, and not taken away, like the other two birds, I set a steel trap inside the cage and left the dead Bullie for bait. Two days later I caught the culprit. It was a weasel. I should think that Mr. W. Bennett and Mr. R. Maxwell Savage lost their birds in the same way. I have seen plenty of mice in my cages, but they never interfere with the birds.

A. Bellairs.

Sir,—I note that your correspondents, Mr. J. E. M. Knight and Madam A. Feist-Madewell, are in agreement that mice are practically harmless to birds, and the former, whilst believing that they frighten and disturb the birds, thinks they never attack them. A few years ago I had a pet Canary which I kept in an open wire singing cage, with wood sides not less than 3½ins. high. This bird usually stood almost within reach of my hand. Several times the perches in this cage were found to be blood-stained in the morning, evidently from the bird's toes, but with nothing to account for the injury. Knowing this cage had a mouse visitor I watched it closely for a time, and on one occasion, in the very early morning, when the mouse had climbed up and entered the cage—the seed-box being placed inside—the bird roused itself, descended to the perch before the seed-box, and began to squeak at the mouse, challenging its right to be in the box. The mouse at once accepted the challenge, rose up and fought at the bird in a very business-like way, and actually gripped its breast feathers, the position of the perch placing the combatants in close proximity. The bird beat a hasty retreat, but it was clear how the slight injuries to its toes had come about on previous occasions. This is only a single experience of several similar, which have come within my personal observation, so your correspondents must see that the mouse is not quite so innocuous in all circumstances as may appear to them. The species in question was the common (house) mouse beyond a shadow of doubt. The wires in the cage were not more than 3-8th ins. apart, but the mouse, a medium sized one, passed through them quite easily. This again is contrary to the opinion of one of the writers concerning the size of mesh which will keep them out.

Claude St. John.

Several other letters on this subject will appear next week.

If You Want to Know the Time

Consult a "Cage Birds" Watch.

Sir,—I received Cage Birds watch all right on Feb. 16, and I have it well tested by this time. I find it very accurate in keeping time, indeed I must congratulate you on offering such a splendid time-keeper. It does you credit, and dear old Cage Birds. It is a watch that no bird fancier should be without, particularly the working man fancier. You will be parting with a good many of them about here, I am sure, for I will do my best to make them known amongst my brother fanciers, as I am well satisfied with my bargain.

F. Murray.

Affairs of the Yorkshire Canary Club of Scotland.

Sir,—I, as President of the S.Y.C.C., am interested (not otherwise) in these letters from "One Less" and "A Member." To "A Member's" letter one thing might be added, that at the last Scottish National Show a class was given by that society to novice exhibitors of Yorkshires, and it contained four entries—three exhibitors—and not a S.Y.C.C. member at that. Really that was very encouraging for the Y.C.C. to ever think of opening up novice classes at patronage shows. However, I am sure the S.Y.C.C. will willingly do their best for novice classes immediately they find it justified. Personally I would do all I could to support such an object by giving a good special. Novices who have the Fancy at heart might attend the meetings, and the S.Y.C.C. will carefully consider any proposals made, but as you all know business of this kind cannot be adjusted through the columns of Cage Birds.

"One Less" believes the S.Y.C.C. the only club in the United Kingdom that does not give novice classes. Look to our neighbour, the S.N.P.C.; no such classes as novice are compulsory to obtain that club's patronage. Any novice classes at shows are usually inserted in schedule by club holding the show and not by a specialist club. However, there may be exceptions, but the S.Y.C.C. is not the only specialist club not demanding novice classes (as believed by "One Less").

"One Less" refers to the S.Y.C.C. as a "One Man Club," meaning, of course, that the majority of the specials were won by myself. This constitutes a "One Man Club," according to "One Less." Still, when all is said and done, it is the birds that win the specials, and although these birds have done extra well amongst the S.Y.C.C. exhibitors. I have only to point out to "One Less" the last Scottish National Show, and he will see there that they are by no means unbeatable, so it is possible for "One Less" to get a few like these, and then perhaps it would be a club composed of two or more men.

The suggestions of "One Less" at the end of his last letter fall also to be discussed (if necessary) at the meetings of the S.Y.C.C. The manner in which "One Less" would arrange the specials is in my mind excellent, only there is another side to the question. These specials are given by members at their own discretion, and when a member gives a gold medal value £1 1s., he does not hand it to the "One Man" Club and tell him he can place it where he chooses. No, he has more sense, and defines what it is for. Personally, if giving such a special I would like to say what it was for, and would be delighted to hand such for competition amongst novices, if I thought it would be competed for in earnest.

Regarding the judges, the S.Y.C.C. have no power whatever to select or place judges; this is done by societies applying for the patronage. The suggestion of "One Less" to adopt the Yorkshire Union standard cage might be a step in the right direction. There are many Union standard cages in Scotland at the present time, but when on the show bench look different owing to other details being neglected, i.e., perches not the standard, drinkers painted outside and inside, sand, seed, sawdust, etc., in bottoms of cages. If only "One Less" would attend our meetings this matter could be more fully discussed, and his views might be of assistance to the Y.C.C. He must be a member before any notice can be taken of him (except where he likes to attack individuals), so my last words through the press to "One Less" are, that any business anent the S.Y.C.C., no matter what it be, will be only considered at the usual meetings of that club, the proper place for same.

An Early Hatch of Yorkshires.

Sir,—I am pleased to tell you that I had two nests of Yorkshires hatch out on Friday last, Feb. 19, four young in each. They are going on well. Is this not very early for a cold room?

Why Not an Irish National Show?

Sir,—We have had a Scottish National, a Welsh National, and a Bradford National Show, why not an Irish National Show? At the present time there is not an open show held in Ireland. What are the Irish fanciers thinking of? It could be arranged for the next show season, so as not to clash with any of the big events in England or Scotland. The question arises: Is it the Dublin or the Belfast fanciers who are going to hold the Irish National Show, and earn the gratitude of hundreds of fanciers who will then have a chance of seeing the champion birds of Great Britain, not on paper, but in real life?

How Should Cups be Awarded?

Sir,—Now that the show season is drawing to a close, I would like to offer a few comments on the way cups, etc., are put up for competition in the Liverpool district. There seems to be only one way, and that to my mind not a very good one. Local societies offer cups for the most points throughout the year. This way may be all right for fanciers with deep pockets and others who go in for Canary farming, but to my mind the small fancier with a few good birds has not got a ghost of a chance. Not only that, but I maintain it defeats the end for which cups are presented—that is, for the improvement of the various varieties of Canaries, etc. For instance, a fancier is keen on winning a cup, and he knows the more birds he shows the better his chance of winning, so he puts forty or fifty down at a show. He may not get many first or second cards, but he succeeds in gaining a great many minor awards, which bring his points fairly high. Another fancier, who may not have a very large stud, puts down seven or eight birds. Most of his birds are in the money, but his chance of winning the cup is practically nil. I consider the second fancier is doing more towards the improvement of our feathered pets than the first. To give every fancier an equal chance the cups competed for should always remain the property of the society, and a gold medal be presented to the holder of cup for the year, when he returns same. As regards the form of competition, each member should be allowed to star six birds at each show for the cup, so that quality, not quantity, would get the honours. I can imagine some of my fellow-fanciers saying "But what about the drop in the entry fees?" I would say entry fees are not the all-in-all of a society. Friendly competition and an equal chance to all would tend to raise rather than lower show entries. I shall be pleased if other fanciers will express their views in a friendly manner.

The Heavily-Marked Norwich Class at the Welsh National Show.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Henry J. Davis, I may say first of all that I noted with a good deal of astonishment the remarks of Mr. H. Norman in respect to the "heavily marked" Norwich class at the recent Welsh National show. For this esteemed gentleman to spend a considerable amount of time during the Friday and Saturday in conversation with the officials, judges (including myself), and fanciers generally, and to then depart from Cardiff without being apparently in possession of what was really common knowledge amongst the Plainhead fanciers present respecting Class 29, is to declare that it was really he, and not I, who was caught napping. 'Tis unfortunate, for here was an incident which might properly have been conveyed to the Fancy generally through the medium of a reporter, and unnecessary correspondence and misgivings avoided.

The facts are that immediately my stewards arranged Class 29 for judging, I noticed three exhibits did not conform to the schedule description which read "exhibits to be more dark than light." I pondered the situation, and a perusal of the classification revealed the fact that a class for "variegated" birds proper had not been provided. It seemed to me that the owners of the three exhibits under this unusual circumstance would naturally expect some leniency, and as I had reason to think the omission was an unfortunate oversight, and had not been realised by the management, I decided to place the matter before the Chairman, Mr. E. J. Banks, and Show Manager, Mr. W. Sampson. Both gentlemen agreed with me that the better course seemed to be in allowing the three birds to compete, as being quite the lesser of two evils. I offer no apologies to anyone for my action, the full responsibility for which I accept, and will add that when placed in a like situation I shall not fail to consult other brains than my own, and be guided by the councils of gentlemen who, in holding the balance, are ever ready to weigh down one side for the benefit of the Fancy generally, not being actuated by other than the broadest motives.

In conclusion, I must say that if I accept the attitude of Mr. J. Houghton after hearing the explanation (who also considerably suffered by my seeming oversight) as any criterion of the disposition of exhibitors generally, then I have nothing to fear, for he accepted my decision as a fancier, a gentleman, and a sportsman. I have not had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Mr. Davis, but nevertheless I am hopeful that after this explanation he, too, will accept the affair in the same generous way as others, and extend to me the indulgence I crave; for if I have erred (and the Fancy must judge if I have) then it has I think been in the direction of the greatest good, for I have been assured that no more shall so unfortunate an incident arise regarding this class at the Cardiff shows, inasmuch as the variegated Norwich will be duly provided for. Therefore, whilst the Fancy generally, including myself, will sympathise with Mr. Davis in his unfortunate experience, every Plainhead fancier will, I am sure, join with me in wishing him better luck next time.

E. W. Allsopp.

[So far as our representative Mr. Norman is concerned we, of course, leave the answer to him. No one will question the motives of Mr. Allsopp and the chairman and show manager in their endeavours to find a way out of a difficulty, but they appear to have overlooked the legal aspect of the matter. The conditions laid down in a schedule form the basis of a contract between exhibitors and show officials. In this case the wording of the class should have stood good unless the consent of every exhibitor in the said class had been obtained to vary it. The fourth, etc., prize winners could claim at law the higher prizes.—Editor "C.B."]

Sir,—Evidently Mr. Davis is not aware that the three lightly marked Norwich were knowingly allowed by the judge to compete in the class for heavily-marked birds, and with the consent (or so I was told at the show) of the show manager. I admit that it was well meant, but at the same time I think it was very ill-advised and objectionable, and most others, besides myself, were of the same view. The wording of the schedule was as plain as daylight, and there was no excuse for any exhibitor making a mistake, yet the three people who do so are allowed to take away the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd prizes, while the nine who adhere to the schedule get between them whatever crumbs are left. I contend that Mr. Allsopp's duty was to stick to the schedule, not seek to alter it because he thought it wrong, and so do an injustice to nine who are in the right, for the benefit of three who are in the wrong. Not only that, but a friend of mine with legal knowledge tells me that the society is bound by the conditions printed in the schedule, and the exhibitors can legally claim and get the prize-money of which they were deprived by Mr. Allsopp's action. I think it is surprising that fanciers who are presumably business men should have overlooked this.

Woodcock in Somerset.

Sir,—Could any of your numerous readers inform me whether it is legal to shoot Woodcock in the County of Somerset, even if the person has a licence to shoot game?

E. Cockram.

When Judges Disagree.

Sir,—I regard Mr. J. Maddison's letter of last week as sheer ignorance. It is no credit to a specialist British Bird judge when he does not know a field-moulted Linnet from a house-moulted one!

R. D. Parlett.

An Appreciation.

Sir,—I have been much interested in the last two weeks' issues of Cage Birds, and in particular in the article by your old and worthy contributor, Mr. J. B. Waterman. To know such a man is the good fortune of many, and even to read such an article the privilege of us all. What careful thought for the feelings of his readers and anxiety that even the rankest novice should not be offended; what gentle encouragement: but what strength of conviction. In the present rush of life and after the strenuous articles one is sometimes given to digest, to read such contributions is good, very good.

MEMBERS' SHOWS.

CONDENSED REPORTS.

CLAPHAM C.B.A.—Pair show, "Clock House," Clapham, Feb. 17, with 102 entries, rather below last year's figures. Competition in champion Yorks was very keen, the class containing 21 entries. Borders also were fairly strong. British birds made a fine show, 16 different species of hardbills being benched, besides a fine class of softbills. Mr. T. J. Hose arranged and superintended the show in his usual business-like manner. Mr. Robson judged. Principal winners:—CHAMP. NOR.: Teasdale, Whittome. YORKS.: Buckingham, Fairman. BORD.: Lathbury, Cooper. NOV. NOR.: Thorne. YORKS.: Humphries, Phillips. MULES: Cooper, Vale, Madame Madewell, Hathaway, Fairman, Coe. BRIT.: Hathaway, Coe, Vale, Madame Madewell. FOR.: Cooper, Madame Madewell, Hathaway.

EAST HAM C.B.S.—Pair show, Public Offices, Wakefield Street, Jan. 30, the number being well above last year's. The staging was carried out by the show manager, Mr. Webb. Mr. J. Robson judged. Principal winners:—CHAMP. YORKS.: Parker. NOR.: Taylor. AMAT. YORKS.: Farmer, Wilkins and Son. NOR.: Fleet, Gedge. BORD.: Kybert, Potten. NOV. YORKS.: East, Thomas, Pask and Webb. SANDY F. & F.A.—Quarterly show, Assembly Room, Jan. 28. Mr. G. W. Banes, hon. sec., managed affairs in a highly satisfactory manner. A regrettable incident was the failure of the railway authorities to deliver Mr. Checkfield's British and Mr. Bradshaw's Yorks. until 4 o'clock, much too late for competition. Sp. best Can., Taylor; best Brit., Wilmot. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged. Principal winners. NOR.: Taylor, Wilmot. Hunter, Papworth, A.O.V.: Croot, Papworth. BRIT.: Godman, Chater, Wilmot, Croot. MULES: Taylor, Wilmot. FOR.: Godman.

PORTOBELLO C.B.S.—Pair show, Masonic Hall, Tower Street, a great success; Mr. J. Leach's judging gave entire satisfaction. Principal winners: BORDS.: Baxter. NOR.: Hogg, Watt, Baxter. SCOTCH FANCY: Buchan, Hogg, Small. YORKS.: Anderson. MULING PAIRS: Vass, Laird. After the judge had finished several members had a try at judging, Mr. J. Buchan coming nearest to judge with 10 points.—Wm. Baxter, sec.

REDCAR C.B.S.—Annual pair show, Crown and Anchor Hotel, Feb. 13, Mr. Wake, Middlesbro', judge. The show was quite a success, members turning up in strong force, and competition being keen throughout. Chief prize-winners: YORKS.: Barker, Dixon, Husband; Marsdy. NOV.: Eastgate, Strickland; Elwick. NAT. COL.: Marsay, Robinson. NOR.: Husband, Harvey; Dawson. MULES: Bray, Green, Husband. NATIONAL GREEN-MARKED Y.C.C.

Committee meeting, Feb. 13, Mr. W. A. Cowgill (president), chair. Following were elected members, Messrs. C. W. Town, R. Scaife, W. Leach, W. Trevenar, J. Moore, G. Crowther, R. Burnett, J. Bower and W. H. Symes. Decided to hold the prize distribution, and annual general meeting, as soon as possible after voting papers for election of officers have been sent in. Results of competitions, as published in CAGE BIRDS were passed by committee as correct. There are still a few subs. overdue, and I should be pleased to receive them as soon as possible.—J. Chambers, Hon. Sec.

CUMNOCK C.B.S.

Meeting, Feb. 20. Mr. Mossie, well known in Border circles, gave an interesting display of washing a bird for exhibition. The lesson was very closely followed by all. He drew attention to what was necessary, and what to be avoided to make the washing a success, and the necessity for absolute cleanliness afterwards. The lesson was very much appreciated, and Mr. Mossie was awarded a hearty vote of thanks. The meeting was then opened under the chairmanship of vice-pres. Mr. Thos. Findlay, in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Hainey, pres., and our treasurer, Mr. Nutt. The principal business was the tying up of new cup, and the samples forwarded were voted on, the one fixed on costing £2 0s. 9d., without the shade, leaving a balance of 8s. from the amount subscribed towards the cost of same. Sec. mentioned the matter of yearly ramble, and it was settled to have one this year, as before. Meeting closed with a vote of thanks to chair.—Alex. Wyper, Sec.

NORTHERN NORWICH P.C.

Following is the list for 1914 over the four shows where patronage was given:—Champ. trophy and cup, best young bird bred by a member, F. W. Laidlow, 71 pts.; J. Morrison, 67; A. Holden, 51; W. McGinn, 45; J. Pierson, 29; H. Wellsbury, 26. Champ. sp., Newcastle, W. McGinn. Nov. sp., Gateshead, C. Wake. Silver spoon winners, Newcastle, J. Morrison; Nov., H. D. Pyman, Gateshead, A. Holden. Nov., C. Wake. Sunderland, F. W. Laidlow. Haltwhistle, J. Pierson. Sorry to see our novice spoons have not been won at two shows on account of novices not competing for same when societies have novice classes on especially for them. I wonder where the Great Northern novice men are to-day that were asking for novice classes. Novice classes up north will probably die down if not better supported. I invite all northern Norwich fanciers to join us, especially novices; we are giving for 1915 a trophy to be won outright in one season, and medal for 2nd most points, besides other specials, two highest birds only to count. Entrance fee 1s., annual sub. 2s. 6d.; further particulars with pleasure. —F. W. Laidlow, Sec., 55, Colston-st., Benwell, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

HALIFAX O.S.

Annual whist drive and social at West Ward Liberal Club, Feb. 13. 100 members and friends spent an enjoyable evening. After the whist Mrs. J. J. Dunn presented the prizes; Mr. Lord presiding. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing. Songs were rendered by Mr. H. Dale, humorist, and Miss Doris Berry, and a monologue by Mr. Armitage was well received. Mr. J. J. Dunn attended to the gramophone whilst whist was in progress. Mr. F. Clegg was the steward for the whist, and Mr. J. J. Dunn the M.C. for dancing. Messrs. Sweeting and Gough supplied the music in their usual style.—H. Clegg, Sec.

LEICESTER (Hand-in-Hand) C.B.S.

Meeting, Feb. 16. Mr. Gibbins presided over a large attendance. Several minor items were dealt with. Messrs. West and Chambers were elected members. Mr. Jno. Allen elected to judge next table show. Prize-money in connection with Charity Show was paid out. Table show was held; Mr. Gibbins judged.

WALKLEY C.B.S.

Meeting, Feb. 12, headquarters. Mr. T. Ridal chair, supported by Messrs. Thompson and Sparks. The attendance was somewhat meagre owing to the change of night, the room being required on the Thursday. The meeting was instructive and interesting. A pairing competition took place. Thanks are tendered to members who brought birds. It was run on novel lines: Each member paid 1d. fee, and the birds were first judged by the appointed judge. The nearest to his placings took 1st prize, competition was keen; several members tied for points, and had to re-judge. Result: 1, Fielding; 2, Matthews; 3, Everard. A vote of thanks to Mr. Furniss for placing the birds brought an interesting meeting to a close. Next meeting March 11, an egg food making competition, entrance 3d., 2s. 6d. added; members provide own materials; judged by those present. Two new members were made.—C. Tomlinson, Sec.

PLYMOUTH & W.C.O.S.

Meeting, Oddfellows Hall, Feb. 16, Mr. W. French presiding over rather a poor attendance. Mr. T. Pope read an interesting paper on advertising a bird show to get more exhibitors and obtain more visitors. The only way of accomplishing this, he said, was to advertise largely, as it was then seen by all fanciers. Some young fanciers who had a few birds would then like to try his hand at showing, and later on become a member. Mr. Pope stated that he always searches the show advert. columns every week to see if there is anywhere he can exhibit. Schedules should also be sent through the post to all fanciers that come under notice. In looking over catalogues for the past ten years, he was surprised to notice the exhibits always keep coming from the same districts. We don't get northern exhibitors to Plymouth. Surely they are not nervous, especially as the train service is really good, and there is an extensive prize list. My conclusion, said Mr. Pope, is that the novice as a rule over-values his birds, and over-estimates the work of showing, and consequently will not exhibit outside his own district. Mr. Pope brought his paper to a close by stating that in a recent announcement it was mentioned that there were new fewer dachshunds and more bulldogs to be seen, which was German decline and British advance. We hope there will be a great advance in the bird world after the war. A vote of thanks to Mr. Pope brought the meeting to a close. —W. Luscombe.

WIGAN ROLLER C.C.

Meeting, Queen's Head, Feb. 13; upwards of 50 members and friends present. A lecture was given, in two parts, by the well-known Roller Canary judges, Mr. Massey, and Mr. Kilshaw, of Bolton. Mr. Kilshaw very ably described the song of the birds present, naming each roll and tour as the birds sang; also estimating the points value of each tour. He also dealt with faulty singing, and the value of points deducted for the same. After discoursing on the points given for general effect, he ended by giving his opinion of the ideal song required for contesting. The subject taken by Mr. Massey, i.e., "The Breeding and Training of the Roller Canary," was also very interesting. Mr. Massey began by advising the kind of stock birds required, the depth and tone of song required by the male, and gave his opinion why indicious inbreeding is necessary to produce a well-balanced song. He also dwelt on the training of the young cocks, a very important and necessary item, of which most novices are ignorant. He showed the importance of having well-trained birds for contesting, and the better chance of success which comes with a little extra trouble. A discussion brought a very interesting instructive lecture to a close. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Massey and Mr. Kilshaw for their services, the result of which was the nomination of four new members.—P. Grecnall, Sec.

GLASGOW & W. COUNTIES N.C.

Annual pairs show, Feb. 20, Good Templars' Hall, Ingram Street; a great success both numerically and financially. Norwich were a well balanced lot, and many new faces were on view. Mr. Jas. McGowan won sp., for best pair, his variey. buff cock being greatly admired. Messrs. Findlay and Hamilton put down good teams. Mr. Findlay held the whip hand in Borders, his only opponent being the sec., but a wee bird whispers that Borders will form ere long one of the strongest branches of this go-ahead society, so Mr. P., you will have to look to your laurels. The class for A.O.V. pairs was quite an eye-opener, containing as it did no less than three good pairs of Lizards (it looks as if the spangle backs are taking a hold here). Yorks., Green, and Cin. Borders and Scotch Fancies. Mr. J. H. Adam had the unique record of securing 6 prizes and 2 spls. with six entries in this class. Many thought his Green Borders (placed fourth) were the best pair of Canaries in show. New members admitted, Messrs. D. McJury, J. Downie, W. Robb, J. Millen, T. Fitzpatrick. The following fanciers gallantly responded to the call for specials for pairs show: Messrs. Cassels, McGowan, Findlay, Pettigrew, and Adam. March 6th was fixed for next meeting and show of Muling and Hybrid pairs, 122, Ingram Street, at 6.30. Four classes: Goldf. and Can.; Linnet and Can.; Muling pairs, A.O.V.: Hyb. Mr. Kerr, Kilmarnock, judged Nor., and Mr. D. McJury, Kilbarchan, the remainder.

EAST ARDSLEY C.B.S.

Judging competition, Feb. 20, after which Mr. A. Hargreaves, vice-pres., presented the special prizes to Mr. J. Burnell 1st, Mr. W. Waind 2nd, Mr. J. E. Pyrah 3rd. The remarks made by the Vice-Pres. were very interesting, and the recipients ably responded. Early closing somewhat curtailed a very pleasant evening.—A. Walton, Sec.

DERWENT VALLEY C.B.S.

Meeting, Co-operative Hall, Low Westwood, Feb. 6. Mr. Geo. Barkess, chair. Balance sheet passed as satisfactory. Table show was held, and proved interesting, especially the F.-M. Greenf. class. Mr. Wm. Tomlinson judged, and did his duty very well. NOR.: 1, 2, Barkess; 3, Simpson. YORKS.: 1, 3, Bell; 2, Simpson. GREENF.: 1, 3, Curry; 2, Carr. CARDIFF C.B.S.

Meeting Feb. 18, Maskell's Hotel. Letter read from Mr. W. Sampson, Welsh National show manager, thanking members for the help they had given him in making the National show a success. Mr. E. J. Davies gave notice of motion to rescind the cup rules at annual general meeting. Mr. W. J. Lewis was enrolled a member. Sec. was instructed to write for quotations for prize cards for members' shows. Mr. H. C. Smith and Mr. V. Ball were elected auditors. Officers will be elected at next meeting, which is the annual general. Will those members who are in arrears please send on their subs. as I want to place my books in the auditors' hands. I trust that every member will make an effort to attend next meeting.—E. Thomas, Sec.

WALLSEND, MID-TYNE C.B.A.

Annual meeting, Station Hotel, Feb. 10, Mr. J. Beslop presided before a good attendance. Balance sheet was read, leaving a balance of £6 17s. 6d. in hand, which shows the society to be in a prosperous condition. Officers elected: Colonel Pinkney re-elected pres., Mr. J. Beslop chair, Mr. R. McKie vice-chairman; committee, Messrs. Wilson, Stephenson, Scott, Couchman, Masterman, Hymers, Baker, Marfin, Studholme, McQuillan, Johnston, Simpson, Wigglesworth, Craig, Parker; auditors, Messrs. Simpson, Stephenson re-elected; sec. and treas., G. Greenwell. Nov. 6 fixed for annual show, at Co-operative Hall. N.F. show, July 17; a hearty invitation is given to fanciers to join us; for particulars apply to Mr. Geo. Greenwell, 17, George Road, Wallsend.

CLYDEBANK C.B.C.

Meeting Feb. 18, 81, Kilbowie-road, Mr. McGown presiding. After completing arrangements for pairs show we were treated to a lecture on British birds by Mr. Matthew Craig, Tollcross, which was greatly appreciated. Mr. Craig answered a great number of questions to the thorough satisfaction of the members, and was given a hearty vote of thanks. Pair show held Feb. 20; 36 pairs were staged; Mr. R. Jeffrey judged. WEST BROMWICH C.B.S.

General meeting, Feb. 9, with a good muster of members. Balance sheet was read showing a cash balance of close on £7, which was considered very gratifying, the society not being very strong numerically in members. It shows what can be done when everyone works for the benefit of his society, and the sec. thanks all members for the way in which they have helped to put the society on so sound a financial basis. No change was effected in officers for 1915, showing that members are satisfied with their past year's services. Fanciers in the district would do well in joining this society, novices especially, as no society does more for them; all information can be had from the sec., 1, Hayes Street, West Bromwich. The society, in addition to the silver cup, has decided to purchase a shield for competition at members' shows, novices to compete for same in their own section; to be won three times in all before becoming the property of any exhibitor. Decided to hold first show, Feb. 23, Mr. J. H. Roe, judge. Open show fixed for Nov. 19, 20. A vote of thanks was tendered to editor of CAGE BIRDS for services rendered by publication of reports, etc.—W. G. Andrews, Hon. Sec.

ROCHDALE (Good Intent) C.B.S.

16th annual meeting, Feb. 10, with good muster of members. Mr. T. H. Collinge, president, in the chair. Sec. gave his report of the year's working, which was very satisfactory, considering that the district was badly hit during the opening period of the war. Holding our show on a decreased entry fee, so that all members could compete, we received an entry of almost 200 for a members' show, and had added a few members during the year. Treas. gave the financial report, which revealed a balance of over £3, the most we have had for some time; this gave all of us complete satisfaction, and we have decided to work a course of lectures, etc., for the coming year, for which we hope to secure the services of the best fanciers. A small committee is to be formed with that object, and we hope that fanciers in the district, whether member or not, will keep on the lookout in CAGE BIRDS for the dates of the lectures, as there are many in the district who are not connected with a society, having only a bird or two; they will be made quite welcome. Officers for year elected. Our late sec., Wm. Adams, owing to important business, could not be prevailed on to take office again, although he was hard pressed to do so. A vote of thanks was passed to retiring officers, who suitably replied. Pres., Mr. T. H. Collinge; sec., E. Lord, 123, Lomax Street, Rochdale; treas., Mr. R. Hincoe; committee, Messrs. Conpe, A. Howarth, Butterworth, Francis, and Colling; auditors, Messrs. Lees and Colling; delegate to affiliated C.B.S., Mr. A. Howarth. Six new members were elected.—E. Lord, Sec.

MOULTING AND WHEEZING (M.P.).—You must see that the bird is not exposed to cold draughts or extreme and rapid fluctuations of temperature. Keep it in a comfortable place where the temperature is fairly equable, but it need not be overheated. If in a room where the temperature drops considerably at night a light cover over the cage will do no harm. The bird should not be moulting now. August to November is the natural moulting season for Canaries. Give your bird a staple diet of plain canary seed only. In addition give separately every second day half-a-teaspoonful of scalded summer rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed. Twice a week give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and broken groats. For three days add to the water ten drops of lemon juice and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel every second day for a fortnight.

SITS HUDDLED UP (T. Nicholls).—No, it is not right for a bird to be moulting now, especially as it moulted at the proper time last autumn, but it is probably a victim of the very adverse weather conditions we have had of late. See that it is not exposed to direct cold draughts, or rapid extremes of heat and cold. In addition to its usual seed diet give every second day half-a-teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and springled with maw seed, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and broken groats, and a morsel of banana or watercress. In the water add six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel every second day until the feathers cease dropping. The dropped wing is of no importance, and will pass away as the bird gets into a more vigorous condition. The song also will probably return soon after the moulting is stopped.

REARING A PET (C. L. F., Finchley).—(1) Leave the young with the parents until ten or twelve days old, then take one or two, as you may prefer—two would be better than one, on account of one helping to keep the other snug and comfortable—and place them in a snug nest and keep them in a comfortable warmth, with a light woolien cover placed lightly over the nest until birds are well feathered. Make the usual egg or soft food into a soft paste by the addition of a little water, and feed the birds with this every two hours from dawn till dusk. A "fil-up" feeder is useful for the purpose, but a small wood spill trimmed at the end into a spatula shape does very well. Take up tiny morsels of the food on the end of the feeder, lightly touch the tips of the beaks with it, and when they "gape" pop the food well back into the throat. Repeat the process as long as the birds will "gape" eagerly at each meal. Three or four times a day mix a small proportion of finely minced green salad with the food you give them. (2) No, the young will not be able to pick up soft food at twelve days old. You will have to feed them by hand as described in No. 1 for two or three weeks, or until they can feed themselves well on soft food made into a crumbly mass and cracked seeds. (3 and 4) See Mr. Norman's replies for replies to these queries, which should have been sent on a separate sheet of paper.

SEED SAMPLES (Miss V. Bates).—The canary seed is rather small, but it is plump, well-ripened and very sweet, and of excellent all-round quality. It contains a number of kernels without husk, which may possibly indicate that mice have access to the bulk, or it may have occurred in transit. Apart from the possibility of mouse contamination, there is nothing whatever wrong with the seed. The mixture is quite a good one for occasional use, say, to give two or three times a week as a change in place of a staple diet of plain canary seed. The quality is good. If your losses continue you would do well to send one of the bodies to our Mr. Yates for post-mortem, and thus make sure of the cause. Otherwise, better write again and give particulars as to the way the birds are affected.

VARIED (A Novice).—(1) If either of the two birds is a cock it is the one that puts its beak in the other's to feed her. The other bird, which should be the hen, will probably be fluttering her wings a little meanwhile. But I should not say they are ready to put together, even that the supposed cock does nothing but "sweet." Separate them for another month or so, and give the cock a little egg food every second day, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of mixed seeds and two leaves of crisp young dandelion, until he comes into good song. Then you may mate him with some chance of success. (2) If you have the means of maintaining an equable temperature in any circumstances there would be no objection to mating the hen that has already been laying. But, frankly, I fear she is one of those abnormally prolific hens which never do any real good. Still, it may be satisfactory to you if you give her a chance. (3) Tonic seed is useful in a seed mixture for occasional use, and most fanciers use it in this way, but I doubt whether it is given as any material portion of the staple diet. Given in any quantity, if consumed, it should form a useful tonic and appetising seed. (4) If weather is favourable the last week in March or the first week in April is the best time for mating Norwich, or, for that matter, any other variety of Canary.

TWO BORDERS (J. W.).—(1) The disposition of this bird towards the young after the moult commenced last season is not very extraordinary, as they often alter in disposition when not in good breeding condition. You ought to have removed him as soon as you saw the moult had begun. Treat him now the same as advised to "M. P." in this issue, but instead of the gentian mixture dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping. (2) You do not say whether this bird moulted in the ordinary way last autumn. If it did not, then you need do no more than throw a light cover over the cage, keep the bird in a comfortable temperature, and let the moult finish in the ordinary course. But if it moulted in autumn treat it as No. 1.

A DROWSY SUBJECT (H. B.).—You are certainly sparing enough with particulars. Still, I think it very likely there is little wrong except constipation. Give a morsel of bread and milk every second day for a week, and on the alternate days a good-sized spray of watercress or some other green salad. Every second day for a week give in the drinking water as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, and ten drops of lemon juice, and in the next week give instead six drops of tincture of gentian and four of dilute sulphuric acid. If this does not put matters right, please write again and give fuller particulars.

F. WHELAN.—Replied to by post.

CRAMP IN LEG (E. F.). It is quite impossible to give any satisfactory advice in such a case without knowing something of the nature of the cramp, and the causes which led up to it, about which you say nothing at all. It may have been a paralytic attack, for instance, which is far more likely in a cage bird. If the leg appears to be gradually regaining strength, you cannot do better than let it rest as quietly as possible; see that it has well-fitting and suitable-sized perches, conveniently placed, and you may aid recovery to some extent by giving, every second day for a week or two, a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and on the alternate days add 20 drops of chemical food to the water. If this does not have the desired effect in a month or so, you had better write again and give full particulars about the bird's condition, and how you have treated it.

CAGES AS FIXTURES (Bottled).—You certainly made a big mistake to build your cages as fixtures, as you now find when you want to overhaul them. Even a worse difficulty would face you if you were so unfortunate as to have a case of contagious disease in your stock, and wanted to isolate that particular case to prevent it spreading, or had to deal with an infestation of insect pests in any particular compartment during the breeding season. It would have been infinitely better to have built a rack and made each cage separately, so that any one could have been removed for any purpose without disturbing the rest. Your present difficulty is really very slight, as there will be no harm whatever in distempering the cages with any of the "water paints" on the market, such as Hall's Sanitary Distemper, whilst the birds are occupying a portion of them, providing you do not do sufficient at a time to cause much dampness in the air as they are drying. You may, for instance, place the birds in the bottom tier, and distemper top tier, allow this to dry, then do the second tier; when this is dry remove birds to top tier and do the two bottom tiers one at a time, allowing them to dry between while as wet the top tiers.

CAUSE OF DEATH (K.W.L.).—Only a post-mortem could satisfactorily reveal the cause of death in such a case. It is, however, not very unusual for a bird in high condition to die quite suddenly in this way whilst singing violently, and the cause is generally to be found in a ruptured blood vessel in some vital organ. Or it may occur just as suddenly from shock on seeing any unusual object. It is exceedingly unlikely that the bird not moulting had anything at all to do with its sudden death.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

BREEDING MULES (Daniel D. Evans).—To give you full particulars about breeding Mules would take up more room than allowed in these answers, and as you are quite a beginner I would advise you to procure one of our books on Hybrid breeding, and in future watch CAGE BIRDS for any information on the subject. (1) You need not have a separate room for Mule breeding, it can be managed in the room where you keep your Canaries. (2) It is the usual thing to remove the first three eggs as soon as they are laid by the Canary, for most Finches are almost certain to break them. Further, if the eggs are so removed, and replaced when the hen has laid three, the young are all hatched together and receive the same attention. While the hen is sitting the Finch should be removed to another compartment of the cage.

KEEPING TITS (Alpha). If your wire netting is genuine half-inch you will be quite safe with your Tits, but five-eighths mesh is frequently sold for half-inch, and, if you use it, you will find that the Blue Tit will manage to squeeze through one of the holes a shade over correct size.

BLACKBIRD QUESTIONS (Bird Shop).—An exhibition Blackbird should not be confined in a small cage, as it is essential to keep his plumage in the best possible condition. A good stock cage should be 30 inches long, 11 inches deep, and 16 inches high. The show cage need not be so large, as the bird is only in it for a day or two. It should be 20 inches long, 16 inches high, and 10 inches deep, and if the top of the front is bowed over about an inch it allows the bird to be seen more easily by the judge. Two good strong perches fastened into the back of the cage are sufficient. A good colour for the interior is pale blue. The Song Thrush could be kept in a similar stock cage, but his show cage need not be quite so large, 18 inches in length would be sufficient. This should be painted inside a fairly bright middle green.

BREEDING LINNET MULES (C. L. F., Finchley).—With ordinary attention you will not have much trouble to breed Linnet Mules. Put the birds in a two-compartment cage, let them fly together for a couple of weeks, then separate them, but place the cages so that they can see each other. Feed the Linnet well with an extra spoonful of mixed seeds two or three times a week, and a little cracked hemp, also green food as procurable, not forgetting dandelion, which is splendid food for all birds in the spring. When the Linnet is in full song, with a dark blue-grey beak, he is fit for breeding. A little extra egg-food will assist the hen if she is at all backward. (2) The young can be reared on the same food as used for rearing young Canaries, with, of course, a good supply of wild seeds and green food.

LINNET NOT SINGING (G. Saunders).—I rather suspect that the reason your bird does not sing is because it is a hen. As you say you do not know much about birds, it is just possible you have chosen the wrong one. If you can handle the bird, just catch him, place him on his back in the palm of the hand, and turn up the breast feathers with the finger or a lead pencil; if you can detect a reddish tinge on the edges of feathers the bird is a cock, if not, it is, of course, useless as a song bird. If a cock bird, give a little extra hemp, and he will soon be on song.

BULLFINCH AILING (E. M. T.).—You appear to have treated your bird quite successfully, and pulled him through a very bad illness. I think the attack can be put down to indigestion caused by a long diet of dry seeds. As the weather improves and you are able to gather various kinds of wild food for him, he should regain his usual health. It would not be wise to continue your present method of feeding indefinitely. Give a little maw seed, and other seeds sparingly. Soak canary, rape and teazle, and give a spoonful daily. Also sprinkle some on pieces of flannel and keep damp, placing it in a warm corner until it germinates, when he can be offered a fairly liberal supply of it. On fine days let him bathe freely; this will help him as much as anything. Feed him only moderately on sunflower and other fattening seeds.

should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual", (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each); No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2, "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4, "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

MOULTING A BLUE TIT (Mrs. Rice).—Very few fanciers will take the trouble to moult a Blue Tit, as they are so easily caught. If you still have your bird in the autumn, hang him outside as much as possible, and feed in the usual way, with an extra allowance of ants' eggs and small insects, such as green fly, caterpillars, house-flies, etc., and a piece of mutton suet suspended to the wire front of the cage. With this extra attention you will no doubt succeed in moulting him, but I am afraid he will not come out quite so rich in colour as the wild birds, although with care he should improve as the winter advances.

KEEPING A WOODLARK (W. D.).—The Woodlark is not a very difficult bird to keep in confinement, but is just a bit more delicate than the Skylark. It should have a cage about 20 inches long, with a couple of perches in it. This cage need not be very high, 10 or 11 inches is quite enough. I have found that the better you feed the Woodlark the more song you will get out of him. Therefore purchase a good brand of insectile mixture and take sufficient for the day and make crumbly moist by mixing it with a little scraped raw carrot, boiled potato, and occasionally a few drops of new milk. To this food should sometimes be added a little chopped hard boiled egg. He should also be supplied with insects, such as small caterpillars, beetles, green fly, house flies, live ants' eggs, or any creepy things that come to hand. Keep his cage clean, or his feet will soon become clogged, and on cleaning out days run him into a spare cage, and lightly spray him; this will improve his plumage and assist in keeping down insects.

MULE BREEDING (Miss Topping).—I presume you have already some British birds, and hen Canaries. Select those you are going to pair, and put each pair in a good big cage, so that they get used to each other. Let them be together for a fortnight, then separate them, but place them so that they can see each other. Keep them like this until they are both ready for breeding. If the cock bird is a Goldfinch, he will be in full song, and will sing at the hen, swaying himself and spreading his wings and tail. His beak will also be clear. The hen will call, repeatedly bouncing from perch to perch, and flapping her wings. When they are in this condition, put them together, giving a nest box or pan, and plenty of nesting materials. Remove the eggs as the hen lays them, and when she has deposited three, return them to the nest, when she will proceed to incubate. When the hen is expected to lay, the Goldfinch should be shut off each night, and he should be taken away entirely while the hen is sitting. This is only a rough outline of the management; for full particulars you should procure one of our books on Hybrid Breeding. It would interest you immensely, and give you a lot of valuable information.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

AMAZON NOT TALKING (Oldham).—If the facts are really as stated, the bird should soon begin to utter the words it is alleged to have learned, though some individuals take longer to settle down than others, and many established talkers are often very quiet during the moult. Yours is quite a young bird, and even if it should forget what it has already learned, as soon as it is tame and accustomed to you it should begin to mimic and repeat words and sounds it hears going on around it. I know an Amazon which had been a pet in the nursery, which is most amusing, as it records at intervals all the joys and woes of child life. I should advise keeping it till within a fortnight of the expiration of the warranty, then if you are not satisfied with it insist upon a suitable exchange.

WHAT BIRD? ETC. (Zebra).—The coloured figure is that of the Nonpareil Bunting, a North American species, once freely imported; now its importation is forbidden. However, a few still leak through, and it is a well-known bird. (2) Though it is an African, and not a South American species, I think it is the Grey Singing Finch to which you refer. There are a number of small Grosbeaks of the genus Spermophila, indigenous to South America, and it may be one of these, as the whole genus are endowed with a fair song, but if "here" means the British Isles, then I think the birds must be Grey Singing Finches. At the moment the vernacular name does not help me.

FINCHES, PARRAKEETS AND LORIES (P. J. W.).—(1) I am afraid this is beyond the scope of this column. Many have been bred, and there are also many that have not: Tri-colour and White-headed Mannikins; Violet-eared Waxbill; Bluish, Lined, Reddish, and Melba Finches have not been bred, and very many others. There is a list of my own published of species which have been bred entitled "Species and Hybrids which have been Bred," covering all orders of birds. Parrots, Macaws, Cockatoos, Parrakeets, Conures, and Lovebirds can all be classed as seed-eaters, but fruit should be offered to all. Lories and Lorikeets are brush-tongued Parrots, and should be fed largely on milk-sop and ripe fruit, though some species eat a considerable quantity of seed. Your aviary should answer well, and if you repeat query, stating definitely whether you desire rare and unbred species of Parrakeets, I will name a list, or, if you prefer it, send me a stamped and addressed letter per Editor, and I will put you in the way of getting them.

EYE TROUBLE (Lincoln Imp.).—If the film is an actual growth, then you must take it to a vet. and let him make a pronouncement upon it, but it is not all vets. that will undertake birds. If it is only a swelling, bathing the eye with a solution of rose water and zinc (from any chemist) may give relief. After the bathing you must dry with a soft cloth and keep the bird in some warm position that is free from draught. Give it every-fourth day one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water. Twice a week put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water; you must not use metal drinkers while giving drugs. The diet should consist of seed mixture, ripe fruit, nuts and dry biscuits, with cuttlebone, grit (not sand), and water continually in the cage. If the bird is accustomed to boiled maize this can be continued, and the daily supply dusted with flowers of sulphur after all water is drained away. Do not give slops or table scraps of any kind.

TO GO WITH BRITISHERS (Outdiora).—Zebra Finches, Silverbills, Cutthroats, Bronze and Magpie Mannikins, Cuba Finches, Grey and Green Singing Finches, Red-headed Finches, Avadavats, Orange-cheek, Grey, St. Helena, and Gold-breasted Waxbills; Red-billed, Madagascar, and Napoleon Weavers. There are, of course, many others, but the above are a hardy group and will serve you well to gain experience. If you add white millet seed and millet sprays to the menu you are in the habit of serving up to your present stock, the birds should do well and thrive with you, but you must not put them out till first week in May.

BUDGERIGARS (A. M. Cook).—In the aviary (a roomy one) Budgerigars and Madagascar Lovebirds are safe together, and it is very seldom that any trouble occurs. I have never known any ill-effects from using pine branches in the aviary, and they are freely used, but it would be wise in the event of the cock Budgerigar dying to send its body (see rules) to our Mr. Yates for post-mortem examination, giving him as details those you have sent me. Put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day and continue this for a couple of months. Twice a week put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water—don't use a metal drinker while giving drugs.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

W. L. Rae.—Accept our hearty thanks for your very interesting communication.

G. Thomson.—It is quite impossible for us to publish your paragraphs. Two of them contain innuendoes of libellous character. With regard to the colour-food, we presume that both vendors were invited to give special prizes; if not, it still remains a matter which solely concerns the executive of the show.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Mr. F. Bryant.—African Grey Parrot (hen), death resulted from pleurisy, a complication of tubercular disease of long standing.

Mr. K. Storey.—Death occurred from exhaustion following profuse internal hæmorrhage, evidently the result of violence.

Alice M. Cook.—Acute enteritis due to the ingestion of irritant or poisonous matter partaken of. The symptoms described by you fully bear out the post-mortem lesions.

Mendoza.—This bird was very thin, following advanced liver disease. There is no suspicion of contagion.

GIVING UP THE FANCY

The whole of my well-known stud of Yorkshires for sale; cocks from 8/6, hens 4/-; also well-made outdoor birdroom, 23ft. long, 8ft. wide, 7ft. 6ins. high, fitted with breeding cages, single cages, and flight cages, fitted in racks, together with all appliances, including show cages and travelling cases: Forse, 31, Thornhill-rd., Leyton.

THE ONLY ONES

that sell their best. For the last 10 years we have bred and sold more noted winners than all others put together. We stand alone. So those that require the best living, this is the only place where they can be bought. Now that the show season is over, we have a few big winning cocks to spare at half their value. Yellow or buff properly matched pairs, guaranteed to breed winners, at 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. We hold thousands of the best testimonials ever written (on view any day) of winners bred from our matched pairs. Come and select for yourself, or have a pair sent on seven days' approval at our risk: Ogden Bros., Dudley-hill, Bradford.

AT THE SHOWS

is where my Yorkshires have proved their supremacy over all others; you can read the various claims as to who is the champion breeder and exhibitor, then note the following, of what my birds have won this season: Y.C.C challenge cup (second year in succession), green-marked ten-guinea trophy (third time in four years), Y.C.C. ten-guinea trophy, Yorkshire Union Competition, "Cage Birds" Competition, cup best Yorkshire Bradford National, cup (cutright) Llanelly, ten-guinea challenge cup and special for best Yorkshire at recent Welsh National show, and 84 firsts, and numerous specials at all the largest shows. I still have about 70 birds for disposal, and for length, type, and quality (and without doubt the very best blood in the fancy), cannot be equalled; deposit your money with the Editor, and allow me to send you a pair on approval against any others; I have some clinking pairs that are matched to breed the very best, at 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/-, 80/- per pair; single birds in proportion; all in splendid condition, and cold-room bred and kept, and sent seven days' approval at my risk; either cash with order or deposit with Editor; I am the largest breeder of the variety in Bradford, and have bred and exhibited more winners for years than any other Yorkshire fancier; as a matter of fact, I have won more first prizes in a single week this season, than some of the "would-be" kings" have won in the whole season: I offered £50 if I could not prove any statements I published: I still offer same amount; dare they make this offer? I say, No. Why? Ask yourself the question; it answers itself. Place your orders with the old reliable breeder with a life's practical experience, and avoid disappointments: L. Dykes, 16, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford. (116)

J. C. BARNES

REPEATING ADVERTISEMENTS.

ALWAYS USE "CAGE BIRDS"

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient plus the extra postage incurred has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

Soft Moult

Wanted, a Trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special notice to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure; Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for getting birds in song and into breeding condition. They are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. A trial order will convince you of the wonderful results obtained from this medicine. W. Reid, Greenock, writes: "Your medicine has been a great success, for both my birds are now singing." G. Chappell, New Mills: "The Tonic Drops have worked wonders. I was astonished at the quick result." C. J. Roberts, Bayswater: "Your medicine for egg-binding is marvellous." Mr. Hatton, Atherton: "Your Tonic Drops are excellent. They have cured me four birds in soft moult. They are now in full song." For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is absolutely unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to all purchasers of our medicines.

The BULL-DOG STRAIN

Champion Norwich and Yorkshires. 20/-, 30-/, 40/-, 50/- per pair.

The above strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of leading shows. My birds are winning consistently. For years they have been in the front rank, winning numerous champion trophies of the Specialist Clubs. I have also bred and sold birds that have won for my clients all over the country. Testimonials in proof of this are always open for the inspection of my visitors. There is no better blood in the Fancy. I am now offering a few pairs bred from these noted winners at above prices. Single birds, cocks or hens, at proportionate prices. Every bird is worth double. I have also a number of good birds from other well-known strains as follows: Smart Thick-set Cocks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Good Cobby Hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- per pair.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Grand lengthy Yorkshire Cocks, in perfect feather and condition, and on full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Erect racy Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6. Matched Breeding Pairs, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. EXHIBITION YORKSHIRES, bred from my own winners, and ready for immediate benching, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each upwards.

FEBRUARY, 1915. UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. FEBRUARY, 1915.

The following testimonials, in addition to scores of others (which are always open for the inspection of my visitors) have been received during February, 1915:—

St. John's Lane, Unstone.—I received birds this morning. The cock was singing in less than an hour. I am very well satisfied.—E. Knowles to Joe Thomas.

Clyde Avenue, Sheerness.—Received the pair of Yorkshires to-day quite safe. I am very pleased with them. They are a grand pair for the money.—W. E. Brooker to Joe Thomas.

Aitkens Buildings, Dipton, Co. Durham.—The pair Norwich arrived safe and sound, and are a splendid pair. Should I want any more you shall have my order.—J. T. Steel to Joe Thomas.

Melverley St., Wallgate, Wigan.—I am very well satisfied with the Roller cock you sent me. I had two friends to hear it, and they wanted to buy it, but I wouldn't sell.—J. Harrison to Joe Thomas.

Wisbech, Cambs.—One of my friends is so pleased with the birds you sent me, and wishes to have a set like them. Kindly send the following.—Hineacock to Joe Thomas.

Auchinleck, Ayrshire.—I bred a good buff cock from the Norwich hen you sold me 2 years ago. He was twice first at our local shows. I now require the following.—A. Whyper to Joe Thomas.

28, South St., Bargoed.—Received Roller safe. He is singing first rate. It is a treat to listen to the Roller and the Goldie Mule I had from you. I advise anyone that wants a good bird to send to you.—W. Blewitt to Joe Thomas.

New St., Underwood, Jacksdale, Notts.—I received the birds safe on Wednesday. I am delighted with both the Yorkshires and Norwich. I thank you for your prompt attention. I have never seen such healthy and clean birds sent out before. I shall recommend you to my friends.—C. H. Woodhouse to Joe Thomas.

ROLLERS, MULES, CRESTS, BORDER FANCIES, &c.

British Rollers, in full rolling song, will please anyone, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Hens same pure strain, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-. Matched Pairs, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- 30/-.

Preston Contest Rollers, same champion strain that we supplied the winners at the principal contests for years, and have received thousands of testimonials. These wonderful songsters only 15/- each on 14 days' trial at our risk; special terms, send 10/- deposit to us and promise balance in two weeks and we will send one of these non-such Rollers on 14 days' trial at our risk. Try one against any other strain advertised and be your own judge. Hens, same strain, 3/6 and 4/6 each; Yorkshire, Norwich, and other Canaries on the same terms; list free: Bairstairs, Ormskirk-rd., Preston. (30)

PURE BRITISH ROLLERS

Having purchased the entire stock of a very successful breeder, I am in a special position to offer exceptional value in high-class Rollers. Every bird I can guarantee bred from a well-known and successful strain of contest Rollers. I am offering these birds at the following prices:—Cocks in full rolling song, with many changes of tours, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens 3/6, 4/-, 5/- each; matched breeding pairs 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair; all birds sent on 10 days' approval at my sole risk; satisfaction guaranteed; terms cash, or deposit with Editor: Joe Thomas, Ambler Thorn, Halifax, Yorks.

STOREY'S ROLLERS

I have only a limited number for disposal. The quality and price are right. Just have one of my Rollers on approval and compare the quality of its song with some of the supposed champions, and keep the bird that gives you the most satisfaction. Storey's genuine trained St. Andreasburg or Hartz Rollers, cocks with full change of song by day or artificial light, price according to quality of song, cocks 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, a few extra good songsters 12/6 each. I have none of the common half-bred rubbish, but have a few classic hens, 1/9, 2/6, 3/- each. All birds on seven days' approval; neat travelling cages, 3d. each, 2/3 dozen. The old reliable firm and address: E. L. Storey, Crowle, Doncaster.

I beg to thank "Anonymous" most sincerely, writes Mr. John B. Waterman, for the kindly remarks anent my small contributions to Cage Birds, and to assure the writer that the kind things said are very much appreciated.

I have been a constant reader of Cage Birds for the past six years, writes Mr. W. M. Carrol (Kilmallock). From the perusal of its pages I have picked up a good deal of birdy knowledge, and am regarded locally as "an authority." I hope Cage Birds may long be spared to the Fancy.

OBITUARY.

MR. E. NOAKES (Leicester).

Many fanciers throughout the country will deeply regret to learn of the death of Mr. Ernest Noakes (of Messrs. Walton and Noakes), after a very short illness. Mr. Noakes, writes Mr. A. Freestone, the sec. of Leicester Hand-in-Hand C.B.S., was a very keen judge of Norwich Canaries, and was one of the most popular fanciers in the Midlands. Only a fortnight ago he was judge for the Leicester Combined Societies' Charity Show. Unfortunately he leaves a widow and five little children. A special meeting has been called for Tuesday next, when the members will be asked to support a subscription list in aid of them. Should any of the fanciers with whom he was acquainted care to contribute will they kindly communicate with me at 79, Clarendon St., Leicester.

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. Edward Fox, of Long Eaton, that I hear of the somewhat sudden death of Mr. E. Noakes. He was one of the kindest-hearted of men, and one of the best judges of the Norwich I ever met. His loss will be keenly felt by the fanciers of Leicester, with whom he was so popular.

MR. R. S. BEWICK, Junr. (Newcastle).

We regret sincerely to hear of the affliction which has fallen upon Mr. and Mrs. Bewick, of Newfield, Newcastle, in the loss of their son, R. S. Bewick, who was killed in a pit accident on Saturday, Feb. 27. The deceased, who was only twenty-seven years of age, leaves a wife and child to mourn his loss, and to these, as well as to his bereaved parents, we extend our sympathy, in which we know we shall be joined by the numerous bird lovers to whom Mr. Bewick, senr., is so well known.

We have removed from 185 to 689, Duke Street, Glasgow, to larger rooms, write Messrs. Dawson.

Messrs. H. W. Battye, Geo. Large, and J. D. Leigh have been appointed to judge at Warrington show on Oct. 15.

The Rule Book of the Hornsey, Wood Green, and Dist. C.B.S. contains, besides the rules of the society, an interesting list of fixtures, lectures, etc., for 1915 and the names and addresses of members. The balance sheet shows a satisfactory increase of £1 16s. 11d. on the year, the cash in hand now standing at £4 5s. 5d. Assets—trestles, staging, and cups, are valued at £8 8s. 6d. The hon. sec. is Mr. P. Brooks, 3, Trinity Road, Wood Green, and the sub. is 2s. 6d. yearly.

With reference to the clear buff Norwich, the winner at Llanelly, on the front page of Cage Birds this week, his owner, Dr. Wood (Northampton) writes: "On account of the war I have not shown much this year, and he had only been out once before, at Northampton Christmas show, when he was 1st. I tried him rather highly at the third venture by sending him to the Welsh National show at Cardiff, where he was placed 5th, but I hesitated about despatching him, as he seemed just a little off on the day of sending."

Some Shows of Next Season.

The following show dates have been fixed. Will secs. please note, in order to avoid clashing: Barnsley C.B.S., Nov. 13; Watford C.B.S., Dec. 8, 9; Newcastle-on-Tyne East End C.B.S., Nov. 26, 27; Buckhaven C.B.S., Oct. 30; London and P.O.S. autumn show, Oct. 26, 27, 28; Annfield Plain C.B.S., Dec. 18; Gateshead C.B.S., Dec. 10, 11.

Newport's Aviary Robbed.

Seven Canaries and two Parrots have been stolen from the aviary at Belle Vue Park, Newport, the thief gaining access by cutting the wire. The theft is particularly mean, as the aviary is quite a new institution, and partly supported by contributions from various townspeople, who receive birds from friends and relatives abroad.

The L. and P.O.S. Secretaryship.

Mr. H. L. Huggins, 130, Myddleton Rd., Bowes Park, N., late assist. sec. to the London and P.O.S., writes that in consequence of Mr. C. Law having resigned secretaryship owing to pressure of Government work, he has himself taken over the duties of office, with Mr. G. A. Harris as assistant hon. sec.

An Explanation.

This morning a lady from Brixton called to see bird, as advertised last week, writes Mr. W. Holme, Streatham Hill, and was shown a buff hen in my absence, instead of the yellow cock I advertised. Kindly allow me to explain this, or, besides losing the sale of the bird, it will give me a bad reputation if she is left with the impression that the bird she saw was what I advertised.

A Soldier Fancier's Brief Visit.

The members of the Southern Border Fancy Club had the pleasure at their last meeting of welcoming their hon. sec., Mr. F. W. Burton, whose brother, Mr. Geo. Burton, is acting as hon. sec. of this and other societies during his services with our Army. Mr. F. Burton had an enthusiastic reception, and returned to his duties after his short leave with the best wishes of all for a speedy and final homecoming.

A Good Family Record.

My marked buff Norwich (unflighted) cock (see front page this week) has only been exhibited three times, writes Dr. Weekes (Southampton). He took 1st and sp. at Southampton, 4th L.C.B.A. novice section, and commended Bournemouth. He was beaten by his brother at Bournemouth, who won the novice cup there, also 1st and special prizes. His sister has taken second in the hen classes the only times she was shown, viz. Bournemouth and Southampton. Not a bad record for their parent in one season, is it?

War Victims.

Kindly allow me space to answer Mr. Hunt's letter in your issue of Feb. 16, writes Mr. J. W. Metcalfe in the "Liverpool Echo." If left unchallenged, it would make the average owners of Canaries think they are being imposed upon by having to pay extra for "Mr. Dick's" food. Plain canary seed being the staple diet of most of our small feathered pets, it answers the same purpose as bread to the human being, but we require a few luxuries to help it along. Our pets must have luxuries as well if we require them to cheer us up with their sweet song. Canary seed is slightly cheaper now than before the war commenced. In July it was 35s. per cwt.; now it is 34s. per cwt. for the best polished seed. But it is the "luxurious" seeds that are component parts of a real good mixture that have gone up in price, in some cases as much as 100 per cent.; and in some instances they are unobtainable. It is only the mixtures that have gone up in price, and the seedsmen are justified in asking for higher prices if the same quality is to be kept up. The greatest sufferer of our pets to-day is that chatterbox, the Parrot, who lives mostly on sunflower seeds, which have risen from 18s. to 90s. per cwt., pumpkin seeds 20s. to 60s., cayenne pods 56s. to 112s. No wonder Polly is turning her nose up at the food offered her now. The public is bound to grumble when prices go up. Even the seedsman grumbles when the wholesaler puts the price up, but the man that will give up his tobacco to feed his pets is the man we want and would welcome into the Liverpool Bird Breeders' Association.

The Career of a Record Breaking Yorkshire Canary.

No doubt many of our readers will remember that at the last Crystal Palace show a green-marked Yorkshire Canary which won first prize for its breeder, Mr. R. L. Crisp, and which is doubtless the best of its kind ever bred in the South, was claimed at the record price of £15 by that well-known breeder and exhibitor, Mr. L. Dykes, of Bolton Woods, Bradford. We think everyone will be pleased to know that the judgment and enterprise displayed by Mr. Dykes have been deservedly rewarded. The bird was taken into his breeding stud (being bought for this purpose) and has sired him many very fine youngsters, whilst since his plucky buyer moulted him, "Dreadnought" (as he is named) has been shown thirteen times under eleven different judges, and has stood at the head of the class every time. In addition, he won the cup for best bird at the Bradford National show, the special for best Yorkshire at the Welsh National show, and is the only exhibition bird in the county of Yorkshire which has been shown all the season, and has not been beaten; further, "Dreadnought" is held by many to be the most perfect Yorkshire Canary ever benched. What a grand investment; and what great good a bird of his calibre must do, in even such a noted stud as that of his present owner.

DUBMIRE (Workmen's Club) C.B.S

Annual show, Dec. 12, under very trying circumstances, a damp cold day causing the birds to sit puffed up nearly all day. There were some nice exhibits in each section, Mr. John Fenton (Chairman) securing special for best young bird, a very nice yellow Nor. Mr. Geo. S. Lynn makes a very obliging secretary, and had everything in "applepie" order, as fitted by a hard working committee. The attendance was very meagre, owing to the bad weather. This enterprising society deserves more support, and we hope to hear of better success next year. Mr. A. J. Notley, Bottom-le-Hole, judged, and gave general satisfaction.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

Pair show, Queen's Hall, Feb. 16, with a record entry of 110 pairs. The attendance exceeded expectations, and made the Sec., Mr. G. Griffiths, feel encouraged as to the future of the Society. Yorks. and Borders were splendidly represented in the Champion Section, and the Norwich and Yorks. in the Novice, particularly the latter, and there was also a good class of pairs for Mule and Hybrid breeding. Mr. J. Robson judged, and the arrangements were all that could be desired. A collection taken for the "Wimbledon Boro' News" East Surrey Regiment "Comforts" Fund realised £1 7s.

LIVERPOOL (Amalgamated).

9th annual show of the Liverpool Amalgamated Societies, Jan. 1, 2, St. Andrew's Parochial Hall, Linacre Road, Litherland, Liverpool. An extended classification was given, and there was an entry of about 330 exhibits. It is proposed to hold in future the show in the centre of the Liverpool district (probably St. Martin's Hall, Scotland Road), and it is felt that a much larger entry will thereby result. Yorkshires were a very high class lot, and Mr. Cowgill, who judged these, was loud in his praises of their excellence. An outstanding cinnamon marked yellow, bred in the Wallasey district, was the feature of the show—a real standard of beauty and symmetry. A high word of praise is due to the comparative novice, Mr. Hodgkins, who bred it and who is now serving with the colours. We understand that Mr. Metcalfe by his score of points at this show, practically makes secure his winning outright of the Green Club Championship Challenge Prize, as this would make him the winner two years in succession. The open classes for Greens, both champion and novice, contained a very large percentage of the cracks and were a treat to view. Mr. Houlton judged all except Champ. Yorks. The committee were: Messrs. Morton, Burns, Benson, Lloyd, Young, Abbott, Mullock, and Jones, with Mr. A. E. Huyton as sec., and everything was carried out with promptitude and despatch. Quite a large number of fanciers from South Lancashire towns visited the show.

LONG EATON C.B.S.

8th annual members' show, Dec. 5, Temperance Hall, with a record entry of 148 birds, despite the fact that some members have enlisted, and most of us are suffering from trade depression through the war. The hall was tastefully arranged by a band of willing helpers, and everything was ready in good time for the opening ceremony at 2 o'clock by prec., Mr. H. Mosley, who in a pleasing speech told us how he had studied birds in their wild state, and had always been fond of them from a boy; it is a pleasure to the officials to know that we have gentlemen in the town who take a great interest in the society, and I would like to express our best thanks to those who kindly contributed special prizes. At the close the chairman awarded the specials in presence of a good number of visitors and friends. Votes of thanks were accorded to the chairman, sec., and assistant sec. Mr. J. H. DEAL, WALMER F.A.

The Deal Walmer F.A., while abandoning the annual open show, decided to hold a two-days' members' show, and to devote the proceeds to the Prince of Wales's Fund, and the local Belgian Refugees' Fund, with the grand result that after paying out five pounds prize money over entries fees, £7 was paid into the Prince of Wales's Fund and £14 to the local Belgian Refugees' Fund, a total of £21. This amount, with seven guineas paid to the local Hospital as profit on show for 1913, makes £28 raised for charitable funds in two years, a grand result considering that Deal is a small spot compared with other towns, and in the very thick of war excitements. Mr. Gibbs, Canterbury, judged, and his awards left no room for comment. In addition to the birds entered for competition, there were in the centre of hall upwards of fifty foreign birds in suitable aviaries and cages; these were kindly lent by Mr. Roe and the sec.

ADVICE ON COMMENCING CANARY BREEDING.

By R. W. SMITH (Gateshead)

THE keeping, breeding, and rearing of Canaries make up a very interesting study—even in the very beginning one realises to some extent its fascination and charm. It is a hobby which entails a little labour, time, and attention; but which brings with it a great amount of pleasure, while with a bit of good fortune combined with practical experience you get a very fair remuneration as an extra reward.

When a commencement is made I would advocate the purchase of birds that are well bred, whether it be Yorkshires, or Norwich Plainheads, or Border Fancies. Get birds that show type and quality. Even with a beginner either of the three varieties I have mentioned as a rule prove prolific breeders, robust of constitution, and easily managed.

The selection of good stock birds is of the most vital importance, and it does not follow that you must pay exorbitant prices for these birds. Set out with the ideal in your mind, and don't rest content until you have achieved it. It may not be done in a day, but perseverance will ultimately bring success. To get information, visit shows, see all you can, and hear all you can (I would not say, like the Yorkshire man, "Say nowt."). Don't be frightened to ask a question as to the why and wherefore, and use an observant eye.

Preparing the Stock.

Just before the breeding season is upon us you should be giving your hens a little inga (or niga) seed twice or thrice a week, also a little rape and hemp as well. The staple diet should be a plentiful supply of best Spanish canary seed. At the beginning of March I commence with a small portion of egg-food per bird; not too much, as I believe in bringing them on gradually, and if it be a cold room the weather plays an important part. About now the cock birds should also have a little of the extra items.

I would not advise you to pair up before the beginning of April; but you must be guided by the condition of your birds, and the weather. You will quite understand, however, that it is no use putting birds together unless in proper breeding condition. The hens ought to be flapping their wings freely, and "calling," which is a sign they are ready to begin nest-building. The cock birds will be almost bursting with song, and occasionally you will find them "feeding" their toes, or some portion of the cage front.

I advocate double breeders, size 39in. by 17½in. by 9in., with both a wood and a wire partition; or at least have wire slides, so you can use them when required. Should your birds not at first agree, separate them with a wire slide until they become accustomed to each other; this often prevents a good deal of ill-treatment. Then, again, if the hen is inclined to pluck her young when going to nest again, let her feed them through the wires of the slide; it is much better than hanging a nursery cage on the front of the breeding cage. The young are more protected, and not so liable to get a chill.

The cages should be well made, having no cracks or crevices to harbour red mite, etc. If enamelled inside they are easily sponged and kept clean. Place a lined nest-pan in between the perches, and about on a level with them, also give some building material. The hen ought soon to get to work.

Take the first, second and third eggs out every morning as laid, putting them carefully away, and put one dummy egg into the nest. On the evening of the third day replace them, not forgetting to dust the nest well with insect powder. If the cock bird is left with the hen, see that he does not disturb her, or interfere with the eggs.

The Hatching Eggs.

On the twelfth and thirteenth mornings, sprinkle the eggs with a little warm water; it will help them to hatch. Should they have been properly incubated, and proved fertile, the young will then make their appearance. Give a little egg-food (say the afternoon of the thirteenth day) so that the hen may feed them. Scalded rape with a little stale white bread grated amongst it is sometimes appreciated by the hen when discharging her maternal duties. You will soon see if she is giving the young her attention. Never resort to hand-feeding the young if it can be avoided.

Some hens will feed better if the cock bird is removed; others will not feed without he is present. There is no hard and fast line to be laid down in this respect. There are cock birds that feed splendidly, and their assistance is invaluable to the hen, especially if it be a brood of four or five.

When the young are three days old give a tiny spray of watercress; this is the green food I favour most, though, of course, some other kinds are equally good. When they have attained the age of three weeks, the hen will be wanting to go to nest again, but do not take them away from their parents until they can properly do for themselves, and then still continue the egg-food, crushed hemp and rape. When they get well on to hard seed, the egg-food can be gradually reduced. Stale bread, moistened with scalded milk, and with a little maw seed mixed amongst it, should be given one or twice a week. If any are inclined to look "lumpy," place them on bread and milk for three or four days, it will put them to rights.

My last words are: Keep yourself in touch with the Fancy; get your Cage Birds weekly; there is always something new cropping up, and no limit to what we can learn.

SOME HINTS ON PARROT KEEPING.

I WILL now deal with some of the commoner Parrot ailments, their symptoms, and what I have found from my own experience to be the best treatment:—

Enteritis.—One of the most frequent and fatal of bird diseases. With Parrots, generally due to chill, but sometimes caused by the presence of some irritant or poison in the bowels. The affected bird puffs its feathers, shivers, and often sits with its head under its wing (to use a common, if incorrect, expression). The eye appears dull, and there is little or no appetite. Heat is the only effective treatment, and if the bird is not too far gone will generally effect a cure. Little benefit is likely to be derived from medicine or dieting, as the patient will hardly touch food until it begins to mend. When enteritis is due to the swallowing of some irritant such as paint or varnish the symptoms are more acute, and convulsions and paralysis of the legs may ensue. Recovery will depend upon the strength of the bird's constitution and the quantity of poison taken, and little or nothing can be done but to keep it warm and quiet, hope for the best and expect the worst!

Pleurisy.—Often accompanied by pericarditis. Symptoms much the same as those of enteritis. Generally fatal in a few hours. Warmth the only remedy.

Inflammation of the Lungs.—Due to chill. The bird pants heavily and breathes noisily, the eye remaining fairly bright. It seldom puts its head under its wing, as the labour of breathing is thereby increased. Treatment: Great heat and a fairly moist atmosphere.

Bronchitis.—Generally due to chill. Symptoms much the same as those of inflammation of the lungs. In enough distilled water to last for a week's supply put 30 grains of carbonate of ammonia, 30 drops of tincture of squills, and 50 drops of glycerine, and give the mixture instead of plain water. There is often no marked loss of appetite. Keep in a very warm and rather moist atmosphere.

Peritonitis.—Generally the result of some internal injury, and almost invariably fatal in a few hours. The symptoms of chronic peritonitis are sometimes indistinguishable from those of tuberculosis, the bird feeding well, but showing extreme emaciation and some diarrhœa.

Tuberculosis.—Most commonly met with in Cockatoos. Symptoms: Emaciation and diarrhœa, and, in acute cases, vomiting. A tame bird may become extremely savage, probably under the influence of pain. The appetite usually remains good. Tuberculosis is by no means so incurable as some writers imagine, even when it has reached a very advanced stage. The bird should be kept extremely warm and fed on every kind of rich and stimulating food which it can be persuaded to take—unlimited quantities of hemp and sunflower seed should be offered, cake and even meat, anything, in fact, which will not irritate the bowels. Avian tuberculosis (which is not known to be communicable to human beings) is seldom pulmonary, and fresh air—in the sense of a constant supply of outdoor air—is of no use whatever in effecting a cure. Far more birds develop tuberculosis in outdoor aviaries than in cages. The disease is highly contagious, but the germs do not appear to be carried by the air.

Septic Fever.—The term popularly employed to designate a highly contagious malady possibly allied to tuberculosis, though wholly distinct from it. The disease is most commonly found among the newly-imported birds which have been over-crowded in dirty travelling boxes; but, once introduced, it will flourish indefinitely in the cleanest and best-kept aviaries in defiance of the most thorough attempts at disinfection. The necessity for a lengthy period of quarantine in the case of all freshly imported birds likely to be suffering from the disease is therefore obvious. The micro-organism of septic fever is possessed of immense vitality, both as regards its power of surviving for long periods without a living host, and of resisting the action of disinfectants. It is also singularly, at times bewilderingly, capricious in its attacks. The disease appears in two forms, the acute and the chronic, the former being by far the most common. Both are incurable, and the symptoms are very similar to those of enteritis, the bird's eye always appearing sick, dull and watery.

Grey Parrot "Fever."—A highly contagious disease often found among newly-imported Grey Parrots, Pœocephalus Parrots (Senegals, etc.), and Blue-bonnets. It is caused by the presence of a diplo-coccus in the blood, and is entirely distinct from ordinary septic fever, though it resembles that disease in its symptoms. Cases of recovery are extremely rare, but are not quite unknown. Great heat is the only remedy to try.

The Making of a Naturalist.

An Appreciation of the Late Walter Lowne.

A VERY interesting appreciation of the work and personality of the lately deceased fancier, Mr. W. Lowne (Fuller's Hill Aviaries, Great Yarmouth) has appeared in the local papers, and from this the following extracts are made. This writer, "John Knowlittle," says:—

"I knew Lowne when a carpenter's apprentice," he says, "he then lived next door to me, and we used to talk birds, and guns, and pursue them together on sand dune, tidemark, river walls, and Breydon, sometimes with little respect for close seasons and the penalties threatened for breaking them. Both equally sanguinary at that time, the rare Spoonbills, Avocets, the commoner Godwits, Knots, Curlew, and Sandpipers, 'in the red' of spring, and other little travellers, were a strong lure from the pathway of 'natural rectitude.'

"Only a month since died the first semi-officially appointed bird watcher (Mr. R. J. Buddery), who tried hard to outwit us. A copy of Mr. Christopher Davies' delightful 'Swan and her Crew,' I well remember, had a most stimulating effect on both of us; and the late Rev. C. A. Johns' 'British Birds in their Haunts' added further zest to our pursuits. That latter volume, in his stuffing days, Lowne usually consulted for positions, attitudes, and poses, than which few wood cuts have ever been more natural and correct.

"Suddenly Lowne decided to learn the art of taxidermy, foreseeing a probable and profitable opening in that line. Nor was his surmise incorrect. There was then a number of collectors in the district, and the gun was still more popular than the field glass or the camera, while many local sportsmen were a milder sort of blockade runners than the sponsors of the 'Dacia.' Lowne's first book on the art I set him up with. He himself sent a bird to the rather clumsy bird-stuffer, old ———, of King Street, who spoilt many good birds, and this specimen the would-be artist afterwards carefully pulled to pieces to see the drift of it, practically learning the method backwards! His first bird was a Starling, which, 'when preserved,' turned out what both of us acknowledged to be a perfect caricature. But he persevered, and set up specimen after specimen, destroying most as he improved upon his work, until he felt emboldened to take in jobs of the kind.

"Lowne at first worked on his specimens at night, after hours; and later on ventured to hire the premises on Fuller's Hill. . . . His neatness as a carpenter, and his remarkable tastiness of case-scenery and fittings were characteristic of his workmanship. Many Norwich and Suffolk collectors sent their work to him.

"As an outdoor hobby, Mr. Lowne for many years pursued the 'gentle art,' winning numerous prizes at Broadland fishing matches. He also rigged up aviaries in his stuffing room, in which rare species of British birds were fed and tended, and duly rendered tame enough for company and the show bench; the pick of these travelled to the Crystal Palace and numerous provincial shows, bringing their owner some gain, and many high honours. He also often acted as judge in bird shows. He reared from the nest Nightingales, Whitethroats, Bearded Tits (one of which he kept alive for ten years), Kingfishers, and others. The Bearded Tit was always a sure prize-winner. Many rare birds were taken to him by bird catchers and gunners. Some of these were 'bargains.'"

Can English Canary Seed be Successfully Grown?

By T. R. TROWER (Trower and Co.)

IN answer to your correspondent who so kindly mentioned our firm, I will mention for his benefit and others of your readers who may be interested the few facts relating to English canary seed that have come to my knowledge as a seedsman. Personally, I have come across very few farmers who have grown it, therefore profess to have no agricultural knowledge or a grower's views of the subject; I can only give you the few facts that I have turned up in my experience of about 45 years in the seed trade.

Canary seed at one time was grown in considerable quantities in England, especially in Essex and the Isle of Thanet. The low price which prevailed for some years practically killed its production. It only pays a farmer when he gets a good price, those who understood its cultivation probably dropped out and lost their interest in it as a crop. Usually, too, when it is grown, it is either harvested damp or over ripe, in which latter case the seed gets shelled and contains a large number of dark brown kernels, which give the bulk a bad appearance, and to a person with no knowledge of the cause leads him to suppose it contains dirt or foreign matter, and he refuses to purchase it. Then, again, it is often badly stored when harvested and gets "moused."

The Difficulty of "Condition."

To get English seed in perfect condition you must have a fine, dry harvest time and catch your crops at the right moment. It is difficult to do this owing to our variable climate. You have not more than one year in about ten when the conditions are perfect—that is, after your crop has successfully passed through its growing period, you want a fine, dry, sunny time to get it in proper condition.

When you turn to those districts like Turkey, Morocco, and Spain, with a soil properly suited to its cultivation, once you have got through the early growing time, and have freedom from frosts, your harvest is assured in good condition in nine years out of ten. A similar thing occurs in our maple peas for pigeon fanciers. Australia and New Zealand can now grow these hard, dry, and good in colour, almost every year, whereas we only get them in such condition once every few years, ours containing too much moisture, which causes them to turn black after a few months. Hence, to-day, all our prominent pigeon keepers use Australian and New Zealand peas in preference to English.

No doubt when you do get a well grown and well harvested parcel of English canary seed, kept free from mice, it is a splendid feeding seed; in my opinion none is better for sweetness and feeding. I for one should like to see its cultivation become more extended and more interesting to farmers; but they do not live on sentiment but have to consider what pays them best.

Where the English Seed Scores.

If you put English canary seed under the microscope you will see its outer shell (or skin) covering the kernel, like a beautiful piece of fine spider's web, and in handling a handful of seed it feels like a piece of fine silk, and looks bright and glossy, whereas if you look at Spanish or Turkish seed you will find a hard, dry, strong, firm outer skin, with but very seldom a shelled seed amongst it, almost exactly the reverse to our English seed. I presume the soil and growth have a lot to do with this difference in the outer covering of the kernel, as well as the hot sun in ripening.

Almost the same remarks re growing, cultivation, and harvesting apply to our English linseed. When you do get a parcel of well grown, well harvested English Linseed there is nothing in the world to equal it for quality.

One is sorry to see many of our time-honoured old crops ceasing to be produced, or very largely dropping out of cultivation, but the reasons are simple. As other parts of the world are being rapidly developed it is found that certain areas and certain districts are better fitted to grow certain seeds and grain, which affords them a great advantage, and in many cases almost a monopoly in their production.

Reviving the Roller Fancy in Grimsby and District.

Sir,—Allow me to invite all Roller fanciers living in the district to meet together and help reorganise the Grimsby and Cleethorpes Roller Canary Society. The Club has held three very successful shows, and is in a sound financial condition, but will have to "put the shutters up" unless more of the local fanciers come forward and help to carry it on! The annual general meeting is fixed for March 11, 7 p.m., at the Adult School, Albert Street, when we shall be delighted to welcome both old and new members.

When Judges Disagree.

Sir,—Allow me to thank Mr. R. D. Parlett for his brief but very interesting letter of last week, and to assure him that I felt very much tickled by his kindly references to a certain judge, because the said judge had the shocking bad taste to question the alleged parentage of Mr. P.'s Hybrid. I note "White Rose" is entirely excluded from his last letter; what modesty! And no more victims are added to his black list; how lucky some are!

Affairs of the Y.C.C. of Scotland.

Sir,—I endeavoured in my last letter to answer "One Less" in a plain and simple way that even he might understand. I tried to show him where he was wrong in his ideas. Now a good debate or argument through your columns is good for the fancy generally; but when it is pure rubbish that is being written on the private working of an association (what business can only be properly discussed at the meetings) then your valuable space is being taken up unnecessarily. There is scarcely one correct statement, and no argument in his whole letter. Re the non-facing of the music by a member who has resigned, I can't see that there was any music to face—save the discordant notes of "One Less." He asserts that I am no friend of the novice, as I want him to fill classes in order that I shall get full prize-money to pay for my winners. I am afraid he is wandering. I had no bought in winners on the bench all the season. He further accuses me of saying that too much has been done for the novice. What I did say and now repeat was that they had made a poor try for trophies, etc., offered in the past. When he says that there is only one competing novice member left, he is very far from the truth. He also says that the winning of a novice cup makes the winner a champion—which is not the case. He talks about a one man club. If one member did show birds to make a good score in points—good luck to him—it is for the other members to try to do the same another time. The remarks of "One Less" remind one of the good old fable of the "Fox and the Grapes." He might try to get someone to explain the S.Y.C.C. Rules, etc. to him.

Is Mixed Seed as Bad as a Disease?

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Knight I will try to explain the over-feeding of British Birds. A Goldfinch, or Linnet, placed in a small cage where it gets little exercise and all kinds of seeds are offered, eats of the best and puts on flesh—result, indigestion is brought on. But still the mixed seed is given (mostly fatty food). Some birds will drop dead from their perch when in full song; others go into decline, and nothing will save them. Take ourselves when given something extra good; we eat too much, and then we feel ill! Do we eat more to get well? No. Now the poor bird cannot help eating if you place these good things before him. Do not be so kind (as you think) to your feathered pet; give the best plain canary seed, and he will live a happy life.

I moult all my birds on plain canary seed, and feed on the plain seed all the year round. I turn all birds loose in the aviary when the breeding season is over. I never give green-food in the winter, but only apple. I give green-food in the breeding season; chickweed only, which is a medicine to wild birds. Give a sick bird its liberty and it will at once find chickweed, eat of it and live. Groundsel bloom is good for the Goldfinch or Linnet (not the leaves). Watch them in the open; they only eat of the groundsel seeds. Dandelion blooms are good to bring them forward for breeding. At times I give my birds a little hemp or sunflower; that is, if a Finch or Linnet looks "thick" they will act as a tonic. When the Finch or Linnet is fresh caught, put it in a small cage for a day or two, as they often damage themselves in large cages, and then feed on soaked seed, rape, canary and thistle, with good sound hemp, crushed every day freshly, for a week or two. Then discontinue the hemp and rape and feed on plain canary seed. Should a bird become thick, return to the soaked seed (well dried) for a time. Once you get them to take the canary seed you have no more trouble with them, only the pleasure of seeing them live in health for years. I hope fanciers will give this system a trial and let me know the result next season, as I too am open to learn.

Prize-money at Cork P.P. and C.B.A. Show.

Sir,—Cork P.P. and C.B.A. annual show was held Nov. 25th and 26th last. As it is now Feb. 26, I would like to know if anyone can tell me, through Cage Birds, when they are going to pay prize-money? I have written two letters to the hon. sec., whose name appears in your report, both of which he has not answered. The same sort of thing happened with their 1913 show. They owed me 11s., sent me 5s., kept back 6s. I sent numerous letters to the then hon. sec., and received no reply. I wrote to the president; still no reply. And that was all I got out of them, 5s. This year, so far, nothing.

The Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve It.

Sir,—Mr. Clegg does me an injustice when he remarks, why recommend weeds of the Crest-bred for crossing? I do not. Weeds of any variety are useless to the fancier whose ambition is to be at the top. Admittedly a good hen is of great value for Crest breeding—the better it is, as far as size, with a short thick body, cushion-shaped head, and good quality of feather, the more value it is to the fancier of Norwich Plainheads who wishes to manufacture his own. This is the great reason why I mention this cross. In the short time which has elapsed since my resurrection, I have found those who have the right stamp of stock birds do not want to part with them. If one has obtained enough size and head properties he does not want more. It would not do for all of us to hold the same opinion as each other. Mr. Clegg may keep to the medium sized typical Norwich. I want to produce a bird of good type, but with an extra large body, deep, broad chest, very broad head and prominent cheeks.

Mr. Allsopp I cannot follow at all. He first says we must not use a large hen.; in the next breath he says you must get your hen as large as the cock. He then says size would be more apparent if we descend from the large rough stock by easy stages. If you get the right stock to start with you will have no rough stock—roughness does not produce size. He then partly condemns the bird that is made large by abundance of feather, although only a little while ago he told us we must have a wealth of feather. Rest assured we must, too; this plays an important part in the bit of extra size required, especially when it is well carried.

J. Bastock.

Sir,—However good a bird may be, it cannot command the entire approval of every judge or fancier. "Sub Rosa" will find a reply to many of his remarks in my letter to Mr. Allsopp. My remarks were made without prejudice, and I quite adhere to them. The only qualifications "Sub Rosa" seems to stand up for are a deep chest, feather fitting like a lady's glove, and a good tail. Referring again to the winner at Ardwick, he finds two faults only—not deep enough in chest, and position too upright. I claim the bird has quite enough chest (we don't want a chest like a pouter pigeon) and that the position is good. Anyway, I shall be pleased to hear from "Sub Rosa" how to get a more uniform type in our Norwich classes.

Barker Clegg.

Sir,—It afforded me great pleasure to peruse that common-sense article on Business Methods by Mr. Hinson last week, in which there is no superfluous language, and dictionary aid has not to be invoked. A striking contrast was reached, so far as my own feelings were concerned, when I came to that part of Mr. Allsopp's letter, advising the big hen, etc. Now, having regard to your valuable space I must say at once that neither the Crestbred nor the Lancashire is needed to maintain size; never in my twenty-two years' experience have I ever used such but, withal, can show Plainheads to-day as big as they are wanted. To back my mode of procedure against Mr. Allsopp's, I will put five pounds at your disposal, providing he does the same, for any charitable purpose you think fit, and if I fail to produce better all round stock from a given pair (if a fair number be reared) then I will willingly part with my money and lift my hat to him.

W. Spillman.

Substitutes for Egg Food.

Sir,—Could any of your readers give me a good recipe for an egg-food substitute, such as egg cake, which would keep for, say, three or four days, for use during the breeding season? I believe I read some few years ago in your valuable paper of readers using dog biscuit and various other substitutes. It would be very interesting just now to hear further experiences of this kind, and especially as eggs may be expensive this coming season.

Yellow Buntings at Bathgate Show.

Sir,—With reference to my appeal through Cage Birds a few weeks ago, kindly allow me to thank those who responded so well by giving a record entry of fifteen birds in the Yellow Bunting class at Bathgate show on Saturday last. We now see there are ample entries to be found, so perhaps the various show committees will see their way to provide a special class for this bird only, and thus avoid the Yellow Bunting competing in a mixed class.

The Future of the Fife and Kinross P.S.

Sir,—What I and others would like to know is, when there is going to be a meeting called of the Fife and Kinross Plainhead Society? The secretary, Mr. Dickson, is stationed at Glencorse on hospital work, and when called up he wrote the officials to call a meeting, and also notified same in your columns. But after six months' waiting there is no word as yet of one. Surely the members are not going to let the club drop after the good work that has been done? Let us all rally together.

The Heavily-marked Norwich at the Welsh National Show.

Sir,—In reply to the letter of Mr. D. Williams, there is perhaps little I can add to that which has already had my attention, when replying to Mr. Davis. If I may say so, however, it seems my reply harmonises very nicely with the facts stated by Mr. Williams, which occasions me some little gratification in view of the fact that, unlike he, I was not "told anything about the affair," nor, unfortunately, had I the services of a "friend with legal knowledge." I do not wish to appear incorrigible in the matter, but really I must confess that when judging the Plainheads at the Welsh National show I fully realised that I was a trusted servant of the exhibitors and of the show management, also that I was a servant unto myself. That it is very evident I failed to properly appreciate the position of the last person I do not deny, as otherwise I should have made very certain of emerging from the situation with a whole skin by promptly adhering to the strict reading of the schedule. In addition to this, I can now see that to make a really reliable judge 'tis very necessary to not only assume the wig and gown of the legal profession, but to also enter into the work imbued with the same business spirit and principles with which our daily work is associated. To deal with an unfortunate circumstance broadly and even generously, as befits a Fancy with lofty ideals, is indeed a heinous offence. If I am to be hung, please let it be soon; in any case before I pair up my birds!

E. W. Allsopp.

Sir,—The decision of the judge and show management I find to be of greater importance to myself than even the winning of a 1st could be to J. H. Davis. If, Mr. Crawshaw's and Messrs. Greaves' and Richards' birds had been "wrong-classed," as it is contended they should have been, I am thereby entitled to the £7 10s. silver cup for most points in the Norwich classes; Mr. Crawshaw at present being credited with 44 points, and myself with 43. This, then, is my justification for entering the arena of discussion on this debatable decision. Mr. Allsopp's attitude in your last issue is the attitude of a strong and generous nature. He admits that had he played the part of Shylock, and cut his pound of flesh, he would have "wrong-classed" Nos. 1, 2, and 3, and awarded 1st prize to Mr. Davis. You, sir, in your editorial comment, suggest that he should have cut his pound of flesh. But could he have done so without spilling one drop of blood? What would Mr. Crawshaw and Messrs. Greaves and Richards have said? How the tongues would have wagged in the Fancy when it became known that owing to the "wrong-classing" of these birds a Cardiff exhibitor had won the cup, though at the time all thoughts of the cup were out of every one's mind. I suggest, sir, that even you have not looked at all the points of the case. Does not rule 23 on page 6 of the schedule expressly state: "The committee's decision on all matters, whether provided in the foregoing rules or not, shall be final, without appeal to a court of law." If these three birds had been "wrong-classed" where, may I ask, should they be placed? They were either to be in Class 29, in which class they were judged, or out of the show. There is a suggestion in Mr. Allsopp's letter that the Committee had overlooked the variegated class, and under the circumstances they allowed these three birds to stand. Now I maintain that that is playing the game. It is the unanimous verdict that but for the difference in colour of a few feathers these three birds were the winners. Mr. Houghton, we are told, accepted the decision. Mr. Davis is totally unknown to me, but I am sure he is not coveting mere prize-money. It is the honour of a 1st in such company that attracts him. May I make a sporting appeal to all concerned, viz., seeing that everybody concerned has had a free "advert." in your excellent paper, and you, Mr. Editor, a piece of good copy, we all agree that under the circumstances a liberal interpretation of the schedule be allowed to stand

(Rev.) C. B. Jolliffe.

[The Rev. Jolliffe does us an injustice, though quite unwittingly, we are sure. We most certainly did not express any opinion as to how Mr. Allsopp should have acted. It has never been our policy, nor do we consider it any part of our duty, to "take sides" in, or proffer unasked advice over, matters of this kind, and all we did last week was to state in as few words as possible the strictly legal aspect of the case. Rule 23 was not overlooked by us. But, quite apart from the fact that this was not a decision arrived at by the committee, we are of the opinion that even the committee would in a court of law be held not to be entitled to over-ride as they pleased all or any of the rules and conditions of competition laid down by them in the schedule—in contingencies not provided for by the schedule the position would, of course, be different. To avoid any misimpression we may say that we do not suppose for one moment that the committee ever had any intention of so doing—shows that do not abide by the conditions of competition they print can only be accumulating potential trouble.—Editor "C.B."]

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Allsopp, it is quite true I was at the show for two days, and had conversations with himself and the officials, and asked then for incidents and happenings that might interest the readers of Cage Birds, but no information was given to me respecting class 29. Naturally I concluded that the judge had been lenient to the winners. So plainly was the schedule worded that it did not for a minute occur to me the committee had been consulted, and that they had agreed with the judge to accept the three birds as competitors. By the remarks I heard I am afraid I was not the only one who failed to participate in the "common knowledge." Of course my attention was not entirely confined to the Plainheads, and the "knowledge" may have been made public to a select circle when I was not present. Anyway, it would have made no difference, as far as I was concerned, for I should still have considered it my duty to question the right of the winners to compete in the class.

I sincerely hope that neither Mr. Allsopp nor the officials of the Welsh National show think that I wish to find fault. I give the officials credit for running a truly fine exhibition. But had I failed to mention the unusual circumstance of birds winning in a class in which they were not eligible to compete, I should have failed in my duty to the Editor, the exhibitors, and the general readers of Cage Birds.

H. Norman.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. Allsopp, I regret being unable to let this matter go, as he seems to think I should do. What other exhibitors in the class do, or think, is a matter concerning themselves only. Speaking for myself, I am determined to have that which is right and just. My exhibit undoubtedly should have won first prize had Mr. Allsopp have "wrong-classed" the three leading birds, which it was clearly his duty to have done. That was the proper and only course he should have taken. There was no need for him to have consulted any other official of the show. If exhibitors enter in a wrong class they know the penalty. I do not expect any leniency from a judge. Mr. Allsopp's action in this matter might have led to more serious trouble, considering there was a cup to be competed for, for the most points in the Norwich class. Perhaps Mr. Crawshaw and Messrs. Greaves and Richards will be good sportsmen and return the prize-money and cards their birds did not win. I must thank Mr. D. Williams for the very sensible view he takes of the case.

Henry J. Davis.

[Two letters, signed "Exhibitor" and "Another Exhibitor," respectively, opposing the course taken by judge and officials, have had to be held over.—Ed.]

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

In the Courts.

Cruelty at Glasgow.

In Glasgow Justice of Police Court, on Jan. 19, before Messrs. Cleland and Gardener, John Anderson, bird dealer, admitted a charge of having, between December 31 and January 4, in his shop, omitted to provide sufficient food and water for two captive birds, a Canary and a Linnet, in consequence of which they died. In respect that this was a second offence he was fined £2, with the option of 20 days' imprisonment.

Colliers Fined at Talgarth.

At Talgarth Police Court, on Jan. 15, W. Richards, Pentrebach, and Richard Morris, Abercanaid, colliers, were charged with unlawfully catching wild birds during the closed season at Talyllyn, on December 15. Defendants admitted the offence. P.C. Caleb Morris said he saw defendants in a field near Talyllyn at 1.30 p.m. They had a net (produced) laid out on the ground, and some birdlime on sticks (produced) close by. Defendants also had five calling birds in cages—three Goldfinches and two Mules. There were four Goldfinches, which had been caught, caged in another part of the field. Richards said they were not making a living by it—only catching a few to breed for themselves.—Inspector Bowyer said that in cases of this kind there was great difficulty in detecting these men and only by chance had this case been secured. The birds of the county were becoming scarce, which was due to the fact that persons came into the district to catch them.

After consultation, the Chairman said cases of this nature were becoming too common in the county, and they were bound to suppress them. Morris gave the wrong name, and he would be fined 30s., including costs. Richards would be fined 20s., including costs. Defendants would have to forfeit the nets and birdlime, and they should have been asked to hand over the calling birds and cages. He advised them to give up this practice.

Club Reports.

HACKNEY, STOKE NEWINGTON.

General meeting Jan. 9. Committee elected: Messrs Atherton, Beard, Dowson, Ford, Hatchett, Jones, Lazell, Saveall, Whalley, Woodget. Decided to discontinue monthly shows, but to have March show, all sections; Sept. show, all sections; October, washing exhibition.—R. W. Ford, junr., Hon. Sec.

LUTON C.B.S.

Annual meeting, Feb. 9. Some usual business was transacted, but it was impossible to fix open show date, as at present all halls are in the hands of the military. Officers elected for the year:—Chair, F. Webb; vice-chair, E. Cherry; treas., Mr. Meadows; committee, Messrs. W. Smith, A. George, J. Letchfield, jun., R. Mayston, F. J. Webb, and G. Bent. Balance-sheet again showed a small increase. Next meeting, Mar. 9, at 4, Red Street, when anyone interested in the cage bird fancy will be heartily welcomed, we are hoping to have on view a silver cup presented for competition at F.F. show.—E. Bloomfield, Hon. Sec.

SOUTHERN BORDER F.C.

Annual general meeting, Headquarters, Feb. 15, a fair number of members being present, Mr. H. Norman chair. Treas., Mr. Newley, presented balance-sheet for 1914, which showed a cash balance in hand of £5 4s. 10d. This was considered very satisfactory, and a hearty vote of thanks was given the sec. and treas. Decided that the sum of one guinea be given sec. for his services during the past year. The ballot for officers for 1915 resulted as follows:—Pres., Rev. H. A. Soames; vice-pres., Mr. D. Jenkins; chair, Mr. H. Norman; vice-chair, Mr. H. C. Humphries; treas., Mr. R. A. Newley; auditors, Messrs. J. Robson and H. Holden; committee, London, Messrs. B. Green, W. G. Martin, A. G. Snook, P. J. Onslow, E. Pegg, W. E. Plank, F. W. Burton, and E. C. Last; Provincial, Messrs. J. H. Madagan, G. H. Pratt, R. W. Claydon, A. J. Pratt, E. R. Roberts, J. H. Philpott, and G. Gwilliam; sec., Geo. Burton, 126, Lee Road, Lee Green, S.E., to whom all communications should be addressed. We had a very pleasant surprise during the evening, this being no less than a visit from Mr. F. W. Burton, who had arrived from France a few hours previously on short leave. Needless to say, he met with a warm reception, and takes back with him the best wishes of all. The alteration to rule 3 was carried, only two voting against. Geo. Burton, Hon. Sec.

MIDLAND ROLLER C.C.

Meeting Feb. 25, headquarters, Seven Stars, Wolverhampton, Mr. Willows chair. New members elected: Messrs. S. Norton, H. Appleby, J. Thompson, C. Kimptin, S. Downing, J. Burrowes, T. W. Vincent; there was a good attendance. Messrs. Willows and Cadman brought a few Koller birds, and a very interesting evening was spent. Meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Messrs. Willows and Cadman.—J. W. Thomson, Hon. Sec.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE (East End)

Meeting Feb. 24, Hall's Cafe, Heaton Road, Mr. McFartling presiding over a good attendance. Mr. Affleck (Newcastle) was elected a member. Decided that we again have a two-days' show and keep our date, Nov. 26 and 27. Other societies please note. Several judges being nominated, Sec. was instructed to write for terms, etc.; selection to be made next meeting. Rules were gone into but for lack of time were left over till next meeting, Mar. 31. Vote of thanks to chair closed the meeting.—J. W. Coutts, Sec.

SCOTTISH CRESTED C.C.

Annual general meeting, 142, High Street, Edinburgh, Feb. 20. Mr. Charles Campbell (President) chair, with a very moderate attendance. Financial statement for past year was submitted, showing a cash balance of £6 17s. 9d., This was considered very satisfactory. Club gold and silver medals were handed over to winners present by Mr. Campbell. The following were admitted to membership: Messrs. R. S. Spence, R. McClement, S. Martin and J. Lister. Vote of thanks to chair brought meeting to a close.—J. Young, Hon. Sec.

GRIMSBY O.S.

Meeting and matched pair show Feb. 25, Slatter's Rooms, Mr. A. Oliver chair, with a moderate attendance. One new member was elected. Nov. Nor., yell. ck. and buff hen, 1, 2, 3, Cotterill. Goldf. or Bullf.: 1, H. Towl; 2, 3, Watson. Linnet: 1, 2, Watson. Siskin, etc.: 1, Watson; 2, 3, H. Towl. Greenf.: 1, Watson. Bunting: 1, Watson. Roller singing contest: 1, A. Towl. Mr. A. Towl judged all except Rollers, which was left to the members' vote. Next meeting March 25, Hybrid Pair Show, and it is hoped every member will attend. Any intending member will be made welcome.—J. T. Cotterill, Treas.

WISBECH P.P.R. & C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Institute, Wisbech, Feb. 17. Officers elected: Pres., Dr. Lucas; chair, Mr. G. Ramsdale; hon. sec., C. Ward; assist. sec., A. Clarke, and a committee of 20 members. Accounts for past year were presented by Sec., and passed. A vote of thanks was accorded to those who had kindly given their services for the benefit of the society during the past year. Decided that the entrance fee for non-members be 2s. per entry, and members, 1s.; members thus having a rebate of 1s. The society would be pleased to include in its members any fanciers in the district; subs., 2s. 6d. per annum.—Ward and Clarke, Hon. Secs., Kilmorie, Park Road, Walsoken.

BUCKHAVEN C.B.S.

Meeting, Gardeners' Hall, Feb. 27. Mr. Foster chair. President gave report of League meeting; unanimously agreed that each exhibitor at League show receive an equal share of the balance left. Open show date fixed for Oct. 30. To stimulate interest in the Fancy, the society are now having judging competitions, and fortnightly meetings instead of monthly. Mr. J. Rintoul was final judge for the show, and all members took a great interest in the judging. Mr. W. Low led all the time with a nice pair of Yorkies, and was declared winner. Next meeting Mar. 13, when the competition will be Linnets. Mr. W. Low final judge. We extend a hearty welcome to all "birdy" men to spend a pleasant two hours with us.—G. Paterson.

EDINBURGH C.B.S.

Meeting Cairn's Memorial Hall, Feb. 16, President Mr. G. Staines chair, and a good turnout of members. A letter in connection with rings was allowed to stand over. Agreed to give ten classes for British and muling pairs at table show in March. Several specials were intimated. Fee 2d. per bird up to three entries and over. WELSH C.B.C.

Cup winners for 1914:—Champ. section, Leach Canary Cup. Nor. Cup, and two club medals, G. T. Jones, 36 points; Novice club medal, E. Powell, 23. Will Messrs. Jones and Powell please write me re medals in accordance with show rule 3, on or before 11th inst. I will call annual general meeting as soon as medal question is decided. At annual meeting an alteration to rule 16 will be asked for, viz., that points count as one, or that the rule be struck out. Officers will be elected as per rule 6. A suggestion has been made that the club should form themselves into a Canary club, owing to poor support of British bred fanciers; this also will be placed on the agenda. Will members please refer to rule 2 re subs., and note I shall not stand for re-election?—A. E. Brown.

SACRISTON P.P.R. & C.B.S.

Meeting, Feb. 6, chair Mr. James Rogers. Messrs. R. Whittaker, J. McKeag, M. Smith, R. Dover, J. Pascy elected members. Decided that members' subs. be paid up by the middle of Oct. as per rule, and that the meetings be held one Sat. at 7, the other at 5.30, to give every member a chance of attending. Messrs. A. Lawson were elected on committee. Next meeting an egg show for the benefit of the club, and after the meeting the eggs will be given over to the wounded soldiers and sailors hospitals; fee 3d.; prizes 1s., 6d., and 3d. Every member is asked to make one or two entries to go to this worthy cause. Next meeting in Mr. H. Abbott's Tea Rooms, Front Street, March 6, at 5.30. Business important. Dodd and Wilfred, Secs.

GRIMSBY & CLEETHORPES R.C.S.

Meeting Feb. 24, Wilson's Hairdressing Saloon (kindly lent for the occasion). Mr. Rawcliffe presided over a poor attendance. A rough balance sheet was drawn up, showing the club to be in a sound financial condition, and as the working expenses had been so small during the past year it was decided to give the members the benefit of two years' membership for one year's sub., so will members who have paid their subs. for 1914 please note they are fully paid up members for 1915. Annual general meeting is fixed for Mar. 11 at 7 at Adult School, Albert Street. A hearty invitation is given to all Roller fanciers in the district to join, attend the meetings, and take part in the management of the club. Any member joining on or before the annual meeting will be allowed to do so without entrance fee. A good attendance is desired at next meeting for re-election of officers for 1915, balance sheet, etc.—H. Mason, Hon. Sec.

BARROW C.B.S.

Meeting Garner's Restaurant Feb. 24, Mr. A. Hudson presiding over a large turn out, and a most enjoyable meeting, and full of interest, was gone through. Sec. intimated he had secured Mr. Charles Duncan, M.P., as vice pres., also two well known gentlemen of the town as honorary members; this was received with much satisfaction. We have engaged Mr. Stewart, Whitehaven, to judge N.F. show July 10. Nomination money for N.F. must be paid next meeting night, Mar. 10. Washing exhibition will be given by Mr. W. Ireland, and washing competition; this should prove very instructive. Border show of pairs, 17 pairs staged, some well known winners among them. 1, 2, 3, hc, large; vhc, Traustor; c, Willison. Mr. W. Ireland judged, and had a difficult task. Some new members were enrolled, this bringing a very interesting meeting to a close.—D. McFarlane, Hon. Sec.

Announcements of forthcoming contests in the nature of advertisements must be paid for at advertisement rates, three words a penny.

ELVET.

Linnet contest, Black Horse Inn, Elvet, Durham, Feb. 27, 36 birds entered. 1, 2, 3, Walker; 4, Robinson. Judge, R. Wilson. Next contest Mar. 13.—F. McKinley.

TYLDESLEY.

There will be an open contest for time only at Queen's Hotel, Tyldesley, Mar. 13; entrance fee 1- per bird. First pair hung at 2.30. Hoping to see all the old faces again.—J. Litherland, Assist. Sec.—(Advt.)

KIPPAX.

Members sing, Headquarters, Commercial Hotel, Feb. 27. 22 birds entered for four minutes' sing, one minute spring and three minutes bluff. 1st, Wallis; 2nd, Colliuson; 3rd, Wallis; timekeepers, O. Potter and R. Collinson; tappers, A. Cooper and W. Peckin. Some good singing was heard. R. Collinson's bird won biggest break.—R. Plows, Sec.

LEIGH.

Globe Inn Linnet Club.—Members' contest Feb. 27 for time and quality; 25 birds were hung. Time: 1, Wood, 65; 2, Rigby, 53. Quality: 1, Prescott; 2, Cowburn, three minutes' singing. Judges, T. Statham, J. W. Jones; timers, W. Meadows, R. Disley; minute man, Woods. Open contest for time and quality Mar. 20.—Robert Disley, Sec. (Please see notice above re advertisements.—Ed.)

PONTEFRACT.

Linnet contest, Woodman Inn, Horsefair, open sing, Feb. 27; 35 entered for three minutes time singing. 1, Beard, 87; 2, Nelson, 84; 3, 4, Pugh, 77, 67. Open sing Feb. 28; 34 entered, and some good singing was done. 1, Pugh, 90; 2, Jones, 75; 3, Beard, 55. Mr. Pugh had the honour of doing a 56 break.—S. Pugh, Sec.

CASTLEFORD.

Linnet contest, George and Dragon, Bridge St., Feb. 27, four minutes time singing. 1, Morley; 2, Wainwright; 3, Smith. Feb. 28: 1, 2, Wainwright; 3, Morley.—S. Morley, Sec.

BARNSLEY.

Commercial Hotel, New St., Linnet Club contest, Feb. 21, 16 members singing five minutes time singing, the winner doing record time. 1, Hardman, 4min. 20sec.; 2, Skivington, 3.16; 3, Hardman, 3.14. Feb. 28: 1, Hardman, 4.16; 2, Skivington, 2.40; 3, Simmons, 2.29.—J. Hardman, Sec.

SWINTON & PENDLEBURY C.B.S.

Contest for Linnets not having won a first prize, Working Men's Club, Pendlebury, Feb. 27. Some good singing was heard. 1, Dixon; 2, W. Jones; 3, Saben. Judges, G. Bates and Winn. Minutes, Almond.—Alex. Donnelly.

LEEDS.

Quality singing, Old Bird House, Skinner's Arms, Bushlingthorpe, Feb. 28; 19 birds competed. 1, Laycock; 2, Binns; 3, Blackburn. Judges, Binns, C. Clayton, and J. Sellars. C. Clayton, Sec.

Leeds Linnet Club, Plasterers' Arms, Skinner Lane, Feb. 28; 30 best birds in Yorkshire competed, and the singing was beautiful. 1, 3, Johnson; 2, Whitfield; 4, Chippendale. Judges, P. Madden, A. Lorriman; timekeeper, C. Lorriman.—A. Bryan, Sec., Plasterers' Arms, Skinner Lane, Leeds.

Linnet contest Albion Hotel, Saville Green, York Road, Feb. 27; 21 birds from all over England sang. 1, Johnson; 2, G. Hirst; 3, Ward. Judges, Lacey, Sisson. Feb. 28, 31 entered; the first bird ran like a German Canary; the house was packed with friends. 1, Johnson; 2, J. Chippendale; 3, 4, shared, Hirst and Ward. Judges, Lacey, J. Smith and Sisson. Also a grand Canary contest, with birds from all the Roller clubs in England, before a crowded house. 1, Atkinson; 2, Conliffe; 3, Chadwick. Judges, W. Sisson, A. Richardson, G. Grant. A. Richardson, Sec. (Please write only on one side of the paper.—Ed.)

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

CANARY NOT SINGING (W.S.).—It is not possible to give any satisfactory remedy for a Canary not singing without knowing something as to the cause of the condition. It may be due to so many quite different things, and you give not the slightest clue as to which may be affecting your bird. Add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence and ten drops of lemon juice to its drinking water for three consecutive days, and afterwards six drops of tincture of gentian and four of dilute sulphuric acid every second day for a week. Also give two criso young leaves of dandelion every second day, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry mixed in it. If this does not have the desired effect in, say, a fortnight, write again, and give full particulars of the bird's condition, and where and how you keep it.

WILL THEY BREED? (T. C.).—Yes, certainly. Canaries will breed if they can see each other. The mere fact that individual birds, or even different pairs, can see each other will not affect their breeding in any way.

SHELLING SEED (J. B.).—Treat as follows for a week or two:—Give a staple diet of a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition, give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of scalded rape and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar, and a couple of crisp young leaves of dandelion, or a spray of watercress. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week, and after this give instead four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week or fortnight, as may seem necessary.

BREEDING PREPARATIONS (J. J. S.).—The number of hens you require depends upon whether you mate up the birds in cages or allow them to fly at liberty about the room. If you fit up the room with natural branches fixed to the walls, or small bushes in tubs, feeding tables, nesting sites, etc., to turn it into a kind of aviary into which you intend to let the birds fly loose during the breeding season, you may turn in six to eight hens with the two cocks. For this number you should provide not less than a dozen nesting sites. If breeding in cages you may mate each cock with two, or possibly three hens, consecutively, removing him from each hen as soon as she begins to sit and mating him with the next one that is quite ready. Single breeding cages for each of the hens would be the most convenient for this purpose. When all three hens are sitting, cage the cock alone until his services are again required. Both methods are used successfully, but, on the whole, the method of keeping the hens in separate cages and running the cock with one at a time is the most satisfactory. You will find full details about these consecutive matings in the forthcoming "Cage Birds Annual."

TRAINING FOR SONG (J. D.).—Whether a Roller tutor should be kept in a closed song box depends entirely upon the style and quality of its song. Unless it was a much too loud or harsh singer, there should be little necessity for keeping it in a closed box. The answers to your other queries are mostly in the negative, but there is not space to go into the details in this column, so I cannot advise you better than to get Part XVI. of "Our Canaries," wherein you will find the subject dealt with; or look up the back numbers of this paper for the past few months, in which you will find the matter fully dealt with in the articles on the Roller Canary. Briefly, you should not use two or three tutors and change them about at intervals, unless they each have a type of song fairly approximating to the same standard; the tutor, as a rule, is best hung on the same wall as the pupils, the cages of the latter being arranged around it, or them; and there should be no necessity to darken the cages except in special circumstances, such as the youngsters getting wild or too loud in song. Finally, you do not say whether you are referring to birds of last season or the coming one. If the former, then you should know that it is now much too late to properly train the birds. Training should commence before the first moult.

IS IT WORMS? (Always Eating).—It is certainly possible for a Canary to be troubled with worms, but it is not at all probable, and you should not treat it for worms until you have actually demonstrated the pest in the evacuations. The bird is far more likely to be suffering from digestive derangements. Treat it for a month the same as advised to "J. B." in this issue, but add also two drops of cod liver oil emulsion to the bread and milk each time you give it, and give the dandelion daily; or if you cannot get the growing dandelion, give instead a spray of watercress daily and add two drops of dandelion juice from the chemist's to the water on the days alternating with those on which you give the gentian mixture during the latter part of the treatment.

ALMOST BARE (V. H. J.).—Remove the bird to a separate cage and treat it as follows for a few weeks:—Give a staple diet of plain canary seed only. In addition, give separately every third day half a teaspoonful of scalded summer rape, and on the alternate days give first a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake slightly dusted with flour of sulphur and sprinkled with maw seed, and next a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and broken groats, and on these days also add to the drinking water as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence and ten drops of lemon juice. Give a little green salad four times a week—watercress, dandelion, or chickweed—and allow the bird to bathe freely in mild weather. Continue this treatment for a month at least. Do not mate the bird until the treatment is completed, nor until it is in good plumage again.

SWELLING NEAR TAIL (Crestbred).—Sorry, but it is not possible to give definite advice for amateur treatment of such a case as this with any satisfaction, and without the advantage of seeing the bird. In all probability the swelling is a serous abscess, which would yield readily to treatment by injections of iodine, but this is a course of treatment which can only be carried out by a qualified veterinary surgeon or a medical man who understands the action of the drug. If the bird is a valuable one, this is the course of treatment I advise you to put it under. Otherwise you may try the effect of painting with tincture of iodine every fourth of fifth day for two or three weeks, and add as much Epsom salts as will cover a threepennypiece and ten drops of lemon juice to the drinking water three times a week during the same period. There is also the possibility of the substance being a tumour, and again this could only be properly or safely excised by a skilled operator. There is no danger whatever to the other birds caged with it, but it would be better to cage it alone for its own benefit, as there is certainly a risk of the other birds attacking it as its condition becomes more palpably abnormal.

NOISY AT NIGHT (H. W.).—The bird is probably suffering from a little catarrh. Keep it in a comfortable place, not necessarily overheated, but free from cold draughts, or extremes of heat and cold. In addition to its staple seed diet, give separately half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a morsel of banana and add to the water five drops each of oxymel of squills and ipecacuanha wine, and three of eucalyptus oil well shaken together. If bird is not quite well in, say, a fortnight, write again, and I will advise you further.

FORWARD HENS (Condition).—Keep the birds well away from the fireplace, in a place where the temperature is fairly equable, but see that they are not exposed to cold direct draughts. In addition to the staple of plain canary seed, give a morsel of some green salad every second day, any kind except dandelion, and twice a week give half a teaspoonful, not more, of egg food, or the equivalent in bread and milk, and twice a week until the end of this month add to the water as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence. It would be advantageous to keep the cocks in such a position that the hens cannot see them, and do not allow anything in the shape of nesting material to be about the cages for the time being. If the weather is favourable about the last week in this month, you may risk mating up these birds, especially if the room you intend them to occupy is fairly equable and free from damp. You may remove them there during the first spell of mild weather which occurs now.

ROOM FACING NORTH (E. B. Walt).—Yes, there is a chance of successful breeding, and a good chance, in a room facing north, which gets no sun. As it is light and airy, and keeps fairly equable in temperature, the fact that it does not get direct sunshine is in no sense inimical to success in breeding. Under the circumstances stated I do not advise you to use any artificial heat at all, much less an oil lamp. The best staple food is plain canary seed, or at most a simple mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition to this, you may give the extras frequently detailed in this column, green food four times a week at present and daily in summer, and egg food daily when young are being reared. But as this is too large a subject for this column, you would do well to get a copy of the handbook, "Canary Breeding for Beginners," which our manager will send you post free for 7d.

ROLLER AND YORKSHIRE (Novice, G.E.A.).—(1) It is not absolutely necessary to keep a Roller in a special Roller song cage. If kept in a place where they are not subject to cold draughts they do quite as well, and sing as much, or even more, in a box-cage or open wire cage. But in the latter type of cage they are very apt to get too loud, or "wild," in song. Besides, an open wire cage is not to be commended unless it is quite certain that the position where it is kept is quite free from cold direct draughts. (2) Judging from your description I should say there is nothing wrong with the Yorkshire, except that it has become in high breeding condition. Is there a hen in sight? If so, that is the object that has distracted his attention from his song. Stop the mixed seed for the next two or three weeks, give a spray of watercress daily instead of the apple and banana, and add a pinch of Epsom salts to the drinking water three times in the next week. If hanging within sight of a hen remove him to a position where he cannot see her.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

THRUSH NOT SINGING (Irish Fancier).—Are you sure your bird is a cock? Song Thrushes are such precocious youngsters that even those in the open are singing stoutly now. I can hear one as I write, although we have a good deal of snow on the ground. You appear to be feeding it fairly well, and if it does not open out, say, in a month from now, I should give the bird its liberty. I am inclined to think it is suffering from intestinal worms, and would advise you to get some freshly-ground areca nut from the chemist and dust a little on his soft food. Previous to giving this, let the bird have a dose of Glauber salts for one day only, enough to cover a sixpence, in two tablespoonsful of water, then repeat in a week's time.

CAGE OR AVIARY BREEDING? (Abbey).—My own experience is that cage breeding is more reliable than aviary breeding, but as it is certainly more trouble, the results ought to be better. The other side to this question is—Are your hens good ones? They may be naturally bad feeders, in which case they would probably do better in cages than in the aviary, and as there appears to be some doubt about them I would advise you to take out two of the hens and the cock Goldie, or one of the cock Canaries, and try them in cages, leaving the other four hens in the aviary. It is just possible they will all do better next season; a year's flying in the open may make them full of health and vigour; and as a rule healthy birds do well.

FINCHES FOR AVIARY (R. E. C.).—Of the birds you possess the most likely to nest in your aviary would be the Linnets and Greenfinches; you might also try the Bullfinches, although the cock is seldom a successful breeder in captivity; you could also turn in the pair of Buntings if you have room, but not Robins; these would be certain to fight the other inmates, and cause trouble, possibly deaths. Fasten a bundle of heather or gorse up in each corner, and place an old nest or two among it, or even a small box or old cage, and possibly the British birds will take to some of them to nest in. Be liberal with nesting material, such as moss, cow hair, wool, shredded linen and vegetable down. British hens as a rule are not reliable mothers, but if you have no Canaries to act as foster mothers you could give them a chance; occasionally they succeed.

TROUBLE WITH CORN BUNTING ("Annan").—Canary seed is undoubtedly the staple food for Buntings, and this should always be supplied. I would advise you to discontinue the corn screenings, and offer a little maw seed, cracked hemp, and coarse oatmeal. Try him with a few soaked ants' eggs, using new milk, and draining them on a cloth; also give a little good insectile food, laying the ants' eggs on it, then mixing them in, and gradually increasing the quantity. Insects of all kinds should be offered as procurable. The looseness no doubt arises from indigestion, and you cannot do better than give 5 grains of bismuth on bread and milk. You may have a difficulty in getting him to eat the bread and milk, but I would try him by taking away all seed and then sticking some canary on it; in taking the seed he may sample the bread; with a little patience and watchfulness you may succeed.

WHICH CAGE? (Ornito).—I would advise you to use No. 2 cage for your Goldfinch and Canary pair, because you are almost certain to have to shut off the Goldie at some time or other during the season, and if you have to catch him you may seriously disturb the hen. All Finches cannot be trusted with the eggs, and until you know something about him, it is safer to shut him off overnight, when you expect the hen to lay in the morning. If you use No. 2 for them, you can place him opposite his chosen partner as soon as you like, and draw the slide when they are both ready. For future management I would advise you to get one of our books on Hybrid Breeding, or watch the paper for information as the season proceeds.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN IN AVIARY (M. Pruden).—You could keep the birds you mention in your aviary, although I think the two Finches and the hen Canaries would do better without the others. Your aviary is really only a large flight cage, and you would have none too much room for breeding operations, and the less birds are crowded at such times the better.

MULE WITH SKIN TROUBLE (Anxious).—Give the following aperient: Enough Glauber salts to cover a sixpence, dissolved in two table-spoonfuls of water for one day only, then miss two days and repeat. Feed on a little soft food occasionally, say twice a week, and a spoonful of soaked seeds, canary, teazle and rape daily; see that he eats this, if not, take the dried seeds away. Give also sweet apple or any fruit containing acids. Wet the bare places with fresh lemon juice. As the spring advances be liberal with green food, particularly young leaves of dandelion grown in the sun.

LINNET DRINKING EXCESSIVELY (Prestonian).—The Linnet naturally drinks a good deal, but yours evidently takes more than the usual quantity. This is usually a sign of some internal trouble. You give me no idea of your feeding, which may be of such a nature as to cause the looseness and make the bird feverish. Give him first of all a mild aperient, half-teaspoonful of tincture of rhubarb and tincture of gentian in two tablespoonfuls of water; give three times, missing a day in between. Feed on canary 3 parts, teazle 2 parts. Offer a spoonful of soaked teazle and rape, and a good pinch of maw seed daily. Sprinkle some of the seed on flannel, keep damp, and place in a warm corner, and give some to him as soon as it commences to germinate. When not giving medicine, let him have boiled water to drink. If you find with this alteration in treatment that there is still some looseness of the bowels, give five grains of bismuth on a little bread and milk daily. I would advise you to get our Nutshell booklet on the Linnet, 2½d. post free from our office, or twopence from your local newsagent.

SEED SAMPLES (C. H. Carter).—The samples sent are of excellent quality, and could be used for birds in your aviary in the following manner. Canary seed 4 parts, teazle 2 parts, and the rape 1 part. Give this as a staple food, and a mixture of equal quantities of the millet in a separate vessel. Just watch the staple food, and if you find the canary disappearing rather quickly, increase the supply, as your Yellow Bunting will possibly feed almost exclusively upon it. In addition to the above, you should procure some good wild seed mixture, and give three times a week, allowing a spoonful to each of the British birds. A little sunflower occasionally will be good for the Bullfinches. The Buckwheat is not usually given to British birds, but I find some of them will eat it if it is first lightly cracked, so that they can easily get at the kernel.

BREEDING WITH MULE (A. Smales).—Generally speaking, Mules are not fertile, although cases have been reported of them breeding with hen Canaries. There will be no harm in your trying, if you have the birds and the necessary accommodation.

BREEDING WITH LINNETS AND GOLDIE.—(A. R. Fox).—I would advise you to pair your Linnets up each to one hen only, and not try to run them with more than one. Occasionally one manages to get a bird that will mate with two or more Canaries, but he is quite the exception. Many of them get quite "chummy" with the hen, and are very attentive to her while she is sitting, but it is as well to keep a watchful eye upon them, for they cannot all be trusted. With your Goldie you can act differently. Place him in the centre compartment of a three-compartment cage, and run him first with the hen that is ready, then shut her off with a wooden partition, and run him with the other hen. In this way you can use him to keep both hens going. It is the usual custom to take a nest of Canaries from the hens before running them with the Finches. In the first place it starts the hen nesting rather earlier, and should you breed a light Mule, you have some young Canaries of the same blood to work up a strain of light muling hens.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

A SINGING FOREIGN FINCH (A. Lodge).—Either of the following would meet your case: Alario Finch, Cape Canary (7s. 6d. to 10s. each); Grey and Green Singing Finch (3s. 6d. to 5s. each). Of course, you must procure a cock bird. Neither Zebra nor Saffron Finches can be accounted song birds; their present value is about 10s. 6d. to 12s. 6d. pair.

BIRDROOM QUERIES (R. McK.).—The arrangement of the bird room figured on your plan should answer very well, and the position of the cages for foreign Finches will be all right so that they can get some sun during the course of the day. I do not, however, consider the cages high enough; I should advise you to so arrange matters that these cages may have a minimum height of from 18 to 20 inches. The screened ends for nesting should answer well. The window to open as ventilator should not be in position in which you show it, but right up against the ridge. You can easily work it by cords and pulley. Budgerigars, White Java Sparrows, and Cutthroats should breed in your cages, and the Cordon Bleus ought to. Zebra Finches, Silverbills, Bib Finches, and Magpie Mannikins ought certainly to do so. Orange-cheek Waxbills, Avadavats, Gold-breasted Waxbills may breed, but they are shy breeders in captivity.

BREEDING QUAIL (Mrs. Cole).—Almost any species of Quail about the same size as the one you have would cross with it. If you write to some of our principal advertisers you will doubtless get what you require, but I think you are more likely to get one of its own kind than other species: either the Rain or Harlequin Quail would be likely to readily cross with it, but I doubt your being able to obtain the latter species at the present time. If you get any young chicks hatched out, you must supply ants' eggs, gentles, live ants' eggs, and insectile mixture, but they will soon learn to pick up seed.

WHAT PARROT? (H. Dixon).—It is a male Ring necked Parrakeet. Fill the food vessel up each morning and renew the supply again in the afternoon if necessary. Most Parrots bathe; when they are tame they are usually allowed to do this outside the cage, but if yours refuses to do so it must be lightly sprayed once a week in winter and oftener in summer, and you must keep it strictly out of reach of draught till the plumage is dry again. Newly imported birds can be bought for a few shillings, but an established bird in good feather and a good talker will fetch three or four pounds.

DOUBLE-FRONTED AMAZON (Hilda Merritt).—Bathe the wound with tepid water so as to cleanse it; dry with a soft cloth and then lightly anoint with a little boracic ointment, but do not use sufficient to run among and grease the plumage. Every fourth day put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water, and twice a week put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water, but not on the same day as you give the magnesia; you must not use a metal drinker while giving drugs. You say nothing about its diet; this should consist of seed mixture, ripe fruit, nuts, dry crusts and biscuits. Grit, cuttlebone, water, and wood to cut up should be continually in the cage. When cleansing the wound, if it contains humour exude this by gentle pressure with the sponge or cloth you use for cleansing it. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk sop, table scraps, nor any kind of animal food whatever.

GREY PARROT (Mrs. Flood).—You had better let a vet. see the bird; he could probably remove the growth straight away or lance it and give immediate relief. If you cannot do this, then prepare the following sop:—Put several pieces of stale household bread in a small dish, sprinkle with sugar, put on the bread half a teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion; then pour over it as much boiling water as the bread will absorb and supply to the bird when cool. Also keep up a supply of the food you are now supplying dry. Put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia into the drinking water every fourth day, and on the intervening days put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water. You must not use a metal drinker while giving drugs. Put a little honey and borax into its mouth twice a day. Only a vet. can advise you as to whether it should be destroyed, but I should certainly try the treatment for a few days. Of course, it would be better to destroy it than let it slowly starve, but if it will eat the soft food fairly well there is still a chance for it. Keep it warm.

VIRGINIAN CARDINAL (Enquirer).—Both names refer to the same bird. The male bird has the bright areas rich scarlet and the whole of his plumage more or less suffused with the same colour. The female is ruddy-brown, and the brightest areas of her plumage are brick-red.

WHAT IS IT? (A. L. Haynes).—(1) It is a cock Madagascar (sometimes called Grey-headed) Lovebird. (2) Yes. (3) Canary, white millet, a few oats, green food, grit, cuttlebone and water. (4) No. They are frequently kept together, but if your small aviary is an indoor Crystal Palace type cage there might be trouble, but not otherwise. (5) The hen is various shades of green and lacks the grey head of the male.

PARROT—WHAT KIND IS IT? (Novice, W. A. R.).—Either a Grey, Blue-fronted Amazon, or a Ring-necked Parrakeet would answer your purpose, providing you secure a really tame talking bird and do not make your purchase till you have tested it. Better pay more and get a bird locally than a cheap bird from a distance that is not satisfactory. My reason for obtaining locally is that you can see and personally test before concluding purchase. Replies per post are only given under the conditions stated in the rules applying to this column. I am rightly not allowed to recommend any special tradesman. You must consult our columns and write to any of those who advertise what you require. Note: A parrot at a very low figure will be either a newly imported specimen or quite untrained.

HALF-MOON CONURE (Psittacus).—(1) I have heard of and once saw a Half-moon that talked a little, but such is not the rule with this species. All Parrakeets have the power, and talking individuals occur among all those usually classed as non-talkers. (2) Yes, and though at present I do not think they have been bred (speaking without reference), there is no reason why they should not. I should most certainly class all Parrakeets, whether they have previously been bred or not, as probable breeders. (3) Not necessarily, yet it would be better to rub in some insect powder over the parts affected. (4) The cage is a bit small, but Green Budgerigars have been reared in one no larger. It is no use giving Budgies flat bottomed nest boxes; boxes must have concave bottoms, but a husk is the best, or a small barrel, but either of the two latter would occupy much space in so small a cage.

PARROT ILL (S. Massingham).—Put this bird into the warmest quarters you can find for it. When a bird will not take medicine in the ordinary way you must give it direct to the beak, in doses of 3 drops twice daily. Do not give the egg and milk, but try it with the following sop: Stale bread, half a teaspoonful cod liver oil emulsion, one teaspoonful of sugar, and as much boiling water as the bread will absorb. This should keep it going till it will eat its seed mixture again. If it needs a stimulant give a little very weak brandy and water, of which it can be allowed to take a few sips at intervals during the day. Warmth will do as much, if not more, than medicine for this bird, and some means should be taken to keep the temperature of the room in which it is kept as near the day temperature as possible. If it will eat neither the sop nor the seed then give it liquid food only for a time, viz., thin arrowroot made with milk and the daily portion containing half a teaspoonful of the cod liver oil emulsion, but the first named sop will be the better, or you can try both. Shall be pleased to hear how the bird progresses.

BUDGERIGARS (A. M. Cook).—It would be better to take out the pine branches, though I do not think these can be the cause. If you can get some twiggy branches, such as are made up into faggots for sticking peas and beans, these would meet the case, as also would privet branches, or branches from any kind of fruit trees. It possibly may have been the metal, but such irregularities as you refer to occur in almost every roll of netting, and I have never met with a case I could trace to such cause. A little niger seed among their mixture would do no harm, however, I doubt if they would eat it. Possibly the moss might have been the cause. Syrup of phosphates and chemical food are similar preparations; you can use either. To be quite on the safe side, remove the pine boughs, and put in fresh ones of another kind. The apple is quite wholesome. Treat the birds as advised in our previous reply, and the remaining birds, if infected from the same cause, may recover.

BREEDING BUDGERIGARS (J. H. Scott).—The photo is too dense to give me much of an idea of your arrangements; but unless your county is a northern one it should suffice for such hardy birds, though its great fault seems to be the lack of depth. While our winter is the Budgerigar's breeding season in its native country, it breeds here all the year round, and young hatched during the inclement months are often not reared, or when success is attained are but weaklings compared with those that follow. There is only one way to stop them breeding, and that is to separate the sexes, and you apparently have no convenience for that, so leave them as they are and you may reasonably hope for luck to come your way in the spring. I think perhaps you might risk disturbance, and if there are no freshly laid eggs in the nest, or if there be a full clutch of five or more, then remove all birds till end of March. The Tovi Parrakeet is not much larger than the Budgerigar, but stouter in the body; it belongs to the genus Brotogerys. It is pleasingly coloured, plumage is of various hues of green, with a little yellow on the front of the head, and a brown beak.

YELLOW-RUMPED SEEDEATER, ETC. (Miss Topping).—The Yellow-rumped Serin or Seedeater would be best mated with a Canary; choose a smallish variety, not a great deal larger than the Serin, and I should advise putting the birds together at once, though not supplying them with a nest-box till end of March. As regards the Grey Java Sparrow, you could pair this with a White Java, the resulting young would be mostly Grey Javas, of a lighter and more pleasing tone of colour than the imported Grey, and a small percentage of pied birds, the latter being very handsome as a rule. If you want a more distinct cross, then try either the Magpie Mannikin or Cut throat; the latter cross has been reared at least once previously, though two [illegible] in my aviary have not produced any young during the last two seasons. I consider colour-feeding would be wasted in both cases.

BREEDING CUTTHROATS (M. B.).—Yes, the birds you describe are Cutthroats, also known as Ribbon Finches. I am assuming that your query refers to keeping them in a cage. Get a box cage not less than 24in. long, 12in. deep and 18in. high, fix a twiggy branch at each end, and behind each branch put up a rush or coco-nut shell nest and supply hay; moss and fresh grass as building material. When young are hatched, you must supply, in addition to the usual seed diet, soft food, dry ants' eggs, and a few live insects, such as mealworms, gentles, and live ants' eggs; if you have a garden, smooth caterpillars, small beetles, flies, spiders, etc., can all be offered as obtainable. Also green food (flowering and seeding grass and other weeds) must be given fresh twice daily, and leave the birds fairly quiet, and do not disturb them more than feeding and cleaning necessitates.

SEXING NUNS AND JAVA SPARROWS (Amateur).—The difference between male and female in all three species is not great, and only close observation reveals it. As regards both Grey and White Java Sparrows, the female is slightly smaller and slimmer, her skull is narrower, and her beak also narrower at the base, and more wedge-shaped than that of the male. The same distinctions apply largely to the Tri-coloured Mannikin, with the addition that the plumage of the hen is much less bright, the glossy black of the male is more dead black in the female, and the cinnamon on the back is also of a less intense hue. However, the distinctions have to be looked for, and only apply to adult birds.

WHITE COCKATOO (Mrs. Stewart).—In addition to seed offer it various nuts, ripe fruit (any kind it will take), stale crusts, plain cake, and biscuits. Also supply continuously grit (not sand) and cuttlebone. Put it on a regular course of Dinneford's Magnesia and syrup of hypophosphates, one teaspoonful of the former and half a teaspoonful of the latter—not both on the same day, but give the latter on the days you do not supply the former. Give the magnesia every other day till the bowels have been well cleared, then lengthen the period till they become normal; the motions should be quite free, yet without undue looseness. Continue this treatment for a couple of months at least. I should also put a little honey and borax into the mouth daily, using up the contents of a penny box should be sufficient. If the bird will take sponge cake or stale bread, give several pellets daily in the centre of which you have put one drop of cod liver oil emulsion. Spray the bird lightly once or twice a week with tepid water, and anoint the sores with a little clean vaseline, but you must not use sufficient to run among and grease the plumage, or this will cause the bird much discomfort. Offer a little boiled maize (only keeps fresh one day); boil till soft, drain off all water, drop over it half a dozen drops of cod liver oil emulsion and when cool supply to the bird. Report progress in about one month.

AMAZON PARROT (W. A.).—Give at once three drops of tasteless castor oil direct to the beak. Twice daily put a little honey and borax into its mouth, from the end of a stick or some similar means, but only a clean stick or other utensil must be put into the mixture. So long as you are compelled to give sop, add a little cod liver oil emulsion to same. Get the following mixture: Ipecacuanha wine, oxymel of squills and glycerine in equal parts; for use take one teaspoonful of the mixture and add three of water—this can serve as the drinking water if it will so take it, if not, then you must give a few drops direct to the mouth two or three times a day for a week. While it has difficulty in swallowing hard seed supply a little boiled maize (only keep fresh one day); boil till soft, but the corns should remain whole, drain off all water and allow to soak in half a teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion, and then supply to the bird. Keep it in your warmest room and where the night temperature will not be too low. You had better write again in seven days, giving full details of its condition and I will try and help you further.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

W. M.—You cannot be compelled to sell the bird if no money passed (or anything else in the nature of a "legal consideration," either at the time its purchase was being discussed, or since.

Anxious to Know.—If the birds has one sound eye, no action could possibly be taken against you. Further, we take it that there are people of your acquaintance who could speak as to the circumstances under which the bird lost the missing eye.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

THERE is no more lovely seed-eater than the popular Gouldian Finch, which, however, is very difficult to establish. This trouble can be overcome, and the variety kept successfully. But you must follow the hints given in "Nutshell No. 14," from CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C., post free for 2½d. From agents (see list frequently published).

THOUGH they can often be purchased for the modest half-crown, Pekin Nightingales are very beautiful in plumage, have a fine song, and make ideal cage or aviary birds. Some very helpful information on this variety will be found in "Nutshell No. 19," the author of which is Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. Get it at once. 2½d. post free from CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from our agents (list published frequently).

Soft Moult

Wanted, a Trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special notice to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure; Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for getting birds in song and into breeding condition. They are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. A trial order will convince you of the wonderful results obtained from this medicine. W. Reid, Greenock, writes: "Your medicine has been a great sucess, for both my birds are now singing." G. Chappell, New Mills: "The Tonic Drops have worked wonders. I was astonished at the quick result." C. J. Roberts, Bayswater: "Your medicine for egg-binding is marvellous." Mr. Hatton, Atherton: "Your Tonic Drops are excellent. They have cured me four birds in soft moult. They are now in full song." For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is absolutely unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to all purchasers of our medicines.

The BULL-DOG STRAIN

The above strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of leading shows. My birds are winning consistently. For years they have been in the front rank, winning numerous champion trophies of the Specialist Clubs. I have also bred and sold birds that have won for my clients all over the country. Testimonials in proof of this are always open for the inspection of my visitors. There is no better blood in the Fancy. I am now offering a few pairs bred from these noted winners at above prices. Single birds, cocks or hens, at proportionate prices. Every bird is worth double. FEBRUARY, 1915. UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. FEBRUARY, 1915.

The following testimonials, in addition to scores of others (which are always open for the inspection of my visitors) have been received during February, 1915:—

St. John's Lane, Unstone.—I received birds this morning. The cock was singing in less than an hour. I am very well satisfied.—E. Knowles to Joe Thomas.

Clyde Avenue, Sheerness.—Received the pair of Yorkshires to-day quite safe. I am very pleased with them. They are a grand pair for the money.—W. E. Brooker to Joe Thomas.

Aitkens Buildings, Dipton, Co. Durham.—The pair Norwich arrived safe and sound, and are a splendid pair. Should I want any more you shall have my order.—J. T. Steel to Joe Thomas.

Melverley St., Wallgate, Wigan.—I am very well satisfied with the Roller cock you sent me. I had two friends to hear it, and they wanted to buy it, but I wouldn't sell.—J. Harrison to Joe Thomas.

Wisbech, Cambs.—One of my friends is so pleased with the birds you sent me, and wishes to have a set like them. Kindly send the following.—Hineacock to Joe Thomas.

Auchinleck, Ayrshire.—I bred a good buff cock from the Norwich hen you sold me 2 years ago. He was twice first at our local shows. I now require the following.—A. Whyper to Joe Thomas.

28, South St., Bargoed.—Received Roller safe. He is singing first rate. It is a treat to listen to the Roller and the Goldie Mule I had from you. I advise anyone that wants a good bird to send to you.—W. Blewitt to Joe Thomas.

New St., Underwood, Jacksdale, Notts.—I received the birds safe on Wednesday. I am delighted with both the Yorkshires and Norwich. I thank you for your prompt attention. I have never seen such healthy and clean birds sent out before. I shall recommend you to my friends.—C. H. Woodhouse to Joe Thomas.

Considerations of space only prevent me from publishing scores similar to above, but please remember this: I guarantee the same absolute satisfaction to all customers.

Notice, we supply more prize-winning contest singing Rollers than any other dealer in England, and patronised by the largest dealers and exhibitors in England for years, so if you intend buying Rollers, pay the price and buy from us, who have hundreds weekly to pick from, and don't be caught by some dealers' bluff and rubbish: Power and Russell (established a century), 10, Granby Place, Bethnal Green, London, E.

C. A. LUER

BELGIAN-BRED

Cock Roller Canaries, on seven days' approval, 5/6, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6 each; Hens, 1/6 and 2/6 each; deposit Editor. After the war I shall call all Rollers received from Germany after the man that only feeds the Canaries in Hollaud en route from Germany, but who does not collect same or sends them over on his own account. They will again also be sent in German travelling cages at the same time. Dealers should write for Weekly Wholesale List, as I do not publish wholesale prices in the Fancy papers. All birds sent on approval.—

C. A. LUER,

87, Sclater Street, Shoreditch, London, E.

PURE BRITISH ROLLERS

Having purchased the entire stock of a very successful breeder, I am in a special position to offer exceptional value in high-class Rollers. Every bird I can guarantee bred from a well-known and successful strain of contest Rollers. I am offering these birds at the following prices:—Cocks in full rolling song, with many changes of tours, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens 3/6, 4/-, 5/- each; matched breeding pairs 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair; all birds sent on 10 days' approval at my sole risk; satisfaction guaranteed; terms cash, or deposit with Editor: Joe Thomas, Ambler Thorn, Halifax, Yorks.

STOREY'S ROLLERS

I have only a limited number for disposal. The quality and price are right. Just have one of my Rollers on approval and compare the quality of its song with some of the supposed champions, and keep the bird that gives you the most satisfaction. Storey's genuine trained St. Andreasburg or Hartz Rollers, cocks with full change of song by day or artificial light, price according to quality of song, cocks 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, a few extra good songsters 12/6 each. I have none of the common half-bred rubbish, but have a few classic hens, 1/9, 2/6, 3/- each. All birds on seven days' approval; neat travelling cages, 3d. each, 2/3 dozen. The old reliable firm and address: E. L. Storey, Crowle, Doncaster.

Patronise German Rollers. Real Hartz or Andreasburgs.

I only stock Real British and few Belgiums.

No German fancy names for ours. We are British. Having brought 200 finest bred Rollers in England, can offer from Foulds' championship strain, also others trained under Randall's and one of the best organs, price 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-; 100 trained, all guaranteed, and on approval, hens 2/6, 3/6; best lot Rollers in Englaud; proper Roller box cages, enamelled sand drawer, etc., 2/-; with shutters, beauties, 3/-; established 50 years; thousands of testimonials; for proof write Editor, who has seen the originals. Send for catalogue: Sandiford, Canary Breeder and Judge, Preston; also at 89, Sclater-st., Shoreditch, London.

THE ONLY ONES

that sell their best. For the last 10 years we have bred and sold more noted winners than all others put together. We stand alone. So those that require the best living, this is the only place where they can be bought. Now that the show season is over, we have a few big winning cocks to spare at half their value. Properly matched pairs, guaranteed to breed winners, at 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. We hold thousands of the best testimonials ever written. The following are typical of those we are constantly receiving: "March 8, 1915. 37, Lumbutts-rd., Todmorden. Dear Sirs,—The cock suits me extra well, and whenever in want, I shall certainly write you again, as it is impossible to deal with more honest men, as you let them have a fair trial.—F. Fielden." "March 6, 1915. 7, Brachelston-st., Greenock. Dear Sirs, Have much pleasure in writing you re the birds you sent me; they are getting along splendid, and giving every satisfaction. Thanking you for your prompt and gentlemanly way of doing business, which is bound to bring you the success which you deserve, your way of dealing being in marked contrast to that of a lot of advertisers across the border, who seems to have no thought than to get the sender's money. Again thanking you, I remain, yours faithfully, Samuel Fulton." "March 8, 1915. 7, Old Bridge, Egremont, Cumberland. Dear Sirs,—You have given me every satisfaction. The two pair you sent me are splendid birds. You have treated me like gentlemen, and if I ever want any more birds, I know where to send to for them. With many thanks. John J. Richardson." March 4, 1915. Salt Works Farm, Frodsham Bridge, Cheshire. Dear Sirs, Re the two Yorkshire hens I purchased from you, they could not have been better mated up if you had seen the cocks yourself. It gives me the greatest pleasure to write you on the transaction, and feel sure you are honest and straightforward men to deal with, for I am more than pleased with the birds you sent me, and to feel that I have been honestly dealt with, this being my first deal with you, I can confidently recommend you to anyone to get the best value for their money.—Yours truly, Harry Helsley." We would fill every page in "Cage Birds" with similar to these (as we have them), but for the 2d. per word, as they arrive every post. Winners bred from our matched pairs, come and select for yourself, or have a pair sent on seven days' approval at our risk.

Mr. J. H. Roe will judge Abertillery C.B.S. open show on Oct. 20, writes Mr. H. H. Mortimer, hon. sec.

Prize-money has been paid for Bathgate; specials will follow later, writes Mr. A. Nicol, hon. sec. Thanks to exhibitors for their loyal support.

I obtained a copy of your book, "Our Canaries," a few days ago, and am very pleased with it. Anyone who keeps birds is foolish to be without a copy.—E. G. S. Everard (Sheffield).

We wish to correct a slight error on the front page of last week's Cage Birds. Our unflighted buff was placed 5th at the recent Welsh National show, not Dr. Wood's, as stated, his bird standing seventh.—Stubbs Bros. (Cheltenham).

The London and Provincial O.S. has engaged Mr. House, of Bradford, to give a lecture on the Yorkshire Canary at the monthly meeting at the Raglan Hotel, Aldersgate Street (adjoining the old G.P.O.) next Thursday, Mar. 18, at 8. All fanciers and friends invited, admission free.

I wish to draw the attention of members and intending members to our meeting to be held Mar. 20, at 7, in Penman's Masonic Arms, Cowdenbeath, writes Mr. W. Grewar, Vice-Pres., Fife and Kinross P.H.C. I hope that everyone interested in the variety will make an effort to attend this, our annual general meeting.

We are notified of the following changes of secretaryship: Greenock, Port Glasgow, and Gourock O.S., J. Dooley, 20, Ben View Terrace, Prospect Hill, Gourock, in place of Mr. C. Bryden; Oldham C.B.A., G. Mills, 26, Douglas Street, in place of Mr. J. Cope; Redhill C.B.S., G. Martin, 1, Hatchlands Road, in place of Mr. A. W. Bacon.

The competition and other specials of the Y.C.C. and Cinn. Mkd. Y.C.C. will be presented at a smoking concert at Market Tavern, Bradford, at 6 p.m. on Mar. 20. An enjoyable evening is being arranged by the secretaries, and it is hoped that as many members as possible will attend. The Greenmkd. Y.C.C. will probably present their prizes at the same meeting.

Coventry Godiva C.B.S. have decided to hold their annual open show on Nov. 27, writes Mr. R. Symonds, the hon. sec. We have altered our date from October on account of clashing with Burton show, and have engaged that well-known judge, Mr. H. W. Battye, so we trust fanciers will give us their best support. This show will be held at our new headquarters, the Sydenham Palace, Ford Street.

I would feel indebted for an opportunity to publicly thank, through Cage Birds, the Management of the Welsh National show for the excellent business way in which they carried everything through, writes Mr. S. Wilson (Hamilton). The attention given to packing exhibits for the return journey was superb, and I would say that if ever a show catered for future support, certainly this Welsh fixture has.

The balance-sheet of the Bournemouth C.B.A. shows the nice balance of £42 7s. in hand. This is slightly less than the amount with which the year was started, the reduction being due to a loss on the show held in place of the annual open show, which was abandoned, owing to the strenuous times prevailing. The state of the finances must be considered exceedingly satisfactory in the especial circumstances. Besides the cash balance, the society possesses quite a number of silver challenge cups and other special prizes. The hon. sec. is Mr. G. W. Jones, 156, Holdenhurst Road, Bournemouth.

The Blackbird's "Bath Towel."

We have not many mossgrown walls here, but I know one or two, and was taking a rest on one when I saw a Blackbird alight some yards farther on. It had come straight from a bath in a deep puddle made by the rain. Before arranging its dripping plumage, it deliberately gathered a whole beakful of the thick moss off the wall, and dried first one wing with it, rubbing down the feathers, and flinging away the moss when wet, and, gathering some dry, then put the other wing through the same energetic process.—Minnie M'Kean, in "The Scotsman."

Cheerful News.

We were very pleased to see, in a note received this week from that well-known Liverpool dealer, Mr. J. W. Metcalfe, the statement that "business is grand" with him.

Some Shows of Next Season.

The following show dates have been fixed. Will secs. please note, in order to avoid clashing: Cowdenbeath C.B.S., Nov. 20; Garston B.B.A., F.F. show, June 26; Coventry Godiva C.B.S., Nov. 27; Leeds Roller C.C., Nov. 12-13; Hanley C.B.S., Oct. 14; Blaydon-on-Tyne C.B.S., Nov. 12-13; Newcastle-on-Tyne C.B.S., Oct. 22-23; Rossendale Roller C.C., Nov. 19-20.

When Do the Hens Lay?

A writer in "The Zoologist" concludes from long and careful observation on his own account that birds lay their eggs, not during the night or in full day, but between the hours of five and eight of the morning. Well, says a correspondent of the "Newcastle Daily Journal," I have just been telling this to a friend of mine, a pitman, who keeps poultry out Backworth way. He says it is all nonsense, because he has a black Spanish hen which lays all her eggs in the afternoon, and a Canary which lays her's towards nightfall.

Mr. W. Hodson, who for several years so ably filled the position of hon. sec. of the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., has, we regret to learn, recently been laid aside by a rather sharp illness. All will unite in wishing him a speedy return to complete convalescence.

More Fanciers at the Front.

Two members of the Blaenavon C.B.S., Mr. J. Daniels and Mr. H. Durham, are now serving their King and Country, the former in Lord Tredegar's Naval Brigade and the latter in the Naval Reserve Ambulance Corps, writes Mr. G. J. Jones, sec., and it was decided at the last meeting that they should be free members as long as the war lasts. All their stock was divided amongst the members to look after, and it is to be hoped that they will soon be amongst their pets again. A most hearty send-off was given them.

The Opinion of a Noted Fancier—
"IT MAKES BIRD BREEDING EASY."

THE STOCK BOOK

Compiled by G. E. WESTON.

Simplifies the operations in the Bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. It affords facilities for the recording of the complete pedigree of all your birds; of your experiences during the season; an account of every bird reared. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird and Show Registers of simple and unique character; Cash and Profit and Loss Accounts for the year. Gives valuable hints for times of emergency during the breeding season.

WHERE BUSINESS IS AS USUAL.

"I may say that again I have had a great amount of answers to my advertisement of Canaries. It was impossible to answer all."—H. KAY (Blackpool).

"I beg to thank you for so kindly accepting my advertisement on Tuesday evening. The birds mentioned were sold by first post Saturday and were applied for over and over again."—A. MILLER (Sydenham.)

"Kindly inform all enquirers who sent letters, telegrams and postcards re Scotch Fancies that I have disposed of same, it being impossible to answer every one individually. This result speaks well of your very valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS."—JAMES DUNCAN (Inverness).

"Kindly apologise to all enquirers for my canaries and mules. It would cost me a tidy bit to answer all the cards, and I have answered the first dozen, but now cry "halt!"—G. W ARMES (Broxbourne).

"Pleased to say I am having good sales for my aviaries and cages through CAGE BIRDS. In fact we are working overtime to cope with orders."—J. MARTIN (Castle Douglas).

"From three adverts. under Mules & Hybrids during the last three months I have sold over thirty birds. This speaks volumes for your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, especially so considering the present condition of the country."—F. G. BARTLETT (Clifton).

"I wish to thank the numerous customers who applied for mealworms. I had two wires before 9.30 on Friday morning, and I do not have my CAGE BIRDS until 11 a.m.; also a host of letters poured in all day Saturday and first post Sunday. I have sold all I had to spare, and could have sold fifty times the amount. This speaks well for your good paper. The motto of the bird Fancy, at any rate, is 'Business as Usual.' I am sure fanciers need not hesitate to advertise their surplus stock in CAGE BIRDS."—RALPH BLAKE (Ross-on-Wye).

Should Birds Live on Canary Seed Alone?

A Reply to: "Is Mixed Seed as Bad as a Disease?"

SIR,—There might perhaps be something to be said in favour of the contention of Mr. Balcombe that Canaries and other small hardbills can be kept in good health and plumage for years by being fed solely upon canary seed, if he had added this very important stipulation, namely — providing always that the seed be of the very best kind obtainable. Personally, though, with an experience of most kinds of birds extending over a period of nearly forty years, I should no more think of putting my stock upon such a very restricted menu as that suggested, no doubt in very excellent faith, by Mr. Balcombe, than I would condemn humans to eat nothing but bread and butter for the remainder of their lives. I am well aware that the homely loaf is our staple food, and that it might be possible to exist upon bread alone for some length of time, but its horrible sameness would to the average Britisher be simply appalling, and life would become absolutely unbearable. Would Mr. Balcombe, it may be pertinent to ask, tolerate it?

So with our feathered pets. As long as we take charge of their interesting little lives it becomes our bounden duty to them to try and bring as much sunshine into their existence as is possible. This, to my mind, can only be accomplished by giving them plenty of change in their diet, never, of course, feeding to excess. Birds thoroughly enjoy variety in their food; and in this respect they remind me of 'Arriet of the classic story. This young lady, as most of us know, after partaking of a six-course dinner at one of the Ritz Hotels with her pearly-bedecked spouse, remarked, on looking over the menu: "'Arry, we haven't had no 'ad lib.' Arsk the waiter for it!"

To straightway affirm, as Mr. Balcombe does, that "mixed seed is a kind of disease," seems to me to be rather dangerous in a public journal having the very wide circulation of Cage Birds, inasmuch as some novices in the Fancy might possibly be induced to adopt the tendered advice without thinking to ascertain first of all anything about the quality of the canary seed they purpose placing their birds upon to the exclusion of all other seed. Mr. Balcombe will know, of course, there is canary seed and canary seed, and inasmuch as he states that his birds have lived to a good age and kept in sound plumage on this seed alone, he has presumably been lucky enough to always secure the best. But to feed birds solely on some of the samples of canary seed that I have seen on sale would quickly spell disaster. I would not give it to even a German Canary! It is for this reason that I have taken the liberty of encroaching upon your valuable space to offer a few hints as to the feeding value of certain of our most popular seeds.

To take first canary. This is both a muscle and heat-forming food, and contains plenty of carbon and nitrogen. It is thus well fitted to form the staple diet of the Canary. The seed, however, should always be that of the Spanish variety (sun dried), bold, dry, and bright. If small, dull, and damp it should at once be rejected as it is then usually kiln dried, and contains a dangerous amount of sulphur—deleterious to bird life. The very best seed is always the cheapest in the end. Of rape seed, that known as summer (a small reddy-brown seed) is to be preferred to black or winter rape, as the latter is very relaxing.

Hemp seed is fattening and stimulating, but is useful given to old birds sparingly during cold weather. It should then be slightly crushed, and any left over thrown away, as it has a tendency to turn rancid when shelled.

Maw seed possesses valuable medicinal properties, is nourishing and rich in oil. What leading fancier does not give this seed to his birds as a pick-me-up? It is invaluable for all hardbills, and should never be withheld.

Niger is oily, and nesting hens fed upon it sparingly seldom suffer from egg-binding. I do not much believe in the feeding properties of either red or white millet, albeit I always keep sprays of it in my cages for the birds to amuse themselves with. Gold of Pleasure, like maw, is a really fine "conditioner,' and I have always obtained good results from its use.

As a staple food Canaries should always have a plentiful supply of the best Spanish canary seed, and each bird a teaspoonful every other day of the following mixture: Equal parts gold of pleasure, summer rape, and maw. On the day the mixture is not given the birds can have a piece of ripe apple or banana during cold weather, and seedy chickweed in the summer months. During the winter hemp seed may also be added to the above-named mixture with advantage.

A good stock mixture for Goldfinches is made up thus: Canary ½-lb., teazle ¼-lb., linseed ¼-lb., summer rape ¼-lb., maw 2 oz. A spoonful of hemp and half a teaspoonful of niga should be given every other day, and on the alternate days a supply of the following wild seeds should be furnished—knapweed, thistle, and dandelion. The latter tones the bird's system, whilst the minute maggots found by the birds in the wild seed forms a valuable natural food for most British hardbills.

Linnets will also do well on the above diet, with the addition of ripe shepherd's purse, of which they are passionately fond. One can usually gather these wild seeds when in season, and they can be stored up, but town dwellers can in any circumstances usually obtain a supply from firms advertising in this paper.

METROPOLITAN C.B.A.

Pair show, Feb. 18, Kelvedon Hall, Walham Green. Quality was quite high class, particularly in Yorks., novice and Borders, while one or two of the leading pairs in Norwich were particularly well matched, and should produce something good. Mr. Bowring makes a most energetic sec., and everything was well arranged. He was assisted by Mr. Harrison, the chairman, Messrs. Piggen, Larking, and others. The society has gone through some rather troublous times, but we are glad to say by good management they are once more running strongly. Mr. H. Norman judged.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

Show, Feb. 24, at Church Institute, 60, Paddington-st., with a record entry of 303, comprising the cream of 66 members' breeding pairs, and a unique sight of type, quality, and staging. Undoubtedly the popularity of the Canary judge, Mr. R. L. Crisp, had an enhanced effect upon the entry, there being 59 Plainheads, 64 Yorks., and 31 Borders, the highest individual class being the Nov. Yorks., with an entry of 37. Medal for best champ. pair was won by Mr. J. Hawes' splendid pair of Yorks.; Amat., Mr. E. C. Offord's Nor.; and Nov., Mr. M. Runchman's beautifully moulded pair of Yorks., the latter also winning the first year Nov. sp. Mr. C. Prior carried all before him with his superbly staged Goldfinches and Linnets, whilst Mr. Marley's Blackbird outrivalled his old Palace winning Great Grey Shrike. The Hon. Mrs. Bourke's pair of Sugar Birds, looking their best, easily secured the Foreign honour. The Border Fancy cup was won by H. Hobden, the Wynn cup resulted in a tie between Mr. F. W. Ayers and W. Large; British, J. Marley; Champ. Lady's teapot, Mrs. Hobden. The Nov. Lady's teapot, and the Foreign cup fell through for lack of competition. With the able assistance of the Assist. Secs., Mr. F. Thynne; vice-chair, A. W. Curtis, Mrs. and Miss Thynne, W. Sanders, A. Marks, P. Burch, W. Large, W. Withers, and J. Overman, everything went off with clockwork-like precision. There was a large gathering of London's well-known fanciers, besides a fair muster of the public. Mr. R. L. Crisp judged Canaries, and Mr. Allen Silver Brit. and For.

SOUTH LONDON COL. F.A.

Pair show; a very fine collection of quite high-class stock; every variety was well represented, and it was quite a keen fight for some of the specials. Mr. Horton put down a grand team of Crests and C.B., and won sp. best in show with a lovely pair. Special best champ. Yorks. was secured by Mr. Fairman, best nov., Mr. Fuller, also spl. best Bord. PORTSMOUTH & S. COUNTIES.

Annual members' show, Long's Memorial Hall, Feb. 17, 87 entries, not so large a muster as might have been expected considering the expressed wishes of so many members that a show should be held. Mr. Olding makes a very efficient sec., and he was ably backed up by Messrs. Matthews, Saunders, Walker, and other hard-working members. Their efforts deserved more appreciative support. Mr. C. E. Silk judged, and his awards were well received.

SOUTH MOOR C.B.S.

Second annual show, Dec. 26, in the large room above headquarters. A nice schedule was issued, and brought forth a splendid entry of 260. Quality throughout was of a high standard, Norwich and Borders particularly so, several of the birds having secured highest honours at leading open shows. Special best Brit. went to Mr. R. Peart with a fine Greenfinch, staged in the pink of condition, while medal for best novice Canary was won by Mr. Jos Lowerson, with a bonny Border, which also took special best novice Border. Mr. Geo. Bates, the courteous and obliging sec., had everything well in hand, and got through his work in grand style. Mr. Alf. Dawson had charge of a grand body of workers, the whole of them doing their best for the good of the show. A good crowd visited the show, and the receipts will no doubt provide the society with a nice balance in hand. Mr. W. Reid judged Bord., Brit., Mules and For. and Mr. J. Riseborough the remainder.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL O.S.

Annual pair show of Canaries and table show of Hybs., Brit., and For., Raglan Hotel, Aldersgate Street, E.C., Feb. 18. There was a record entry of over 150. This was especially satisfactory, considering that several members are on active service, noticeably we missed Messrs. Ward and Snook, both keen exhibitors. Unfortunately the sec., Mr. Law, was unable to be present owing to Government secretarial work, but the assistant sec. took his place, and everything passed off very well. The society offered 7 silver and 7 bronze medals, and 18 cash special prizes for which competition was very keen; the judges, Messrs. J. Robson and G. Mortlock, agreed that it was one of the finest pair shows they had ever seen.

ORMSKIRK C.B.S.

Annual show Jan. 1, about 70 birds staged. Nor. were a nice lot, the winners in each class being birds of outstanding merit. Yorkshires are not numerous in the district, and entries were few; but Borders turned up in good numbers and rather above the average quality for a local show. Sp. best Nor. was won by Mr. Hunter with a really good unflighted buff. Other special winners were Messrs. J. W. Johnson (3), Goring, T. Johnson (2), and Walker (2). Mr. Thos. Johnson (Southport) judged. Mr. T. Johnson, jun., was serving an apprenticeship to the post of secretary, and he appeared to be a worthy follower of worthy predecessors.

LLANDUDNO O.S.

Show, Cobden's, Mostyn Street, Feb. 20. Entries came up fairly well. Norwich were good, although not numerous, the unflighted yellow winner being an ideal specimen, a bird with a future. Yorks. kept up their reputation, and there was little to choose in some of the unflighted. British and Mules were also good, and some cheap birds were staged in the selling class. Mr. W. Williams made a very efficient sec. Specials were given for most points in each section. The management was very satisfactory. Mr. J. O. Williams judged, and we heard no grumbling.

NOR. CL., ETC., YELL.: 1, W. H. Williams, grand cl., capital type, good col. and qual., in fine form; 2, Fildes, good col. and feather; 3, R. W. Jones; 4, W. Williams. BUFF: 1, W. H. Williams, well-known mkd. buff, in capital order; 2, Hartle and Nolan, tkd., good head and neck, clubby, well over the perch; 3, 4, W. Aitken. UNFLIG.: 1, W. H. Williams, cl. yell., good head and neck, grand type, clean cut, rich col., full of qual., stood well out; 2, 3, R. W. Jones, 2nd, nice qual., good feather and col., rather light; 4, W. Williams. YORKS, YELL.: 1, 2, W. Nolan, winner, wing tkd., nice length, good qual., leggy and stylish, 2, cap and wing mkd., good length and style, straight and slim; 3, Thompson; 4, A. M. Williams. BUFF: 1, 3, Nolan, leader, well-modelled buff, straight and stylish, on good legs, capital wings and tail, boxey feather; 2, Hartle and Nolan, cl., well balanced, nicely modelled, good wings, well up on leg; 4, A. M. Williams; vhc, Thompson. UNFLIG.: 1, 3, vhc, c, A. M. Williams, leader wing tkd., nice, lengthy, shapely, well rounded, straight and stylish, full of qual., in grand form; 2, 4, Nolan, cl. yell., full of qual., stands well, good wings, pipe tail, hc, c, Aitken. YORKS, HEN: 1, Nolan, cl. yell., good length and qual., nicely cut away, straight and leggy; 2, 4, vhc, A. M. Williams, cl. yell., good all over, straight and slim, good pos., beaten in length only; 3, Hartle and Nolan. MULE or HYB.: 1, 4, Hughes Bros., leader light Goldf, well known, good size and qual, in excellent form, easy winner; 2, 3, W. Williams, good yell. Siskin Mule, in grand fettle; 3, good Greenf, Mule, capital size, good feather. GOLDF. OR BULLF.: 1, 4, W. H. Williams, leader good size and qual., rare flush face, of good col., capital tan and markings, best of form; 2, vhc, Hughes Bros., good size, type, rich coloured blaze, nice tan and markings; 3, O. Our Books and a Common-sense Application of the Advice therein MUST bring you Profit as well as Pleasure

All the experience of years of careful study by experts is at the disposal of readers.

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder, and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book.

THE SECRETS OF HYBRID BREEDING REVEALED AND EXPLAINED.—By many notable Mule and Hybrid Breeders. Among the contributors are such well-known breeders as Messrs. R. Colton, W. H. Vale, C. Houlton, C. J. Ward, J. Beswick, G. Lander, T. H. Kinch, T. Smith, etc. This Handbook, which contains 212 pages, 7 inches by 5, is brimful of the most practical information on the highly interesting subject of Hybrid Breeding. Price 1/-, post free 1/2.

PARROTS FOR PLEASURE AND PROFIT, 7d.—By C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Grey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2. — By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockateels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives full details on how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1½.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts. Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softbills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

CAGE-BIRD HYBRIDS.—Complete bound in cloth, 7/6 carriage paid. This great work is written by Charles Houlton, an authority with a reputation extending over 25 years as a leading exhibitor and a leading expert and judge; (associate editors, G. E. Weston and C. A. House). Magnificently illustrated by that great bird artist, H. Norman. There are no less than sixteen coloured and sixteen art plates in this work. Each plate is a perfect study of an individual Hybrid.

FANCIERS' PRINTING.—Fanciers requiring business notepaper, postcards, trade envelopes, etc., should write us for a quotation. We are now in a position to supply these at specially low rates combined with first-class work. Artistic memos., with block of any desired bird, and fancier's name, address, and words of description as desired, 250 5/-, 500 7/6, carriage paid.

BATHGATE.

Annual show, Feb. 27, in the Corn Exchange, one of the best halls in the country for such a venture. Entries numbered 527. The Foreign section was very disappointing, only 16 entries coming forward. Mules and Hybrids contained some first-class exhibits, notably Mr. J. Crone's team, and were greatly admired. The Bald cup and gold medal for most points was won by Mr. J. Nicholson. Runner-up, W. P. Campbell. Most points in one class, ditto in Foreign, P. Arnott; British, W. P. Campbell; Mule, J. Nicolson; most entries, J. Strachan. The arrangements were carried out in first-class style under the able leadership of Mr. R. Bald, Pres., assisted by Mr. J. Nicolson, Vice-Pres., and Mr. A. Nicol, Sec., with a hard-working committee. The gate receipts were unfortunately very poor, which is especially to be regretted, as the show was in aid of the Belgian Fund and Red Cross Society. Judging was got over in good time by the two well-known experts, Mr. J. Maddison (Newcastle-on-Tyne) and Mr. P. McQuiston (Ayr), who did their best to please all. Over 100 entries came from south of the Border—a very good support from the English and Welsh exhibitors.

BRITISH ROLLER C.C.

Third International Show, Feb. 19 and 20, 210 birds entered. The room was not as large as the usual hall, but answered the purpose admirably, and credit is due to Messrs. Attewell and Buffin for the arrangements they made. The many detailed arrangements were admirably carried out by Messrs. Neugebauer, Webb, Gutierrez, Gloeckner, Guttridge, Ives, Gooding, Shepley, and Hocking, not forgetting Master Attewell, who proved himself a worthy successor to "Reggie." Country members turned up well, Wolverhampton being well represented, and fanciers being present from Grimsby, Southsea, Cambridge, and Birmingham, besides a good many London fanciers. An informal meeting was held on the second day. At the annual meeting held at the show of 1914, between 70 and 80 exhibitors being present, it had been decided that judges names should be printed in the schedule, and a resolution was now passed that a recommendation be given to the annual general meeting that this rule should be enforced. Unanimously agreed that only B.R.C.C. rings be recognised at shows. There appears to be getting more variety in the song of the birds, and one could see that the two new tours added to the judging standard, viz., Bell Glucke and Glucke Roll had been noted by the judges, while the item "faults off" is much less than in previous years. The awards appeared to give satisfaction. The novice any age class was an eye opener, 56 entries, a record we believe for Rollers.

The abbreviations used are: H.R., Hollow Bell; K., Koller; B.G., Bell Glucke; H.B., Hollow Bell; Bs.R., Bass Roll; Sch., Schockel; G. Glucke; F., Flute Notes; W.R. HUDDERSFIELD O.S.—Monthly table show, Mar. 6, Headquarters. Only 16 pairs were staged, all Yorks. Judge, Mr. G. Bray, Holmfirth. Yell. Ck. and Buff Hen (4): 1, 2, F. Sykes; 3, Battle and Coupland; vhc, Morris. B.C. and Y.H. (3): 1, F. Sykes; 2, Battle and Coupland; 3, Cox. Cinn. Mkd. (3): 1, Morris, 2, 3, Wood.—A. Lawford, Sec.

CROYDON F.A.—Pairs, British bird show, and judging competition, Mar. 3, Ruskin House. Owing to the late date, the entry was only small. The Nor. classes were all Halhead; Yorks., all Soper; and Brit., Gilbert. The judging competition created a keen interest; J. A. Halhead and W. Soper tied, and divided the prize money. Afterwards an instructive lecture by Mr. Norman on the "Pairing up of Cage Birds" was greatly enjoyed by all.—J. A. Halhead, Hon. Sec.

Singing Contests.

Announcements of forthcoming contests in the nature of advertisements must be paid for at advertisement rates, three words a penny.

CASTLEFORD.

Open contest, George and Dragon, Bridge Street, Mar. 6. 1, Morley; 2, Caddy; 3, Watkins. Open sing, Mar. 7. 27 birds were hung. 1, Morley; 2, Caddy; 3, Watkins.—S. Morley, Sec.

BARNSLEY.

Open Linnet, 5 minutes' time sing, Commercial Hotel, New Street, March 6. Mr. Shepherd timer, A. Warren chalker. The singing was not up to form, the day being very dark. 1, Hardman, 3mins. 9secs.; 2, Dryden, 2mins. 58secs.; 3, Midgley, 1min. 50secs.; 4, Skivington, 50secs. March 7: 1, Hardman, 4mins. 4secs.; 2, Skivington, 3mins. 34secs.; 3, Hardman, 1min. 48secs.—J. Hardman, Sec.

PONTEFRACT.

Linnet contest, Woodman Inn, Horsefair, club sing, March 6. 35 birds entered for four minutes' time singing, and some good singing was done. 1, Jones, 135; 2, Pugh, 132; 3, Piper, 123; 4, Beard, 108. Open sing, March 7, 22 birds entered for three minutes' time singing. 1, 2, Piper, 85, 42; 3, shared, Wingham and Jones, 38. Biggest breaks this week are: Piper 41, 44, and Beard 43.—S. Pugh, Sec.

KIPPAX.

Members' sing, headquarters, Commercial Hotel, March 6. 24 birds entered; the best sing of the season. 1, Cooper, 86; 2, Plows, 83; 3, Collinson, 67. J. Liversidge's bird made the largest break. Only three seconds parted 1 and 2, and it was a question which bird did win, as the watch of the timekeeper who was timing the even number bird stopped, and he had to start it going again. There was, however, no dissatisfaction, every member trusting to our timekeepers and tappers. Timekeepers, O. Potter, J. Cooper; tappers, J. Wallis, W. Perkin.—R. Plows, Sec.

LEEDS.

Leeds Linnet Club contest, Plasterers' Arms, Skinner Lane, Mar. 7. 26 of the best birds in Yorkshire competed, and the singing was very good. 1, Whitfield; 2, Jarrow; 3, Jim Chippendale. Judges, A. Lorriman, C. Lorriman; timekeeper, C. Cooper.—A. Bryan, Sec.

Leeds Linnet and Canary F.A., Albion Hotel, Saville Green, York Road. Open contest for quality Linnet singing, Mar. 6; 16 birds sang. 1, T. Johnson; 2, S. Johnson; 3, Ward. Judges: Lacy, Naylor, Jennings. Extra contest same day, 12 sang. 1, Ward; 2, Hirst. Also a match for special between Appleyard and Hirst. 1, G. Hirst. Judges: Jennings and Johnson. Mar. 7, 81 birds sang. 1, T. Johnson; 2, Wood; 3, Stanney; 4, S. Johnson. Judges: Sissous, Naylor, Lacy. Roller contest Mar. 7, 12 sang. 1, Condliffe; 2, Smelt; 3, T. Johnson. Judges: Lacy and Naylor. General meeting, Mar. 14, at 7.30.—W. Naylor, Hon. Sec.

Quaby singing contest, Old Bird House, Skinner's Arms, Buslingthorpe, Mar. 7; 26 birds competed: 1, King; 2, Binns; 3, Hulley; 4, Appleyard. Judges, Messrs. C. Clayton and J. Sellars.—C. Clayton, Hon. Sec.

The Passing of an Honoured Fancier and Judge.

A sympathetic appreciation of the career of the late Mr. Joseph F. Hills, contributed by his old friend Mr. Allen Silver.

THE sad news of the passing away of our old friend, Mr. Joseph F. Hills (Sudbury, Suffolk), will be received with sincere regret throughout the Fancy, and I feel sure that the sympathies of everyone are with Mrs. Hills in her great bereavement.

Probably no judge of cage birds has ever enjoyed such a unique and distinguished career as the late Mr. Hills. As far as I can gather he exhibited birds at the Crystal Palace away back in 1875, '76 and '77. At this time the late brothers Weir (Harrison and Jenner) were judges of the section, and on the advice of Jenner Weir the Crystal Palace manager appointed Mr. Hills a judge in 1878, which post he held until the Crystal Palace Co. handed over the bird show to the L. and P.O.S. He was then again appointed a judge, and officiated without a break (1905 excepted) until the 50th annual show in 1909—a run of thirty years.

In the course of his experience Mr. Hills judged at many other important shows, both London and P.O.S. Autumn, L.C.B.A., Norwich, Cardiff, Alexandra Palace, People's Palace, Aquarium, Agricultural Hall, and at the only show held by the United Kingdom C.B.S. at Preston; to say nothing of a continual run of engagements at smaller and at local fixtures. From a casual perusal of old catalogues I notice that he, with the late Mr. Rettich and Mr. Sam Cook, were judges at the first specialist show held at the Crystal Palace in 1898 by the N.B.B. and M.C. and the original Foreign Bird Exhibitors' League, of which show Mr. John Frostick was secretary. A class A.O. Species Resident Small Insectivorous Birds, judged by Mr. Hills, contained no less than 58 entries.

A Wonderful Record.

In 1877, at the first show of the U.K.C.B. Society held at the Royal Aquarium, Mr. Hills exhibited a Meadow Pipit, Woodlark, Pied Wagtail, Nightingale, Blackcap, Yellow Wagtail, and other birds, winning several prizes. After being appointed a judge, Mr. Hills discontinued exhibiting, but always at one time and another kept birds of many kinds, such as British Thrushes, Starlings, large and small Warblers (various), Wagtails, Flycatchers, Goldcrests, Finches, Larks, Crows (various), Hoopoes, Orioles, etc. He reared from the nest and successfully kept 37 species of British Birds, but his favourite bird was unquestionably the Nightingale, a species I have known him keep eight to nine years. Until recent years he usually had one or two, and often of young birds a dozen or more.

In 1841, when he was about eight, Mr. Hills started bird-keeping with two Robins, which he picked up when fighting on the highway. I remember he told me that one killed and pecked out the eyes of the other; also that it was in 1845 when he started breeding Canaries, at which time the chief thing was to breed them as small as possible.

Mr. Hills was intimately connected with the late W. A. Blakston, and supplied him with a great number of the birds, alive, for the artist to draw in illustrating the British Section of Cassells' old work on Canaries and Cage Birds. The publishers offered Mr. Hills a good price to write the letterpress to this section of the work (the selected writer having failed them). He, however, recommended to them Mr. Swaysland (the elder) who was an excellent naturalist. A good collection of birds' eggs was accumulated by Mr. Hills from his locality, and he also possessed a varied stuffed collection of the smaller native birds.

A Man of Wide Sympathies.

The town of Sudbury loses an inhabitant who was known and respected by everyone, not only on account of his long term as Postmaster, but because of his many-sided abilities. As an angler and umpire at cricket he was reckoned among the foremost in his locality, and he was no stranger to aeronautics, having made several ascents in company with the late Professor Youens, going up with him upon one occasion at the Crystal Palace when the Shah of Persia was there. No local movement of any kind took place, either in the shape of sport or entertainment, in which he did not take an interest, and he was always ready to lend a hand in any matter which tended to the education or enlightenment of the community. He was also a well-known local Freemason and town councillor.

As a friend it has been my pleasure to know Mr. Hills for the last twenty years, and he possessed personal characteristics which endeared him to everyone who knew him. His ideas upon all matters were tolerant and logical, and at no time did he seek self aggrandisement. He was patient and helpful to young fanciers, and in fact had as many young friends as men of his own age. When I say that he was a dear old chap, without any enemy in the world, I think I best describe him. He reached the goodly age of eighty-one years, and until about the last two years had always enjoyed very good health, and was, with the exception of failing eyesight (which ended in almost total blindness) a well preserved man. The receipt of a signed letter sent round by Mr. Crabb (President of the L.P. and O.S.) from old friends, was greatly appreciated by him. I am afraid we shall not meet his like again.

NOTES ON THE FINCH FAMILY.

By W. VALE, F.Z.S. ETC., (South Norwood).

Author of "The Science of Living," Manuals of Canary, Poultry, etc., Diseases, "How to Feed Canaries," etc.

IN view of the necessity of keeping the cages of birds free from parasites, preference should be given to cages made of wood. This is owing to the possibility of them being made closer jointed, and much less liable to harbour parasites, more especially if they are occasionally dressed with fir-tree oil, or spirits of turpentine, both of which are fatal to parasites; these dressings will also tend to preserve the cage. In order to purify a cage, or to free it of parasites, it should in the first place be washed in hot soapy water, to which some borax or common washing soda has been added, using a rather stiff brush, which will reach every part of the cage. It should then be cleansed in as much water as will do it thoroughly, and then dried. When dry, if it has been infested by parasites, every part of it should be dressed with fir-tree oil, or spirits of turpentine, to which a few drops of beech creosote has been added. The cage may then be placed in the sun, or in some warm place, to dry, but not near a fire if it is a wooden cage. In the case of large aviaries the outside may be coated with a paint in which there is a considerable quantity of spirits of turpentine, and the inside dressed with limewash. The limewash should be made with freshly slaked lime, and to each gallon of the wash half an ounce of creosote and half an ounce of acetate or sulphate of copper should be added. A large handful of Demerara sugar should be added to each gallon in order to prevent it coming off on to the clothes of persons moving about the aviary.

In cages it is very necessary for birds to have as much room for exercise as can be conveniently allowed. The importance of exercise must be evident to one who is aware of its effect in assisting the lungs to purify the blood, and in the development of muscular power. As a matter of fact the development of the muscular power of the heart, bowel, and other muscles of involuntary action is of much more importance than of those of the limbs. In the case of Finches, the cage for a single bird should not be less than sixteen inches long, eight or nine wide, and sixteen inches high, and there should be three or four perches. The two bottom ones should not be far from each end of the cage, so that the bird may spring and fly to one near the centre, or to one near each end of the top of the cage. Where circumstances permit, it is advisable to allow more room than that prescribed. For birds of the size of the Canary the perches should be about half-an-inch in diameter, and the upper surface should be rounded, for on a flat perch a bird cannot get a firm or a comfortable grip, and its feet are liable to become injured or deformed.

When a bird sinks down on a perch its feet take an involuntary grip of it, and it has to rise in order to loosen the grip. This being the case, it may be easily understood that in course of time the feet would be very liable to become injured by having continually to grip any inelastic surface not conformable to the shape of the feet and claws. In most cases of inflammation of the claws the trouble has been caused by injury, but there may be a predisposing cause. When the inflammation has become persistent, and there is not any apparent cause, it may be assumed that it is due to an unnatural condition of the blood, sometimes owing to a too generous or an otherwise improper diet having been supplied.

In the case of inflammation of the joints of the feet or legs it is advisable to foment them two or three times daily, using comfortably hot water, or to steep them in warm water for a few minutes at a time, and it would be an advantage to add a few drops of spirits of turpentine to the water. In addition to the water treatment, the feet may be painted every alternate day with Lugol's solution, or liniment of iodine, obtainable from any chemist.

A Lecture by Mr. FRANK COLE to the New Cross C.B.S.

THE cages are of course the first consideration, and the best cage is the one that is most suitable to your room. You will find more pleasure in having uniform cages, and consequently should make the cages to fit your room or the corner of the room where you keep your pets. If you can allow for a 24-inch box breeding-cage well and good, but a 20-inch cage will do almost as well. This size is plenty large enough for one pair, and I see no advantage in having a 3-foot cage.

The hook for the nest pan should be put in the back so as to allow the rim of the pan to be about an inch above the perch.

A Prize-winning Hen Siskin.

This bird secured 2nd prize at the Horticultural Hall Show for Messrs. Price and Fellows (Walsall).

This compels the hen to get on to the edge of the pan when rising from the nest, and any eggs or young that might be under her feathers would usually roll back into the nest.

If you have room for a 3 or 4 feet flight cage or two, these will be very useful for moulting a number of birds in, or for housing your hens in the winter. I do not think a large cage is so good as two smaller ones for running one cock with two hens, as I have found the first hen goes to nest and settles down better then than when the cock is only divided by a partition. I should like to mention that I like the cage front in my breeder in two parts, so that if I wish I can put a slide through and divide the cage in two.

Points When Pairing.

The next question one has to consider in our delightful and, I may say, profitable hobby (for with care and attention a profit can easily be made) is the material at our disposal—our birds. In mating up we must consider what they are most suitable for, viz., whether we shall breed for show or stock, for size or quality. Before you attempt to pair any, consider their weaknesses. If it be head properties, then at least one pair that are strong in this respect must be mated. You may not breed a winner from them, but this will not be the object in view; the object is concentration of head properties, and if you do anything at all, you will have added very valuable material to your stock, most useful to you another season.

The rest of your stock may then be mated with the object of breeding a winner, or in taking a step forward in that direction. In doing this I have found that it pays best to mate your best pair together. If I had two good pairs and two second-raters, I should so mate them. I should not take say a first-class cock and mate it to a second-class hen. If I did I should expect to breed all second-class youngsters, because I have always found it is easier to go back than forward. We must always remember, too, that in continually breeding for show there is a likelihood that our birds will get smaller. I would therefore suggest that at least one pair be mated with the object of keeping up size, if size be an advantage to our own particular variety of Canaries. If this were done I am sure we should not need to be told to go to the Crestbred or Lancashire to get size in our Norwich. Personally I have the greatest abhorrence for such a suggestion, and I would rather get rid of my birds and start again if I had got into such a poor way with them. I am quite convinced there are plenty of good stock Norwich about without recourse to alien blood.

I do not wish to weary you on this question of mating with a definite object, but it is so important to take this step carefully. Unless you give this the greatest care, you cannot hope to succeed; although you may breed a decent-looking bird, it is more of an accident, and you cannot afford to rely on accidental happenings. In the words of the old song: "Something attempted, something done," is the only way to get satisfaction out of your hobby.

Preparing for Breeding.

I have not found any advantage in giving egg-food during the winter time. I know some people recommend a little once or so a week. This should not be necessary, however, unless the birds are unwell. My own birds have only had one egg during the last three months. Plenty of canary seed, with a little rape and a little mixed seed once a week should be quite sufficient during December, January and February. Exercise, fresh air, the bath, and grit and cuttlefish bone should be all required to get them into good healthy condition. To afford the exercise, I like the cocks in the breeding cages and the hens in the flights. At the end of February the hens may have a little inga seed and maw seed. The cocks can have a little mixture composed of Gold of Pleasure, inga, maw and hemp. About a quarter teaspoonful is enough for one bird.

A little soaked rape is good through the winter, say once a week. I usually prepare this by pouring boiling water on it and letting it stand say half-an-hour, then after rinsing in cold water and draining well I add sufficient Spratt's canary food to soak up the rest of the water. Half a teaspoonful of this is enough for one bird. A piece of sweet apple about the size of a Spanish nut makes a nice relish for one bird. If not eaten during the day this should be removed.

When the 1st of March arrives I give my room a thorough good clean out. All cages are washed out and repaired if necessary. This generally takes me till the middle of March, and if the weather be then fine and the birds in good condition I put them up, but with the partition in the middle of the cage. You will see the advantage of the partition. I have never found that all my pairs will agree if put straight together. Some cocks don't mind who you give them, so long as it is a hen; others have already made up their minds which one they want, and will keep calling to a hen in another cage, she in turn calling back. The partition soon settles all this, and very soon he or she is content with what they can get. When all is going smoothly you will see the cock singing to his mate. With head feathers erect, but others drawn in tightly, he will sing for all he is worth, dancing first on one leg, then on the other. The hen will respond by picking up a piece of something, or a feather.

Avoiding Squabbles

A little egg-food is now an advantage; give it to the cock, and he will pass some on to his mate. She will very soon come down to the partition and call him to feed her. Then you may take away the slide and rest assured that there will be no squabble to hurt. They may have a few words over something, but this is rather a good sign, and shows they are in good condition. Before finally letting them go to nest, catch them both and examine their claws. These should always have the points cut off, or the eggs may get perforated.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

Shows of Birds for Sale.

Sir, Would it not be to the advantage of fanciers to hold purely "sale shows" for the sale of surplus stock? No catalogue or other expenses, save a local advt. or two, with a small gate charge, returnable to purchasers. Sellers could pay a small commission to the show. I was at several members' shows lately, and saw hardly a bird for sale, save at prohibitive prices. The fanciers had "plenty at home for sale," but it is often difficult to go and see them, whereas if at a show at a fair selling price sales would take place. I wanted some badly myself, but could not get any at these shows, and could not go to the owners' homes, as this is difficult from situation and time.

Old Fancier.

Is Mixed Seed as Bad as a Disease?

Sir,—Perhaps Mr. Balcombe will be pleased to know of my experience. I have caught at times thirty-five Goldfinches a year. Up to last August I always fed my fresh-caught Goldfinches exactly as Mr. Balcombe says—rape, canary, crushed hemp and thistle seed, soaked. But I could never seem to get them on to it, and always lost the biggest portion of my birds. So I decided to get from Cage Birds office a "Nutshell" on the Goldfinch and give the advice therein a trial. I have had no cause to regret it so far, having caught thirty two since August, and out of these can account for twenty-nine in the best of health. I have had much better luck so far. I should be pleased if other fanciers would state their ideas.

When Judges Disagree.

Sir,—I have read with great interest the correspondence concerning "White Rose." I see no reason whatever to doubt that it is a Canary-Bullfinch, as some of our most prominent judges have placed it at the top, and surely these gentlemen know what a bird is when they see it. I have not had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Parlett, but I do not think that he, or any other successful exhibitor, would think of placing a rare-feathered British bird on the show bench as a Hybrid. Why are not some of the beautiful Clear Mules that we frequently see on the bench "kicked out" as Canaries? If it is possible to produce light feathered birds from Linnet and Goldfinch and Canary, why should it not be so to produce light feathers from a Canary and hen Bullie. I have watched "White Rose" from show to show, and hope he will long be spared to bring his owner many more red tickets.

How Should Cups be Awarded?

Sir,—How pleased I was to read the letter "How should Cups be Awarded?" by Mr. Rawsthorne. I have been tempted time after time to send you just such a letter, but have always fought shy of doing so. Mr. Rawsthorne expresses my own views to a nicety. As a novice fancier of this city it has been quite plain to me for a long time that there is no equal chance as regards specials and cups for the fancier who unfortunately suffers from the shallow pocket, and cannot afford to exhibit more than about six to eight birds. But in my opinion these are the real fanciers, as many a time they go short themselves so that their birds may reap the benefit. It is also very plain that the societies do not care to take the matter up; I suppose on account of the entries. I personally think that all classes of fanciers should be considered by their respective societies; also I am certain the sportsmanlike qualities of the real fancier would not let the entries suffer to any great extent. I would not say that the cups should not be won outright by any member, provided there was given a sporting chance to the fancier unable to send forward thirty or more birds. Now is the time for fanciers placed in this position to express their views. I hope before long to see our societies taking the matter up. There is no spleen against any society or fancier, and therefore none is required in return; but, as Mr. Rawsthorne states, good honest discussion in a friendly spirit.

A Liverpool Novice.

Sir, I noticed the letter from Mr. Rawsthorne, and as I happen to have made a similar move here a few weeks ago in connection with the four splendid challenge cups belonging to our society, I should like to express my views. I quite agree that the methods in some cases defeat the very object for which the cups were intended, but I think your readers will admit that this trouble does not exist to the same extent everywhere, in Cardiff, at all events, where the cups are won by most points gained with six highest birds in each particular section. As an example, I may say that our British cup, though open to the whole of the British section, was won with four entries, three of which actually stood in one class. Here, then, surely, the small stud has a good run for its money and winning a cup worth £7 10s., to say nothing of prize-money, for so few a number of entries. The trouble to me is, when one sees a very ordinary specimen scoring 7 points in a class of three or four birds, while it often happens that a bird of much higher merit may be standing with only 1 point to its credit in a class of, say, 30. 'Tis very apparent that something should be done to remedy this, and I would suggest that in counting points for cups, or any other competition of this kind, that the number of birds in each class should constitute the number of points gained by the first prize winner, i.e., if 30 in class 1st bird gets 30 points, 2nd 29, and so on, down to commended. Someone may argue that a class of three or four may contain the best bird in the show. Granted; but even if so, it is a rare occurrence, and only affects the class it stands in, while I think no one can deny that the birds which win in very heavy classes should be entitled to more points than those winning in small ones.

E. J. Davies.

The Heavily-marked Norwich at the Welsh National Show.

Sir,—With Mr. H. Norman's admission that he naturally concluded that I had been lenient to the winners in class 29, I am not desirous of pursuing the matter further, other than to express my regret that he did not in similar language convey his impression to the Fancy, instead of declaring that "I seemed to have been caught napping," an alternative as mischievous as it was unfortunate, though doubtless merely a lapsus calami. His reference to a select circle, and the officials of the show, I leave to those concerned, as the only circle I associate myself with is the one that admits "the tinker, the tailor, the candlestick maker," and others, upon the same footing as even he of the blue blood, and lengthy pedigree, be it doubtful or otherwise.

E. W. Allsopp.

Sir,—Mr. D. Williams' letter sums the situation up to a nicety. Mr. Davis will be foolish indeed if he allows the matter to rest where it is. This is a matter that concerns all exhibitors. We all have a right to expect our birds to be judged according to the strict wording of the schedule. It is within my own knowledge that at one of the largest shows held this season a judge was trotting round with fanciers telling them that, had he done his duty, he would have pegged back some of the winners for illegal practices on the part of the exhibitors. We, at any rate, through Cage Birds, know that there are judges who admit they don't do their duty. Thank heaven, fanciers, you have the press.

Exhibitor.

Sir, Re your editorial comment in issue of 27th ult. If I have done you an injustice I regret the same exceedingly, and beg to tender my apology for what is wholly unintentional on my part. All of us agree with Mr. Allsopp when he says: "three exhibits did not conform to schedule description," etc. Are we sure that these three were the only birds in the show which were given a liberal margin in their class? I am not desirous of creating further trouble, but I could point out one section—not Norwich—where exactly the same thing occurred, yet no one "raised the dust" over that bird. The truth is, trouble was bound to occur, and Mr. Allsopp and Messrs. Banks and Sampson took a truly sportsmanlike view of the situation and gave the birds a "run for their money." Had it been in the novice section I am convinced everyone would have agreed to the verdict. Mr. Davis may cry for his pound of flesh, but I pray that good Portia may give Antonio the same verdict as did Shakespeare.

(Rev.) C. B. Jolliffe.

Sir,—I agree with everything Mr. Williams says. I cannot see how Mr. Allsopp can style his action as "the lesser of two evils," or "for the benefit of the Fancy generally." or "in the direction of the greatest good." Tho plain fact remains that he benefited three birds which were in the wrong at the expense of nine which were in the right. I know Mr. Allsopp well, and admire him well as a man and a fancier, as do all the Cardiff fanciers, but I must state that I did not hear anyone in the show in agreement with his action—perhaps, however, they did not like to tell him so personally. Another point he overlooked (and I think it a most important point) is that some of the beaten exhibitors might very well have been able to show better lightly marked birds than they did heavily marked, but they read the schedule aright, and kept them at home. Thus Mr. Allsopp put them at a double disadvantage. I know that is what happened to Another Exhibitor.

Sir,—Seeing that Mr. H. J. Davis brings me so prominently before your readers in your last issue as a doubtful sportsman he really compels an answer. Without going into further controversy as to classifying and judging, I take the liberty of drawing Mr. Davis' attention to Rule 2, the latter portion of which he has evidently overlooked.

W. Crawshaw.

The rule referred to reads: "2.—The Judges shall be empowered to withhold a Prize or Prizes in any of the classes, in which, in their opinion, there is not sufficient merit, also to disqualify any exhibit shown in a fraudulent or unnatural condition. A protest may be lodged at the Sales Office, during the Show, together with a fee of 5s. to be refunded if the protest be upheld."—Editor.

Sir,—Some of us Norwich fanciers in Scotland are much interested in this correspondence. We got an "eye opener" when we read the reply of the judge, Mr. Allsopp, admitting the first three birds were not eligible, although they got the first three prizes. And yet this might have got through without comment had it not been for the reporter, who acted without fear or favour. Mr. Allsopp must not think that when acting as a judge he and the committee can ignore the printed schedule sent out to the public, and make classes to suit themselves. On the other hand, the owners of the first three birds I think would not have been surprised if they had got the birds in dispute marked "Wrong Class," as no doubt they would read the schedule, and they know well enough what heavily-marked, "more dark than light," means. May we ask Mr. Allsopp just one question: What would he have done himself if he had been an exhibitor and owner of the 4th prize bird?

Three Scotties.

Prize Cards versus Prize Money

Sir,—I must say I have been heartily glad that numerous gentlemen have taken up the subject of prize cards, in my opinion far more valuable than the prize money, which usually only just covers the entry and railway carriage; so what is the use of exhibiting if this is all you get? Again, when the novice exhibits some decent birds and perhaps gets 4th and vhc, he is almost certain to be out of pocket by the showing; but if he gets two nice prize cards to put up in his bird-room, he is "bucked up" a bit, and does not mind nearly so much as if he got nothing in return. Then when anyone comes round wishing to secure a bird or two, if you have the prize cards to show them they will be much more likely to purchase something.

The Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve It.

A Plea for Judges Who Know.

Sir,—I am afraid Mr. Clegg and I will never agree on what constitutes a good Norwich. True, the Ardwick winner is a good one, but since then the second prize bird has won at Glasgow and the Welsh National shows—not minor events these. It would seem as if every judge and every reporter, by pushing this bird up, is conspiring to thwart Mr. Clegg. Perhaps Mr. Allsopp will give his opinion on the bird, now he has seen it, and say whether it is worthy of the honours showered upon it. Mr. Clegg asks how to get a more uniform type in our Norwich classes. That is simple. Appoint judges who know what a Norwich should be, and who know the points that are the hardest to obtain, instead of those judges who are specialists in everything from a Border Fancy to a Macaw.

Alien Characters Said to be Too Much In Evidence.

Sir,—I am sorry Mr. Bastock thinks I have done him an injustice. I assure him I had no such intention. It is only a question of degree, and you partly confirm my remarks by stating that you have found that Crest breeders won't part with good birds. You will find also that the N.P. of to-day (taking the birds on exhibition) show too much of an "Alien" character—great size, length of feather, and silky, browy heads. From where these properties have been obtained is obvious. There can be no objection to any fancier manufacturing his own strain, but I do object to this production being put on the show bench when only half-way through its course, and many judges giving such preference over the pure, typical, beautifully modelled bird which complies with the standard. It does not matter to me how you breed them—double buff, double yellow from Crestbreds, Greens or Cinnamons—so long as you show a bird complying with the standard. If judges won't adhere to the standard, who is to blame? Are they masters of the situation, or is the Fancy? The N.P. classes have for some years now been losing their popularity. Do societies approve of the standard being strictly adhered to? If so, then select only judges who can and will conform to your request without fear or favour.

Barker Clegg.

A Hard Hit at the Small Hen.

Sir,—I am not in the habit of writing to the Fancy Press, but perhaps your readers will allow me a little liberty on this occasion owing to my having bred the N.P with a little success. In the first place the present winners are birds of size, type, quality, and colour. Thus the best birds for stock purposes are the winners; but we cannot have a quantity of winners (some not at all) so we must try to breed them in another way. I agree with one of your writers that the hen must play a prominent part in breeding for size. I also say that it is feather that makes most show birds appear larger than they really are, but the said feather must be of good quality and lie the right way. I once bred a winner that had feather sufficient to clothe a Thrush, but this was of such quality that it fitted the bird like wax. As there is a plentiful supply of stock birds, if only we move about to look for them, I need not recommend a cross, and have never used an outcross myself to produce size; still, the remark has been made of my birds: "Too large for Norwich." But when does the small bird win? It never should if there is a good big one in the class. From my first year of breeding the N.P. it has been the same old story—breed from a big cock and a small, typical hen. To my mind this is all bunkum, and a roundabout road of reaching the goal. If you visit a room of one of these advocates you will find that he also has some large hens, which are not for sale. When starting a stud, my advice to the novice and to the unsuccessful exhibitor is to go in for size, type, quality and colour, for without these as a foundation in male and female the first prize red ticket will be long looked for.

R. P. Bixter.

The Combined Parental Influence.

Sir,—If Mr. J. Bastock will keep in mind that at the moment I am referring to size in our breed, he will not find it difficult to reconcile points he is apparently experiencing some difficulty with. Although I have advocated a wealth of feather, or "padding," as desirable in establishing "cobbiness," I have never associated it with size, which feature is determined by actual size of frame; at least, should be so, in my opinion. Where the obtaining of size is the chief consideration, I have suggested breeders might rely upon large hens, with partners equally as large, or larger, as a more reliable mating than the general one of large cock paired to small or medium sized hen. Surely the combined parental influence towards size is greater than when this influence is derived from only one parent, through successive generations! Also if, as I have already suggested, a blend is seldom produced from any pair, but the progeny are distinctly like father, or mother, in characteristics, including size, are not our chances towards more size vastly increased where both parents excel in this respect? In theory and practice the heavy-boned, well-developed female must have an influence towards size, though I will not say equally so with the male in our breed.

More Twin Canaries.

Sir,—I have a Yorkshire hen which laid four eggs on 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th of Feb., and hatched out three young ones on the 25th. I had a look at the two remaining eggs, and one was fertile. I let it remain until the 27th, when I saw the shell was broken, and on examining it I found it contained two birds, barely alive. I freed them from the shell, but they only lived a few hours.

A Substitute for Egg Food.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. A. R. Fox for a receipe for an egg food substitute, I can recommend Mr. Thos. Chiswell's, which appeared in Cage Birds of Feb. 21, 1914. This was one pound of whole wheat meal and as many eggs as it will absorb (about eight it takes). Bake in a slow oven for three hours. Let it get cold, then cut it into four pieces, put these on a wire and hang them up for a week. Then crush and dry in the oven. I put half pound of the best lard in it, which makes it better to crush. When making up the food for the birds I put two or three drops of cod liver oil emulsion in, which makes them strong and healthy. I wish all fanciers a good breeding season.

Bird-song and Sunrise.

Sir,—I have been very interested this winter in noting the exactness of the relationship between bird-song and sunrise in the case of two of my pet birds—a pair of Starlings. Noticed accidentally one morning, the habit grew of comparing their first shrill "good-morning" whistle with the hour mentioned in the local time-table as sunrise, and the feathered chronometers never varied more than half a minute. It was not just a question of light with them apparently (many pet birds will sing at any hour if exposed to artificial light, I know) as during the very dark days of December the gas in my bird-room had to be lit fully an hour before sunrise, but they remained on their perches, seemingly sound asleep. The moment 8.40 a.m. dawned, however, they woke up suddenly, came down to the door of their respective cages and lustily sang for breakfast worms. This may be quite usual in a state of freedom, but in caged-birds (and hand-reared ones at that) it is surely an instinctive habit which five years' happy captivity has not eradicated.

Mice and Rats in Cages and Aviaries.

Sir,—On the morning of Feb. 7 I went to feed birds as usual, and found nothing left of four Bullfinches but feathers. They were advertised for sale in Cage Birds of the previous Friday. My aviary is divided in the middle by ¾-inch mesh netting; all netting outside is ½-inch. I had three pairs of Budgerigars in the other half. One was sitting in a husk; I found her dead, but not eaten. The others were all right then, and as I thought this creature wouldn't return till night I left the birds there until I had prepared a room indoors for them. Then I went to catch the birds up. To my dismay, when I opened the door, an animal about eight inches long with brown fur rushed out of another husk and was gone instantly. It had nearly eaten up another hen, which had gone into the husk to lay. From inquiries I find this pest is a weasel. I searched for the entrance hole and found one about ¾-inch across at the top of aviary, behind a post (aviary is built against wall, and part of roof is covered with ivy). My idea is that mice made this hole, as I had caught four one night previously. I have tried several devices to catch the animal, but have not succeeded yet. It got in a trap one night, but managed to get out, and has not been there since. One of the Bullfinch cocks was the largest I have ever seen.

Devonport Harry Hood.

A Method of "Outing" Mice.

Sir,—I read that Mr Johnson and others are troubled with mice in their aviaries. I had no trouble in getting rid of mice in my pigeon loft. The above named gentleman should get some traps from Samuel Young (Misterton, Crewkerne, Somerset); he sells them at 3d. each. I then get a piece of board 2½in. wide and tack a piece of cardboard in an arch over the board; tack in one side first, then turn over the cardboard and tack it to the other side of board, which makes the arch. It is better to flatten the top of the arch so that it be 2 inches over the board of the trap, to let the spring of the trap have room to work. Bait with a small piece of cheese and scatter a little canary seed on the trap. There will be a mouse in the trap in the morning. The object of the arch of cardboard is that pigeons cannot walk on the trap; the same will keep off the small birds, but for them close up the ends of the arch, leaving a small hole for the mouse.

Meeting Feb. 28, Mr. R. Peart chair. Election of officers: Chair, J. Armitage; sec., R. Hutchinson. Moved we keep our old show date, Dec. 4 and 5. Vote of thanks given to the retiring officers, R. Peart and W. Elliott. Now, members, give us your support in making this club the best in North-West Durham by attending the meetings.—R. Hutchinson.

CLAPHAM C.B.A.

Meeting, Mar. 2. The Chairman, Mr. W. H. Vale, who had been unavoidably absent from previous meetings this year, was given a hearty welcome. Sec.'s report on the pair show showed a satisfactory profit of about 5s., and prize money was paid to winners present. At next meeting, April 6, a discussion will be conducted by the Sec., Mr. T. J. Hose, on egg-foods and soft foods generally, and as Mr. Hose is a fancier of many years' experience, we confidently anticipate a good meeting.—A. R. Coe.

WARRINGTON C.B.S.

Meeting, Feb. 25, Mr. Rice chair. Messrs. H. W. Battye, George Large, and J. D. Leigh were appointed judges for the annual show, Oct. 15 and 16. Mr. G. M. Nelson gave a washing exhibition chiefly for the benefit of the novices. He carefully explained the various stages as he proceeded, and for the final stage used one of Wilsou's patent drying cages. Several of the members afterwards tried their hand, some for the first time, and the final results showed that a very profitable evening had been spent.—H. Warburton, Hon. Sec.

PERTH CITY & COUNTY C.B.S.

Meeting, Laidlaw's Rooms, Leonard Street, Mar. 1. Mr. R. Crawford, vice-pres., chair. Sec. read correspondence. New rules were gone over very carefully, and approved. Mr. W. Blyth's motion from previous meeting was then gone into re cups for each section. After an amendment had been proposed, the motion was unanimously carried. Cups for Crest or C.B., Nor, Borders, Scotch F., Yorks., British, Mules, Hybrid, and Foreign. A committee, Mr. R. Crawford, D. Carstairs, and the sec., was appointed to go round the jewellers. New members elected: G. Wylie, J. Curbert. Meeting closed with a vote of thanks to chair.—J. L. Smith, Sec.

LEEDS C.B.S.

Meeting, Mar. 6, Lockhart's, Briggate. Mr. H. J. Mennard chair. Sec. read balance sheet for 1914, which showed a balance on the right side of £6 2s. 3d., and seeing that the Society was over £5 in debt at the beginning of the year, this was considered very satisfactory by all present. Members elected: Messrs. C. Walker, A. Senior, E. Wrightson, and J. Lamb. Chairman made an appeal for specials for the coming season, which brought forth specials from Messrs. W. A. Wilson, E. Middleton, H. J. Mennard, H. Yelland, J. Smith, and 2s. 6d. each towards the special fund from Messrs. J. Owen, E. Norton, H. Reed, E. Reed, E. Longley, W. Tose, J. Livingstone, H. Simms, A. Appleyard, T. Wadman, and R. Watkinson. Mr. W. Bolton, cage maker, Mercy Street, Leeds, kindly gave three 14in. stock cages, enamelled white, with all fittings, one double breeder, fully fitted, and two Yorkshire show cages with case, to be competed for at members' shows during the season. The Chairman spoke a few words on the work done by the Sec. during the year; he was supported by other members present, and the sum of £5 3s. was granted as an honorarium to the Sec., who responded, thanking the members for their kindness and for the very loyal support they had given him in the past, and hoping for a continuation of the same in the future. The rest of the evening was taken up with an interesting pair show, judged by Messrs. W. Hornby and J. Chambers, who gave entire satisfaction. Yorks. Champ. (5): 1, vhc, H. Simms; 2, W. Johnson; 3, 4, J. Sykes. Nor. (8): 1, hc, W. A. Wilson; 2, 4, J. Livingstone; 3, W. Johnson; vhc, c, H. Heald. A.O.V. (4): 1, 3, H. J. Mennard; 2, 4, W. Hornby. Mule or Hyb. (12): 1, H. SOUTHAMPTON C.B.S.

Meeting, Waterloo Hotel, March 3, Mr. W. G. Fellows chair. After electing a new member (Mr. A. H. Baker), table pair show and judging competition was held, Mr. W. J. Hartnell winning the judging prize (kindly given by chairman). A very fine lot of birds were benched. Nor.: 1, Chandler; 2, 3, hc, Page; vhc, Fellows; vbc, c, Washer. Yorks.: 1, hc, Hayter; 2, 3, Egerton; vhc, Snowden; c, Winter. Crest: 1, Fellows. Hyb. or Mul. Pairs: 1, vbc, Hartnell; 2, 3, Fellows; hc, c, Vale.—G. J. Slade, Assist. Sec.

BLAYDON-ON-TYNE C.B.S.

Adjourned annual meeting, with a fair turn-out of members, who decided to have an annual show, the date for which was fixed for Nov. 12 and 13, and to write several gentlemen as to their terms, etc., for judging same. The members regret to announce that one of their members, Mr. R. S. Bewick, of Newfield, has sustained a severe loss by the death of one of his sons, who was accidentally killed in the pit at the early age of 27 years, and leaves a widow and one son; it was decided to send a vote of sympathy to Mr. R. Bewick in his severe loss. Election of officers adjourned to next meeting.—Geo. Havver, Sec.

NEWARK C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, Mar. 3, Friendly Societies' Room, a representative attendance present. Balance sheet was adopted, showing the society had had a prosperous year's working, and still leaving a balance in hand of £3 11s. 5½d. Officers elected:—Pres., Ald. Appleby; vice-pres., Mr. J. R. Starkey, M.P., the Mayor (Mr. J. C. Kew), Mr. H. A. Colefax, Mr. E. F. Nicholson, Mr. V. Warwick, Mr. J. T. Parnham, Ald. W. E. Knight; chair, Mr. A. Wells; vice-chair, Mr. W. Toynbee; hon. sec., Mr. W. Lidgett; hon. treas., Mr. W. Lamb; committee, Messrs. W. Measham, W. Fitchett, W. Staniland (Collingham), G. Hopkinson, W. Ashton (Besthorpe), G. Brunning, H. Stevenson, F. C. Lees, F. Burbidge.—W. Lidgett, Hon. Sec.

ROTHERHAM C.B.S.

Meeting Feb. 27, Mr. W. Brotherton chair, and a good muster. Mr. D. J. Heyward elected a member, making eight new members this year. Decided to hold N.F. shows June 12 and July 10, and to ask Mr. J. Warrender, Hoyland, to judge the first, and Mr. F. Gregory, Sheffield, the July show. Decided to hold a table show next meeting night, when members are requested to bring a bird or two. Members are to judge same, and give slips in to sec., when Mr. J. Webster, Rotherham, will judge the birds finally. Decided that Mr. W. Bagnall become a life member of the society, he having given his birds up to his son, who is also a member of the society. Decided to hold meetings in future at 7 p.m., owing to early closing.—J. E. Taylor, Sec.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE C.B.S.

Adjourned annual meeting, Mar. 4, Shield's Cafe, Bigg Market, Mr. W. Espie chair, and a good attendance. Sec. absent owing to illness. Election of officers for 1915:—Pres., vice-pres., and patrons as 1914, with addition of Mr. T. C. Crawhall; chairman and show manager, Mr. R. Tindale; vice-chair, Mr. W. Espie; auditors, Messrs. C. Farrer and M. Cossar; sec. and treas., J. W. Reed; committee, Messrs. W. Mackenzie, J. Mackenzie, J. Maddison, W. Curry, F. Wyndham, J. Irving, C. Farrer, H. Wellsbury, A. Holden, F. W. Laidlow, C. G. Pettersson, T. Smith, A. Montgomery, J. Johnstone, J. McGuire, A. C. Young, M. C. Potts, J. B. Bell, H. Bird, S. Lindsay, W. Lyst, T. Hall. Lord Mayor's Fund stands over for present. Open show fixed for Oct. 22 and 23. Discussion opened by Mr. Tindale, "Pairing, Breeding, and Rearing of Canaries." Several members afterwards gave their views on the subject, which had proved very interesting, and created a friendly feeling throughout the meeting. Mr. Tindale was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for opening. Next meeting, April 1. Mr. A. Holden will give a paper on the Norwich Canary; every fancier is given an invitation, whether a member or not. Subs. are now due.—J. W. Reed, Sec.

GREAT HORTON (Good Intent) O.S

Social and prize distribution, Feb. 27. The night was wild and wet, and we were agreeably surprised at the turn-up, which was 70. Mr. J. W. Kaberry, vice-pres., introduced Mr. D. Sunderland, who was chairman for the evening. Mr. Sunderland said that the novice was the backbone of the fancy, but we want to keep them after they have won the novice medal. One way was for the novice to keep his best bird instead of selling to the top sawyers, for he then goes down and sometimes out of the fancy altogether. Your subscription is low, said Mr. Sunderland, and I do not see why you should not have a lot more members. I think breeders should have more money for their surplus, and I should be pleased to hear of your society having a meeting to discuss it. We then started off with the programme. Glees were rendered by the Aberdeen Male Voice Glee Party, recitations by Mrs. Sunderland, and comic songs by Mr. T. Brook. Mrs. Sunderland presented the prizes won during season 1914:—Cup and gold medal, A. Firth, 106 points; smoking cabinet, G. Ackroyd, 85; silver medal, gold-centre, D. Bartle, 84; two-cage show case, G. H. Warburton, 80; 2s. 6d., J. W. Kaberry, 59; novice most points, Mr. W. G. Wheelwright, 40 pts.: most pts. with birds fed on Dibb's colour feed, A. Firth. Supper was then served, and Mr. Pedder brought his gramophone into play until the meeting finished. Next meeting Mar. 13 George Congregational School, All Saints Road.—A. Firth, Sec.

GLASGOW C.B.A.

Presentation to Mr. W. Hutchison.

First annual smoker, Bank Restaurant, Queen Street, Glasgow, Feb. 19, with a representative gathering of fanciers from the city and surrounding districts. Mr. J. F. Park, president, presided over the carrying out of a most enjoyable and extended programme. The health of the Royal Family was toasted, and the company joined in singing God Save the King, after which Messrs. Reid, McGregor, McLellan, and Muir rendered songs in good style, and Mr. Campbell amused the company by the clever manipulation of a little dancing figure. The chairman explained that the chief object of the gathering was to do honour to a much respected fancier, Mr. W. Hutchison. They all knew that Mr. Hutchison was a great worker, and a most popular sec., how ungrudgingly he had laboured for the well being of his society, and the association felt that the time had come when they should show their appreciation of his valuable services by presenting him with some token of esteem. They likewise could not forget Mrs. H., who is a rare assistant in the work. Mr Park therefore asked him to accept a handsome writing bureau for himself, and a richly silver-mounted umbrella for Mrs. H. On rising to reply, words seem to fail Mr. Hutchison in his efforts to convey his thanks. He felt that he only had done his duty, and he would continue to discharge that duty so long as he held the post; he hoped that he would be spared for many years to use and cherish the gifts. Mr A. Crawford, an elocutionist of no mean order, delighted the audience with recitations and selections from the poet Burns' works in fine style. The Glasgow and Dis. C.B.A. was toasted by R. H. Livingstone, who spoke of the great work done by the society, and the uphill fight the management had had. With the support of the fancy they had earned success, and they would continue to push on so long as they received the support they justly deserved. Mr. Barron replied in suitable words. Mr. McLay proposed "Kindred Societies," Mr. R. B. Gibb replying. Mr. Black proposed "The Press," to which R. H. Livingstone replied. Mr. S. Dunlop, who is a crack hand in the art of whistling, then rendered "Killarney" beautifully, and his second effort, a comic song and patter, with whistling accompaniment, was greatly enjoyed. Songs were given also by Messrs. McKenna, Hare, Hislop, McGlennan, Silver, Cameron, and Fraser, and Mr. Middleton delighted the company with his manipulation of a bunch of paper; this he seemed to be a master hand in turning into anything.

YORKSHIRE CANARY CLUB.

Meeting Mar. 6, Mr. H. H. Towers (president) in chair. Decided to hold prize distribution in conjunction with the C.M.Y.C.C. at Market Tavern, Godwin-street, Bradford, Mar. 20, at 6, when I trust that all members who can make it convenient will attend to receive prizes, etc. A hearty invitation is extended to all fanciers who care to be present. There are still a few outstanding subs. which I should be pleased to receive.—John Greaves, Hon. Sec.

PORTH AND RHONDDA VALLEY.

Meeting, March 3, headquarters, Mr. A. H. C. Legg, chair, and a good attendance. Prize-money was awarded for show of Feb. 24, which proved a great success. Winners of specials: Legg, most entries, most points, and in classes 14 to 18; Greeves and Richards, Nor., 1 to 3, and best col.-fed.; Baker, Yorks., 4 to 6; Evans, Bord., 7 to 10; Jones, muling pairs, 11 to 13; Emanual, best Brit., 19 to 21; Jones, best single bird, Nor., Yorks., or mules, 22 to 26. Please attend next meeting, March 17, at headquarters; Mr. Greeves will give a washing exhibition; also bring all unsold admission tickets. Members in arrears, please pay up, as we intend to make the society one of the best in Wales. By the look of our show we can do it, for I have never seen a nicer lot of birds, and by next show, early in July, we shall have something to look at in birds and prizes, for quite a lot of specials have been promised.—J. S. Jones, Hon. Sec.

GREEN CANARY ASSOCIATION.

Annual dinner and distribution of prizes will take place March 17, at Bee Hotel, St. John's Lane. Everything points to a splendid evening; prizes to be presented by the President. All fanciers interested, please write for a ticket, 2s. 6d. each, to F. Handley, 23, Coventry Road. Despite the war, our competition throughout the season has been one of the keenest known, both in champions and novices. Winners for each section: Champ. Yorks.: 1, Metcalfe, 92 points, cup; 2, Skilling, 58; 3, Handley, 48; 4, Jones, 33. Nor.: 1, Handley, 56, cup; 2, Walker, 47; 3, Thornton, 38; 4, Lawson, 34; 5, Bull, 32. Bord.: 1, Middleton, 60, cup; 2, Johnston, 54; 3, Montgomery, 51. Nov., Yorks.: 1, Rogers, 104; 2, Stewart, 74; 3, Richardson, 56; 4, Evans, 54; Smith, 42. Nor.: 1, Lester, 74; 2, Pugh, 72; 3, Steel, 71; 4, Bache, 60; 5, Parsons, 31. Bord.: 1, Collier, 186, cup; 2, Longmoore, 82; 3, Evans, 72. Medal, most points for outside shows, Stewart. Next meeting general, March 25; please attend.—F. Handley.

GLASGOW & W. COUNTIES P.C.

Meeting and muling and hyb. pairs show Mar. 6, Good Templars Halls, 122, Ingram Street, before a good muster. After routine business the show was held. Mr. Peter Pettigrew put down a grand team, and had quite his share, both of the prizes and specials; it would be well if other members would take a pattern from the veteran, both in enthusiasm and punctuality. A bumper entry is desired for show, April 3. Classes: Goldf., Linnet F.M., ditto H.M. Decided to have a ramble in May, place to be decided upon by vote at next meeting. Messrs. P. Pettigrew, W. Jamieson, W. Hamilton, J. Findlay, and G. Buchanan kindly supplied the specials for show, and were cordially thanked for same. Judges were Messrs. J. Downie, Bridgeton, and Jas. McGowan, Glasgow, and their awards met with general approval. Goldf. and Can.: 1, 2, Pettigrew. Linnet and Can.: 1, Baunerman; 2, sp, Findlay; 3, 4, spl., Pettigrew. Muling: 1, 2, Pettigrew; 3, sp, 6, Findlay; 4, Fitzpatrick; 5, sp, 7, Baunerman. Hyb.: 1, sp, 2, 3, 4, Pettigrew; 5, Jamieson; 6, 7, Findlay. Fanciers desirous of becoming members can have full particulars from J. H. Adam, Hon. Sec., 15, Alexander Street, Sandyford, Glasgow.

ARDWICK & MANCHESTER C.B.A.

3rd annual social and prize distribution, Mar. 3, St. Thomas's School, Ardwick. The special prizes, comprising Dr. Twigg's silver challenge cup, rose bowls, teapots, gold and silver medals, framed pictures, etc., were on view, Mr. W. Robinson chair, and a company of over 100 members and friends. The chairman, who was responsible for the musical part of the programme, provided an excellent array of talent. The pianist, Mr. Seed, opened the evening with a pianoforte solo. Songs were rendered by Mr. J. Schofield (tenor), Mr. Sellers (humorist), Mr. Riddlesworth (baritone), Mrs. Hill, and Miss Hunt, all receiving great applause, and several encores having to be sung. Mr. A. Conduit gave an exciting and thrilling recitation. During an interval of 45 minutes the company did justice to the good things provided. The president, Rev. C. E. Gaul, presented the prizes for the past year. Mr. S. T. Oldham, who, unfortunately, was not present, was the winner of Dr. Twigg's silver challenge cup for the first year, accompanied with a gold medal from the society, also rose bowl, most points British, and several other prizes. Mr. J. Vint won silver-plated teapot most points amateur; Mr. J. Richards, silver rose bowl most points novice, bound volume 2nd most points open show; Mr. A. H. Hill, teapot and stand most points novice British; Rev. J. W. Wragg, framed picture; Mr. H. Bootliman, silver medal. A vote of thanks was accorded to the pianist and artists for the excellent musical programme which had made it a very enjoyable evening. On behalf of the artistes Mr. Sellers replied, and thanked the company for their appreciation, promising to come and assist the society on any future occasion. A most pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem. J. Spencer, Hon. Sec.

COUGHS AND GASPS (M.B., Cardiff).—I suspect you have kept the bird in unhealthy surroundings, probably in the way of direct cold draughts, or sudden extremes of temperature, or too near a burning light in the evenings, or, perhaps, banging in a window. Any or all of these exciting causes of the condition must be removed before you can hope to bring about any material improvement. Then treat as follows for a few weeks. Give a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. In addition, give separately twice a week half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed. On two other days each week give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and linseed. Give a little green salad —dandelion, chickweed, or watercress—daily. Stop all other items, and limit the diet solely to this for a month at least. In the drinking water add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, and ten drops of lemon juice for three consecutive days, and every second day after for the rest of the week. After this give five drops each of oxymel of squills, ipecacuanha wine, tincture of lobelia, and sweet spirit of nitre every second day for a fortnight.

WILL IT BREED? (B. Steel).—If the hen continues in good health and active, I see no reason why she should not breed successfully, in spite of the fact that she has not moulted her head plumage. She has evidently changed most of her plumage, and although there is some little risk of her finishing up the moult in the next week or two, I do not advise you to attempt to force her into moult, as she appeals to be in a normal state of health. To do so now would render her useless for breeding during the best part of the breeding season, as you could not expect her to be fit for breeding for at least six weeks after the commencement of the moult. Better leave well alone, and mate her up and get what you can during the early part of the season. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this in the drinking water two days in every three for a fortnight to brace her up.

MAKES TICKING NOISE (R. McL.).—The bird seems to be in a bad way, and suffering from advanced bronchial trouble. You must see that it is kept in a fairly equable temperature, and quite free from cold draughts and sudden extremes of heat and cold, as well as protecting it from the fumes of burning lights. Then you may try what a few weeks of the following treatment will do for it. As staple diet, give a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition, give separately every third day half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed, or you may vary this occasionally with an equivalent quantity of bread and milk instead of the sponge cake. On the alternating days give first a morsel of banana, and next half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle, and also a little green food of some kind—dandelion, chickweed, or watercress. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week, and after this give instead five drops each of oxymel of squills, ipecacuanha wine, tincture of tolu, and sweet spirit of nitre every second day for two or three weeks. Offer the bath in quite mild weather only until bird is better. Continue this treatment for a month, and if not then well, write again, and repeat particulars.

BIRDS DYING (Downhearted).—It would certainly be very judicious to distemper the walls and ceiling of the room with a good sanitary distemper, and also overhaul and disinfect the cages in which birds have died. But whether it is absolutely necessary depends upon whether the post-mortem reveals any infectious element in the cause of the deaths. If disinfection is essential, you would find the Nutshell Booklet No. 9 very useful in helping you to carry it out efficiently. The sample of sawdust sent would do very nicely to cover the floors of cages to assist in keeping them sweet and clean, but as it is very fine it would be as well to mix about an equal bulk of common sand with it to prevent it being blown about so much. You must, of course, supply gritty sand in a small vessel for the purpose of helping digestion when using sawdust on the cage floors. But during the breeding season, for birds that are breeding, it is much preferable to have the floors covered with gritty sand.

SIGNS OF SEX (W.G.T.).—Sorry, but really I do not know a single sign, certain and conclusive, by which a mere tyro can tell the sex of a given bird without fail. Distinctive signs of sex are practically obliterated in the Canary, so that it needs some experience and close observation to distinguish the sexes. Even the most experienced fanciers are not infallible in the matter. If you purchased the bird recently, and could get the vendor to look at it now, he might, if it is really a hen, remedy what was, after all, probably only an error of judgment. The best sign is the song, which should now be bold, full, ringing, and unbroken, and the throat should be well inflated, and throb perceptibly as the notes are produced. But all cocks have not an equally long and unbroken strain. Most cocks in high breeding condition will at this time pick up and toy with stray bits of material, particularly if they can see a hen, but they soon drop them after carrying them to the perches, whereas a hen would retain them longer, and make attempts to fix them in some part of the cage. Also, a second thought, if your bird grips a beakful of its own breast feathers and makes believe to be carrying them about, it is practically certain to be a hen, and in that case should be mated at once, if kept in a fairly equable and not too cold room.

PLANT IN AVIARY (C.S.G.).—I cannot say from actual experience, but I do not anticipate any harm accruing to the birds from the presence of the conifer in the aviary. Possibly some reader could say whether they have kept a plant of Thuja or Thujopsis in an aviary with Canaries, and the result.

WIRE FRONTS AND SAWDUST (Nutty).—I'm afraid it is not practicable to clean wire fronts to make them look like new. The only way to do so would be to remove all external dirt or rust, in a chemical bath if necessary, and re-tin them, and to do a few would probably cost much more than the fronts are worth. Your best course is to coat them with two quite thin coats of Brunswick Black, allowing the first coat to dry thoroughly before applying the other. Wash well with a strong solution of common soda, to remove all trace of grease before applying the first coat. When the final coat is quite dry and hard there will be no risk of the birds injuring themselves by nibbling it off and eating it. (2) There is no objection at all to mixing an equal bulk of sawdust with the sand on the floor of your cages to assist it absorbing moisture and keeping cage floor clean. There is practically no risk of the birds eating it. You could also, if you wish, use sawdust alone for the purpose, but in this case you must provide gritty sand for the purpose of digestion in a small vessel in one corner of the cage.

NOISY AT NIGHT (A.E.L.).—There is just a possibility that the condition is due to overfeeding. But you should first of all make quite sure that it is kept in a bright and comfortable place, and is quite free from cold direct draughts. Also see that the cage is quite free from red mites. Then treat as follows for two or three weeks, and if not quite well in that time, please write again, and repeat particulars. In addition to the staple seed diet, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day, and on the alternate days give a good sized spray of watercress. In the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week, and in the next week give instead 20 drops of whisky, five each of syrup of squills and ipecacuanha wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, every second day. Continue the latter for a fortnight, if necessary.

SITS HUDDLED UP (General).—Keep the bird in a comfortable temperature, not necessarily overheated, but just off the chilly side, and see that it is fairly equable, and not subject to a considerable drop at night, and do not allow it to be exposed to the fumes of burning lights in the evenings. Then treat it the same as advised to "A.E.L." in this issue, except that in your case you omit the eucalyptus oil and substitute in its place five drops of sweet spirit of nitre. Continue the treatment for three weeks.

SCURFY ON WING (Perplexed).—See that the bird and cage are both quite free from insect pests, especially grey lice. Keep in a fairly warm and equable temperature for a time, and allow it to bathe freely, adding just enough crystals of permanganate of potash to the bathing water to tinge it a pink colour. Give a morsel of bread and milk slightly sprinkled with soft sugar every third day, and on the intervening days give a little green salad of some kind, which is easily procurable now. In the drinking water add 20 drops of fluid magnesia every second day for a week, and in the next week give instead 20 drops of Chemical Food. In the third and fourth weeks repeat the dosage of the two first weeks in the same order. Slightly moisten the scurfy patches once a week with sulphur ointment.

AGE AND SOCIETY (D. Green).—(1) No definite age can be given at which a hen ceases to be of use for breeding, as individuals vary to a very great extent. Possibly in the great majority of cases the fourth or fifth season marks a diminution in fertility, which is progressive afterwards, but individuals have been known to breed well at twice this age. As long as a hen is in good health and active, and evinces a desire to nest, she may be given a chance with a reasonable hope of success. (2) There is no danger whatever in keeping cocks caged together provided they have a reasonable amount of "elbow room." During the winter months they will agree together in quite small quarters, but at this season they are apt to become a little quarrelsome, but their differences of opinion rarely get beyond calling each other bad names. An occasional scrap may take place, but no real damage is done, unless it be in very rare instances. The risk of damage is practically nil if the birds have a fair amount of space allowed them.

A YORKSHIRE TRIO (F.M.B.).—(1) Keep in a moderately warm place, but do not overdo it, and see that it is free from cold direct draughts or sudden extremes of heat and cold. In addition to the staple diet of seeds give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it every second day for a fortnight or so, and on the alternate days give a morsel of banana or two crisp young leaves of dandelion. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping. (2) Treat same as No. 1 for a fortnight. (3) Keep the Yorkshire hen under the same conditions as No. 1. Offer her the bath early in the day only, and in quite mild weather. About three times a week will be quite sufficient. In addition to the seed diet, give a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, sprinkled with soft sugar, every third day, and on the intervening days give two or three crisp young leaves of dandelion. In the drinking water add every second day for a week as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, and ten drops of lemon juice, and in the next week give instead 20 drops of Chemical Food every second day. Repeat this dosage in the same order in the third and fourth weeks.

BREEDING AND BLINDNESS (A.B.C.).—Close in-breeding would certainly increase the tendency to blindness, but there are other factors to cause it, so that it is impossible to say whether in-breeding is the cause in any particular case, without closely studying the bird's pedigree. But when once established it is strongly hereditary, so that the bird you now have affected should be discarded totally as a stock bird. The only rational way of dealing with it is to rigidly weed out all affected specimens as soon as they are detected. By applying this principle you will be fairly safe in breeding with the cocks, especially if you introduce a little fresh blood from a stock that is not affected in this way. The hereditary taint can certainly be eliminated by careful selection, and even if you did a reasonable amount of in-breeding, you could still weed out the tendency to blindness by this means. Close in-breeding is not absolutely essential to the production of good birds.

C.J.—Replied by post.

SEED SAMPLES (Kaiser Bill).—Yes, all the seeds sent are quite good enough for feeding high-class Rollers. The mixture of canary and rape would be all the better for a rather larger proportion of canary. The canary is a very good and sound sample, fit for any class of bird. Rape No. 1 is a first-rate quality of summer rape, good all round. No. 2 rape is very good, but not quite so well matured as No. 1. Still, it is of good all-round quality, and fit for feeding good stock.

SOFT MOULT (Novice, H.J.).—The moulting will certainly affect the birds' breeding, as they will be quite useless for this purpose until some little time after the moult is quite stopped. See they are kept in an equable temperature, free from cold direct draughts, though you need not overheat them. In addition to the staple seed diet, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a morsel of banana and half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and broken groats. Give each two young leaves of dandelion daily. Also dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the drinking water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

BREEDING WITH ROBINS (Alpha).—I see no reason why you should not breed with Robins, or at least try to do so, if you can manage to secure a hen as a partner. If you do, I would advise you to introduce them to each other very carefully, as they are particularly pugnacious, and if one happens to be more forward than the other there might be considerable damage done. Nearly all birds sing better or more continuously as bachelors. Family duties, if properly carried out, naturally keep them pretty well occupied and do not leave much time for singing.

LINNET NOT READY (Schofield).—Your birds are not doing badly, and you cannot do better than go on as you are, excepting for a little change in diet. The reason the birds do not quite agree is because they are not yet ready for breeding. It is quite early yet, and if they settle down in a month's time you will have all the summer for them to nest in. Do not be too liberal with hemp seed for the Canary. A little in with some mixed seed about twice a week is quite sufficient. As regards the Linnet, he will, of course, have the same seed as the Canary when they are together, and a good staple food would be: 4 parts canary, 2 and a good staple food would be: 4 parts canary, 2 parts teazle, and 1 part rape. When you part them at night give the Linnet occasionally a little lightly cracked hemp; this will help him wonderfully and soon bring him into condition. Both birds should have a little green food, chickweed, or young dandelion leaves if you can get them. The nearest society to you is the one at Croydon, for all live stock. There is one at New Cross confined to cage birds only; the sec. is Mr. Burton, 126, Lee Road, Lee Green. Drop him a postcard; he will send you particulars.

LINNET WITH BROKEN WING (Winged).—All birds and animals quickly recover from injuries, and broken bones soon unite. Put the bird in a cage without perches and stand it in a quiet corner of the room, where it will be disturbed as little as possible. His food and water should be handy so that he can reach it without effort. He will soon get well again, but the wing will probably be carried a little lower than the other one, although quite young birds will sometimes make such good recovery that the difference is not perceptible.

COCK MULE AND HEN CANARY (A. Smales).—The general opinion is that Mules will not breed, although some fanciers claim to have bred with them. You can try without quite losing the song of your bird. Give the hen a nestpan and some moss and cowhair to build with, and when she has laid 3 eggs take him away and let her sit by herself. She will come off to feed at stated intervals, and if there are any young ones she will rear them without his assistance. When she wants to go to nest again you can run him with her night and morning for about 3 days.

HYBRIDS BETWEEN FOREIGN AND BRITISH (Goldie).—I am sorry I am unable to tell you if the cross you mention has ever been produced. (2) If they are on friendly terms they could fly together now, as this is the month when fanciers commence to pair up their birds. (3) It is impossible to give you the value of a certain bird, so much depends upon its various points, such as size, colour, and quality of feather. (4) If you get eggs and the cock bird does not interfere with them, you could risk it and leave them together; but you must not forget that all hen British birds are rather uncertain feeders, and few can be trusted even to sit with any regularity. The usual custom is to put the eggs under Canary hens to incubate and rear the young. As exhibition birds, the young Hybrids would be of scarcely any value.

AVIARY MATTERS (Bird Lover).—I fear you will not do particularly well in your aviary if you turn in all the birds you mention. You must either have all Canaries or just the three hens and the two British birds. If you put them all in, the cock Canaries would be sure to be the parents of the young, and the two British birds would be only in the way and possibly cause trouble. You did wrong in turning the newly purchased hen into the aviary. The weather is not nearly settled enough to put birds outside that have been sheltered indoors all the winter. Feed her up well with a little mixed seed and occasionally some egg food. Again, you were wrong to steam her. You want to prevent her casting her feather, not encourage it. Let her bathe on fine days and give a small teaspoonful of chemical food in the drinking water, or a few drops mixed in with the soft food.

GOLDIE NOT SINGING (J. A. Bramley).—I am afraid you have got hold of a hen. You had better put the bird in a cage by itself and if of the right sex it should soon commence to sing. Cock Goldies have a bigger blaze than the hens, and it runs back well over the eyes at the top. The beak is stouter and the head scarcely so round; but unless you have another to compare it with I am afraid these differences are not of much use to you. Your best plan is to cage it off and wait for its singing.

CONCERNING A BULLFINCH (Esperance).—I do not see anything the matter with your bird. It is quite natural for them to preen their feathers and have a scratch now and again. You say he has no insects. In addition to his usual seed give apple, banana, and as soon as you can obtain green food let him have a fairly liberal supply. This should keep him in health. Give the bath in the morning, not at midday, so as to allow him plenty of time to dry before going to roost.

MIXED COLLECTION (Outdora).—I would advise the following as a staple diet: Canary 4 parts, teazle 2 parts, summer rape 1 part. Then make another mixture of hemp and niger 3 parts, maw 1 part, and give some of this three times a week, say, half-teaspoonful to each bird. Also try to obtain some wild seed, and use in the same way. A little sunflower should be offered daily for the benefit of the Hawfinch and Goldie in particular. You could turn in the Canary hens, and watch the result. You may find one or more of the cock birds rather troublesome when the ladies are introduced; if so, you must remove the offenders. I do not think you will be able to keep the Tit with them; if there are any signs of breeding; he would be almost certain to destroy the young ones. The Greenfinch, Goldfinch, and Linnet would be the most likely to breed with the hens.

GOLDFINCH WITH SWELLING (B. A. L.).—You say nothing as to your method of feeding, which is most important, for the majority of these ailments are caused through improper treatment. You are probably giving him a lot of stimulating food, which is consequently aggravating the trouble. Give him an aperient of Glauber Salts at once. Dose, enough to cover a sixpence, dissolved in two tablespoonsful of water; repeat in three days time. Put him on a simple diet of teazle 4 parts, canary 3 parts, summer rape ½ part. Buy a good brand of wild seeds, and give a teaspoonful twice a week. If you have been using much hemp, gradually discontinue it. Offer half-a-dozen sunflowers 3 times a week. Soak some teazle, canary and rape, and give a spoonful daily. If he does not eat this freely, remove his dried seeds until he has consumed a fair quantity. Offer any green food you can obtain free from frost, and as the spring advances, feed liberally upon it. Bathe the wounds in warm water, adding a teaspoonful of wych hazel to a saucerful, and if there is no discharge, just touch the spots with a little of the neat extract, using a clean camel hair brush. Place the bird in a large cage, and let him bathe on fine days.

COCK BIRDS FOR AN AVIARY (W. F. B.).—Yes, you could keep all the birds you mention in your aviary; they should do nicely. Be careful to have plenty of perches, as a scarcity of these frequently causes quarrelling. Make the seed mixture as advised to "Outdora," which will do very well for your collection. Watch the Goldie and Bullie, as these are the two requiring the choicest food.

BREEDING BRITISH BIRDS (F. W. P.).—If you are anxious to try your luck at breeding British birds in your small aviary, you had better procure a pair of either the Greenfinch, Redpoll, Linnet, Goldfinch or Siskin. The Greenfinches will be the most likely to reward you with young, and the hen will frequently sit and rear them, whereas the others can seldom be relied upon to do so, although instances have occurred where they have made good parents. Gather some heather or a bunch of furze and push into one corner of the flight, and in this place an old nest; failing one, use an old wicker cage or small basket, or even a nesting box. Supply them with plenty of nesting materials. Feed them well, not forgetting a liberal allowance of wild food.

TROUBLE WITH BULLFINCH (Esperance).—Sorry you have had a mishap with your birds. It is always risky to place two birds of opposite sex together without some kind of introduction; even Canaries, the most domesticated of all small birds, will frequently quarrel dreadfully. You should have hung one in a cage close to the other, when they would have got used to each other. Place the injured bird in a cage by himself, and take away the perches, so that he has no cause to use his wings, he will soon recover. I think you misunderstood my answer. I said "it was not safe to put two hen Bullies together; they generally quarrel." Bird shows are mostly over now; there will probably be some advertised in "Cage Birds" about June and July, and again in the autumn.

BIRDS IN THE AVIARY (Bramble).—I am rather afraid that if you introduce your Bramblefinch into your aviary you will have a little trouble. He may behave himself all right in a cage, but I very much fear that some night he would upset all the other birds. Of course, it would not matter so much just now and during the summer months, but it would be particularly tiresome to have some of them with broken plumage just as they are nearly fit for exhibition. You could try him now and let him be until July, but I would certainly not advise you to leave him there later than that. (2) A little colour food gives just a tone of pink to the breast and poll of the Redpoll, and some consider it to be an improvement, as it does not interfere with other parts of the plumage. Size, shape and markings are of more importance than colour in the Mealy.

FEEDING OWLS (Owl).—I do not think you will be able to feed you Little Owls upon anything but flesh food and insects. Supply them with raw meat, mice, small birds, and any insects you can procure, particularly black beetles, of which they are especially fond. If you have a kitchen where these insects exist, the Owls will catch them during the night, if they are allowed to be loose, or even if you stand the cage upon the floor and place a little meal near it, and on the bottom, the insects will be sure to go for this food. A small vessel filled with beer is also a good bait. You can only tame your birds by gradually getting them used to you. If you give them a tit-bit whenever you go near them, they will soon get steady. I have seen some of them particularly tractable. It may take some time, or they may suddenly become tame, when you will have no more trouble with them.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

VIRGINIAN CARDINAL, ETC. (A. E. C.).—Keep this bird's bowels moving quite freely (not continuously watery loose), by giving it once or twice a week one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in its soft food—add the magnesia to the dry mixture, then make crumbly moist as usual. Every other day put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in its drinking water; continue the use of both remedies till the bird is fit again. Omit the hemp from its seed mixture for a time, and only give about half a dozen sunflower seeds per diem; give it three mealworms each day and as much fruit as it cares to eat. Give it one dose of bromide of potassium—three grains dissolved in a little syrup and then stirred into the drinking water. Report progress a fortnight hence. Re Budgerigars, eggs will follow in due course; if they are delayed another week or two, so much the better for the birds. I presume you have husks in the cage for them to nest in. Your diet is about right, but leave out the niger seed.

DOUBLE-FRONTED AMAZON (A. S. S., Fleetwood).—A fortnight is none too long a period to allow the remedies to act in such a case; it is quite evident they have begun to act. In any case improvement will be gradual. You must continue the treatment regularly. Most certainly keep on with the sulphur, as this will assist feather production. Give one teaspoonful of the fluid magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day, and continue this for a good period, but if the bowels become abnormally loose then once a week should be sufficient. This will help to keep undue obesity in check. It is very evident that its blood is in an impure condition, and this is the main cause; that is all one can say by correspondence. If there are no sores, then spray the bird with a tepid solution of fir tree oil (directions on bottle) weekly, and oftener as soon as warm weather occurs. Reduce the quantity of brazil nuts; supply Spanish (Barcelona) nuts and walnuts, and only give, say, two Brazils per week. As soon as fine weather comes round, subject it to a good bit of outdoor treatment by putting the cage outside in some not too exposed or draughty place for several hours on all suitable days. It is a case of longish standing, and the treatment must be persevered with if complete recovery is to result.

BUDGERIGARS (J. E. Hawkins).—It is constitutional weakness, probably produced by inbreeding, or possibly by allowing the stock birds to have too many broods during the season. Sometimes young reared during the winter months show this weakness. The remedy is to make an exchange of either males or females with some other fancier in your locality, or introduce fresh blood by buying several imported birds when such are to be had. The introduction of several birds from some distinct strain should maintain your stock in a vigorous condition. If the birds referred to in your query are any good at all, under the influences of outdoor life nature will right itself, but if it is chronic weakness, then the trouble will become more pronounced, and it will be best to kill off all such birds as they occur; and, by the introduction of new blood, your stock will automatically right itself.

BUDGERIGARS (F. W. B.).—The cage is none too large, and if you can let them have a fly out occasionally it will do them good. Our Budgerigar Nutshell, 2½d. post free, would give you the fullest details as to treatment. The following is a good stock seed mixture:—One quart each canary and white millet and one pint of oats; well mix and keep supply in their cage; a millet spray is good for them. At this period of the year keep a slice of sweet apple between the cage wires for them to nibble at, and as soon as it can be procured free from frost supply as much seeding and flowering grass as they will eat. Get a bottle of fluid magnesia and put half a teaspoonful into the daily supply of drinking water every fourth day, and continue this for a few weeks. Keep a piece of cuttlebone in the cage and the cage tray covered with gritty sand. When in breeding condition the cere surrounding the nostrils is blue in the male and varies from deep cream to ruddy brown in the female.

PARRAKEETS AND LOVEBIRDS (R. B.).—In future queries please note rule re name and address. It is perfectly true that the majority of the Parrot tribe take a year or more to settle down; at the same time, this is no hard and fast rule, as some pairs will go to nest almost at once. It depends largely, of course, on the vigour of individual pairs. Having been in captivity elsewhere for a time is, of course, often a factor in quickly settling down. Red-rumps are quarrelsome, and an odd bird is a cause usually of much disquietude in an aviary. Black-cheeked Lovebirds often breed the following season, but the other two species not till a year later, but there have been exceptions in which they, too, have brought off young the following season. To get best results there should always be a second aviary into which odd birds and young birds, as soon as they are able to fend for themselves, can go.

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN (H. A.).—1 and 2, South America; 3, Australia; 4, 5, 6, Africa; 7, not a species, a domestic variety, Japan; 8, 9, 10 and 11, Africa; 12, 13, 14, India; 15, China, Japan, and Indo-Malayan region; 16, Europe. Re mealworms, I cannot give the exact period of the pupal stage, but it is not lengthy; the imago is a beetle; the longest period occupied is in the larval stage, before the worms become full fed, the skins being sloughed many times before the pupal stage is reached. The process is much accelerated if they can be kept in a temperature of 60 to 80 degrees F.

AILING BLUE-FRONT (W. G. R.).—Stop the milk-sop at once, and also the separate supply of hemp seed; the mixture should suffice for the seed. For a couple of months give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water every other day, and on the intervening days put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water. In lieu of the milk-sop give a little boiled maize daily (it only keeps fresh one day), boil till soft, drain off all water, dust with flowers of sulphur, and supply to the bird when cool. The seed mixture, ripe fruit, nuts, and dry biscuits, will supply an ample varied dietary, without having recourse to table scraps, etc. Get several powders of three grains each of bromide of potassium, and after any future attack dissolve one of these in a little syrup and stir it into the drinking water, and after a day's interval give another. Treat similarly after each attack. Cuttlebone and grit (not sand) should be continually in the cage.

WHITE-FRONTED AMAZON (E. Swaffer).—Dissolve three drops tincture of opium in a little syrup and stir this into the drinking water every other day for a week, and in the case of any relapse repeat the treatment. I presume you are giving this bird boiled maize; if not, do so, and after draining off all water from the maize, allow half-teaspoonful of cod-liver oil emulsion to soak in before supplying to the bird. Also put a little honey and borax into the mouth daily, as this will help to keep the mouth and throat clear from slime and fur. Once a week put one teaspoonful of fluid magnesia over the maize instead of the C.O. emulsion. If there should be any renewal of the abnormal looseness, prepare a little milk sop so:—Mix one teaspoonful of cornflour into a thin paste with boiling water, and at once pour it into vessel containing a little bread or sponge cake and a teaspoonful of condensed milk. Continue this while the looseness lasts. When in health all the seed-eating Parrots are better without sops and slops. All ailing birds should be kept warm in an even temperature and free from draughts. Should be pleased to hear how the bird progresses.

GOULDIANS, ETC. (Ulster).—As regards Gouldian Finches, the experiences of aviculturists vary considerably, and if your soil is a wet retentive one this species is better taken in during the winter months. On the other hand, there are many who keep them out of doors all the year round and suffer no heavier losses than those who take them indoors for the winter. Gouldians are impatient both of too strong sunlight and undue periods of wet and damp. An aviary for such species should have its ground area divided up pretty equally, say, in a space 12 feet square—the shelter (must be as light as a living room) 6 by 6ft., covered flight 6 by 6ft. (this to be roofed in and close barred round; only the front into flight should be entirely open), and open flight 12 by 6ft. Saffron and Red-headed Finches are much more enduring than Cordon Bleus, and should do well with your accommodation; in fact, the Gouldians ought to do well also, though they are difficult to establish at first. Some Saffron Finches are very pugnacious.

GREY PARROT (H. R. McM.).—There is no doubt your bird is an abnormal egg producer; six in three months is, I think, a record for this country. I can only advise you to continue the treatment so as to modify the effects of the habit as much as possible, or I fear she will continue to pluck herself just prior to the laying of each clutch of eggs. Of course, the remedy is to procure her a mate and give them a place large enough to breed in—a place 6ft. square, by the same height, would, I think, meet the case. You must fix up a log or small barrel high up in one corner, with the entrance hole facing the light, and you would probably bring off a brood of Grey Parrots. Failing this, get a large cage for her, large enough to take a small barrel, and in the occupation of preparing this for the clutch of eggs she may forget to pluck out her breast feathers.

KING GREY PARROT, ETC. (E. Swaffer).—I should advise you also writing the individual you bought it from, as he will know the peculiarities. As feather-pulling has been going on since September I much fear it is confirmed in the habit. Though it may live as it is, when this habit once becomes a vice it can seldom be entirely checked. Get a bottle of Fir-tree oil (this is a horticultural preparation), and paint it with a weak solution (instructions on bottle), continuing this for quite a little period. I should give the Dinneford's every fourth day for some little time, and on other days give syrup of phosphates. I should also give it a slightly moistened crust of bread, piece of biscuit or plain cake, to be dusted with flowers of sulphur after moistening. Give this twice a day if the bird will take it. Get a little Parrot grit and mix a pinch with the daily supply of seed. To keep its strength up give it 3 to 5 drops of cod-liver oil emulsion daily, direct to the mouth. Report progress in a few weeks' time. As regards the Amazons I fear they are not yet sufficiently mature to name with certainty, and that they will need to go through another moult before this can be done. The description you give of the smallest does not agree with any species of the genus chrysotis in the Brit. Mus. Catalogue. The size of Amazons ranges from a total length of 10ins. to 17ins.

BOOK ON PARRAKEETS (J. E. H.).—There is no cheap book. The most up-to-date is "Parrakeets," by D. Seth-Smith. The price is either 30s. or 40s.; it contains a number of coloured plates. D. Greene's "Parrots in Captivity" is still a useful handbook, but is out of print. However, one is often obtainable by watching the lists of second-hand booksellers.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

E. G. S. Everard.—Is in type and only waiting space to appear.

Henry Martin.—We can assure you that it is not at all an uncommon occurrence for two birds to hatch out of one egg. A search of our correspondence columns, wherein many instances have been recorded, would establish this beyond any question. See this week's issue for a case in point.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Cock Roller.—Pneumonia following a chill.

J. Craig.—Septic fever.

T. A. B.—Ptomaine poisoning, inflammation of the bowels, resulting from same.

THE WINNING . . YOUNG CRESTS . AT THE WELSH NATIONAL SHOW.

This magnificent youngster won 1st prize and the £10 10s. Challenge Bowl outright at the Bristol Show, was 2nd at the Scottish National and 1st at the Welsh National Shows (beating at the latter the S.N. winner). Bred and owned by Mr. Geo. Colledge, of Kilburn, Derby.

This very fine example of the "fair sex" of Canarydom won 1st prize in the class for young hens at the Welsh National Show. She has also secured a number of other prizes for her breeder and owner Mr. E. Barker, of Long Eaton, and should do well in the breeding room.

F. CARL, Publisher, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

ADVERTISEMENT CHARGES.

6d. for the first eighteen words, One Halfpenny for each word over eighteen.
Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny. No single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 1/-, 1/6 2/-, 2/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bonafide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING ADVERTISEMENTS.

ALWAYS USE "CAGE BIRDS" DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient plus the extra postage incurred has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

Not Singing

Wanted, a Trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special notice to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure; Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for getting birds in song and into breeding condition. They are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. A trial order will convince you of the wonderful results obtained from this medicine. W. Reid, Greenock, writes: "Your medicine has been a great success, for both my birds are now singing." G. Chappell, New Mills: "The Tonic Drops have worked wonders, I was astonished at the quick result." C. J. Roberts, Bayswater: "Your medicine for egg-binding is marvellous." Mr. Hatton, Atherton: "Your Tonic Drops are excellent. They have cured me four birds in soft moult. They are now in full song." For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is absolutely unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to all purchasers of our medicines. See last week's advert, page 151, for list of agents who stock our medicines.

Cage Bird Success—

Depends on a sound knowledge of Cage Bird breeding, and after that on attention to details regarding housing, feeding and expert care for the birds' health, welfare and toilet for the Shows.

Many a man bred birds last year and expended time, trouble and money on them, only to find when Exhibition time came that they were "almost" Prize Birds.

If you mean to win this year, and every man who takes Cage Bird breeding seriously, means to win, if YOU mean to win you must GET THE BOOK THAT WILL TEACH YOU HOW

Canaries, Hybrids & British Birds

In Cage and Aviary.

Complete in one compact volume and supplied with an anatomical model of a canary, helpful to Breeders.

WHAT THIS BOOK IS

It is a veritable encyclopædia on Cage-birds: that is, it includes all knowledge on the subject. You will never require another book on Canaries if you get this one and really read it intelligently. It is the Exhibitor's sure Guide to Success. Do not waste time, temper and money any longer in experimenting for yourself; LEARN FROM THE EXPERTS—

Mr. Ralph Harrison, Whitley Bay:—

Mr. Bryant, Acton, London:—

WHAT IT IS NOT

"CANARIES, HYBRIDS & BRITISH BIRDS" is not merely a superficially written, prettily illustrated Canary Book such as is to be found on the book market by the dozen. It is not an ornament only, intended to be looked at and then put aside by the practical cage-bird breeder with the remark—"I know all there is in this book already; these writers can teach me nothing"; or by the novice—"It tells me what to do, but it does not show me how to do it!'

NO. This book is essentially THOROUGH. There is not a line of literary "padding" between its two covers. Every sentence is practical; every section is written by experts. The coloured Plates, showing every known breed of Cage-bird, is really educative; each one shows the fancier exactly what to breed to; and the chapters on HYBRIDS—a subject that is bristling with profitable possibilities for the cage-bird enthusiast who adds patience and willingness to learn to his enthusiasm, contains information that has never before been tabulated. This book tells of the "crosses" that have never yet been achieved. It will pay you to study what this book can tell you about HYBRIDS.

WHAT IT WILL DO FOR YOU

It will teach you how to produce Prize Birds; it will enable you to make a success of your birds; it is not worth while keeping birds—certainly not worth while Showing them—unless you mean to win. This is THE book that will show you how; the book wherein you may read and study exactly what it is on which successful breeding really depends; the book in which you can turn up in an instant the answer to every Cage-bird difficulty, the solution of what has hitherto puzzled you in your own experiments in cage-bird breeding. The possession of this work, written by men who have given years of patient study to their hobby, will enable you to understand HOW TO BREED SO AS TO WIN.

Mr. McLinden, Dublin:—
"It commends itself to the past master in bird keeping, and is invaluable to the amateur, for it is written in such simple language. The chapters on Rearing and Pairing are very explicit, and the coloured plates are, to my mind, simply superb."

Mrs. Bertram, Christchurch, Hants:—
"I have found it of the greatest use, while the illustrations are of value to the novice and the expert alike. The sections dealing with Hybrids is especially commendable, and should prove of service to fanciers."

The BULL-DOG STRAIN

The above strain needs no bounce. All I need do is to refer you to the reports of leading shows. My birds are winning consistently. For years they have been in the front rank, winning numerous champion trophies of the Specialist Clubs. I have also bred and sold birds that have won for my clients all over the country. Testimonials in proof of this are always open for the inspection of my visitors. There is no better blood in the Fancy. I am now offering a few pairs bred from these noted winners at above prices. Single birds, cocks or hens, at proportionate prices. Every bird is worth double. I have also a number of good birds from other well known strains as follows: Smart Thick-set Cocks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Good Cobby Hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- per pair.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Grand lengthy Yorkshire Cocks, in perfect feather and condition, and on full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each. Erect racy Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6. Matched Breeding Pairs, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. EXHIBITION YORKSHIRES, bred from my own winners, and ready for immediate benching, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each upwards.

MARCH, 1915. UNSOLICITED TESTIMONY. MARCH, 1915.

The following testimonials, in addition to scores of others (which are always open for the inspection of my visitors) have been received during March, 1915:—"Heming Street, South Vancouver, Canada.—I received the 3 pairs Yorkshires in A1 condition, after a journey of 7,000 odd miles. They give me every satisfaction. I shall not regret having put my order in your hands. You shall have more orders for your honest trading.—S. Watters to Joe Thomas."

"4, Victoria Street, Caerau, Bridgend. I received birds quite safe. I must say they are beauties and I am more than satisfied.—J. Sparks to Joe Thomas."

"High Street, Belfast. Bird arrived safe and I am well pleased with same.—A. Purvis to Joe Thomas."

"Stanhope Street, Leeds.—Birds arrived safely. They are a grand pair and I am well satisfied.—J. Mundell to Joe Thomas."

"32, Morgan Street, Trehafod, nr. Pontypridd.—Received birds safe. Am perfectly satisfied. When I want more I will remember J. Thomas and recommend to my friends.—A. Addis to J. Thomas."

"Polmaise Place, Cowie, Stirling.—I got the birds all safe and am quite satisfied; and how quick you are to send the order when you get it!—J. Forsyth to Joe Thomas."

"Crossford, Dunfermline.—The Pair Norwich arrived safely. I am highly pleased with them. I will always recommend you to intending purchasers as a genuine gentleman to deal with. I have instructed Editor to forward you the cash deposited.—J. Lister to Joe Thomas."

Elson Villa, Ellesmere, Salop.—Birds arrived safely. I am very pleased with them. In dealing with you one gets quality and cheapness combined and above all, straightforward dealings.—T. E. Chetwood to Joe Thomas."

"5, Wemyss Place, Glasgow. Received birds quite safe. They are a lovely pair. I am quite satisfied.—R. Buchanan to Joe Thomas."

"52, Treharne Street, Cwmpark. Received Roller safe, singing in the pink. It is a treat to listen to it.—Jack Jones to Joe Thomas."

"49, Park Terrace, Tondu.—I received the Border Fancies quite safe and am very proud to have two such songsters in my house. They are both good: in fact, the best I have ever seen. They are a beautiful colour and sing, I think, better than the Rollers. I must say I can always depend on having a good bird from you each time. I have had dealings with over 20 bird fanciers, but you have been the most honest of them all, and that's a big name. You are the only man that has satisfied my wants, and when you can do that you can do a lot. I thank you for your straightforward dealings with me. You can make what use of this letter you like.—Fred L. Prosser to Joe Thomas."

GENUINE ROLLERS

of best strains known: cocks, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; hens, 3/6 and 5/-, in finest breeding condition. Other cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6; hens, 2/6. These are offered as good value, but without any "gush." Cages, 3d.: Rudd, Specialist, Norwich.

STOREY'S ROLLERS

I have only a limited number for disposal. The quality and price are right. Just have one of my Rollers on approval and compare the quality of its song with some of the supposed champions, and keep the bird that gives you the most satisfaction. Storey's genuine trained St. Andreasburg or Hartz Rollers, cocks with full change of song by day or artificial light, price according to quality of song, cocks 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, a few extra good songsters 12/6 each. I have none of the common half-bred rubbish, but have a few classic hens, 1/9, 2/6, 3/- each. All birds on seven days' approval; neat travelling cages, 3d. each, 2/3 dozen. The old reliable firm and address: E. L. Storey, Crowle, Doncaster.

ROLLERS REAL HARTZ ROLLERS

Cock Canaries, the fourth lot offered this season, and the finest that have arrived this season in England. Every bird in grand plumage and condition, and real musical-boxes, and sure prize-takers in the keenest of singing competitions through and out of Great Britain only, 10/6, 12/6, 15/6 each, or 70/- the stick of seven. Hens of the above, 2/6, 3/6 each, or two 4/6, 3 for 6/-; Belgian Roller cock, trained under the schoolmaster, in grand plumage and condition, only 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 each; hens, 1/9, 2/3 each, or 3 for 4/6; cash or deposit at "Cage Birds." Notice, we supply more prize-winning contest singing Rollers than any other dealer in England, and patronised by the largest dealers and exhibitors in England for years, so if you intend buying Rollers, pay the price and buy from us, who have hundreds weekly to pick from, and don't be caught by some dealers' bluff and rubbish: Power and Russell (established a century), 10, Granby Place, Bethnal Green, London, E.

In the report of Widnes C.B.S. Show in our issue of March 6, Mr. Stewart is named as winning in the G.C.A. classes; this should be Steinart.

The National Green-Marked Y.C.C. are holding their distribution of prizes along with the Y.C.C. and the C.M.Y.C.C. at the Market Tavern, on March 20, at 6, writes Mr. J. Chambers, Hon. Sec.

I have sold my unlighted buff Yorkshire cock, winner at the Welsh National Show, Bournemouth, etc., for a good figure, to Mr. R. Pinnell, Warminster, to whom I wish every good luck, and hope it will do well for him in the future.—Mrs. E. Holliday.

Nominations of Y.C.C. officers for 1915-16, writes Mr. John Greaves, 279, Hollings Road, Bradford, must be in the secretary's hands not later than March 31st. Nomination forms will be found in centre of Club's handbook, and should be filled in and sent as early as possible.

At the meeting of the British Roller C.C., held last week, writes Mr. J. W. Norris, Hon. Sec., it was decided that only B.R.C.C. rung birds will be allowed to compete in the young bird point competition, promoted by the B.R.C.C., and that birds wearing two or more rings will be disqualified. 16 new members were elected at the meeting.

It may interest you to know that last Easter, armed with the tips gathered from your "Nutshell" booklet on the Grey Parrot, I purchased one of these birds, and I have had the best of luck with him. He is in the best of health and says thirty-five words. I consider I owe my good luck with him to following the advice in the book of Mr. W. T. Page.—T. Goold (Small Heath).

The rule book and balance-sheet of the London and Counties A.C.B. are to hand. The book details the rules of the society, the show rules, and an attractive programme of lectures and shows for 1915, while the balance-sheet shows that the balance of £4 11s. 3d. brought forward from 1913 has been increased to £5 17s. 2d., and there are assets valued at £1 1s. 11d. The hon. sec. is Mr. W. Gilbert, 42, Cowcross-st., E.C.

Desiccated yolk of egg, supplied by Liverine, Limited, of Grimsby, has proved such a success for rearing youngsters and keeping the old birds in good condition, that it has met with great demand in all parts of the British Isles. There is hardly a cage-bird food dealer who has not good stocks of both this and the firm's famous cod liver oil cage bird food with added egg. A 6d. tin of desiccated yolk of egg will, it is claimed, rear a nest of young, and keep the old bird in fine condition during the feeding period. Their cod liver oil cage bird food is a new thing and worth trying.

We have received the rule book of the City and Suburban A.C.B. Besides the rules the booklet contains a list of officers and the names and addresses of members, the latter showing the very satisfactory number of 146 paying members, a record upon which the society is to be heartily congratulated. The syllabus of lectures and other fixtures for the year is of a most interesting nature, the subjects covering every aspect of the hobby of bird-keeping, no less than 21 items being included in this programme. The hon. sec. is Mr. Victor Wynn, 22, Park Lane, W., who informs us that three more members were elected, and ten nominated, at the meeting on March 8; he has still room for more!

One of the oldest established firms in the United Kingdom catering for live-stock fanciers is the Old Calabar Co. (Chapel Street, Liverpool), and none stands higher in repute for the high quality and fair prices of its goods. We strongly recommend our readers to send to the Old Calabar Co. for a copy of the illustrated price-list of the specialities supplied by the firm, and to order the latter from their local corn and seed dealers. Their packets of mixed seeds, Parrot mixture, Finch mixture, and the like, have long been favourably known amongst the very best of their kind, while "Avicultura" cage sand cannot be beaten. Old Calabar use only the purest and best ingredients because, as they say: "We are proud of the old name we possess."

I regret to inform you, writes Mr. W. S. Proudfoot, hon. sec. Glasgow W. End C.B.C. that our respected president, Mr. Archibald Hendry, has been laid aside with a rather serious illness for the past fortnight, but we learn that he is progressing favourably, and all our members join in wishing him a speedy return to his usual good health.

I have taken over the secretarial duties of the Northern Border Fancy C.C., writes Mr. C. Farrer, 222, Jefferson Street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. At the annual general meeting on March 3, the name of the club was altered, the Scotch Fancy being dropped owing to lack of support. The radius was also extended to include the six northern counties, and the rules were altered to suit the extended radius. We shall be pleased to welcome new members. The annual subscription is 2s. 6d.

One of the very best catalogues of bird-room requisites, foods, etc., that we have seen for many a long day reaches us from Mr. E. Tams, the well-known dealer, of Church Street, Longton, Staffs. Novices just starting, and old fanciers in search of new ideas, should certainly write at once for a copy. It contains close upon 200 illustrations. Mr. Tams informs us that although the war has made all goods cost him more, he has not raised his prices, hoping in that way to help fanciers keep their stocks together.

£5 for Sick Children.

We have handed to the Leicester Children's Hospital fund the sum of £5, the proceeds of a combined show, between the Leicester "Hand-in-Hand" and the Leicester Cage Bird Societies, write Messrs. J. Hardbattle and A. Freestone, Hon. Secs. Through your columns we wish to thank those who have supported us in the good work.

Strange Birds Arriving.

Many strange birds, which neither the fisher folk nor others more learned in ornithology can identify, says the "Pall Mall Gazette," are now making their appearance on the Hampshire coast—and presumably elsewhere. The supposition is that they have been driven across the Channel by the ceaseless cannonading on the Continent.

Thawing the Pheasant

As the landlord of the Plough Inn at Sleights, near Whitby, opened his door one cold morning this week, he was, according to "The Star," considerably surprised to see a cock Pheasant waiting to be admitted. The visitor at once walked in, past the smokeroom, and upstairs, warmth being evidently the bird's requirement. When the ice melted from him the bird departed, much comforted by his visit. He flew off in the direction of a neighbouring wood. [The only blot on this little story seems to be the failure to record the fact that the bird took a little whisky, hot, with lemon and sugar.—Editor, "C.B."]

"I have had so many letters in answer to my advert. in CAGE BIRDS re exchange, that I find it impossible to answer them all."—WM. R. FINNIE (Edinburgh).

"All my birds are sold. I have had so many applications from my advt. in CAGE BIRDS that it is impossible to reply to all; have had to return a lot of money."—GEO. MAYO (Wolverhampton).

"My advert. re gramophone brought me 21 offers; not bad for a ninepenny advert. considering the times. My advice to anyone expecting success in advertising is try CAGE BIRDS."—J. SHUTTLEWORTH (Leigh).

"I have sold all my Crestbreds, and could have sold a dozen more. The small advt. in CAGE BIRDS brought me orders from the North of Scotland to the South of England, also from Ireland, which speaks for the circulation."—CHARLES VERE (Canonbie).

"STOCK-TAKING" OF ONE'S HOBBY.

Cage-bird breeders may well ask themselves at the present time, when money is not exactly easily come by, what they are getting out of their birds; also whether they might not be getting something more than mere interest for their expenditure. We advise readers who really wish to achieve something in the way of success at next year's shows to acquire a copy of "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds," and to systematically study that book and faithfully follow the plain directions set forth therein, founded on years of patient study. It is a really reliable, definite and practical work.

This grand encyclopædia gives a great deal of shrewd advice as to the successful breeding and rearing of every known Canary and Hybrid. Much of this information has never before been tabulated. The enthusiastic fancier will also be interested in what the learned contributors have to say about those particular "crosses" that have not so far been produced. The book will pay for itself over and over again in enabling fanciers to work systematically on the lines laid down and to breed birds true to type that will do them credit at the 1915 shows. A fine anatomical model of a Canary is presented free to purchasers.

Further particulars can be obtained from the Publishers' Free Booklet, which will be sent post free by the Waverley Book Company, from 7, 8, and 9, Old Bailey, London, E.C. This attractive pamphlet also tells of the firm's offer to send "Canaries, Hybrids and British Birds" for a merely nominal first payment of one shilling only, the balance being paid by a few small monthly payments to be made while the fancier is using the book and deriving profit from its use. Fill up the free form on page 171, which will bring the book to you.

Does Economy Appeal to You?

Of course it does, all the time, but never so strongly as in this year of war, and that is why you should at once spend sixpence and save yourself pounds. How? Why, by purchasing

CAGE BIRDS 1915 ANNUAL

There is an article therein entitled, "How to Reduce the Food Bill." This will do the trick for you, and save you money, and not, be it noted, by false economy, at the expense of the stomachs of your birds.

DO YOU WANT TO MAKE MORE MONEY?

Of course you do, and the same sixpence will put you in the way of achieving this happy end. You have only to act on the advice contained in that very timely and suggestive contribution, "The Canary Breeder's Opportunity and How to Profit by It." You will find the means very simple and at the command of all.

The above are only two out of the many grand features of "Cage Birds' 1915 Annual." For instance, there is "The Bird Keepers' Year," which keeps you primed, month by month, with the essential details of management, the true attention to which goes so far to insure success in the hobby of bird keeping.

Should Birds Live on Canary Seed Alone?

An old Bird-keeper answers with an emphatic "No."

Sir,—I have read with interest the correspondence, and to my mind some of it is very misleading, especially to the novice. In my experience of birds (that is, over forty years) I have found you cannot make a hard and fast rule in feeding any variety of Canary or British Bird. Foods that would starve one species would kill others with fatness. I had a Goldfinch once that I could not bring into condition. I tried him on my usual mixed seed, that is 1 pint canary, ½ hemp, ¼ flax, ¼ teazle, ¼ summer rape, ¼ niger, with a little thistle added twice a week (all seeds of the best quality), but he did not thrive. So I put him on a diet of plain canary, with a little maw seed three times a week. Still no better result. So I thought I would try him on a diet of nothing but hemp, with ½-teaspoonful of Spratt's cod liver food three times a week. In a month's time I had him singing stoutly. So you see you cannot treat all birds alike. I recollect as a boy at my home in the West of Scotland we never heard of half the varieties of seeds that are on the market now. I used to go and fetch a quart of canary seed with a little hemp added, and a pennyworth of turnip seed, which is like our black rape, to give them as a treat once or twice a week. But you never saw the "bloom" on Canaries or British Birds then as you do now; and this "bloom" is the result of having so many different seeds with which to vary their diet. I always feed my Canaries on good Canary seed; I don't care whether it is Spanish or Turkish as long as it is sweet and plump. And as a tit-bit I give them a little gold of pleasure, hemp and rape twice a week. You should see how they enjoy it. Another change I give, is ½-teaspoonful of Spratt's cod liver oil food for my breeding hens; I add a little inga seed. I never use egg and biscuit now. I find cod liver oil food better; it contains all that is required to keep your birds in health. My advice to novices is not to stick to any hard and fast rule because Mr. So and So does it. Find out on what your birds do best, and make that your guide. One word of warning especially to British Bird fanciers; that is, always boil the water you use for drinking purposes if it has been lying in a tank; there may not be anything in it to do ourselves harm, yet enough to upset the stomachs of our birds. I maintain there are more British birds, especially fresh-caught ones, lost through the water than by using mixed seeds. John Jeffrey.

A supporter of plain living alleges Mixed Seeds caused bird's tail to drop out!

Sir,—I was most interested in reading Mr. Balcombe's letter on plain feeding, and I must say I heartily agree with all he said. I myself have often found that, through feeding too lavishly at the commencement of, and before, the breeding season, instead of getting the birds into high condition, it has just brought about the reverse. I consider that if your birds have plenty of good food and fresh water daily, and are cleaned out at least once a week, there will be no need of any extra feeding in order to get them into condition. My birds are all in splendid form, the cocks are whistling from morn till even, and the hens are calling vigorously. They have been in this condition for about two months, and none has received anything except plain seed, water, and a pinch of rape once or twice a month. I have had no heat in the room, and have never ceased to give them baths since last breeding season. They had a little green food during the moult, but have had none since.

With regard to British Birds, I had always been told that they would never thrive on anything except mixed seeds. About three years ago I procured a nice Linnet, which I fed on mixed seed. Result, I never bred a single Mule, and in about a couple of months it departed from the land of the living. I bought another Britisher in a day or two. This I fed on plain seed, and it is now enjoying life, singing, and relishing the plain seed also. I must admit about once a quarter it gets a couple of sunflower seeds, which it seems to appreciate, whilst once a month it gets a bit of rape, which it also seems to enjoy. I have also another Britisher, which has been fed on the same diet for a couple of years, and without spending many hours hunting in field and lane for wild seeds, in order to get it into condition, I managed to make it the happy parent of a brood of Canary Mules, which it seemed to fancy very much, and funnily enough, it never ate one of them! So this shows that it was not hungry, like some Britishers which live on mixed seed. The other got highly commended the other day, so the plain diet does not seem to spoil their show condition.

I remember the first season I was in the Fancy. I then knew nothing about birds except that they ate canary seed and that if you put a pair of birds in a cage they might breed. Well, mine did, and I reared seven young, which I don't think was bad for a first try. These were fed on plain canary seed, and nothing else.

I might also mention one other fact which goes to prove that plain diet is better than rich. Long ago I had an old Canary which I always fed on mixed seed, and sure enough before Christmas it had always lost its new tail. This happened for five or six years, and it was never nicely feathered. After a lot of puzzling, I thought that the seed must be the malefactor. So I gave it nothing but plain seed, and it never afterwards lost its tail, and was always nicely feathered. I have that bird stuffed now, as it was a great favourite, and when it died it was in splendid feather. Try the plain seed diet, and give your birds plenty of exercise, as much bathing as possible, plenty of fresh air, clean seed and water daily, and don't forget the sand, or you may find you get egg-bound hens, which, in my opinion, are not nice sights to see. Give good green food (mind it has not been touched by the frost). With a little care and common-sense success should be experienced by all the readers of this worthy paper, Cage Birds, which I wish the greatest success both now and in the future.

PORTH AND RHONDDA VALLEYS

Annual pair show, Feb. 24, Porth Hotel. The society has been extremely well suited in moving their headquarters to this hotel. Notwithstanding the number of recruits that have left this enterprising Colliery district, the Porth and Rhondda C.B.S. is still making progress, and with Mr. J. Challenger as show manager everything passed off most satisfactory. Committee: Messrs. Hillman, Baker, Stone, James, Ernest, Hubbard, J. Jones, Greeves and Richards, and Evans, with chairman, J. H. Bevan; vice, A. H. C. Legg; treas., T. Emanuel; and sec., J. S. Jones, pull all together for success. As an attraction for visitors, who turned up well, a large number of extremely well-benched birds not for competition were on view. Special for most entries and for most points were captured by Mr. Legg with 53 points. Quality was good, some exceptionally good Norwich and Yorks, being put down, and Goldfinches were extra good. T. CRYSTAL PALACE & PENGE C.B.A

Successful pair show, Feb. 17. The entry was scarcely up to last year's total, but there was a distinct advance in quality. Some of the Norwich were particularly typical, and the Yorks. of fine length and quality. A few good Borders and British made up quite an interesting collection. Sp. best champ. went to a very fine pair of Yorks., sent in by Mr. Foxen, Mr. Last winning novice sp. with a pair of typical Borders, in fine condition. In Mr. Fryett the society has a hard-working secretary. Mr. Hutton once more kindly lent the room for the show, and erected the staging in quite an artistic manner. Mr. H. Norman judged, and gave the members a short lecture upon pairing.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

Annual members' show, Feb. 6, in the cosy end of the Assembly Room, Crown Hotel, Station Street. Entries were excellent considering how near the date was to breeding season, and quality was very good. Yorks. were well represented, many noted winners being present, and the running was very close in some of the classes. British came up well. Mr. J. H. Jones, the able sec., was well supported by several members, who attended to the exhibits. Mr. J. H. Roe judged, and gave every satisfaction.

WOLVERHAMPTON C.B.S.

Inter Club Show, Jan. 23, Headquarters, Duke of York, when the final of the Inter Club cup only attracted an entry of about 125 from four societies, not a single entry coming from West Bromwich, and only two exhibitors sent from Walsall. Mr. P. V. Williams' well-known winning yellow was much admired. Messrs. Wells, Weaver, Gough and Loach, Garfield and Gibbons, J. Weeks, and J. A. Tonks, Esq., also staged large teams, and quality all round was grand, many well known winners being on view. The Inter Club cup will for the second time find a resting place at Wolverhampton. The keenest struggle was for the members' challenge cup, as all the year only four points have divided the first six, and in the final Messrs. Gough and Loach and J. Gibbons tied with 66 points each. Mr. G. Baker judged, and left no room for grumbling.

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book.

THE SECRETS OF HYBRID BREEDING REVEALED AND EXPLAINED.—By many notable Mule and Hybrid Breeders. Among the contributors are such well-known breeders as Messrs. R. Colton, W. H. Vale, C. Houlton, C. J. Ward, J. Beswick, G. Lander, T. H. Kinch, T. Smith, etc. This Handbook, which contains 212 pages, 7 inches by 5, is brimful of the most practical information on the highly interesting subject of Hybrid Breeding. Price 1/-, post free 1/2.

PARROTS FOR PLEASURE AND PROFIT, 7d.—By C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Grey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2. — By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockatoels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives full details on how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1½.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts. Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softbills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

CAGE-BIRD HYBRIDS.—Complete bound in cloth, 7/6 carriage paid. This great work is written by Charles Houlton, an authority with a reputation exceeding over 25 years as a leading exhibitor and a leading expert and judge (Associate editors, G. E. Weston and C. A. House). Magnificently illustrated by that great bird artist, H. Norman. There are no less than sixteen coloured and sixteen art plates in this work. Each plate is a perfect study of an individual Hybrid.

FANCIERS' PRINTING.—Fanciers requiring business notepaper, postcards, trade envelopes, etc., should write us for a quotation. We are now in a position to supply these at specially low rates combined with first-class work. Artistic memos., with block of any desired bird, and fancier's name, address, and words of description as desired, 250 5/-, 500 7/6, carriage paid.

CARDIFF C.B.S.

Pair show, Feb. 17, Naish's Royal Stores, a room well adapted for the purpose of an evening show. The quality of the 106 exhibits was exceptionally good, amongst them being several noted winners, and with the amount of new blood introduced into the society, and so many veterans at the helm, a promising future seems to he a certainty for this most enterprising society. Mr. T. L. Castree judged.

LEICESTER.

Third combined Charity Show of the Leicester "Hand in Hand" and the Leicester C.B.S., Feb. 6, Vaughan College, in aid of the Children's Hospital Fund. Entries were equal to previous shows, and the exhibits were of the highest quality. Nor. were the feature of the show, many well-known birds being staged. In nov. competition was very keen; some of the winners should have held their own in the open. British classes were filled, and the winners much admired. The exhibition proved a great success and a good sum was realised. Mr. E. Noakes judged Canaries, and Mr. J. A. Pinsent Mules and British.

LEYTON C.B.A.

At the table show, Mar. 1, new headquarters, Parish Hall, Church Road, Leyton, about fifty birds were staged, and seventeen members took part in a judging competition, the winner being Mr. W. L. Taylor. The final judge was our old friend, Mr. J. S. Clarke, who, at our special request, emerged once more from his shell of retirement. Special for best bird went to Mr. Pettit's Corn Bunting, 2nd best Mr. Underhay's Norwich. Fanciers within fifteen miles' radius of Leyton, who desire to become members, will be heartily welcomed. A show or lecture is held on the first Monday each month, sub. 2s. 6d. per ann. The hon. sec., Mr. G. King, 1, Kimberley Road, Leytonstone, will be pleased to send particulars to all who apply.—A. W. Farmer, Hon. Assist. Sec.

BURNLEY O.S.

Meeting, Headquarters, Star Inn, Church Street, Mar. 3; Mr. West chair. New members made: Mr. Richardson and Mr. Dunderdale. Decided to hold F.F. show June 19, three birds to be shown for cup and special, to be nominated when entered. Classes: Cl. Yell., Tkd., and Var. Nor., ditto buff tkd. and var. Nor., ditto Yellow and Ciun.-mkd. Yorks., ditto Buff, Mules or Hyb., Brit. Soft and Hardbills. Mr. T. Lingard gave a lecture on "Pairing Birds for Breeding Winners." The lecture was very interesting, and was greatly appreciated, and a lively discussion followed, most of the members taking part. The information which he gave was well worth recording in print. Ill-health has kept him from showing much during the last two seasons, but we wish him better luck in the future. The society is making steady progress, but there is room for more. I think that we shall get a few more yet through our paper, CAGE BIRDS. Full particulars will be supplied on enquiry, and we hope to cater for more varieties. Members are requested to attend next meeting, Mar. 17, as we want to get the show business settled.—T. Chadwick, Sec., 42, Shale Street, Burnley.

ECCLESHILL C.B.S.

Annual supper and prize distribution, March 6, Fountain Inn, with a good attendance. Mr. J. W. Kaberry, Lidget Green, presented prizes, and made a splendid chairman. He said he had been to several members' prize distributions, but had never seen one as good as Eccleshill. It being a little society with only about 20 members, such a grand display of prizes was a credit, and he was surprised we had not more members. To keep the ball rolling, he said, I will give a travelling case for next year's competition. Mr. Airton proposed the health of the new President, Mr. O. Partington, M.P., and said we had got a good man in the place of our old and esteemed friend, Mr. P. Illingworth. Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilcock served the supper in fine style, and all seemed satisfied. After supper songs were rendered in fine style by Messrs. B. Hobson, W. Lee, M. Rider, and S. Wilcock, and Mr. J. Bousfield gave us some very good recitals, also two comics, which all enjoyed. Mr. G. A. Simonett proposed a vote of thanks to the host and hostess, Mr. W. Lee seconded. Mr. Wilcock responded, saying if we had all enjoyed ourselves, it was all he cared about. An enjoyable evening was brought to a close with singing "He's a jolly good fellow."—S. Wilcock, Hon. Sec.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

A Good Year's Work Accomplished.

Annual meeting Mar. 1, 6, The Broadway, Mr. W. H. Stoakley presiding, the attendance being quite up to the average. Sec. submitted report and accounts. The year was started with a membership of 114, and although there had been several resignations the roll now numbered 115. There had been a great falling off in subs., but it was thought not advisable to worry the members just now. There had been an average attendance of 25 at meetings. Four judging competitions were held in which an average of 18 took part. The annual open show, which was arranged for November, showed every prospect of a great success, but after a deal of discussion it was reluctantly decided to abandon the show and to substitute a members' show. The committee's action was subjected to adverse criticism at the October meeting, but at the November meeting the chairman explained fully the committee's reasons for their action, and the explanation was loyally accepted by the members. The report concluded by the sec. paying a warm tribute to Mr. H. Smith, who had given him much valuable advice, and to others who had given considerable help at the shows of the society. The accounts showed a profit on the young bird show of 9d., a loss on the pair show of 4s. 2d., and on the annual show of 16s. 9d. The general accounts showed a balance in hand of £18 19s. 3d., as against £25 12s. 9d. the previous year, and the balance-sheet showed the total assets to be £39 17s. 2d. Mr. F. J. R. Piper was re-elected pres., but Mr. W. H. Stoakley, who has been chairman of the society since its formation, now insisted upon his resignation, whereupon Mr. J. W. Heath was elected, and a hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Stoakley for his ten years' service to the society. Vice-pres. were re-elected: J. Carson, Mrs. Griffiths, C. How, E. J. Lamb, J. Robson, P. Rorke, H. Smith, Dr. Spencer, Mrs. Thynne, and J. G. Warley. Committee: H. J. Bailey, A. H. Dyke, H. W. Hobden, R. A. Newley, F. W. Owen, Mrs. Owen, E. J. Pegg, F. Thynne, and F. Whiting. G. Griffiths re-elected hon. sec., very glowing tributes being paid him for the manner in which he had performed his duties during his first year of office. A slight alteration in the definition of a novice was made, and a vote of thanks was accorded the auditors. The result of the judging competitions for the year was announced. Mr. E. J. Pegg heading the list and winning the chairman's prize with 50 points, Mr. J. H. Bailey runner-up 41. Members who got over 30 points were: C. E. Nash 36, Mrs. Griffiths 32, and F. Whiting 31. There was one nomination for membership, and a message of condolence was ordered to be sent to Mr. F. Whiting, who had lost his wife and had been attending her funeral that day.—G. Griffiths, Hon. Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Meeting, March 4, Mr. Jones presiding. The movement to promote a combined show, similar to last year, by the local and district societies, has reached a business stage, and nearly all have agreed to support it. Messrs. Jones, Furniss and Cowley were appointed delegates to meet representatives from other societies to make arrangements, and further particulars will be published later. The N.F. Show had been fixed for the usual date, but one of the local societies having brought their show forward to the same date, and to avoid clashing, it was was reluctantly decided to hold onrs July 3rd. Balance sheet for 1914 was read, which showed a good balance to carry forward, and that the society was in a flourishing condition. There is every credit due to the secretary for the able and efficient manner in which he has handled the affairs of the society, and also thanks to the members for their support. Several members spoke as to the way in which to make the society even a greater success, and there is every reason to believe from the enthusiasm shown at the meeting that the members are prepared to do their best during the coming season. There was a profit on the members' show which goes to the Lord Mayor's Relief Fund. A vote of thanks was accorded to the auditors, Messrs. H. Hobson and Varley. The question arrangement proved very interesting, and instructive. Various views were expounded as to dealing with egg-bound hens, and some of the hints should prove useful if required. Next meeting an egg food competition, members to bring their own utensils. Messrs. Bingham and Drabble have generously promised to pay for all eggs used, and will act as judges. Prize-money, 3s., 2s., 1s.; every member ought to be present, and show his method.—Mr. Williams, Penistone Road, elected a member.—E. Sisson, Assist. Sec.

The Opinion of a Noted Fancier—

"IT MAKES BIRD BREEDING EASY."

THE STOCK BOOK

Compiled by G. E. WESTON.

Simplifies the operations in the Bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. It affords facilities for the recording of the complete pedigree of all your birds; of your experiences during the season; an account of every bird reared. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird and Show Registers of simple and unique character; Cash and Profit and Loss Accounts for the year. Gives valuable hints for times of emergency during the breeding season.

SOME HINTS ON PARROT KEEPING.

Reproduced, by kind permission, from the "Avicultural Magazine."

FEATHER plucking is mostly due to improper feeding, but may be caused by lack of occupation, parasites, or, more rarely by anxiety to breed where no opportunity is allowed of doing so. A feather-plucker should be placed on a plain diet of canary, millet, wheat, and oats, with dry bread and unlimited fruit and green food. It should be freely supplied with soft, rotten wood, and small branches to bite up and amuse itself with, and should be allowed as much freedom and exercise as possible. Baths should be freely supplied, and if the bird refuses to bathe it should be sprayed daily with quassia solution—a dessert spoonful of essence of quassia to a tumbler of tepid water where the presence of parasites is suspected. Liberty to roam at will with a cut wing in a large grass enclosure will cure the most inveterate feather-plucker that ever existed.

Loss of Feathers.—Apparently due to debility. The bird becomes entirely destitute both of down and feathers, the head being often the first part to become bare. The disease, which often renders its unfortunate victim a most grotesque and unsightly object, is generally very intractable. It is best to keep the patient fairly warm, allow it plenty of exercise and occupation, and feed it on a nourishing and varied diet. A few drops of Parrish's Chemical Food should be placed in the drinking water.

A Feather Trouble.

French Moult.—A popular term denoting a chronic inability to produce fully-developed feathers, particularly in the wings and tail, the bird being usually unable to fly more than a few yards owing to its primaries being very small and malformed. French moult is most commonly seen in Budgerigars which are the offspring of nearly-related, immature, or weakly parents, but it sometimes occurs among other species, and is often met with among Hooded Parrakeets which have been caught too young and received a severe check in their early youth. Treatment, which is seldom efficacious, should be the same as that recommended for birds suffering from loss of feathers.

Necrosis.—An infectious disease of a rather mysterious character, which attacks many birds and occasionally causes loss among members of the Parrot family: Roseate Cockatoos and Bourke's Parrakeets being the commonest victims. It is incurable and may assume either an acute or chronic form, the bird in the latter case becoming very emaciated.

Eye Disease.—An infectious disease of the eye, sometimes found among newly-imported King, Crimson-wing and Polytelis Parrakeets and certain Parrots, usually resulting in loss of sight; the eyes, in bad cases, becoming entirely closed up. The eyes may be bathed with warm water and directly afterwards with a diluted solution of rose-water and zinc. Cases of recovery are rare.

Egg-binding.—Usually the result of overfatness or an attempt to breed at a low temperature. Keep the bird very warm, and place a few drops of olive oil in the vent at fairly frequent intervals. Giving oil at the beak is naturally useless, but is sometimes done by those who are ignorant of avian anatomy.

Worms.—Parrots occasionally suffer from both round and tape worms, and these parasites, if allowed to increase unchecked, may cause the serious illness and even death of the bird. A dose of from 3 to 5 grains of cina given daily in the food or water will usually effect a cure.

Methods of Disinfection.

The subject of disease naturally leads to that of disinfection. For ordinary, everyday use, Condy's Fluid makes a harmless and satisfactory wash. But ordinary disinfectant fluids are not of the smallest avail in dealing with the germs of the more dangerous diseases. A Parrot cage, which has been occupied by a bird suffering from septic fever, for instance, should be scorched over with the flame of a painter's lamp and afterwards soaked in strong carbolic, finally receiving a wash of plain water to remove any trace of the poison which may cling to the perch or bars. A small indoor aviary should, as far as possible, be subjected to the same treatment as a cage, but an outdoor aviary containing earth and grass is far more difficult to deal with. For the disinfection of an outdoor aviary, or indeed any large area of ground containing avian disease germs, nothing gives such satisfactory results as common salt applied at the rate of three cwt. or more to the acre. Gaslime or soot are also useful, but as the former is rather poisonous, the birds should be removed for several weeks after it has been applied, and not returned until it has become thoroughly dissolved and washed into the soil by the rain, a process which may be accelerated by digging it in. Ordinary lime is absolutely useless as a disinfectant. It does not even kill parasitic worms, and why it is so often recommended I cannot imagine.

Hints on Treatment.

Having so far dealt more or less generally with the Parrot family, I will, in conclusion, say something about certain individual species of the treatment and characteristics of which I have had some personal experience.

Amazon Parrots (Chrysotis) are, as I have said once before, especially suited to cage life, birds of no species keep in finer plumage in close confinement, live longer, or appear more contented. Most Amazons, with the possible exception of the magnificent large island races, have a considerable talent for learning to talk, although the cocks are usually far better performers than their mates. Amazons quickly become attached to their owners and are extremely fond of being petted, though some are a little apt to give an unpleasantly sharp nip in moments of excitement. This weakness, together with a tendency to an over liberal use of their loud and raucous voices, constitutes their chief failing. In an aviary, my rather limited experience leads me to consider them far less quarrelsome than Parrakeets, and many species readily become inured to cold, the island forms being, I am told, the most delicate. When allowed complete liberty, they, as a rule, stay well, give little trouble and may often be safely released full-winged.

A Menu for Amazons.

Amazons should be fed on hemp, canary, millet, wheat, and oats, with fruit, dry bread and plain biscuit; they are usually free bathers. The sexes are very much alike in appearance, but the cock is in most cases a larger, bolder, and brighter-coloured bird than the hen, with a larger head and heavier beak. Amazons are less subject than most Parrots to infectious disease, a great advantage to those who have to buy their birds when newly-imported.

The Amusing Senegal.

Pœocephalus Parrots.—The best known member of this family is the Senegal, an active, amusing little bird, with (in the case of the cocks) a fair talent for talking. Its principal failings are a tendency to bite hard in moments of excitement and unprovoked annoyance, and a thin unpleasant scream, which however some individuals do not utter. It appears doubtful whether Senegals or any of their near relatives could be wintered altogether in an unheated aviary as, like many African Parrots, they appear to dislike very low temperatures. The food should be the same as that of an Amazon.

THE BREEDING AND REARING of CANARIES.

GIVE a little hemp if the weather turns chilly; and a little maw and inga are excellent when the hen is about to lay. You can invariably tell when this may happen. The hen takes to her nest more regularly. Her body behind and between the legs is distended, and she looks slightly "soft." A teaspoonful of crushed egg-shells is very good for the hen at or just before this period, and is, in my opinion, a preventive of egg-binding. As most of you are no doubt aware, causes of egg-binding are weakness, want of sufficient material to form eggshell, etc. If from one cause or the other the hen is unable to properly coat her egg, then the hen will have considerable difficulty in passing it. On the other hand a properly formed egg, even if twice the normal size, does not appear to cause trouble. As a preventive, therefore, one must not pair up until one's hens are very forward. An extra month in the flight would be better, because I have found that an unlucky hen which has suffered in this way has often been useless for the rest of the season. This is not, however, one of my troubles in the breeding-room, and I only mention it in order to prevent you from hurrying your birds unduly.

Rearing the Young.

We must now assume that the eggs have been properly laid and the hen has sat for thirteen days. In the evening you must prepare some fresh egg-food. Half an egg and about one Osborne biscuit will be ample. The other half can be mixed up next day, unless you have other birds that need it. Give the birds a good teaspoonful, if both cock and hen are together, afterwards (when cleared up) half a teaspoonful will be sufficient. Little and often is the best maxim.

On the morning of the 14th day you should hear a faint "cheep," "cheep" coming from the nest. If you do, leave well alone. Don't try and force the hen off. Soon she must come off, and you can see how many chicks she has. I should have mentioned that when you give the egg-food on the 13th day the hen will nearly always come off. If she does, carefully lift the nest pan out, and sprinkle the eggs with tepid water. If, however, she has been using the bath during the previous few days, this will not be so necessary, although I think it is good to do it. I do not supply the bath to the hen during her first seven days of incubation.

As the Young Grow.

As the young grow, more egg-food may be given, watercress, or lettuce, a little hemp and soaked rape. If the hen does not feed well, a little maw seed may be added, but I think she is best without this stimulating seed, as it is apt to bring her on with eggs again. Care must be taken that the hen does not pluck the youngsters. A little watching will soon tell the tale. When this happens they should of course be put in a nursery cage, and hung on the outside of the breeder, or they may be put the other side of the partition. They will soon feed themselves, and when this is so they may be taken from their parents. Do not put them in a large cage at first, but feed them with the same items as their parents have been using—egg-food, hemp (which can be cracked) and soaked rape, with canary seed in the hopper. They will soon find this latter and then the other foods can be decreased in quantity; but do not leave them off entirely until after the moult.

Correspondence.

The Goldfinch and Its Bath.

Sir,—My Goldfinches won't bathe, so would some kind fancier inform me the best way of getting them to take to the bath while being kept in cages? I should also like to know the best treatment to moult them to get good plumage.

My Fancy.

A Scots Fancy Club for Ayrshire.

Sir,—For many years the Scotch Fancy has been dwindling to almost vanishing point, the reason, no doubt, being the stock getting into too few hands. To resuscitate the breeding of the Scots Fancy, it has been resolved to form a Club, confined to Ayrshire, and a meeting of those interested will be held in the George Hotel Kilmarnock, on Sat., March 27, at 6 p.m. All interested are cordially invited to attend.

Wm. Robertson.

Firbrae, Troon.

Two Interesting Points.

Sir,—Being greatly interested in the breeding of Mules and Hybrids and not so far having had much experience, I am writing to you for a little enlightenment. A gentleman who breeds birds in this district informed me the other day that last season he had a hen Canary in breeding condition. He put up with this hen, a British Goldfinch for one day, then changed his mind, took away the Finch, and ran a cock Canary with her until she laid. He informed me, the result was a nest of one Mule and three Canaries. I was inclined to doubt the tenacity of this statement, and I am now open to be convinced that such could happen. There is another thing that perplexes me, and the question is: Is it possible for a whole clutch of eggs to be fertilised before the first egg is laid; or is it a fact that each egg must be fertilised the day before laying? I shall be delighted to see in Cage Birds an answer to these enquiries.

Perplexed.

[We have ourselves had Mules and Canaries hatch out of the same clutch of eggs, under circumstances similar to those described by "Perplexed." It is quite possible for every egg of a clutch to prove fertile, although the cock bird is removed before the first egg is laid.—Editor.]

Four Eggs in Two Days.

Sir,—Would you insert the following in your valuable paper, Cage Birds, as I should say it is a record. The Canary hen belongs to friend of mine in this place (Parton), and I am wondering if any other reader has had a similar experience. This bird laid four eggs in two days before starting to sit on them.

When Judges Disagree.

Sir,—I was very pleased to read Mr. Blake's remarks concerning Mr. Partlett's wonderful Canary-Bullfinch, "White Rose." Although I have never met the owner of this bird, I have every reason to believe that he is an honest fancier and a gentleman. We have had ample proof that the bird is genuine, and it has never been proved otherwise. I think it is the height of meanness for any man to hide behind a wall and sling mud at a brother fancier just because he happens to be more successful than us. I see no reason for doubting "White Rose's" parentage, and if I did I should never think of pulling a man to pieces until I could back myself up with proofs of my conviction. I hope "White Rose" will have the success it deserves for many more seasons, and that fanciers will try to beat it fairly and squarely, or not at all.

W. Hainsworth.

The Case for the Opposition.

Sir,—Your correspondent, Mr. R. Blake, states that he has taken a great interest in the correspondence concerning "White Rose," and yet his letter suggests that all fanciers who cannot accept it as a Canary Bullfinch allege that it is only a rare-feathered British Bird. His assumption is quite wrong, as it is generally admitted that it is a Hybrid. To observant fanciers, the stumbling block to accepting it as a Canary-Bullfinch is the very evident Greenfinch characteristics which it possesses, and which have never previously been seen in a Canary-Bullfinch. Mr. Blake asks, why are not some of the clear Mules kicked out, for being Canaries? Perhaps because they are Mules. It is a well-known fact, however, that dozens of alleged Clear Mules have been "kicked out," as he terms it, for being Canaries. Scarcely a show season passes without a few suffering. In fact so many alleged clear and lightly-marked Mules have been kicked out in recent years that it was quite recently suggested in the columns of Cage Birds that a special class should be provided for such birds! Mr. Blake then asks: Why should it not be possible to breed Canary-Bullfinch Mules with light feathers? I don't think anyone would be so rash as to say they cannot be bred. As a matter of fact, variegated Canary-Bullfinches were bred many years before the advent of "White Rose," but they showed the Canary and the Bullfinch only—no trace of Greenfinch about them, consequently their parentage was never doubted.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Production of Winning Yorkshires in the South.

Sir,—May I be permitted to thank the author of the notes on Mr. Dykes' green-marked yellow Yorkshire for his kindness in giving me the credit of breeding the bird. Needless to say, it was a very great pleasure to me to see that the bird had done so well for his new owner, and appreciating the difficulty of producing a really "top hole" specimen makes the achievement all the more gratifying to me. At the 1900 Palace Show I was purchasing birds from off the bench, when I was told by the most successful exhibitor of Yorkshires in London at that time that I would never do any good if that was the way I was going on. The variety down south has wonderfully improved since then, so much so that several birds have recently been sold to go North, one of them being the yellow cinnamon-marked hen which carried off premier honours at the Welsh National show for her new owners. For type she is probably the best of her variety living, and without doubt has secured more first prizes than any other hen of her time. I had the good fortune to breed her in 1910, and exhibited her at the Horticultural Hall, but not thinking her very robust, I catalogued her at £2—a very different figure to that at which she changed hands on the last occasion.

R. L. Crisp.

Mice and Rats in Aviaries and Birdrooms.

Sir,—I am still of the opinion that mice will not touch the birds (unless, as Mr. St. John said, the birds attack them, or there is nothing to eat). Still, even then I do not think a mouse could do the mischief that was done to mine in 1913. To my idea there is absolutely nothing that can be done to prevent mice getting in anywhere (I do not say "rats," I stipulate "mice") their bodies are so elastic that the smallest hole is large enough to admit them. Perhaps the following would interest readers. The other Monday I went into my outdoor aviary, and everything looked as usual, birds all right, etc. Just as I was coming out I noticed a piece of white cardboard placed across the opening of one of the cocoanut husks hung in a branch for my foreign birds. It reminded me of the piece of wood the mothers put across the door (in the country) to keep their little kiddies from running into the road. Being curious, I put my hand into the husk, and to my great astonishment found it beautifully warm inside. You can imagine my delight, as I thought one of my birds had given me a reward at last. But alas! as my hand went in out scooted a regiment of six young mice, like the Germans before the bayonets of the Allies, not even waiting to take their baggage with them. This is certainly a proof that mice do not injure the birds, when they even come and make their home in their very midst. I saw nothing of Mamma Mouse. She must have escaped by a hole which I found, on closer inspection, had been made at the back of the husk (exactly like a back-door). As for the Papa, I think he must have disappeared inside "Tiddles" (my cat), for I saw him ("Tiddles") looking very pleased with himself, sitting on the lawn, just outside the aviary, a short time after my discovery.

M. A. Feist-Madewell.

The Norwich Plainhead and How to Improve It.

Sir,—It is with sincere regret that I note the apparent contempt of Mr. W. Spillman in reference to what I have written from time to time. Had I in my article assumed an almightiness, and declared my stock never produced any wasters, or insinuated my ways of success were not as those of other men, I would pass his reference with as much silent dignity as I could command; but inasmuch as I have always kept before my readers how modest my undertaking in the Fancy has been, and how manifold were my shortcomings, I do say, whilst not forbidding friendly criticism, that his remarks are sadly lacking in tone, and would have been better left unsaid. If he really intends to convey to readers and myself that his Plainheads do not contain any Crestbred or Lancashire blood, then allow me to say that I have in mind the knowledge of purchases and exchanges he has made of fresh blood, and which I defy him to prove were in each and every instance free from the blood of the crosses mentioned. Inasmuch as I know he cannot prove this, any more than I can with my own stock, I would warn beginners against his "red herring," which insinuates the Crestbred and Lancashire are not mainly responsible for the size in our breed.

As for his challenge, what a hollow roar it is. Who is to be the bold judge that will sort out the best current year stock birds? Upon what standard of excellence are they to be judged? Is his record with current year birds in open champion classes at the Plymouth show during the past seven or eight years so wretchedly poor that he fears to tackle me with the finished product of his incomparable stock and almighty brains? Inasmuch as the real worth of stock birds is not in what they appear, but in what they will produce, allow me to suggest to my critic that he amends his challenge upon the basis of show, and not stock, birds, of the current year, and if his conditions are reasonable I will accept with alacrity, even though my breeding stock is only eight hens and six cocks, but in which I will nevertheless put my trust, for in times of need they have never failed me, nor do I think will even now do so, just because the green-eyed monster has roused Mr. Spillman from his enforced lethargy and obscurity.

E. W. Allsopp.

Sir,—According to two of your correspondents I am wrong. They have, of course, as much right to their opinion as I have to mine. Mr. Fuller makes me say that the cross I advocate is the best. I only say that it is my opinion. Of course everyone must use discretion in working any cross. He says, why not advise breeders to breed from good Plainhead Norwich, as they were in my own young days? Such birds, I may say, would be useless, that is, if one has any ambition to produce winning specimens of to day. Mr. Pavey's advice is to stick to the Plainhead, using birds with large heads and full necks. Yes, they are what I want; but where do you get the large head and thick neck from? That is what I want to know. Mr. Clegg seems to desire the Ideal on paper; but I want to produce it in my cages. I have the bird I require strongly engraved upon my mind, and I want to get at the best method to manufacture it.

CAGE BIRDS' ANNUAL FOR 1915

The Heavily-marked Norwich at the Welsh National Show.

Sir,—I must say I entirely agree with H. J. Davies in sticking to his protest against the three winners being allowed to stand in this class. It is not a matter of sportsmanship or of the full pound of flesh, but is of vital importance to all exhibitors. The real question is: Are judges and committees to be allowed to alter the conditions of any class after the exhibits are at the shows? These exhibitors have been given an unfair advantage, not only over the other exhibitors in this class, but over all exhibitors of lightly-marked Norwich. During the last fifteen years I have made over 3,000 entries at live-stock shows, and have never heard of such a case before.

T. Patterson Riddle.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Henry J. Davis, we should like to inform him that we have not yet (up to the time of writing) received any prize-money from the Welsh National Society that we have not won. If he refers to Class 29, he is making a great mistake, as what we received in respect of the said class we duly won on the merits of our bird. If he can prove we have received any prize-money we have not won, we shall refund it with pleasure. Has he himself received any prize-money that his birds have not won?

Greaves & Richards.

Sir,—Let me inform Mr. Crawshaw that as I was not a visitor at the above show, so I could not very well walk into the Hon. Sec.'s office and lodge a protest. I have done the next best thing, namely, lodge an objection, and have returned the prize card and prize-money that were wrongfully awarded me. Will that suit you, Mr. Crawshaw? There the matter ends till the Committee decide what course to take. Now, Mr. Crawshaw, you have done as much exhibiting as almost any other fancier this season. Perhaps you will give me and others concerned the reason you entered those two birds in the heavy-marked class, when you could, as a matter of undisputed fact, have entered them in the lightly-marked class. There was no definition in the latter as to the extent of markings, as was so distinctly made in class 29. Am I right in assuming that you were after the £7 10s. cup for most points in the Norwich classes, a valuable trophy that the Rev. Jolliffe so despises that he says you may have it, although the Rev. gentleman claims to have won it, and rightly so, too. Or did you, by mistake, enter in the heavy-marked class birds that were not eligible to compete? Your letter in last week's issue is plain proof that you are capable of understanding a schedule, including the rules. It is quite plain that you would have run against that famous saddle-marked buff and its stable companion, birds you perhaps could not beat.

Henry J. Davis.

Sir,—When "Exhibitor," "Another Exhibitor" and "Three Scotties" have the courage to attach their names to their contributions I shall be pleased to reply.

E. W. Allsopp.

Sir,—As an exhibitor in the heavily-marked class at the Welsh National show, I think Mr. Norman only did his duty in placing the matter before the exhibitors not able to get to the show. I am surprised that Mr. Allsopp should have to go and ask the officials' opinions before he knew what action to take, as the schedule read quite plainly: "This class means more dark than light." If exhibitors sent birds more light than dark then the fault was their own, and the birds should have been disqualified. I am sure Mr. Crawshaw is riding the wrong horse when he refers to rule 2 in this matter, as all exhibitors cannot get to the show to deposit their 5s. The main point is, why did not the judge use his power and disqualify? What is the use of putting a schedule out if the judge is not to go by it? Mr. Jolliffe says it was looked upon in a sportsmanlike way. He may think so, but other exhibitors don't. Does Mr. J. think exhibitors want to send birds out to shows to have "wrong class" birds placed before them? This is the situation.

H. Hathaway.

Sir,—Inasmuch as Class 29 reads "Heavily-marked, or variegated yellow or buff" (this class to mean more dark than light), and strictly does not admit birds such as those to which I awarded 1st, 2nd, and 3rd prizes, perhaps my critic, Mr. Henry Davis, and others who declare the schedule was so plainly worded, will say what I should have done with the three or four self greens in the class, for after all such birds are not "variegated," nor "heavily-marked." With these disqualified as well, the class would have stood at six birds as eligible. What Mr. Davis may now consider is, whether the committee would have awarded full prize-money or not under the circumstances, and, if so, whether I should have exercised my prerogative and withheld the 1st, 2nd, and perhaps even the 3rd prizes, for lack of merit. At present he enjoys the tacit understanding, upon his own showing, of being a 1st-prize winner, with the 4th prize in cash. Perhaps the pushing home of the matter to a court of law may leave him considerably poorer than this.

E. W. Allsopp.

Border Fancies at the Horticultural Hall Show.

Sir,—It seems very late in the day to make any reference to the last Horticultural Hall Show, but it was not my good fortune to hear at the end of November what has come to my knowledge recently. As the outcome of conversations with one or two fanciers, may I ask Mr. D. Jenkins (who judged the Border Fancies at the above show) the following questions:—Did he, after judging, express the emphatic opinion to several fanciers present that several of the winning birds were "assisted" in colour? Was the bird he awarded three specials to (including the one for best Border in show) among those which were "assisted" in that way? Did he leave the bird cardless at Cardiff (when shown by another exhibitor) for the above alleged reason? I am not one of those who believe in judge-baiting; far from it. Neither am I a "disappointed exhibitor," but I shall certainly be a disappointed Border fancier if this matter is not cleared up. Whilst the present state of things lasts a stigma must of necessity rest upon the exhibitors of the birds in question. As this is in no way a personal matter, but one that all Border men must be interested in, I will, for the present, merely sign myself,

Border.

BRADFORD (West) C.B.A.

Annual tea and prize distribution, March 13th. About 50 sat down to tea. The social part of the programme turned out to be one of the best for some time past. The artistes included such talent as Mr. Starr, who kept them all alive with his "Wiga Waga," Mr. Bennett, Miss Lee, Mr. Medley, Mr. Robinson, Mr. E. Clegg, and Mr. Lee, all of whom rendered songs and received great applause. The most important item, however, was the prize distribution, and our Chairman, Mr. A. Whitley, came in for special approbation for the way in which he spoke and handed out the trophies, etc. Champ. Sec.: 1, E. Clegg, Payne cup and dinner set; 2, J. A. Whitwam, champ. cup; 3, N. Kirk. Nov.: 1, H. McEwen, novice cup; 2, F. P. Terry; 3, J. Ackroyd. A vote of thanks was accorded to the host and hostess, and to the artistes, who had provided us with a most enjoyable evening.—F. P. Terry, Sec.

NORTHERN YORKSHIRE C.B.S.

Annual meeting, called for 11th inst., had to be postponed, as there was not the required number present to form a quorum. The management have arranged for the meeting to take place at Shields Cafe, Big Market, March 24. Will members please attend, so that we may have the business of the past year confirmed, and arrangements made for the coming season. Financially, the club was never in a better position, having about £7 in hand. The following are the winners of the various competitions: Challenge cup, T. C. Crawhall; Ramsden's cup, J. Stewart; Crawhall cup, J. W. Witherley; 27 points; M. Coulson, 26; C. Cattell, 19; T. Hedley, 14. Winners of silver spoons: Newcastle, C. Cattell, T. Robinson; N.Y.C.C., T. C. Crawhall; M. Nattrass; Gateshead, R. Tindale, J. Willis; Sunderland, J. Stewart, W. Smith. Points gained over table shows for secretary's cup: T. C. Crawhall 112, C. Cattell 56, T. Hedley 55, J. W. Witherley 39, F. Mirley 38, R. Hutler 34, I. Smith 29, Wm. Fullerton 16, J. Baxter 14, F. Crossling 26, J. Willis 13.—R. Tindale, Hon. Sec.

GLASGOW (West End) C.B.C.

Meeting and show of Brit. Hardbills, Co-operative Hall, St. George's Cross, Mar. 12, Vice-Pres. Mr. P. Allan presiding over a good attendance. Prize cards and specials for pairs show were given out to those present. New members enrolled: W. Jamieson, W. Halliday. Specials for British show were kindly given by Messrs. G. McGowan, G. Henderson, and P. Allan. A large number of visitors and friends attended the show, which totalled 44 entries, a record for these popular monthly shows. Quality was excellent, some stormers being forward, especially in the Goldf. or Bullf. class, where competition was very strong. Mr. J. Young (Rutherglen) judged, and gave satisfaction. Goldf. or Bullf.: 1, sp, 4, Henderson; 2, 6, Stewart; 3, sp, M. Gown; 5, 7, Gillespie. Linnet: 1, Henderson; 2, Gillespie; 3, Proudfoot; 4, Mitchell; 5, Glass. Greenf.: 1, Henderson; 2, Allan; 3, 5, Glass; 4, Gillespie; 6, Campbell. Siskin or Twite: 1, 2, Henderson; 3, Booth; 4, Proudfoot; 5, Allan. Redpoll: 1, Henderson; 2, sp, Campbell; 3, Gillespie; 4, Proudfoot; 5, Glass. Chaffinch or Bramblef.: 1, Henderson; 2, Lunn; 3, Booth; 4, Bannerman; 5, Allan. Hens for Hyb. Breeding: 1, 2, 6, Proudfoot; 3, Henderson; 4, Mitchell; 5, Stewart. Next meeting and show of Brit. Softbills and Foreign, Apr. 9, Co-operative Hall, St. George's Cross, at 8.—W. S. Proudfoot, Sec. and Treas.

NORTHERN BORDER FANCY C.C.

Annual general meeting, Mar. 3, Pillar's Cafe, Mr. J. Johnstone presiding. Sec. presented financial statement for 1914, which shows a balance of £2 15s. 2d. on the right side. Officers for 1915: Pres., M. C. Potts; Vice-Pres., J. Johnstone; Chair, A. Affleck; Vice, W. Affleck; Sec., C. Farrer; Committee, Messrs. W. Espie, G. Greenwell, W. Smith, A. Montgomery, T. Smith, J. Craig, T. Davidson, M. Cossar, T. Render, T. Parker, W. P. Snaith, G. Wilson, M. Smith; Auditors, W. Smith, A. Montgomery. Chairman presented prizes, etc., won over patronage shows. Silver medal winners: Champ. section: Newcastle, W. Espie; Gateshead, J. Nicholson; Sunderland, A. Montgomery; Novice: Newcastle, T. Smith; Gateshead, T. Render; Sunderland, T. Davidson. Best aggregate: Champ.: 1st, gold medal, J. Johnstone; 2nd, W. Espie. Novice: 1st, gold medal, T. Smith; 2nd, A. Affleck. Most points over table shows: Champ.: 1st, rose bowl, W. Smith. Novice: 1, A. Affleck; 2, T. Smith; 3, W. P. Snaith. Decided to extend the radius of the club to include Northumberland, Durham, Cumberland, Westmorland, Lancashire and Yorkshire. Fanciers residing in these counties are given a hearty invitation to become members. Annual subs., 2s. 6d. Meetings every month, Pillar's Cafe, Pink Lane. Further particulars from C. Farrer, 222, Jefferson Street, Newcastle upon-Tyne.

SPRINGBURN (Possil Park) C.B.C.

Meeting, Mr. A. Sloan chair, and good attendance of members. Judges for annual show selected. Show of British, Reid Hall. Mr. M. Craig judged. Linnet: 1, 2, Webster; 3, Clark; 4, Fraser; 5, Waugh. Mealy Redpoll or Twite: 1, Clark; 2, Webster. Lesser Redpoll: 1, Webster; 2, Clark. Buff Hen: 1, Webster; 2, Brown; 3, Clark; 4, Fraser. A.O. Brit. Hen: Webster.—J. Waugh, Sec.

EDINBURGH WESTERN O.S.

Meeting, Riego Street Hall, March 4, Mr. Audrew presiding over a good attendance. Report from the Edinburgh Club was read, and it was agreed to minimise the advertisements in catalogue, also to do without complimentary tickets. The table show was then gone on. Mr. R. Craig judged, and gave entire satisfaction. Bord.: 1, Rodger; 2, Cockburn; 3, Andrew. Pairs: 1, 3, Rodger; 2, Windram. Nor.: 1, Brown; 2, Samuel. Pairs: 1, Ballantine. Brit.: 1, Clark. Muling Pairs: 1, Hogg.—C. Grant, Sec.

LOANHEAD C.B.S.

Meeting Mason's Arms, March 13, Mr. W. H. Nelson, vice-pres., presided over a good attendance. Decided to have three judges, and sec. was left with three nominated for each section to be written in order as voted, judges' names to be published on accepting. Decided to admit new members up to the end of April. Fanciers residing inside 10 miles radius can get copy of rules on application to the sec., at 13, High Street, Loanhead. Members elected: Messrs. J. King, A. Douglas, R. Miller, and A. Bell. Vote of thanks to the chairman closed the meeting.—W. B. Smart, Sec.

SOUTH MOOR (Social Club).

Meeting, March 14, Mr. Taylor chair, and a good attendance of members, some that we have not seen for a long time. Messrs. Dixon, Bedlington, and M. Hodgson, West Pelton, were elected judges for show, Nov. 6. There was a big discussion about members showing in partnership, and it was left over till our next meeting, so as to give members who are in partnership a chance. If secs. of other Workmen's Clubs would avoid clashing their meetings it would be better for all, as many of our members are members of other societies.—Geo. Lane, Sec.

BARROW C.B.S.

Meeting, Gardner's Restaurant, with a good attendance, was full of interest, Mr. Ireland giving a washing exhibition, which was enjoyed by all. We also had a novices' washing competition. This was very amusing and much appreciated by the novices. We were pleased to have a visit from an old member who has been away in America for some years. Table show for Brit., next meeting night, Mar. 24, Mr. Merella, from America, judge. New members were enrolled, also Mr. Gardner as hon. member. Nomination money came in fairly well. Members kindly note it is now overdue.—D. McFarlane, Hon. Sec.

DERWENT VALLEY C.B.S.

Meeting, Mar. 6, Co-operative Hall, Low, Westwood, Mr. Geo. Barkess chair, and a fair turnout of members. Result of table show, which Mr. Wm. Curry judged very well. Nor. Hen: 1, 2, Barkess; 3, Campbell. Goldf.: 1, Jameson and Johnson; 2, 3, Barkess. Siskin, etc.: 1, Barkess. A.O.V.: 1, Jameson and Johnson; 2, Barkess. Decided to put next meeting back to the second week in April to allow of Mr. Jos. Lindsay, our late sec., to judge table show, with the following classes: Mule or Hyb. pair, Linnet, and A.O.V. Finch or Bunting. Previous winners barred. Special for most points. Trusting members will bring a few birds and give our worthy friend a good night's work.—Jameson and Johnson.

LONDON AND COUNTIES A.C.B.

Meeting, Mar. 6, Victoria Hotel, Charterhouse Street, E.C. Mr. R. J. Pretty presided. Mr. G. R. Davey was proposed for membership. Mr. J. Robson gave a lecture on Canary breeding, with full details of starting Canary breeding, getting room ready, its best aspect, pairing up the birds, and how to feed them in the breeding season. Afterwards a lengthy discussion took place and plenty of questions were asked, which Mr. Robson suitably answered. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Robson for his interesting and instructing lecture. Vote of thanks to chair brought a pleasant evening to a close. British bird show will be held Mar. 20, at the above hotel, Mr. A. J. Marley judge. Show opens at 7. Fanciers and friends will receive a hearty welcome.—W. Gilbert, Hon. Sec.

NORTHERN BRITISH M. & F.B.C.

Meeting, Mar. 6, Shield's Cafe, Bigg Market, Newcastle. Classes for next table show, the final: Linnet, Greenf., Goldf. or Bullf., Siskin, Redpoll or Twite, A.O.V.. Pairs for Mule or Hyb. breeding, Mules, For. Mr. J. Maddison judge. Members please note our next meeting is the annual, for election of officials, etc., Mar. 28, Shield's Cafe, at 7.30. Members elected: Mr. Heslop, Mr. J. Johnson. I will be pleased to hear from any Northern fancier who would like to join, annual sub. 2/6. We provide three cups and three medals for competition amongst our members at each show, where our patronage is granted. Further particulars on application. Table show was held, Mr. Chris. Waters, Sunderland, judged, his awards gave every satisfaction. Linnet: 1, Bertram; 2, Hooper. Greenf.: 1, Pettersson; 2, Bertram; 3, Voutt; 4, Hooper. Siskin, Etc.: 1, 2, Hooper. A.O.V.: 1, Bertram; 2, Pettersson; 3, vhc, Hooper; 4, hc, Almond. For.: 1, Pettersson; 2, 3, Voutt. As the next show is the final for the cup given by Mr. R. Tindall, I hope members will bring as many birds as possible. Mr. Pettersson is giving a special for most points in Foreign, donor not competing; 2s. 6d. given by Sec. for most points in British. Vote of thanks to Mr. Waters for judging brought a pleasant meeting to a close.—W. Curry, 6, Roxburgh place, Newcastle.

YORKSHIRE HEN LAZY (Novice, J. W.).—In addition to the staple diet of plain canary seed give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four or five drops of sherry mixed in it twice a week, and on two other days a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle and rape. Give three crisp young leaves of dandelion daily. In the drinking water add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence and ten drops of lemon-juice every second day for a week. In the second week give instead four drops each tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid. In the third and fourth weeks repeat the dosage of the first two weeks.

NORWICH NOT SINGING (W. J. B.).—(1) The wheezing noise in the throat is rather significant of bronchial trouble. You must see that this and its exciting cause are removed before you can expect any real improvement. Keep it in a comfortable place, not necessarily very warm, but fairly equable, and quite free from extremes of heat and cold, fumes from burning lights in the evenings, or direct cold draughts. In addition to the seed diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days add to the water 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecacuanha wine, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece, and shake well together. (2) See that these young cocks are kept in healthful surroundings as suggested above. In addition to the seed diet give every second day for a week a morsel of bread and milk lightly dusted with soft sugar. Give two crisp, young leaves of dandelion daily, and in the water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea for three consecutive days, and then every second day for the rest of the week. In the following week give instead four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and dilute sulphuric acid.

NOW MOULTING (Roller).—Keep the bird in a fairly warm temperature, but do not overdo it, and see that it is as equable as you can get it. Throw a light cover over the cage until the feathers have ceased dropping. Continue the general treatment advised in last reply, but instead of the bread and milk give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day. On the alternate days add to the water 20 drops of a mixture made by dissolving half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, and adding a teaspoonful of glycerine. Continue this treatment until a week or so after the feathers have quite ceased dropping.

CONCERNING NORWICH (J. W.).—(1) Much of the increase in size accruing from the system of double-bulling is undoubtedly more apparent than real, being largely due to the great increase in quantity and substance of feather. But there is also a real increase in substance of body. The real object is to keep both points in view, and not be misled by the apparent increase in size which is due to a mere increase in quantity of feather. (2) It may be taken as a general rule that in double bulling no yellows are produced. There are cases on record in which it is claimed yellows have been bred from two buffs, but such an occurrence in any case must be extremely rare. (3) Quality, as a term applied to feather, is that indefinable something which places the feather above the common run. It is soft and silky to the touch, close and fine in texture, carries a natural polish, or sheen, and fits the bird "like a glove." Figuratively speaking, it is as the difference between a silken and linen handkerchief, or between broadcloth and shoddy, to mention extremes, as there are, of course, all grades of quality in both good and bad. Neither "fringes" nor "frosting" have necessarily any connection with this feature of "quality." "Fringes" are a usual accompaniment of too profuse feather, though such feather may be of either good or bad quality, and the same may be said of "frosting." A yellow bird, with no frosting at all, may still be of excellent quality. So far as I can understand your sketches, the types of "fringes" you refer to are simply differences in quantity of feather. (4) A bird has too much feather when the plumage is so profuse that, on a bird in good condition of body, it fails to fit, so to speak, and hangs around the thighs, wings, or root of tail in ragged fringes, or maybe forms folds on the back. (5) In certain moods every Plainhead has the power to raise its head feathers quite irrespective of quantity. It has nothing whatever to do with typical features.

MISS STAMPER.—Replied to by post.

WEAK ON LEGS (W. W. Roby).—Possibly the legs are a little inflamed, though you do not say so. You should not keep the bird hanging in a window, as there the draughts are often very injurious to the bird in many ways; and even if the window is one that does not open, the fluctuations of temperature are practically always so violent as to be quite as injurious as actual draughts. Keep it in a bright and cheerful place further in the room, out of the way of direct draughts, and where it is fairly equable. Bathe the legs once a day with a warm solution of boracic acid—a small teaspoonful of the acid to a saucerful of warm water—then dry gently, and anoint sparingly with Lanocyllin ointment. In addition to the usual seed diet give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with maw seed every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a morsel of banana. Give two young leaves of dandelion daily. In the drinking water add 20 drops of chemical food four times a week for a month.

BORDER AND ROLLER (Novice, G. M.).—(1) In addition to the staple diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake twice a week; on two other days a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, teazle and millet; and on two other days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts maw, gold of pleasure, and sesame. Give a little crisp young dandelion daily. In the water add 20 drops of whisky, five of oxymel of squills, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece every second day for a fortnight. It would also be an advantage to let the bird hear another vigorous singer. (2) Keep the Roller in a fairly warm place, not necessarily overheated, but quite free from cold direct draughts or rapid extremes of heat and cold. In addition to the staple diet give every second day for a fortnight half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed, and on the alternate days add to the drinking water five drops each of oxymel of squills, ipecacuanha wine, tincture of lobelia, and sweet spirits of nitre. Otherwise treat the same as advised for No. 1.

STILL ROOSTING (Novice).—Try the following treatment for a month, and if not then quite well, write again and report result. Give a staple diet of plain canary seed only. Twice a week give a pinch of summer rape, and give a liberal supply of green food daily—dandelion, watercress, young shoots of chickweed or groundsel. Limit the diet strictly to this. In the water add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, and ten drops of lemon juice every second day for a week. In the next week give instead four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and dilute sulphuric acid every second day. In the third and fourth weeks repeat the dosage of the first two weeks in the same order.

NOT SITTING CLOSELY (W. H.).—Some hens will sit much better when the cock is removed, but unless this removal is made as soon as the hen begins to sit it is not always safe to attempt it afterwards, unless one knows the temperament of the hen, as some hens will absolutely refuse to sit at all if the cock is taken away some time after incubation has commenced. Unless the hen remains off the nest for quite inordinately long periods I would not advise you to worry about it, as a hen which seems to gad about in this way very often brings off her brood in fine condition, contrary to all expectations of the owner, who might have felt sure on many occasions that the eggs had been spoilt by exposure. The closest sitting hen is by no means always the best or most successful sitter, and it is always best to give the eggs of apparently careless sitters the benefit of any doubt, and allow them to sit out their full time. There is nothing you can do to force a hen to sit more closely against her will.

LOSS OF PLUMAGE (F. C.).—The swelling was undoubtedly an abnormal feather growth, and the subsequent loss of plumage shows that the bird is in a poor condition of health generally. Try the following for a month or so, but I am afraid you will find little improvement until the bird has a complete moult. Give a staple diet of three parts canary seed to one part summer rape mixed together. In addition, give separately every third day half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake lightly dusted with flowers of sulphur and sprinkled with maw seed. On the alternating days give first a morsel of banana, and next a half teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, linseed and broken groats. Give a fairly liberal supply of green salad daily—dandelion, watercress, or young groundsel. In the water add 20 drops of fluid magnesia every second day for a week, and after this give instead ten drops of lemon juice and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny piece every second day for a fortnight. Allow bird to bathe freely in mild weather.

A DOUBTFUL BREEDER (W. R. P.).—You may possibly get the hen in condition time enough to get one brood from her this season, but I doubt whether you will do any more. Place her in a comfortable and fairly equable temperature, free from direct draughts, and throw a light cover over the cage for a fortnight or so. Give, in addition to the staple of plain canary, a liberal supply of green food any kind except dandelion—and twice a week a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed. In the water every second day for a week add ten drops of lemon-juice and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence. After this dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this in the water two days in every three for a fortnight. If she is not then quite tight in feather continue the latter mixture a little longer.

GROWTHS ON BACK (Novice, A. S.).—I suspect that the growths you mention are abnormal feather growths, and indicate an unhealthy condition in the system. I doubt whether the bird will be of much use for breeding this season. Give it a course of treatment the same as advised to "F. C." in this issue, and at the end of the fortnight of giving the potash mixture, you may go on and give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid daily for a week, to tone it up generally.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

STILL MOULTING (E. L. S.).—Make yourself quite sure that the bird is not exposed to great changes of temperature, especially during the night. Instead of the sponge cake, etc., give now a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar twice a week only, and otherwise continue the same method of feeding as before. For three consecutive days add to the water as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence and ten drops of lemon juice, and after this give instead six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel every second day for a fortnight. If feathers still drop at the end of the fortnight, stop the drugs in the water for a week, and then resume them and give for another fortnight.

NOT SINGING (W.B.B.).—Your diet does not seem sufficiently nourishing, which may be the reason for the bird being so long coming out. Give a staple of two parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition give separately every third day a piece of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar, and on the intervening days give first a morsel of banana, and next a half teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, maw, niger, teazle, and gold of pleasure, and just a sprinkling of mustard seed. In the water give six drops of glycerine and ten of lemon juice every second day for a fortnight.

FEATHERS AND BEAK (J. T. L.).—(1) Your staple dietary is certainly faulty. Leave out the hemp entirely and substitute in its place an equal quantity of summer rape. If the feathers have all been plucked out of the bare places they will soon reappear without any further treatment when the bird is caged alone. Possibly she is getting forward in condition, so you can do no harm by adding ten drops of lemon juice and as much Epsom salts as will lie on a sixpence to the water every second day for a week. Also stop during that time all extras to the staple diet, and give a good sized spray of watercress every second day. (2) Touch the beak of Border cock three times weekly with Lanocyllin until quite healed. There is no reason why you should not breed with him, if in good health and condition when the time for mating arrives.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

THRUSH DOING BADLY (H. Willets).—You should procure our Nutshell booklet on the Thrush, 2½d. post free from this office, or 2d. from your local newsagent; it would give you all particulars as to treatment. What your bird should have now is an aperient, and a change of food. Give as much glauber salts as will cover a shilling dissolved in his drinking water, and let him have it for one day only, repeating the dose three days afterwards. The food you are giving him is all right as a change, and might be used twice a week. Procure some good insectile food as used for more delicate birds, and give this twice a week; the other days soak some good chicken meal in hot water, first adding to it a teaspoonful of meat meal, or pour over the whole of it a little hot gravy. Mix the insectile food with scraped raw carrot or boiled potato. Let him bathe on all fine days, and keep his cage thoroughly clean.

BREEDING THE CANARY-BULLFINCH (H. C. E. Mason).—Finches can be kept all the year round in a sheltered outside aviary. They can be turned in at the end of this month; see that their seed is placed so that the mice are unable to get at it. You can mate your young cock Canary with the hen Bullfinch. I think you are more likely to be successful in an ordinary breeding cage than in the aviary, but there is no reason why you should not try in the latter if you are disposed to do so. If you put them in the cage, you should supply a bunch of heather or rough twigs in one corner, and should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual" (2/8); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each); No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2, "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4, "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insecticvorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insecticvorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." place an old nest, small wicker cage, or ordinary nest box, in it, and give plenty of moss, hair, wool, etc., for her to build with. Keep all the perches low and cover the floor thickly with moss or sawdust, as she may not lay in the nest, but drop the eggs from the perch; these should be collected and placed under hen Canaries to incubate. Hen British birds are not particularly reliable as mothers; they will sometimes sit well and hatch, and occasionally rear the young, but the failures far exceed the successes. Anyway, if you do not care to try them in the cage, you may be fortunate with them in the aviary; in Hybrid-breeding success frequently comes when least expected. You do not give me the size of your aviary, so I cannot help you as to the number of birds it will hold, but whatever you do, do not overcrowd them.

LINNET TROUBLE (G. A. Shaw).—Giving plain canary will not assist your bird to recovery. Make up the following mixture: Canary 3 parts, teazle 2 parts, rape and linseed 1 part each, as a staple food. Make another mixture of gold of pleasure, niger, maw, plantain, sesame and thistle in equal quantities, say, 2oz. of each, and give a teaspoonful 3 days a week. Soak a little rape and teazle and offer a spoonful daily, or keep some damp until it germinates. Give 5 grains of Epsom Salts in the drinking water for one day only, and follow this up with a small teaspoonful of dandelion juice for a week. If he will eat soft food offer a little egg and biscuit. Boil all his drinking water and then give a teaspoonful of chemical food in 2oz. water. Use a glass or china drinker.

MAGPIES IN AVIARY (C. E. B.). It would not be safe to turn any other bird in with your Magpies; they are not to be trusted with anything alive. I have found the common box as useful as any evergreen where birds are kept, but it is very seldom birds in captivity will allow any kind of tree to flourish that they can get at. (2) If your Thrush is of the right sex, and healthy, it certainly should be singing a little by now; of course, it may be a bit backward, and as the days lengthen, and the sun shines, will probably reward you with song. add a little minced hard-boiled egg to his soft food occasionally, and give a few mealworms; these will help him immensely. (3) You should procure the Nutshell booklet on the Bullfinch, which will give you all particulars as to treatment. For staple food give four parts canary, two parts teazle, and one part summer rape, then make a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, maw and linseed, and give a spoonful twice a week. Offer a few good, sound sunflower seeds daily, and a piece of sweet apple or green-food. Hemp in any great quantity is certainly not good for him. When the summer comes you will be able to give him various kinds of fruit, to which the Bullfinch is very partial.

LOSING BULLFINCHES (W. A. S. Shaw).—I am sorry to hear of your loss, and as the symptoms in every case appear to be the same, it looks as though you have some infectious disease among them, or your treatment is causing them to go off with inflammation. I would advise you, if you have any more deaths, to send the body to Mr. Yates for post-mortem examination. Take each variety of your seeds separately, and thoroughly examine each in turn, by smell, taste, and touch, and if you do not consider either of them to be perfectly sweet do not use it. I would advise you to discontinue the use of millet, or only in small quantities; add one part of teazle to every three parts of canary, and be rather more liberal with sunflower, which is an excellent seed for Bullfinches. If you are not able to procure green-food yet, offer a piece of sweet apple or some sprouting seeds. If you have another bird ill, try a dusting of bismuth on a piece of bread scalded in hot milk. You should not mix up various subjects on the same sheet of paper, or they have to be separately copied out before they can be dealt with.

TREATMENT OF FRESHLY CAUGHT BIRDS (Bramblefinch).—The usual method is to get the birds fairly steady before turning them into a large flight. Steadiness is absolutely necessary in exhibition British birds, and I would therefore advise you to give them a week or so of cage life occasionally during the summer. This will in a way prepare them for the final steadying process in the autumn, when you will find them much more tractable than at any other time. Handle the cage frequently, giving the birds at the same time a grain or two of hemp or any seed they are particularly fond of. If you leave them quite wild until the moult, you will find some difficulty in keeping their plumage intact. (2) Feed your Bramblefinch as follows: Canary and teazle 4 parts, summer rape, charlock and linseed 1 part each. In addition give sunflower seed daily, a little hemp once a week, and a spoonful of good wild seed mixture twice a week. Insects should also be supplied, mealworms, flies, caterpillars, aphides, earwigs, etc., as obtainable. Many Brambles are of good natural colour, but this is frequently assisted by judicious colour feeding, although it is usually a somewhat difficult matter to get any of the Finches to take it. If one can manage to entice them to eat a little soft food it can generally be accomplished, or in the case of Brambles and Chaffinches smashed walnuts can be the medium; they should be given these until they partake freely, when a slight dusting of colour can be added and the strength increased as desired. Ground seeds or any other medium can be employed in the same manner. (3) The above will apply equally as well to your Linnet, but rich oily seeds, such as linseed, hemp, and rape generally cause them to get darker with caged life. Hemp seed should not be given in big quantities, a little lightly cracked and offered three times a week will soon bring him in stout song, particularly at this time of the year.

HEN GOLDFINCH IN BIRDROOM (G. I. H.).—I do not quite follow your question, as I see no reason why your hen Goldie should not be left in the bird-room. It would not hurt her. Why not get a mate for her and try for some Hybrids?

SEEDS AND AVIARY MATTERS (J. R. H.).—Dealing with your seeds first, your sample of canary, etc., does not appear to me to be exceptionally good as a mixture. It has far too much millet in it. Why not make up your own in the following manner: Canary 3 parts, teazle 2 parts, and summer rape 1 part; give this as staple food. Then make up another consisting of equal quantities of hemp, sunflower, maw, niger, gold of pleasure, and give twice a week, say, a spoonful to each bird. You could, if you felt disposed, increase the sunflower, as several birds eat it freely. The screenings simply contain one seed, charlock, and I would certainly advise you to limit the quantity, especially during the summer months, when better wild food is plentiful. As regards your failure in breeding I am inclined to think the great trouble is your excess of cock birds. You have about double as many as hens, therefore it is impossible for all of them to find partners, consequently they are jealous and quarrelsome, pulling nests to pieces and breaking eggs. I would advise you to take out some of them, for instance, the Chaffinches, Brambles and about four of the Linnets, then you could add a couple more hen Greenfinches and a hen Linnet. With this alteration I think you will do better, especially if you give egg food or some kind of soft food, such as Spratts' Cage Bird Food, adding to it a slice of stale bread, using the crumb only. Soak for half an hour in cold water, squeeze as dry as possible, and add the biscuit, making the mixture crumbly moist; a little moist sugar will improve it. You will find most of the birds in the aviary eat this mixture readily.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

PARRAKEET (W.P.).—Your bird is a Ring-necked Parrakeet; once it has settled down and become acclimatised the species is not at all delicate, and the temperature of any ordinary living-room will suffice. The cage should be placed where it will get light and air, yet be free from draught. The dietary should consist of seed mixture, ripe fruit (according to its taste), a few nuts, dry crusts and biscuits; cuttlebone, grit and water to be always in the cage. It is well also to keep a piece of a natural branch in the cage, so that the bird may naturally exercise its mandibles in whittling it away. Seed mixture: One quart each canary, white millet and oats, one pint each hemp and sunflower seed—well mix and keep a supply in the cage. The talking capacity of the species varies, some being really comical birds and good talkers, others only uttering an occasional word. The routine of treatment is to keep the bird supplied with food as above, the cage and food vessels and perches strictly clean, and the bird free from draught. If the bird will bathe it should have a bath once a week in winter (tepid water), choosing a mild day, during the summer months it can be allowed to bathe daily if it so desires, but while the plumage is wet it should be protected from air currents and draught. If it will not bathe it must be lightly sprayed (once a week in winter, oftener in summer) with tepid water, using same precautions as for bathing. Do not allow it to become the least constipated, the bowels can easily be kept moving freely (not loose) by an occasional teaspoonful of fluid magnesia in the drinking water.

FEATHER PLUCKER (E.S.).—As we have frequently said in this column, feather-plucking is almost incurable, and it is not at all surprising that there has been a relapse. You must recommence treatment at once, and in the end there may be a longer time between the relapses, and also a lessened severity, and in the end I hope a cessation. I would impress the importance of giving it a piece of a natural branch to cut up, this not only supplying occupation, but also natural exercise for the mandibles. Get a mixture of ipecacuanha wine, oxymel of squills and glycerine in equal parts, and put 10 drops of this into the drinking water every other day for two or three weeks; it will do no harm, though it is quite probable that the noise is quite a natural one. With this addition the treatment already advised should be resumed. The bird has benefited, and you must hope for final cure, but there are almost certain to be further relapses before this is achieved. Presumably the bird is tame and quite settled; make its surroundings such that "cannot" is crowded out. I must also emphasise the importance of keeping the bowels moving quite freely, yet watery-looseness must be avoided.

THE MOULT (Kenmare).—The majority of foreign species go into mount in the late summer and autumn, but there are many species which go into eclipse plumage for the winter (off season) and don a gorgeous nuptial garment for the breeding season, but yours are not among the latter group. It is probably only the change of domicile which is causing the shedding of a few feathers. You have now nine birds in the cage, and two more ordered, and I consider that if you bought a cock Avadavat as opportunity offers your cage would be fully stocked. In such a space I do not suppose there will be any attempt to breed; let your order for Green Singing Finches stand as it is. The hen Java Sparrow is always more silent than the male, and one has a more wedge-shaped beak than her mate. "Foreign Birds for Beginners" will supply you with all the information you need for them. As soon as it is procurable free from frost supply seeding grass, chickweed, groundsel, etc. Your dietary is satisfactory.

NOT ABLE TO PERCH (H. G., Bolton).—You must tell me more about the bird, how you feed, and all you can as to its general condition, also how long you have had it. I do not for moment think the broken nail is the sole cause of it being unable to perch. As you refer to nothing else whatever I am helpless and quite unable to help you. Repeat query at once, and get our "Grey Parrot" Nutshell (2½d. post free from our Manager). If it is very weak in addition to ordinary diet give a little milk sop, adding a few drops of brandy or whiskey to the daily supply.

CALIFORNIAN QUAIL (A. Johnson).—It is quite possible that the Budgerigars and Cockateels will interrupt and disturb the incubating Quail. Your best procedure will be to put a heap of brushwood in one corner of covered flight, leaving it so that there is a hollow space at the back, and if the quail nest there all should be well; put a depth of several inches of sand under the brushwood. It will be best to let them take their own course, if they should refuse to sit, then you could hatch out the eggs under a Bantam fowl. You will have to supply gentles and live and preserved ants' eggs while the chicks are small, also insectile mixture and seed. Let them have an abundance of garden weeds to pick over as greenfood. They frequently lay about fifteen or more eggs before commencing to sit.

VIRGINIAN CARDINAL (A. E. Cartwright).—This is such a hardy species that your bird must have been kept where draught has played upon it. I have one that is at least ten years old, and it has been out of doors in my garden aviary, summer and winter, for the past five years, and the present trying wet sea on has not inconvenienced it in the least. If your bird has a roomy cage it can be kept in a cold room all the year round; its cage must be placed where it can get light and yet be free from draught. Tame your bird and give it a fly round the room daily, such will be better than drugs. If fed on canary, white millet and a few sunflower seeds, with ripe fruit, green food and a few insects you should not be troubled with disease.

BUDGERIGARS (J. B. Bellville).—You do not state how or where you are keeping them, but I am assuming they are in a cage. Our "Budgerigar" Nutshell, 2½d. post free, would help you. Put one teaspoonful of fluid magnesia in the drinking water once a week, for a month or more, and twice a week put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the water. Also give a slice of ripe apple for them to peck at, and as soon as flowering and seeding grass is obtainable free from frost, supply this ad lib. Budgerigars, hardy though they be, get out of condition as soon or sooner than any species I know of when kept in a small cage which allows of but limited exercise.

BUDGERIGARS WITH FINCHES (C. G. Quinton).—The Budgerigars will fare well enough, but there is a probability that sooner or later some of the Finches will be maimed, but as the latter are all largish robust species, the risk may not be a heavy one. Nevertheless, if you allow the Budgerigars to multiply there is sure to be disaster sooner or later. There are two alternatives before you, viz., to leave the Budgerigars where they are and remove the young as soon as they can feed for themselves, or to arrange a separate aviary for the Budgerigars and leave them to multiply at will, daily selling as you become overstocked the latter is the most satisfactory, then, if space permits, you could keep a pair each of Cockatiels and Lovebirds with the Budgerigars.

BUDGERIGARS AND FINCHES (Ormonde).—Budgerigars are not malicious, but they are very mischievous in their play. Finches, etc., often get a leg or wing badly damaged, and the mixture is certainly not advisable, but how can I give you a definite answer, for you neither state how or where you propose to keep them? What is only normal risk in a roomy aviary is almost certain disaster in a cage. In a roomy avairy there would not be much risk from a single pair, providing the young are removed as soon as they are able to fend for themselves. A single pair will breed, but they usually in such case take longer to settle down to nesting than where several pairs are kept together. They are a gregarious species, and are more prolific in a small flock than when kept in single pairs. The "Budgerigar" Nutshell, 2½d., post free from our Manager, would help you. Diet: Canary, white millet, spray millet and a few oats; also green food, grit, cuttlebone and water.

BANDED PARRAKEET (M.R.).—Personally, I am not prepossessed with this species as a pet; it is somewhat dull and uninteresting, and very few of them make talkers. It is more commonly sold as the Moustache Parraket, and it is undoubtedly handsome when in good condition, but for a finger-tame pet it is not comparable with the others named in your letter. Wait your opportunity and secure an Orange-flanked Parrakeet or a Canary-winged do., the former for preference, though all the genus Brotogerys, to which the above belong, soon become more or less tame.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

J. F. Robbins.—The catching of the Goldfinch in Middlesex is illegal at any period of the year.

J. Barlow.—Thanks for cutting, which we will utilise should space permit.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

H. C.M.—Enlargement of the liver, following on disease of that organ; it was quite four times its normal volume, and the affection must have had its origin in some irritant poison partaken of at some time. It was incurable.

E. M. Lomer.—Parrot died of pneumonia. Both lungs were very badly affected. The bird was otherwise in fine condition but very fat.

Dead.—Canary succumbed to a fit. There were haemorrhages on the surface of the brain. The bird otherwise was very healthy and in excellent condition.

Gerald E. Rattigan.—There was no suspicion of paint poisoning. Death occurred from a fit. There were two large blood extravasations on the surface of the brain.

THE ONLY ONES

that sell their best. For the last 10 years we have bred and sold more noted winners than all others put together. We stand alone. So those that require the best living, this is the only place where they can be bought. Now that the show season is over, we have a few big winning cocks to spare at half their value. Properly matched pairs, guaranteed to breed winners, at 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. We hold thousands of the best testimonials ever written. The following are typical of those we are constantly receiving: "March 8, 1915. 37, Lumbutts-rd., Todmorden. Dear Sirs,—The cock suits me extra well, and whenever in want, I shall certainly write you again, as it is impossible to deal with more honest men, as you let them have a fair trial.—F. Fielden." "March 6, 1915. 7, Brachelston-st., Greenock. Dear Sirs,—Have much pleasure in writing you re the birds you sent me; they are getting along splendid, and giving every satisfaction. Thanking you for your prompt and gentlemanly way of doing business, which is bound to bring you the success which you deserve, your way of dealing being in marked contrast to that of a lot of advertisers across the border, who seems to have no thought than to get the sender's money. Again thanking you.—I remain, yours faithfully, Samuel Fulton." "March 8, 1915. 7, Old Bridge, Egremont, Cumberland. Dear Sirs,—You have given me every satisfaction. The two pair you sent me are splendid birds. You have treated me like gentlemen, and if I ever want any more birds, I know where to send to for them. With many thanks.—John J. Richardson." March 4, 1915. Salt Works Farm, Frodsham Bridge, Cheshire. Dear Sirs,—Re the two Yorkshire hens I purchased from you, they could not have been better mated up if you had seen the cocks yourself. It gives me the greatest pleasure to write you on the transaction, and feel sure you are honest and straightforward men to deal with, for I am more than pleased with the birds you sent me, and to feel that I have been honestly dealt with, this being my first deal with you, I can confidently recommend you to anyone to get the best value for their money.—Yours truly, Harry Helsley." We would fill every page in "Cage Birds" with similar to these (as we have them), but for the ½d. per word, as they arrive every post. Winners bred from our matched pairs, come and select for yourself, or have a pair sent on seven days' approval at our risk.

OGDEN BROS, DUDLEY-HILL, BRADFORD

COME AND SEE THEM

The most wonderful collection for sale in the World.

The quality I send you with anything you can get elsewhere at anything like similar prices; that for great value is the only true test of cheapness. I therefore invite you to test my statements by having any of the following on approval, as all at their respective prices are undeniable bargains.

PLAIN-HEADED NORWICH.

Cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. These cocks at 15/- and 20/- are well worth 50/- to 100/-. Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/6; pairs, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/- up.

YORKSHIRES.

The Extraordinary Value I am now offering in Yorkshires must be seen to be believed. Cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6; hens, 3/-, 3/6, 5/-; pairs 7/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, and 20/- up. These include many grand birds. Cages in all cases 3d.

For all other varieties and prices, see my 1915 Detailed Illustrated List.

Feeding Hens, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each.

Easiest of Easy Payments by joining my original Bird Club; distance no object.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

THE YORKSHIRE BREEDERS' SOCIETY

Have a few high-class birds for disposal. Yellow cocks from 7/-; buff cocks from 6/-; hens from 4/-; cash or deposit; easy terms arranged.—Secretary, 15, Dalton-terrace, Bradford. (142)

SUTCLIFFE & SONS FOR VALUE

If you want to breed winners buy direct from the breeder; same strain as our National winners; state wants; approval; stamp for reply: 1, Back Kitson-st., and 21, Valley-rd., Windhill, Shipley, Yorks.

QUALITY, STYLE & POSITION

High-class Yorkshires, cocks and hens, 1914 (unrelated) from my winning strains, long, slim, typical birds, full of quality, style, and position; cocks, 7ins. long, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 upwards, hens, standard length, guaranteed feeders, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6 upwards. I, being the largest breeder (not a dealer who buys rubbish) of Yorkshires in the North of England, I defy competition as regards price and quality. Remember I guarantee cocks in full song and to fertilise every egg; hens guaranteed to lay a full nest of eggs without showing any signs of being egg-bound; approval, on receipt of cash; stamp reply: W. Dowd, 1a, Rowell-square, Rowell-st., Salford. (183)

NOVICE AMATEUR CHAMPION

When pairing birds give Smith's Egg-bound Preventative. While hens are incubating give Non-Feeding Hen Preventative, and your troubles are reduced to a minimum. The most successful medicines yet introduced for these formidable complications to which female cage birds are subject, 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles, post paid: Smith, 73, Audley-st., Reading. (195)

Not Singing

Wanted, a Trial. We are confident our medicines will give you satisfaction. Special notice to all bird fanciers. If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure; Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are undoubtedly the grandest medicine ever introduced for getting birds in song and into breeding condition. They are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, egg-binding, dullness, feather-plucking, and inflammation of the bowels, sold in 7d., 1/1 and 2/- bottles. A trial order will convince you of the wonderful results obtained from this medicine. W. Reid, Greenock, writes: "Your medicine has been a great success, for both my birds are now singing." G. Chappell, New Mills: "The Tonic Drops have worked wonders. I was astonished at the quick result." C. J. Roberts, Bayswater: "Your medicine for egg-binding is marvellous." Mr. Hatton, Atherton: "Your Tonic Drops are excellent. They have cured me four birds in soft moult. They are now in full song." For bronchitis, wheezing, and hoarseness, get Ditchfield's Special Lung Tonic, the grandest medicine ever introduced for chest and lung affections in cage birds; also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For constitutional weakness and debility, and for birds that are run down, or in slack feather, get Ditchfield's famous Revivo, in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. This medicine is absolutely unequalled for giving new life and vigour to the birds, and for producing that smart tight appearance of the plumage so much desired by all fanciers. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles for 1/9, three for 2/6; the 1/1 bottles are treble the 7d. size. All medicines are post paid, per return at our risk. Also four valuable food recipes, how to feed the Lark, Linnet, Roller, Thrush, and Blackbird for health and song given free to all purchasers of our medicines. See advert. March 13th issue, page 151, for list of agents who stock our medicines.

FRED ALLEN, BRITISH BIRD CHAMPION

Beware of spurious imitations and advt. copiers. If you want a good bird, send to the man who knows what he is sending you. All my birds are in fine plumage and condition; moreover, I send them all out on seven days' approval, cash or deposit. Pay me a visit if you can, and see for yourself. I have the finest collection of British and Canaries in Yorkshire. I thank the Newcastle gentlemen, also the gentlemen from Wigan, Driffield and Grimsby, for their great patronage. All bird fanciers in or near Hull make for my stores, because you get satisfaction, respect and civility, not a lot of bounce. I have hundreds of birds in stock (not on paper). Cock Hawfinches, good, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each; hens, 5/6, 7/6; giant yellow cock Siskins, good bibs, well keed, win anywhere, 5/6, 7/6, and one, a stormer, 10/6; cock Goldfinches, grand colour and blaze, the right sort, 4/6, 5/6, 7/6 each; mulers, 4/6 each; hen Canaries to match, 3/6; monster yellow Greenfinch, 2/6; cock Bramblefinch, a gem, 2/6; also a Cheveral, 5/6; giant cock Linnet, well pencilled, grand whites, good head, only 2/6. Now, you Linnet singers, I thoroughly understand all kinds of bird singing, having sat judge at over 500 contests and won hundreds of prizes. I have the finest strain in England. Linnets singing day and gas light, learnt under my wonderful champion, 2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6 each; a few extra loud voiced birds, suitable for catching or time singing, 1/-, 1/6, 2/- each; contest cages, 1/-; Linnet cages, 6d., 9d., 1/3 1/6. If a man does not understand bird singing and cannot tell cocks and hens, it would be a waste of time trying him for your requirements. Read Nutshell No. 2 and you will be convinced I am the man to suit you. Splendid British Rollers, sing anywhere, 8/6, 10/6 each; hens, 2/6, 3/6 each. The finest stock of Yorkshires and Norwich ever seen in Hull. Breeding cages from 1/6; show cages from 1/-. Works in Alfred-st. Write at once; satisfaction guaranteed; over £100 deposited with "Cage Birds" for my birds; no waiting: Fred Allen, British Bird Champion and Linnet Expert, 156, Porter-st. Aviaries, Hull.

(2d. from agents; see list on another page.)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Pot free, 2½d., from CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

CANARIES

HYBRIDS AND BRITISH BIRDS, In Cage and Aviary

The Standard Work for the Canary Fancier and the Breeder.

By JOHN ROBSON, and other Leading Bird Specialists

Edited by S. H. LEWER, of "The Feathered World," "Bird Life," etc.

SENT ON APPROVAL FOR 7 DAYS' FREE EXAMINATION

With a Valuable Dissectible Model of the Canary

This is the only book on Canaries you will ever need. It is new, complete, concise and written in simple language. It tells you everything you will ever want to know about the breeding, rearing and keeping in healthy condition of your songsters. You will never be at a loss if you own and use this one book. If it is a question of mating, pairing, sitting, hatching, rearing, feeding or breeding for colour, care of plumage, cages, nests, or aviaries, pedigree or line breeding—the answer is certainly here. And this book also gives you magnificent plates carefully coloured according to nature, which are not merely ornamental, but are of practical value in showing you exactly what to breed to. For these pictures show the standard types of prize birds to-day. This one compact book teaches you everything there is to learn; and it guides you into the fascinating field of scientific Canary breeding. But we do not ask you to take our word for its excellence. We ask you to

IT PAYS TO BUY BOOK KNOWLEDGE

IT PAYS TO BUY TABULATED BOOK KNOWLEDGE, WRITTEN BY THE EXPERTS. ON YOUR OWN SUBJECT. If you have the practical knowledge too. Cage Bird readers are too apt to think that they know more than any book can teach them.

This is a mistake. An experienced man may know more than any one expert, but he cannot know more than all of them together.

The WAVERLEY Standard Publication on "CANARIES, HYBRIDS, and BRITISH BIRDS" is a veritable encyclopædia of Cage Bird knowledge. One of its strongest points is that it deals most thoroughly with HYBRIDS, a branch of Cage Bird activity that is too much neglected by the breeders, but which is very full of possibilities for the man who is willing to learn

HYBRIDS.
THRUSHES.
WARBLERS, &c.
WOODPECKERS.
BREEDING BRITISH HYBRIDS.
CANARY HYBRIDS.
TITS, WRENS, WAGTAILS, &c.
STARLINGS, CROWS.
LARKS.

Our Buyers Advertise it for Us:

Mr. Bryant, Acton, London:—

Mr. Ralph Harrison, Whitley Bay:—

Mr. Lenyon, Clydach, Rhondda Valley:—

"I have no hesitation in recommending it to young breeders as essential. Without doubt the most complete work of its kind."

Mr. H. Hancock, Burslem:—

"I think the book a great help and well worth the money."

Mrs. Bertram, Christchurch, Hants:—

"I have found it of the greatest use, while the illustrations are of value to the novice and the expert alike. The sections dealing with Hybrids is especially commendable, and should prove of service to fanciers."
